In addition there are smaller deliveries of oil products to the West, chiefly fuel oil, from Poland, Hungary and Eastern Germany.

NOT BIG EXPORTERS

The Iron Curtain countries do not begin to rank with the big oil exporters like Saudi Arabia, which shipped about 42,000,000 tons in 1952. But officials find this Communist oil export activity significant as:

1. A good indication that the Soviet bloc's expanding oil production now is able to satisfy Russia's home needs.

2. As part of the general Soviet drive to break down East - West trade barriers, particularly the embargo on the shipment of strategic goods.

Although the Russians are obviously using their oil exports to make their trade offers more enticing, there is no indication that the Kremlin is undercutting world oil prices. The Russians are handicapped by a severe shortage of tankers for oil deliveries.

The Kremlin is reported to have offered 500,000 tons of petroleum and probably crude oil, as well, to Argentina, about 30,000 tons of gasoline and 160,000 tons of black oils to Iceland, and an unspecified quantity of oil to Greece.

EXPORT TO SWEDEN

Under the terms of the recently-concluded Russo - Swedish trade agreement, the Kremlin has undertaken to deliver 80,000 tons of gas oil and 20,000 tons of tractor kerosene. Poland will send another 50,000 tons of fuel oil.

In the first six months of this year, Italy has received about 125,000 tons of Russian and Romanian oil. There have been increasingly frequent small shipments of Russian or Romanian black oils to Belgium, Norway and Denmark.

According to Soviet statistics for crude oil output, which experts here are inclined to accept, Russia's own production last year reached 47,000,000 tons or about 5,000,000 tons more than in 1951. Premier Georgi Malenkov claimed last month that Russian production in 1953 would reach 53,000,000 tons.

Russia is second only to the United States as a consumer of oil. But her per capita consumption is much smaller than most Western countries because of a depressed standard of living.

In the satellite countries, Romanian output is thought to be more or less static at about 4,000,000 tons, although her five-year plan aims at 10,000,000 tons by 1955. Production in Hungary is estimated at 500,000 tons. Czechoslovakia expects to produce 200,000 tons a year as against only 75,000 in 1951.

Modern Giants Of Skyways Enter Race To New Zealand

WELLINGTON, New Zealand (Rueters)—Early next month, 50 years after Wilbur and Orville Wright made the first flight in a gasoline-engined aircraft in 1903, modern giants of the skyways will vie with each other in a race halfway round the world.

Sponsors of the London-to-Christchurch air race, to be started by the Duke of Gloucester from London airport at 4:30 p.m. Oct. 8, say the purpose of the race is to enable the world's fastest aircraft to show their paces round the globe to Christchurch's Harewood airport.

The defection of a Republic F84-g Thunderjet, which had been entered by the Royal Danish Air Force, brings the field in the speed section of the race down to 11, of which six are jet aircraft. Most observers here expect the battle to be fought out between the three Canberras belonging to the RAF, the two Canberras belonging to the Royal Australian Air Force, and the Valiant B. Mark I of the RAF.

At Harewood, arrangements are well forward for the big day. The first aircraft are expected soon after daybreak on Saturday, Oct. 10, if they complete the course in little more than 24 hours, as seems likely.

Special ground control approach equipment is being shipped to New Zealand by the Royal Australian Air Force to reinforce the existing control installations at Harewood, which can cater for any type of aircraft yet built.

The race committee of the air race council has planned in detail for the control and judging of the race. The timekeeper's chronometer will be synchronized with similar instruments used by the race starter at London airport.

Reliable, but unofficial, times will be known almost as soon as competitors zoom across the finishing line. But there will be some delay before official placings are announced for the $2,800 Harewood Gold Cup, to be presented to the winner of the speed section.

Pilots of the winning aircraft in the speed and handicap sections will receive silver medals. The members of their crews as well as the pilots and crews of other aircraft will receive bronze medals.

Lindsay Plans 2 Subdivisions

LINDSAY (ENS)—Two new housing subdivisions, one sponsored by the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, were announced for Lindsay at last night's meeting of the Community Planning Board. In all, they will total from 43 to 54 homes.

One new development will be built in the west end of the town by Russell Taylor, of Lindsay, under CM and H specifications and financing. Between 14 and 25 homes of single family type, are planned on a new road running east from Angeline St. to the town limit. They will be built on a single street with turning circle at its end.

Two consultants of the Department of Planning and Development, Don Taylor and Edward Gomme, were present at the meeting to survey the town plan which is now taking shape and comment on the other new subdivision in the east city section of Lindsay. Twenty-nine homes are proposed for the new development, which will be built by Vern Wilson of Lindsay between St. David and St. Peter Sts. along the extension of Short Ave. This development will also be of single family units. The department representatives were critical of the widths planned for some of the building lots—46 feet. They advised the board that the department recommended lots of at least 50 feet for new developments.

Bus Drivers' Hearing Will Open Oct. 2

CORNWALL (CP)—Preliminary hearing of manslaughter charges against the two drivers involved in the bus-truck crash near Morrisburg on July 31 that took 20 lives will open at Morrisburg Oct. 2.

R. P. Milligan, Cornwall crown attorney, made the announcement Friday.

Charged are Lorne Chesebrough, 28, of Kingston, driver of the Colonial Coach Lines bus, and Max Roodman, Toronto. Both suffered shock in the crash but now have been released from hospital.

Police say the bus crashed into Roodman's light truck and both vehicles slewed into the Williamsburg canal.

Reporter Finds 2 Actresses Very Honest

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — 'Someone once said there is no such creature as an honest actress.

I discovered two in one day. The two are Katy Jurado, Mexico's answer to Marilyn Monroe, and Carol Bruce, the star of the touring stage musical "Pal Joey."

Both proved honesty by answers to two routine questions.

I asked Miss Jurado if the facts in her official studio biography were correct, hoping thus to avoid repetitious questioning about her early life.

"My biography ees wrong," she exclaimed. "When I make 'High Noon,' I was 25 and the biography was hokay. Two years later, I make 'Arrowhead' and the biography say I am 25. I asked them to feex but they no feex. You please say I am 27, yes?"

BASICALLY HONEST

Any woman who wants to add years to her age when she doesn't need to is a basically honest woman.

"Glamour is not a matter of age. A woman can be glamorous at any age. Look at Dolores Del Rio, she was a star before my mother was married but she still plays glamorous leading ladies in Mexican films."

The question asked Miss Bruce was the routine one asked all touring Broadway stars. Any movie offers?

"I can honestly say," she answered, "that not one producer has even so much as come backstage to shake my hand. I have not even had one little nibble from the movies. I personally think it is wonderful because I can relax and enjoy myself."

DIFFERENT ATTITUDE

Most Broadway stars would have you believe that Zanuck and Schary do nothing but pound on their doors all the time that the play is in town.

Miss Bruce had a brief fling in the movies in 1941. That was right after she scored heavily as the star of "Louisiana Purchase" on Broadway.

Universal signed her for musical ability and promptly put her in a picture with Indians. Out here, that figures. Next came a movie with Abbott and Costello and then one with the Ritz brothers.

"The title of that last one was 'Behind the 8 Ball' and I decided to leave Hollywood on that note."

Best Amateur Fliers In Quebec Competition

OTTAWA (CP)—The best amateur fliers in Canada will be judged Sept. 25 at Anclenne Lorette, near Quebec City, in competition for the 1953 Webster Trophy, the transport department announced Friday.

The competition is held annually under sponsorship of the Royal Canadian Flying Clubs Association.

Six contestants, chosen in zone eliminations, will compete in the finals. They are Douglas Massey, Vancouver; Don Saunders, Lethbridge, Alta.; Robert Louis Ayotte, Regina; Gurth E. Claydon St Vital, Man.; Glen McLarty, Toronto, and Dr. William Young, Kingston, Ont.

Babb for political asylum as his plane warmed up at Kangnung air base for the return journey to North Korea. At left is Lieut. Col. James Chestnut, Korean communications zone public information officer.

Mayor Opposes Board Transfer

OTTAWA (CP)—Opposing transfer of the National Film Board to Montreal from Ottawa, mayor Charlotte Whitton announced Friday plans to block the federal government's program.

She suggested a marshalling of forces, including board of control, merchants and labor and representatives of municipalities across Canada, which would demand that the board remain in Ottawa.

"What is involved," she said in an interview, "is the whole question of Ottawa's participation in the national capital plan, which has been at a cost of millions and the sacrifice of our own civic freedom. In return for that effort, we are witnessing the pulling apart of the capital."

She cited the movement of the printing bureau to Hull, the CBC to Montreal and the proposal by Jacques Greber, town planner, that the national war memorial be removed to the nearby Gatineau hills.

Cities Find It Harder Balance Books

MONTREAL (CP) — Canadian towns and cities are finding it harder than ever to balance their books.

A report issued Friday by the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities said municipal costs are going up all the time, and revenue sources aren't flexible enough to meet the increases.

The report, which deals with municipal and inter-government finance, will be discussed by the Canadian and United States mayors at the International Municipal Congress in Montreal next week.

Crux of the problem, the report said, is that not only do materials and labor cost more, but new urban and suburban communities keep calling for additional services.

New building has provided Canadian towns and cities with a higher revenue in property taxes, but not enough to fill the gap, and the towns' and cities' tax sources are not as flexible or sensitive as those of the provincial or federal governments.

Youth Admits Stealing From Milk Bottle

LINDSAY —(ENS)— Francis Teatro, 17, pleaded guilty to a charge of theft from milk bottles, when he appeared in court here Friday.

He was remanded for sentence until September 16th pending further investigation. According to evidence presented by Constable Henley, Teatro was charged with an offence of stealing 42 cents from a milk bottle on the porch of a north ward home last month. Other charges against him, however, are pending, involving some $3 to $4.

Teatro was arrested last night when two off-duty officers of the local force and one duty officer kept a watch in the north ward and caught Teatro in the act of taking money from a bottle.

3 Basic Areas In All Lots

No matter whether you plan to build a sprawling ranch-type home, or compact two-storey traditional design, the lot you build on should be planned into three basic outdoor areas for maxim livability. Only when the public, the service, and the family outdoor living areas are clearly defined and well located can a site development be satisfactory.

Urban and suburban land is much too valuable to consider it just a means of separating houses. Try to make all parts of a lot usable. Off-street parking is considered essential for every lot, but long driveways from the street to a rear-yard garage is a serious waste of land and money on a small lot. Bring the garage forward.

Sloping ground that is more than four to five per cent may be nice to look at but cannot be used very well and is likely to be difficult to maintain. Low retaining walls and terraces can change sharp sloping ground into usable near level ground, but walls over four feet high and terraces steeper than one to two, or 26 degrees, should be avoided.

Rule out sharp inclines either up or down for driveways. A change of grades of over 14 per cent total cause under-car trouble. Excessive setback building lines are generally a waste of land unless a part of this usually public area can be made private.

Try to avoid sharp demarcations between the indoors and outdoors. If the floor of indoor rooms and the ground surface outside are near the same level, the space inside seems much larger.

Sees District From Air Been Hunting In 45 Years

R. S. (Bob) Cotton, 320 Frederick Ave., today told the story of his first airplane flight at the Haliburton Lake regatta last weekend. He was accompanied by his son, Stuart Cotton, of Bowmanville.

"It really was the 'thrill of a lifetime'," Mr. Cotton told the Examiner today.

"This plane was evidently attracted by the regatta crowd, and taxied smoothly out of the air to were we were. It was a private plane of the Orillia Air Service Limited. Stuart knew the pilot, and the first thing I knew he had arranged a flight, and I went along with them."

"We were in the air about an hour and a quarter and flew over miles of scenic territory up to North Bay, Algonquin Park, along the Ottawa River. We were over the area of recent forest fires. Last Friday's big rain had snuffed the flames to a heavy smudge where the leaf mould was still burning. I understand they are going to cut the timber in the fire area next winter. It is still valuable wood if it is cut now instead of letting it become punky by a couple of years' standing."

The plane flight is only incidental to Bob Cotton's account of his hunting and fishing and regatta-ing in the Highlands of Haliburton. This is a chapter of it, necessarily condensed.

HUNTING 45 YEARS

"I think I should qualify as the best hunter in North America. I have been hunting deer in that country for 45 years—and I have yet to shoot one, or even fire the gun at one. Sure, I've gone out on the trails loads of times and with a rifle, but the only shooting I've done was with my camera. I've been in coverts and have had unsuspecting deer come up and by only ten feet from me. I believe that is some kind of record."

"Forty-five years in the Haliburton woods, fishing and hunting, and seeing the steady increase of the number of tourists, discovering one of the finest summer and autumn holiday country in this province, or in Canada! Up there, I'm Uncle Bob to all kinds of people, many of whom I really don't know by their last names. Some of them are millionaires, but in the woods they are just men out for rest and relaxation from the pressure of business.

"I've tramped the old lumber trails, and this recent outing with Stuart was just another return as I say in a period of 45 years."

THOUSAND LAKES

Mr. Cotton was discovering for himself some of the thousand lakes of Haliburton. That number was once suggested to the Examiner by George Goodwin, of Lindsay, who used to say there were lakes in the interior that few men had ever seen.

Mr. Cotton wasn't interested in acquiring property or anchoring himself to a summer cottage. He had too many other ports of call. For instance, some of his friends say that he knows police chiefs and policemen in some parts of New York State, such as Buffalo, for example, as well as he knows Chief Thompson's force. Some of them better. That acquaintance has developed out of his custom of getting around and meeting people, not because of forehanddedness and discretion in cultivating stand-ins with the authorities. In that respect, he was a Justice of the Peace here for years and has often presided at the magistrate's bench.

That phase of his municipal service is of the past, and he probably holds the record in Peterborough for the longest period as chairman of the council's finance committee. Now around 70, and taking to the air, is an interesting diversion, but the Cotton preference is for the lakes and trails in the Haliburton woods.

"Man, how I love it up there," he said.

TRAFFIC JAM—This modern world has witnessed many a multiple car crash on highway and speedway but scarcely one to top this master pile-up Wednesday on a stock car track at Hibbing, Minn. One driver started the chain reaction when he lost control on a curve during a 100-lap race and a total of 44 cars ground to a crashing, smashing halt in the ensuing confusion. Seven drivers were hurt, none of them seriously. About 15 of the wrecked cars are shown here.

Pruning Trees Helps Looks Induces Longer Life

While the subject of pruning might well occupy a whole volume, there are certain fundamental rules, easy to remember, that will make your shrubs and trees live longer and look better. One important fact is that shrubs allowed to seed take valuable strength away from plants. Dried seed pods are certainly far from attractive and while not all withered flowers are practical to remove, flowers such as lilacs should be cut off immediately after the height of their bloom.

The start of the growing season should of course see the cutting out of all dead branches of shrubbery that have been winter-killed. Broken branches should always be cut out immediately and will provide new growth to fill in.

Hedges should be pruned frequently for densest growth. Healthiest hedges are obtained by cutting so that the bottom is slightly wider than the top—this has many advantages among which is the avoidance of building up too great a weight of snow on top in the wintertime, with resultant spreading.

Unless being used as hedges or coplary pieces, evergreens should never be pruned to the degree where their natural shape is altered. Evergreens are best trimmed onl ywhere a fast growing branch thrusts out and spoils the tree's appearance.

Vacant spots in trees can very often be corrected through pruning. Locate a strong leader growing near the vacant spot and cut off about one-quarter inch above a bud growing out. Remove all but this leaf bud the following spring and you'll have a healthy branch filling in the vacancy in a comparatively short space of time.

Down growing branches are another problem often spoiling the appearance of a shrub or tree. This may be remedied by selecting a bud on the upper side of the branch just where it starts to bend. Cut off the branch about one-quarter inch from the bud—continue to remove new buds the following spring and the resulting strength being poured into the selected bud will soon rsult in an upright growth.

Overgrown, half-dead shrubs can very often be started anew by cutting off close to the ground, and promoting new growth with good manure and leaf-mold. Don't weaken and cut off only halfway from the ground—the sprouts will only start from the cutting point and the bottom will remain bare. All well grown shrubs will benefit considerably by thinning out of main shoots each year. Select the most woody shoots, sparse of foliage at the bottom, and cut them off at the ground.

Check Home For Accident Safeguards

BY MR. FIX

Life is dear, and home safety is cheap — by comparison. If you are building a new home or remodelling an old one, now is the time to install some extra safety features. The immediate jolt to your pocketbook may prvent a for more tragic shock later on.

About 31,000 persons die in home accidents each year. Another 4,000,000 are injured — 110,000 permanently disabled. Fire in homes kills 5,000 each year. At fault most often is the design of the house, say the insurance companies — so let's see what can be done to correct the faults.

If the entranceway platform is more than 10 inches above grade, protect it from rain, sleet and snow with a canopy roof. Install railings. Non-slip surfaced steps should be no steper than 10-inch tread, with a 7¾-inch riser.

Free passage to all rooms is desirable; there should be little traffic through one room to reach another. Doors should not swing into "traffic" lanes or hallways and should not be placed near stairways nor stair landings.

Install a telephone upstairs to make those mad dashes down the stairs unnecessary.

Use 15-degree ramps rather than stairs, where possible. Stairways should have straight runs and square landings. The angle of ascent should be no less than 30 degrees, not more than 35.

Plan on non-slip materials or anchored carpeting on the floors. New plastic-type floor waxes give a gloss to the floor without making floors dangerously slick.

Install plenty of electric outlets, protected with plastic caps to keep children's prying fingers away. Install light switches near doorways and three-way switches for stairways.

Keep kitchen gas ranges away from curtained windows. Kitchen cabinets should have rounded, not square, corners. Keep light switches away from sink, or bathroom and laundry facilities, to prevent simultaneous contact. Install ground wire from frame of washing machine to nearest water pipe.

To prevent condensation on basement cold-water pipes from dripping on floors, cover them with felt or some other insulating material.

Provide a special locked and lighted cabinet—not the regular medicine cabinet—for drugs. Use non-slip flooring and flat-bottomed tub in bathroom.

Provide for plenty of storage space with easy access. Difficult access and crowded storage space cause many falls, though more are caused by articles for which no space was provided.

Used attic should have regular flooring, stairs, electric lights and ventilation. The latter is, for one thing, a safeguard against spontaneous combustion of stored materials.

Among the safest roofing materials from a fire-protection standpoint are aluminum, copper and other metals, composition roofing papers and shingles, tile slate and built-up tar and gravel coverings.

If garage is to be attached to house, see that gasoline fumes are kept out. A door sill one or two steps high will do this, since the fumes are heavier than air.

The safety measures mentioned above are but a few of the more important ones, assembled to make the home owner more safety conscious in designing his home.

SAFETY IN THE HOME can be yours at a price—and the price is eternal vigilance against hazardous conditions.

— that Last Longer and Cost Less
Dunbrik is the super-brick. Truer in form than ordinary brick. Higher in insulation value, lighter in weight. Dense . . . strong . . . moisture resistant . . . fire safe. More color variety than any other brick can show.
In addition, Dunbrik-Dunstone construction costs less — much less. So much less that it puts high-grade masonry into the price range of frame, with lower depreciation every year thereafter.

Says Distorted Data Released

WILMINGTON, N.Y. (AP)—Rep. Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., (Dem-Lib.-N.Y.) said Friday private interests, seeking U.S. congressional approval of plans to build new power plants at Niagara Falls, have issued propaganda which "lies, distorts, confuses and confounds."

He also rapped New York governor Thomas E. Dewey for failing to include in the state's proposal to build the estimated $400,000,000 project a provision that would give publicly-owned utilities a preference in use of Niagara power."

Addressing the annual convention of the Municipal Electrical Utilities Association of New York, Roosevelt said failure to include the clause if the state builds the project would deprive the municipal utilities and co-operatives of "bargaining strength."

The House of Representatives has passed legislation which authorizes five big New York private utilities to construct the project. Similar legislation, and also New York's plan for the development, will be considered by the Senate next year.

REAL ESTATE MEN MEET

OTTAWA (CP)—The eastern Ontario regional conference of the Ontario Association of Real Estate Boards meets here Monday. Experts in property values from Ontario and Quebec are expected to attend.

FRENCH BAND ARRIVES—French and Canadian Army officers greet members of the famous Garde Republicane Band which arrived in Montreal. The 74-man band is setting out on a 14-week tour of Canada and the United States which will begin with a performance in the metropolis. From left to right they are: Captain Maurice Mangin, representing the Department of National Defence of France; Colonel M. P. Faure, military attache for France in Canada; Francoise-Julien Brun, director of the band; Raymond Richard, assistant director; Nicholas Koudriavtzeff, president of Canadian Concerts and Artists who has organized the tour; Col. Peirre Tremblay, Canadian medical officer in charge of the Quebec Command, and Lieut. Henri LePage, director of Canadian military bands, Quebec.

Consider Resignations

KITCHENER (CP)—The resignations of Waterloo township's police chief, H. J. Schedewitz, and Mrs. Maretta Weber, police stenographer and justice of the peace will be considered at a special council meeting Tuesday. No reason was made public for the resignations submitted last Tuesday.

GMC To Be Awarded Meduim Tank Order

WASHINGTON (AP)—Army Secretary Robert T. Stevens announced Friday he has decided to award the Fisher body division of General Motors Corp. a contract for medium tanks. About $200,000,000 will be involved.

Stevens also said in a statement that General Motors and Reo Motors Corp. also have been awarded contracts totalling about $146,000,000 on 2½-ton trucks.

Stevens said the GMC truck contract totalled $85,000,000 and the Reo contract approximately $61,000,000.

Rename Driveway

OTTAWA (CP) — Ottawa's 2½-mile-long scenic "Driveway" is to be renamed "Queen Elizabeth Drive," it was learned Friday. The tree-lined roadway which winds along beside the Rideau canal to the Dominion experimental farm, is being renamed in honor of the Queen Mother.

Restoring Canada's No. 1 Library

By LESLIE WILSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Work is going smartly ahead on renovation of the 86-year-old parliamentary library just a year after a dogged fire damaged the building and 75,000 of the library's 500,000-odd books.

The public works department plans to renew most of the wooden parts of the structure and some of the metal roofing. Steel will be added to the dome which supports the 140-foot-high spire.

The work is being carried out by the Toronto architectural firm of Mathers and Haldenby under the department's supervision.

NOT MUCH CHANGE

When the job is finished, probably in the fall of 1954, the "Canadian Gothic" building will look almost as it did before the Aug. 4, 1952, fire. Canada's No. 1 library then will move back from the Supreme Court and Canadian Bank Note Buildings to its original quarters.

Just as there was little spectacular about the fire, there is little spectacular about the restoration. The fire broke out about two hours after midnight, apparently caused by a short circuit at the base of the spire. Firemen fought the blaze for 12 hours after flames took hold of wooden beams.

UNDRAMATIC FIGHT

Flames leaped sporadically from the dome and there was plenty of smoke but in the main the fight was a grim, undramatic one by firemen on long ladders who saturated the beams before the smouldering fire died out.

Heavy damage was done by tons of water which drenched the three galleries of books lining the circular building and then seeped through the wooden parquet floor to galleries of books in the basement.

The work of saving the books began immediately; the long slow job of renovating the library began some months ago.

MOULD CHECKED

Librarians and works department employees carried the 75,000 water-damaged books and pamphlets into parliamentary corridors and the Supreme Court Building and spread them out to dry while fans whirred to keep the air moving above them.

At first it was feared that mould damage might prove severe. However, the drying method checked the mould. The books were sorted and it was found that many thousands needed rebinding but that only 200 or so would have to be discarded.

The rebuilding job and the task of coaxing the others back into shape by one means or another still is going on. Officials hope to complete it by the time the building job is finished.

The library building is joined to the main block of the Parliament Buildings on the north side facing the Ottawa river. Its dome flanked by cathedral-like buttresses and surmounted by a spire and pinnacles make it a prime tourist attraction and one of Canada's most unusual buildings.

SURVIVED 1916 FIRE

Built by a firm of English architects, it is the sole building surviving from the 1916 conflagration which destroyed the old Parliament Buildings. Sabotage was suspected in the 1916 fire.

Parts that will be replaced in the present renovation include the copper sheathing on the dome, galvanized iron on the spire and the wooden pinnacles surrounding the spire.

Fire-damaged wooden beams under the dome will be removed and the steel beams which are the structure's main support will be strengthened by the installation of additional parts.

Most of the oaken panelling inside the building will be replaced. The mahogany-and-birch floor, severely damaged by water, will be replaced by another of concrete and wood.

Much of the library's book collection was available to members of Parliament during the last session as the library staff worked from the Supreme Court Building. The collection is Canada's finest and includes copies of most of the debates of the provincial legislatures before Canada became a nation, newspapers which report the speeches of the Fathers of Confederation, pamphlets and prints.

Old School Ways,

"I trust it will be apparent that in alluding to the extent of this labor, I do not seek to magnify my own exertions. I crave your attention to this point merely to shew that a change of the former system is necessary."

"The distance which must be travelled over to complete one visit to each school section in this county, would appear totally incredible to any one who had not taken some pains to reckon up the numerous journeys it occasions; one visit could not be nearly accomplished in a quarter of the year at an average rate of travelling of twenty miles a day.

"This rate, considering the state of most of the roads, and the time which must be spent in properly examining a school, is greater than could possibly be [illegible] for a whole [illegible] corps.

[illegible] received, and nearly five [illegible] despatched. It is true that this will be in future greatly diminished, unless changes are made in the school law: but it will always be very considerable.

NIGHT JOURNEYS

"In the next place, I find that my health is not equal to the task this office imposes. Frequent night journeys, and change of quarters, brought on a fit of illness which kept me from the performance of my duties for several weeks, every effort to resume my journeys bringing on a relapse.

"But I should be recreant to the cause I profess to advocate, if I allowed any cowardly apprehension of being misunderstood or misrepresented, to prevent me from stating that the remuneration attached to the office under consideration, is out of all proportion to the nature and importance of its duties, and to the value of such qualification as a superintendent should possess."

"My personal expenses for the year, including travelling expenses, repairs, stationery, postage and loss in value of a horse worn down, have amounted to about seventy pounds, leaving only about sixty pounds as compensation for services which occupied the whole of my time, to the exclusion of all other sources of income.

IMPROVEMENT

"With regard to the condition and prospects of common school education in the country, an improvement has taken place, and an impetus has been given to the desire for further advancement which must have become so apparent to each of you, gentlemen, in your several localities, as to leave no need to enlarge upon it here. Whether this improvement shall go on with a much needed and steadily increasing progress, will greatly depend upon the appointments which the Council may now make, to fill a situation the duties of which I feel that I have very imperfectly discharged."

"I have the honor to be, Gentlemen,

"Your most obedient humble servant,

Thomas Benson,
"Sup't Schools Co. Peterboro'.
1853."

purposes [illegible] which the Townships of Smith, Douro and Otonabee formed one, Asphodel, Dummer and Belmont former another, the other two consisting of the townships of North Monaghan and Ennismore respectively. The Rev. Edward Roberts was appointed Local Superintendent of the first division, the Rev. Thomas Searight of the second, Thos. Fortye, Esq., for North Monaghan, and Patrick Sullivan, Esq., for Ennismore.

In March, 1853, requests were made for the appointment of separate township Local Superintendents, and notwithstanding the formal disapproval of this system expressed by Wm. Cottingham, Esq., Warden, in his address to the Council, this system was adopted, and has been since continued until 1866, when an effort towards the centralization of the duties of the office was again made, and with partial success.

To Auction Seized Guns

OTTAWA (CP) — Twenty-nine guns, ranging from .12 gauge shotguns to .22-calibre rifles, will go on sale next week at the Ontario lands and forests department offices here. The guns, seized from hunters in eastern Ontario for infractions of provincial game laws, will be auctioned by sealed tenders in a two-day sale starting Monday.

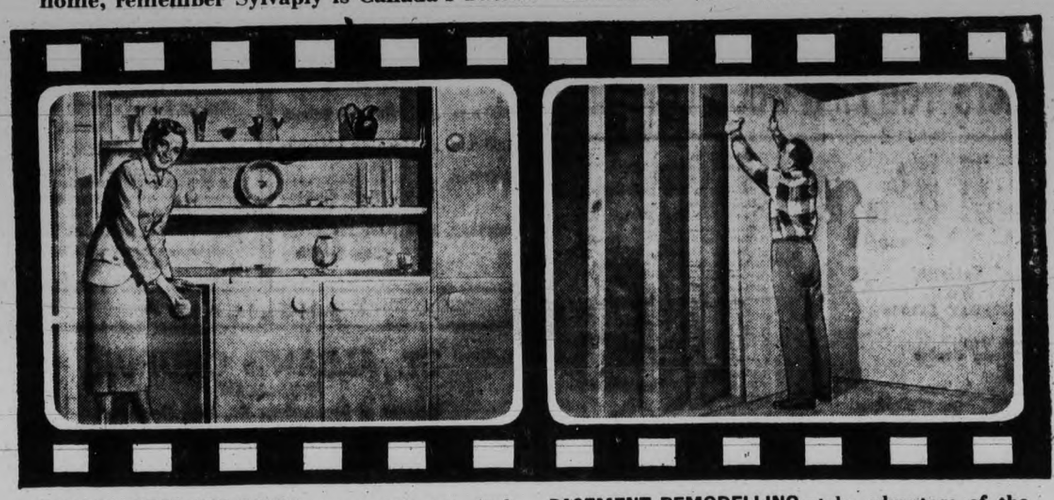
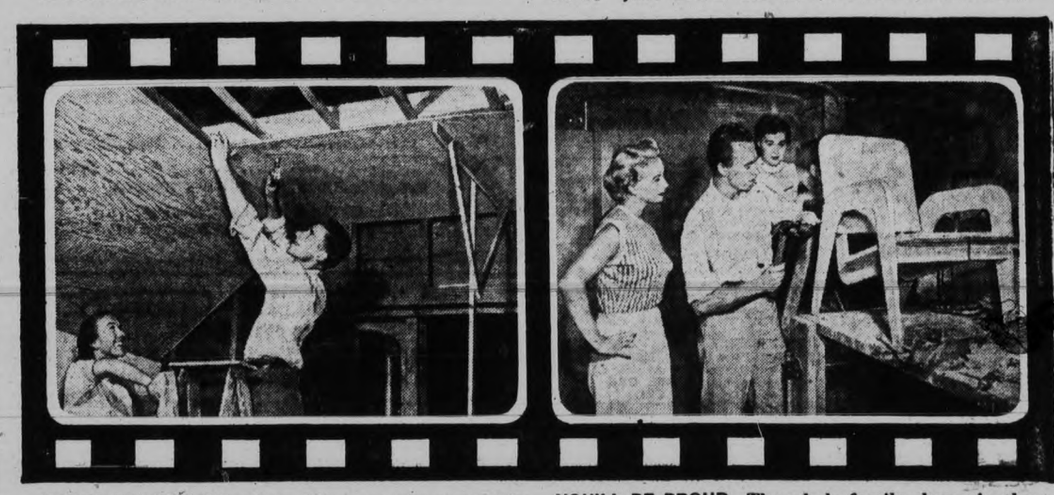
Look what you can do with
SYLVAPLY DOUGLAS FIR PLYWOOD

. . . you can enjoy the exciting experience of watching an older home transformed into a modern dream home, made into a more livable, more spacious place for comfortable living—with Sylvaply. And, if you're planning a new home, remember Sylvaply is Canada's busiest "new home" material.



WHAT OTHERS ARE DOING—you can do, too. And, that includes a modern built-in storage wall like this. There's no end to the things you can do with Sylvaply to make any home—old or new—more livable.

BASEMENT REMODELLING—take advantage of the "gold mine" of unused living space you can get by remodelling your basement. A bright playroom or useful laundry room are just two ideas—the Free "How-To-Do-It" your dealer has for you will spark others.



ROOM AT THE TOP—Extra living space in your attic is easy when you do the job yourself with easy-to-handle, easy-to-saw and nail Sylvaply panels. Ask your dealer for Free "How-To-Do-It" on attic rooms, and get started.

YOU'LL BE PROUD—The whole family shares in the fun and satisfaction when you make smart living room furniture. Few hobbies are more rewarding than "doing-it-yourself" with simple tools, average skill and easily-worked Sylvaply.

"Do-It-Yourself" with SYLVAPLY

Lightweight and strong, the big 4 feet by 8 feet panels of Sylvaply Douglas Fir plywood are more fun than work for building, remodelling and making furniture. They're just right for the "week-end" carpenter using the simplest tools.

It's FUN—only a few simple tools needed

All you need to work successfully with these easy-to-handle 4 feet by 8 feet panels of lightweight Sylvaply is just average skill in the use of ordinary household tools. Get started by talking over your project at "Handyman Headquarters"—your local Sylvaply dealer. (He has the new "Take Home" sizes, too—smaller Sylvaply panels handy for odd jobs.)

The Christian's Poverty And Riches

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.

"Stand, therefore." This is Saint Paul's exhortation to the Christians at Ephesus (Ephesians 6) after he had urged them to "put on the whole armor of God," so that they might "withstand in the evil day, and having done all, stand."

That Paul should have seen the Christian life as warfare is not to be wondered at. His whole course was beset with enemies and persecutions.

No man, apparently, was more indomitable in spirit, yet Paul reveals that with all his stoutness of heart he had conflicts within. He speaks of a "messenger of Satan to buffet him" (II Corinthians 12:7).

He speaks of his weakness, though in this weakness he found strength through depending on God. "My grace is sufficient for three: for my strength is made perfect in weakness. Most gladly therefore will I rather glory in my infirmities, that the power of Christ may rest upon me."

To the Christians, to whom Paul wrote, life was also a warfare. They may have been free from the most serious persecutions that beset Paul, but they were subject to persecution.

There were hazards in being a Christian. The days, as Paul says, were evil (Ephesians 5:16). The pagan environment was hostile and full of temptations of the flesh and of the spirit.

Paul is insistent upon the Christian warfare, and, like a great military leader, he is deeply concerned about preparation, equipment, indoctrination and rousing words of inspiration and encouragement.

And in all this his own example is never lacking. That is a quality of great leaders. George Washington, fighting in the very forefront with his poorly equipped troops, exemplifies this quality.

What men like Washington have been in material warfare

ELECTED TO COUNCIL

City Clerk E. A. Outram was elected to the municipal division of the council of the Institute of Public Administration of Canada, in annual convention at Saskatoon Thursday. Also elected was L. G. McPherson, Kingston auditor. The new council will elect the organization's officers.

HOLD YFC MEETINGS

A series of seven Youth For Christ meetings, to be held in either the PCVS auditorium or Queen Mary auditorium, has been approved by the Peterborough Board of Education. The non-sectarian programs will be on Saturday nights, beginning Oct. 3. Previous commitments forced the Board to alternate the meetings between the two auditoriums.

HOLD LABOR SCHOOL

A school to instruct trade unionists on labor problems is being planned in Peterborough shortly by the Peterborough Trades and Labor Council (TLC). The school will be either a three-day or a two-day-and-one night affair. Classes on labor procedure, parliamentary procedure, negotiations and the Labor Relations Act are planned. Max Swerdlow, educational and organizational director of the TLC, will likely attend.

PRAISE CITY COUNCIL

Quite often the Peterborough City Council get a blast of criticism from the two labor councils in the city. This has been reversed by a letter of commendation that is being forwarded from the Peterborough Trades and Labor Council (TLC) who feel that the city has done a good job in securing additional downtown parking space by the purchase of the King St. property, opposite the Colonial Coach Lines office. At the same time the AFL union body want to know what progress has been made toward buying the Dominion Woollens and Worsteds property which they presumed was earmarked as the site for the long-talked-about Memorial Centre.

Scout Camp Wrecked By Vandals

Hundreds of Dollars Damage Done During Summer

Gangs of teen-agers are said to have been responsible for extensive damage to the Scout camp near Nassau, about three miles north of the city on the River Road.

The Peterborough Boy Scout Association have just about despaired of curbing the wanton vandalism which has gone on intermittently throughout the summer and has cost hundreds of dollars in property damage. James Houghton, who has been camp supervisor for the past four years, has become so discouraged with attempts to keep the camp in decent repair that he has tendered his resignation.

Dr. James Perry, president of the association, said he hoped Mr. Houghton could be persuaded to change his mind. The main part of the property is being fenced off in hopes that cars can be kept away from the buildings.

"Mr. Houghton has done outstanding work, building the camp up with very little expense," Dr. Perry said.

Assistance of the OPP has been sought but it has been very difficult to locate the people responsible for the damage.

"If these people have any decency at all, they'll stop this vandalism." Ernest Trueman, vice-president of the association, said. Various members of the association have visited the camp at night to try and find who has been responsible but no-one has ever been discovered there.

The camp site was first leased from Ontario Hydro in 1935 and the main lodge and cook house were built by voluntary work of local Scoutmasters and members of the association in 1941. Most of the materials were donated.

Two other buildings were acquired from the Kiwanis Club and moved from Jackson Park some time later. One of these buildings is used as an instructional building and the other has two rooms; one is a first-aid room and the other is used as sleeping quarters for Cub mistresses and other women who help at the camp.

The buildings and equipment are valued at about $5,000. It is maintained by funds derived from Apple Day and paper drives, conducted by scouts and cubs.

The camp is used by about 500 boys each year for recreation and special scout and cub field training. It was pointed out that for many of them, the camp provides the only outing they have during the vacation months.

It is used from the beginning of June until late September. Regular periods of supervision are provided only on weekends, although scouts have the privilege of camping there during the week, if they wish.

Because the camp is occupied only on weekends as a rule, it has been during the week that the vandalism has occurred.

Doors to the buildings have been forced open on several occasions and the shutters, windows and doors have been damaged. Four axes, dozens of pieces of chinaware, a large flag, towels, woollen blankets first aid supplies and a blackboard are missing.

Two wall latrines have been broken beyond repair, windows broken and a tool cupboard, stirrup pump and bunks damaged. Paint used for repairs has been emptied over the floor and screen doors slashed.

Dr. G. R. Langley described the vandalism as "absolutely shameful."

"It is disgusting, to say the least," he said.

"It is costing the scouts a good deal of time and money and it is a great worry to scout officials."

DRAGLINE AND BULLDOZER have broken ground for the first homes in the new housing subdivision on the Hugh Stewart farm on Weller St. West. Top photo shows the dragline as it starts work on the foundation for the first house, to be built by H. J. McLarnon, city contractor. Mr. McLarnon has bought six lots to build on in the subdivision. The bulldozer in lower photo is working near the site of the other five. The first house in the subdivision will front on Weller St.

Hunting Season For Partridge In Two Sections

Open seasons for upland game birds and small game animals have been announced by the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests.

In the following list, the open season applies to the counties of Peterborough, Hastings, Haliburton, Victoria, Ontario, Durham and Northumberland, except where otherwise specified. Information as to other districts may be obtained from the Department of Lands and Forests.

For grouse, including ruffed grouse, sharp-tailed grouse and spruce partridge, the open season is from October 3 to October 12, inclusive and from November 2 to November 14, except in East Whitby, Pickering and Whitby townships in Ontario county. The bag limit is an aggregate of five a day, except in East Whitby, Pickering and Whitby townships, where it is three a day. The possession limit is 15 in the aggregate at any time.

PHEASANTS

The Hungarian partridge season is from September 19 to October 12, inclusive. The bag limit is eight a day and the possession limit 16.

The open season on pheasants is from 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. from October 28 to October 31, except in East Whitby, Pickering and Whitby townships, where it is October 30 and 31. The bag limit is three cock pheasants a day.

In Pelee township, Essex county, the open season for pheasants is from 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. on October 28 and 29. The bag limit is eight cock pheasants and two hen pheasants in the two days.

The ptarmigan open season is from September 5, 1953, to March 31, 1954, inclusive. The bag limit is five a day and the possession limit is 15 at any one time.

There is no open season for pinnated grouse (prairie hen).

SMALL GAME

For black, fox and gray squirrels, the open season is from November 9 to 14, inclusive. The bag limit is five a day and the possession limit 10 at any one time.

The open season on racoon is from August 15, 1953, to August 14, 1954, inclusive.

The open season on raccoon is from October 1, 1953, to February 28, 1954, inclusive.

The open season on rabbits is from September 1, 1953, to August 31, 1954, inclusive, except in Darlington township, Durham county, and in East Whitby, Pickering and Whitby townships, Ontario county, where it is from November 1, 1953, to February 28, 1954, inclusive. The bag limit is six cottontail rabbits a day.

Special township hunting licences are required to authorize the hunting of pheasants, rabbits and foxes in specified townships in Durham and Ontario counties.

In order to hunt racoons at night with hounds, special licences are required, obtainable only through local offices of the Department of Lands and Forests.

First House Started On Lot In Westmount Subdivision

Work has begun on what will ultimately be one of the city's largest and most expensive subdivisions. A Peterborough contractor, H. J. McLarnon, started work this week on a three-bedroom bungalow, first home to be started on the property that was once Hugh Stewart's Hilltop Stock Farm.

The subdivision, which will include more than 200 homes by the time it is complete, will be a link between houses on Wallis Heights and those on Manor Hill Ave.

Value of the houses to be built will range from $9,000 to $20,000, with the more expensive homes to be constructed on the higher land at the west.

LOTS UNDER OPTION

One block, of 90 lots, is held under option by a large construction company, which may commence its work late this fall or early in 1954. Smaller blocks are owned by contractors such as Mr. McLarnon, and individuals hold what others have been bought.

At present, other than the work started on the one house, roads are being bulldozed, and temporary street signs erected.

Construction of a "main" sewer, which will serve the subdivision and other nearby homes, is expected to begin within two weeks.

The sewer will join the subdivision at Westbrook Drive and Weller St., the east end of the housing area, and will follow the old creek bed south to Clonsilla Ave.

Steady Rain Fails To Stop Market Trade

A steady downpour of rain today which practically flooded the open farm market failed to stop farmers from setting up their stands. Trading for most part of the morning was steady.

Biggest drop in prices this week was in eggs. Last Saturday farmers were asking 50 cents a dozen for pullets, 85 cents for grade A oversize, 80 cents for large and 75 cents for small.

This morning pullets were selling for 40 cents a dozen, grade A oversize 70 cents; large 65 cents; medium 60 cents. Chickens were selling for 45 cents a pound, a drop of ifve cents from last week. There were a few ducks on sale that were selling for 50 cents a pound.

Corn was as plentiful as ever and was selling for 25 cents a dozen, the same as for the past three weeks.

St. Lawrence apples were selling for 75 cents a basket; Alexander apples 60 cents; greenings 50 cents and Duchess 60 cents. Sugar plums 75 cents a basket; pears $2.50 a bushel; peaches 75 75 cents a basket; peaches 75 cents; plums 50 cents; damson plums 85 cents a basket; grapes 65 cents a basket.

Garden vegetables as usual took up most of the room on the farmers' stands. Egg plants were selling from 25 to 30 cents or $1 a basket; squash 20 cents; cucumbers ranged from 25 to 35 cents a basket; red and green peppers two for 15 cents; two bunches of beets 15 cents; two bunches of carrots 15 cents; large tomatoes 60 cents a basket, and 30 to 35 cents for a basket of small potatoes; onions 65 cents a basket; watermellons 25 cents; green tomatoes 25 cents a basket; broccoli 15 cents a bunch; dill 10 cents a bunch; beans 50 cents a 6-quart basket; potatoes ranged from 30 to 40 cents for washed Cobblers and $1.65 for a bag; cabbage 10 cents a head; turnips five to 10 cents; and ripe cucumbers 25 cents a basket; cauliflower 15 to 25 cents.

Bunches of gladiolii were still on sale for 50 cents and homemade horse radish was selling for 25 and 50 cents a bottle.

Buyers Few As Stores Stay Open

Ald. Norm Graham Says He Will Press For Prosecution

The premiere of Friday night opening for some ladies' wear stores in Peterborough was cloaked in self-conscious bravado on the part of proprietors and customers alike. The bold tread of the explorer gave way to cautious toe-testing and by 9:00 p.m. the first test was over and little had been established.

The turnout Friday night indicated that those who were against having the stores open emphasized their opinion by staying away from downtown. It indicated too that there were more against the opening than for it.

Mayor Hugh Waddell could not be reached to say whether or not the city would take any action to lay charges of breaking the by-law.

Bob Hamilton, assistant manager of the Chamber of Commerce, said the matter was out of the hands of the Chamber.

However, Ald. Norm Graham, who brought up the subject at a meeting of the city council, did have something to say today.

"If the city council or some other party does not prosecute these stores which have broken the city bylaw forbidding sale of dry goods after 6:00 p.m., I shall do all in my power to see that they are prosecuted."

RUN FOR MAYOR

"Furthermore, if this prosecution is not enacted, I shall resign from my position as alderman and as soon as the required time has expired, I shall run against any opposition for the mayoralty of this city."

Ald. Graham also reported that concrete evidence has been acquired proving that at least three stores in the newly-formed Ladies' Wear Association, did transact business Friday night. "The receipts are in the hands of the police today."

"A similar instance occurred in 1949 to various garage owners in the city. They paid fines totalling $175.00 and there was never any refund made even though that particular bylaw was annulled by the courts."

It was the general opinion of the store owners who were open that "a move like this requires time to show results."

"The people have to become used to the idea of shopping on Friday night—it doesn't happen all at once. The success or failure of this project cannot be determined by one day, but rather over a period of six months or so."

BUSINESS GOOD

At the same time as this theory was being propounded, these same proprietors were insisting that business was good. "Things are rather quiet right now, but we've had steady trade throughout the evening and we're very satisfied with the results".

Only one of the half dozen stores which stayed open appeared to be enjoying any substantial trade. In the rest the staff outnumbered the potential buyers at any given time.

Many of the stores refused to run the risk of breaking the bylaw restricting dry goods sales after 6.00 p.m. by transacting actual business although their doors were open.

"We are leaving our doors open so that the people who can't possibly get away in the daytime, can come and look around. We want to help these people who can't possibly shop at any other time."

It is these particular stores' intention to remain open for a few Friday nights on this restricted sales basis and "if we feel the people want this service we will give it to them."

Other managers had a less charitable motive for the evening business. "On Friday night you get the wife and the husband together—she wants and he's there to buy. Plenty of people are on the streets Friday night and although they have had time to cash their cheques the stores have been closed before they could get around to buy anything. Also there is plenty of out-of-town trade in this city on a Friday evening which is just going to waste. If other cities have it there is no reason why we should not.

The dry goods business requires the store to open for sales, they said. "Plenty of other concerns can do their demonstrating—and selling—after hours by bringing their merchandise to the home of prospective buyers, but that's impossible for us and yet we have our rent to pay just the same."

On the question of over-worked staff, all the managers said that their individual staffs were being compensated for their evening hours. Many claimed that the hours were so staggered to accommodate the Friday night opening, that their clerks were working fewer hours than normally. There was no acknowledgement by any of the employers of any 'beefing' on the part of their clerks.

The clerks asked would say nothing.

Window shopping on the inside was about all that happened Friday night however, but, as the managers say, "it takes time to tell what the outcome will be."

Car Skids, Overturns

While driving west on Highway 7 towards Lindsay this morning, the car of William Mathews, of Bridgenorth, skidded on the wet pavement and rolled over in the ditch. Mr. Mathews escaped injury and damages to the car amounted to $350. Provincial Police Constable John Cawood investigated.

Two Counties Will Consider Causeway Plan

Talk about the possibility of building a causeway across Pigeon Lake is starting up again.

Last Wednesday members of the Peterborough County Council were hosts to county councillors from Victoria and Haliburton Counties and apparently, in off-the-record discussions, the subject of a Pigeon Lake causeway was brought up again. The initiative for such a move comes from Victoria, and centres in the Bobcaygeon region.

The upshot of the matter is that the roads committee of the Peterborough County Council have been invited to meet their opposite number from Victoria County; and on Sept. 22 they will jointly inspect both the Ennismore and the Emily shorelines, at the sites where the old Pigeon Lake floating bridge was located.

Lunch for the two committees will be in Bobcaygeon.

NEW BRIDGE

In the afternoon they will investigate another joint project: putting a new bridge across the Burnt River at Kinmount. The bridge, which is neither wide enough nor strong enough to carry present motor traffic, joins the townships of Somerville in Victoria and Galway in Peterborough.

If a new bridge is to be built next year it will be a joint project.

Low Tender Accepted For Causeway

Bid $12,000 Below Estimated Cost For Gannon's Job

Peterborough County Council on Friday afternoon accepted the tender of Armstrong Brothers Construction Co., Brampton, for rock fill and top clay dressing at Gannon's Narrows. The Armstrong tender, the lowest of 16 made by firms throughout the province, is 97 cents a cubic yard for rock fill and 50 cents a cubic yard for top clay dressing.

To build a causeway across the 1,500-foot narrows between Pigeon and Buckhorn Lakes, County Engineer Jack Kean estimates it will take 80,000 cubic yards of rock fill and 1,400 cubic yards of top dressing. And the Armstrong Brothers tender is $12,000 less than he had estimated for the job.

Altogether it is estimated that the causeway and high-level bridge will cost $206,000. They will replace the present picturesque but dangerous floating bridge and swing span now at Gannon's Narrows.

Bids on the rock fill ranged from 97 cents a cubic yard to $2.46; on the top clay dressing from 50 cents a cubic yard to $1.25.

FINISH IN FEBRUARY

County Engineer Kean said that the construction company will start moving their equipment in during October, and dumping of the fill should begin by the end of the month. The job must be finished by Feb. 15.

"We in Harvey Township are certainly glad to see this go ahead," commented Reeve Charles Flynn at the special meeting on Friday. Harvey, which is the main beneficiary, will assume the upkeep of the two and a half miles of road between the rock quarry and the causeway; and

Top Officials In Maritimes Plan Round-Table Talks

MONCTON (CP)—Top officials of Canada's four Atlantic provinces will meet here Monday in a round-table discussion that may possibly lead to a new era of co-operation among their territories.

Three Maritime premiers, business leaders of the four provinces and at least one representative of the Newfoundland government are scheduled to attend.

Originally, all four premiers had been expected, but it was announced Friday night that Newfoundland's Joseph R. Smallwood will be unable to attend because of pressure of other business. He will be represented by Hon. P. J. Lewis, minister without portfolio.

Hon. Angus L. Macdonald of Nova Scotia and Hon. A. W. Matheson of Prince Edward Island are Liberals. New Brunswick's Hugh John Flemming is a Progressive Conservative. Newfoundland has a Liberal government.

ORIGINATED WITH EXECUTIVE

The meeting idea originated with the executive of the Maritime Provinces Board of Trade, which invited the premiers to talk over matters of mutual interest.

So far, five major subjects have been announced for the agenda. One of the most important would be the setting up of a committee to study all aspects of the Atlantic provinces' economy.

Other listed items are development of industry and natural resources, joint tourist promotion, and establishment of uniform highway codes and education standards.

There has been speculation that some form of pooling resources may be discussed. Things of common concern include the production ane marketing of potatoes, lumber and fish.

TCA To Fly To Mexico

MONTREAL (CP) — Trans-Canada Air Lines announced Friday it will inaugurate air service between Montreal-Toronto and Mexico City, starting once-weekly flights Oct. 31. The service is subject to receipt of necessary permits from the Mexican government.

Told Court Straight Story, Driver Fined

LINDSAY (ENS)—"It's a pleasure to hear some one come to court and tell a straight story," said Magistrate E. A. Gee as he fined James Shaw of Toronto $5 and costs of $2.50 when he appeared Friday on a charge of parking on the highway when he could have parked off the travelled limits.

Shaw was charged after an accident August 23 according to Constable Williams of Fenelon Falls when another driver behind him collided with the rear fender of Shaw's parked car.

Shaw admitted to the court he was parked partially on the paved portion of Highway 35 north of Rosedale. He explained that he was on his way home to Toronto and had stopped briefly in Coboconk to pay an electrician bill.

On the way toward Toronto, his wife realized they had been overcharged by $22 on the bill, he said, and he stopped on the road momentarily to decide whether to go back to the electrician's or to proceed home.

A car following, according to the constable, turned out to pass another vehicle, was confronted with an oncoming car and pulled in suddenly, colliding with the Shaw car. Damage to the latter was about $300. Shaw admitted there was no doubt that he had parked partially on the pavement but pleaded not guilty since he was of the opinion that technically he had only "stopped."

Butter, Cheese Production Shows Increase In 1953

OTTAWA (CP)—Butter and cheddar cheese production increased during the first eight months of this year but margarine output dropped, the bureau of statistics reports.

Creamery butter production rose to 215,661,000 pounds in the eight-month period and to 37,119,000 last month from 194,917,000 in the first eight months of 1952 and 33,773,000 in August last year.

Domestic disappearance of butter jumped to 181,642,000 in the eight-month period and to 25,859,000 in August from 172,211,000 in the first eight months of last year and 23,267,000 in August 1952.

Butter stocks at Sept. 1 increased to 88,44,000 pounds from 77,184,000 Aug. 1 and 71,355,000 a year ago.

CHEESE UP 8%

Cheddar cheese production rose eight per cent to 49,347,000 pounds in the first eight months of the year from 45,482,000 in a similar period last year. In August, production dropped slightly to 9,251,000 pounds from 9,377,000 a year ago.

Cheese holdings Sept. 1 increased to 42,699,000 pounds from 40,97,000 the previous month and 42,647,000 a year ago.

While margarine production in the eight-month period dipped to 65,806,000 pounds from 67,214,000 in a similar period last year, stocks at Sept. 1 rose to 2,406,000 pounds from 2,185,000 last year.

2 Immigrants Very Homesick

HAMILTON (CP)—Two young immigrant girls, homesick for their native Germany, were returned here during the week-end after being picked up by immigration authorities in Quebec City where they tried to board a ship for their homeland.

Ingeborg Brylla, 14, and her six-year-old sister, Erica, disappeared from their home July 29 and have been the subjects of a province-wide hunt.

No one knows how they managed to live during their 550-mile trip to Quebec, but it is believed they bought chocolate bars and soft drinks with some money the elder girl had had given to her for her birthday. They have been held in Quebec since Sept. 3 because neither girl would tell officials where their home was.

Watched Sprawling Foothills Blossom Into International Playground

BANFF, Alta. (CP) — Norman Luxton—Mr. Banff to his friends—has wrapped his life within the folds of Western Canada's colorful history.

Lean and erect, his dark eyes smiling from behind a high-bridged nose, Luxton, now 60, has watched the sprawling foothills blossom into an international playground.

Son of a newspaper publisher and a former newspaper man himself, he has lived a life of adventure. A friend of the Indian since his youth, he is one of the most popular and respected white men to be adopted into the Stony tribe.

SURE-FIRE-CURE

He once cured the influenza-ravaged tribe by dosing them with whisky and aspirin tablets after they had given up hope.

He travelled the sea wastes from Victoria to the South Sea islads, edited a gossip newspaper at Vancouver, traded in buffalo herds and spent his holidays chasing wild horses through Rocky mountain passes.

Luxton came to Calgary in 1895 when it was just a village. He later moved to Banff and took an active part in its development. He helped organize the Baff advisory council, the Banff winter carnival and the Banff Indian days, a three-day show staged each year by Indians.

BORN INTO JOURNALISM

He was born in a room of the building which housed the Manitoba Free Press, founded by his father, the late W. F. Luxton. He spent after-school hours sweeping floors there and learning to set type.

At 16 he moved into northwestern Ontario to apprentice as a clerk with an Indian agent at Rat Portage, now Kenora. Travelling in an eight-man canoe on treaty-paying trips, Luxton's job was to sit in the centre with the big iron cash box tied about his neck.

In Calgary, he worked as a printer-reporter and bill collector. He worked as agent for a eastern haberdashery firm after coming to Banff and later bought a small weekly newspaper, the Crag and Canyon.

The type was housed in cigar boxes and coffee tins when he took over the paper in 1902 and the little press hadn't been used for some time. Luxton sold out two years ago.

An Indian trading post he started still does a flourishing business and is one of the finest Indian museums on the continent. His summer and winter hotel was the first built in Banff.

Miss Clarke To Speak At Thankoffering

COTTESLOE—The WMS met at the home of Mrs. Fred Girven. The president, Mrs. John Golloher, was in the chair for the worship service from the Missionary Monthly. Mrs. H. Harnden and Miss M. Webster took the Bible readings and Miss H. Tedford led in prayer. Mrs. Golloher read the objects and aims of the WMS.

Mrs. William Forsyth introduced the new study book, "Where'er the Sun." Mrs. C. Bolton played a piano solo. Judith Toms received the offering.

It was decided to have Miss Greta Clarke as guest speaker at the fall thankoffering service, Sunday, September 20, at 8 p.m., in the church.

Mrs. H. Patterson and Mrs. J. Golloher served lunch. The October meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Fred Toms.

Will Open Air Show With Helicopter Flight

TORONTO — Toronto's air-minded mayor, Allan A. Lamport, will make a dramatic helicopter flight Sept. 19 to open the National Air Show, an annual presentation of the Toronto Flying Club.

Mayor Lamport, an ex-RCAF squadron leader and a pioneer of civil aviation in the Toronto area, will climb aboard the helicopter on a downtown street and be whisked off to the Canadian National Exhibition waterfront where the show is to be staged.

Sept. 19 will be proclaimed Aviation Day in Toronto. Before leaving for the Exhibition Park, the mayor will read the proclamation from the steps of the City Hall.

Aviation Day will start off with a huge parade of the tri-service in downtown Toronto which will end up at the City Hall Square.

Granted Permit To Export Gas

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. Federal Power Commission Friday gave Tennessee Gas Transmission Co., Houston, Tex., a permit to export natural gas to Canada upon completion of the necessary facilities.

Technically, Tennessee Gas was given a permit for the construction, operation, maintenance and connection of facilities at the United States-Canadian border for the export of natural gas to Canada.

The FPC Sept. 1 authorized Tennessee Gas and Niagara Gas Transmission, Ltd., Toronto, to export gas for ultimate consumption in the Toronto area.

Canadian government officials have consistently declined to allow themselves to be quoted by name on their opinions on the American company's proposal.

Some believe that importing natural gas into the Toronto area would make it economically unsound to build all-Canadian pipelines for Alberta gas.

Jailed Three Years For Forged Orders

TORONTO (CP)—John McIntosh, 35, was sentenced Thursday to three years for conspiring to utter forged postal orders. A woman described by police as his common-law wife, Mae Parent, 43, was given two years' suspended sentence on the same charge. Both pleaded guilty.

McIntosh was given another three years concurrent when he pleaded guilty to stealing a car from RCMP constable Karl Ross of Sarnia.

Seek Cemetery Vandals

WOODSTOCK, Ont. (CP)—Provincial police here are conducting an investigation into vandalism and malicious damage at the Embro cemetery. Provincial constable E. F. Martin said several tombstones were knocked down and one large one carted away sometime following decoration day at the cemetery last Sunday.

Unveil Monument To Commemorate Bell

OTTAWA (CP) — A cut-stone monument bearing a bronze tablet is to be unveiled today near Brantford to commemorate the inventor of the telephone, Alexander Graham Bell.

Built by the national parks branch of the resources department on recommendation of the historic sites and monuments board of Canada, it is to be unveiled by Mrs. Lillian Grosvenor Coville, a grand-daughter of the inventor, on the grounds of the old Bell homestead.

Bell's call from Brantford to Paris, Ont., on Aug. 10, 1876, is recognized as the first long-distance telephone call.

Chief Justice Buried

LOUISA, Ky. (AP)—Fred M. Vinson, 63th chief justice of the United States, was buried Friday on a knoll overlooking the valley where he was born and reared. Vinson died Tuesday in Washington of a heart attack. He was 63.

The body of the former small-town lawyer was laid to rest in Pine Hill cemetery after funeral services at the Louisa Methodist Church.

Health Minister Says Drunk Drivers 'Fools'

TORONTO (CP) — Police handling drunk-driving cases should remember that although they are dealing with potential killers, these persons are not criminals but "damn fools," Health Minister Phillips said Friday night.

Dr. Phillips told delegates attending a banquet of the second Conference on Alcohol and Road Traffic that he favors regulations in effect here last Christmas whereby officers were empowered to stop motorists at random and check whether they had been drinking.

He also urged that something be done in schools to prevent future crops of drinking drivers. There should be alcohol education.

Policeman Breaks Leg Chasing Prisoner

ESPANOLA (CP)—Constable Eugene Kaivisho of the Ontario Provincial Police was in hospital Friday with a broken lef suffered when he fell downstairs in the police station while chasing a prisoner.

The prisoner, Harvey Cyr of Espanola, escaped. A charge of escaping custody has been added to the charge of theft under which he was brought to the station.

Decide Actress Never Was A Communist

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Lucille Ball, television's top comedienne, never was a Communist, says the House of Representatives un-American activities committee, even though she registered to vote as one 17 years ago.

The wide-eyed star freely admitted to committee investigator William Wheeler that she registered March 19, 1936, to vote for the Communist candidates "because Grandpa wanted all of us to."

But she emphatically denied ever being a party member or voting for party candidates.

"There is no evidence that Miss Ball is or ever was a party member," representative Donald L. Jackson (Rep. Calif.), committee member, told a press conference Friday night.

Jackson said that there is some question as to whether Miss Ball ever voted Communist, but added that this point will be cleared up today with the release of the transcript of her testimony before Wheeler.

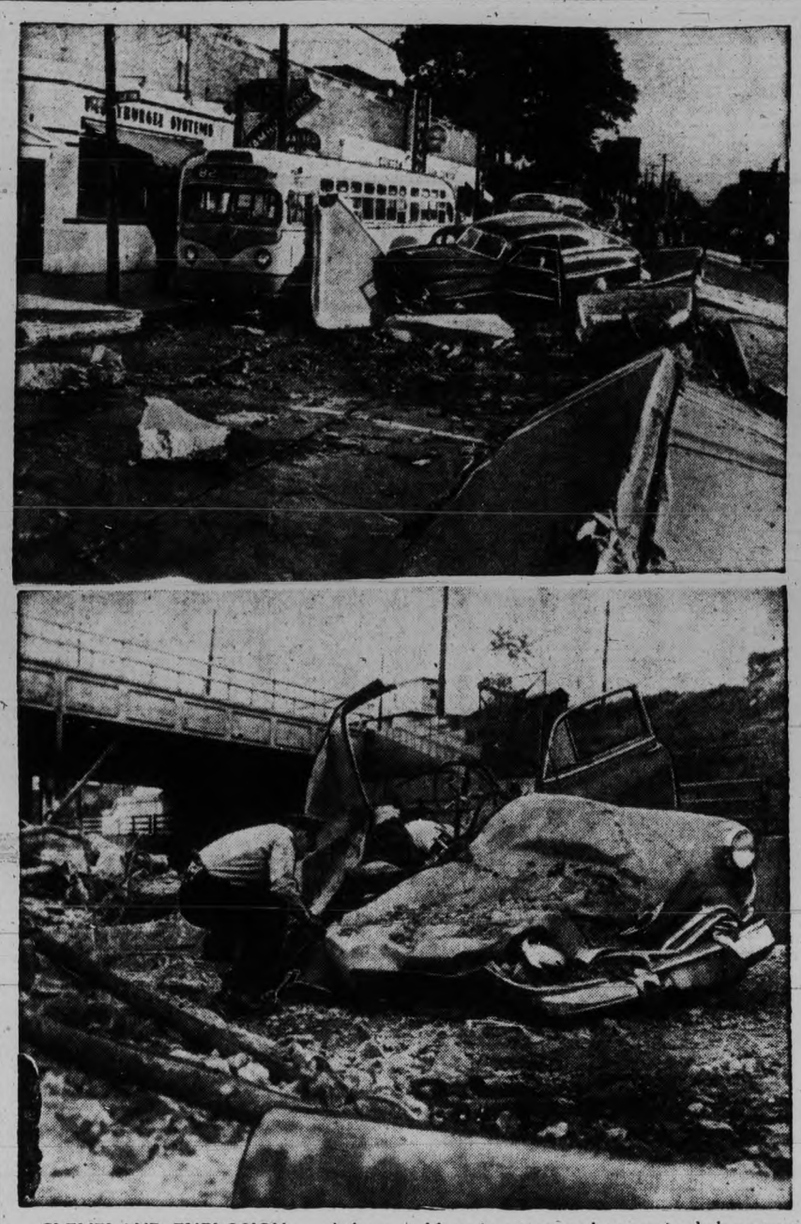
SIGNED PETITION

The same time she registered, Jackon said, she signed a nominating petition for Emil Freed, Communist party candidate. He said this also was at the request of her grandfather, Fred C. Hunt, now deceased, and who, the actress said, made the political decisions in the family.

Miss Ball's registration lapsed two years later, records showed, because she failed to vote in 1938.

Jackson said Freed appointed Miss Ball a member of the state central committee of the Communist party, but added that Miss Ball denied having authorized him to do so.

Testimony of Communist party members of the 1930s corroborated Miss Ball's statements, Jackson said.



CLEVELAND EXPLOSION — A huge chunk of reinforced paving concrete and a battered automobile rest against the side of a city bus during a series of violent explosions that tore up a mile and a half of streets in Cleveland, O., and caused close to $5,000,000 damage. At right lie pavement slabs tilted and pointed by the progressive blasts in sewers and gas mains below street level. A 40-year-old woman, Mrs. Katherine Szabo, was fatally injured when one of the massive flying concrete chunks crushed her car, below, at a West 117th Street railroad overpass. Many of the city's east-west traffic arteries were blocked when the disaster turned north-south streets into gaping, rubble-strewn trenches.

9 Universities Share In $25,000 Grants

OTTAWA (CP)—Nine Canadian universities will share in grants of $25,000 handed out this year by the federal government to encourage geological research which may help in the discovery of new oil pools and ore bodies.

The mines department today announced that the grants, covering 19 projects, will be shared by these universities: Toronto, British Columbia, McMaster, Queen's, Saskatchewan, Manitoba, Western Ontario, Dalhousie and McGill.

Projects will include research on temperature and formation of veins and vein-minerals, chemical and physical changes on rocks buried deeply beneath the earth's crust, methods of determining the age of rocks and problems of induced radiation in minerals.

Reject Protest

BERLIN (AP)—U.S. authorities Friday rejected a Czech protest against alleged violations of the extraterritoriality of the Czechoslovakian military mission in West Berlin. German police rushed to the mission Aug. 31 when a West Berliner claimed he had heard cries for help. It turned out later the cries had come from a little girl locked up by playmates in the lavatory of a nearby building.

Will Stay On Job

BERLIN (Reuters) — Maurice Chevalier said at his 65th birthday celebration he intends to go "right on singing and dancing" as long as audiences can stand it. The veteran French entertainer spoke at a beer-and-sausage party here during production of his first film in Germany.

10 From Gold Coast On Inspection Tour

MONTREAL (CP) — Ten representatives of the native government of the Gold Coast arrived today to start an inspection tour of Canada's aluminum industry.

They will make a report on the aluminum industry in this country for use in the establishment of one of the biggest proposed industrial projects in Africa.

The party will visit installations of Aluminum Company of Canada in the Saguenay district and other parts of eastern Canada. They will travel to Quebec City Sunday.

There were sixteen tables of cards. The winners were: Ladies 1, Mrs. Golden Andrews, Norwood; 2nd, Mrs. Earl Harding; man's 1st, Stan Zinston, 2nd, Levon Krikorian.

The ladies served sandwiches, pie and tea.

Seek To Reduce Cost Of Living In Effort To Satisfy Labor

By NORA BELOFF

PARIS (OFNS) — The strikes which paralysed French postal services and communications for almost a month, and cost the Treasury up to a thousand million francs, have ended in stalemate; but labor ill-will against the Laniel government is still running dangerously high.

The non-Communist unions called off the strikes when the government promised to call together the High Commission for Collective Conventions to re-examine wages before the end of this month. This is a tripartite body representing labor, employers and the government. It is known now that neither government nor employees will agree to raise wages, and in a sense, therefore, the workers went back to their jobs, if not under false pretences, at least under a dangerous delusion.

To prevent another labor explosion when this is discovered, the Ministers have decided to hurry through a series of measures contrived to appease labor without increasing the pay packets.

First item in the program which started this week is to bring down the cost of essential commodities immediately, so that the purchasing power of the worker's wage will improve, even though it represents the same number of francs. This is vital at the present moment because the High Commission has to determine minimum wages on the basis of the current price index. If this has declined, there will be no case for reopening the wages question at all.

ABOLISH SALES TAX

The government hopes to achieve its aims partly by abolishing the sales tax on selected commodities and partly by persuading retailers to compress their profits margins. The butchers have agreed in principle to take the lead, and the aim is to bring down the cost of some 250 basic articles by about 10 per cent. The task should not be impossible, as the current business slump has left many shopkeepers with unsold stocks. Nevertheless, French traders are a strong corporation, and they have a long tradition of thwarting government plans.

The second item is to reduce next year's military and civilian budgets; but the possibilities here are seriously limited by France's heavy commitments in Indo-China.

Military leaders responsible for the campaign are known to have asked for an immediate intensification of the French effort to meet an expected enemy offensive this autumn.

The third item is to reduce credit restrictions and so provide low rates of interest designed to encourage full employment and raise the levels of production. But here, too, the government means of action are limited, and until the heavy budgetary deficit is reduced the State has to go slowly in expanding credits for fear of inducing another round of inflation and setting the price and wage spiral in motion again.

SPECIAL BONUS

The government has said it will re-examine wage levels only when these three items of its program have been planned and carried through. There is some private discussion going on about giving a special bonus to the very underpaid categories of public and privately employed workers, but so far no formula has been found which would avoid this concession having repercussions on the other wage earners—which is what government and employers are determined to avoid.

The government's major handicap in carrying through its program is the overwhelming distrust felt by labor towards M. Laniel and his team, particularly since the strikes. Although the projected reforms seem designed to improve labor conditions, the workers have got to a point where they automatically expect a trap.

The Government is trying to recover its credit by announcing the biggest hunt ever made against defrauders. But unless names, prosecutions and prison sentences are publicly announced, scepticism seems likely to continue. In fact, it is doubtful whether the fiscal announcement was politically adroit. It is easy to imagine the resentment of workers learning that a bonus to public employees earning less than 30,000 francs a month minimum would cost the Treasury between five and eight thousand million francs and that this is being refused, and being told on the same day that 1,200 tax offenders are now being investigated for having by themselves alone deprived the Treasury of thirty thousand million francs.

It is touch and go whether the pressure on prices and the budgetary economists can postpone a social and Parlimentary crisis for a little longer.

In any case, the Government has judged it wiser to keep in being the inter-Ministerial committee formed to assure the functioning of essential public services during the last strikes. It is also studying a simplification of the requisitioning system whereby the Government has a right to compel employees to go back to work in public interest. The Government is also studying how to increase the mobility of the armed police.

Whatever happens now French labor will go on feeling it is being governed by a hostile ruling class; and this is a state of affairs which makes it particularly prone to political extremes.

Actress Rejects $1,000,000 Settlement

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Rita Hayworth Friday night turned down a $1,000,000 divorce settlement from Aly Khan for support of their 3½-year-old daughter Yasmin.

"Nothing will make me give up Yasmin's chance to live here in America among our precious freedoms and habits," the film star told The Associated Press.

Her lawyer said Prince Aly had attached two conditions to the $1,000,000 offer: (A) Yasmin was to be exposed to Moslem teachings when she is seven and (B) The child was to be brought to Europe two or three months each year.

LAWYER MYSTIFIED

PARIS (AP)—Aly Khan's lawyer said today he is mystified by Rita Hayworth's statement that she is rejecting a proposed settlement because it provides their daughter, Yasmin, be exposed to Moslem teachings.

"That never has been an issue in this affair previously," declared Charles Torem.

Aly himself said, "My lawyer really knows more about this than I do. You will have to refer to him."

Torem said he could not discuss the actual financial terms of the proposed settlement, but "the figure of a million dollars is quite inaccurate."

Police Inspector Shot In New Violence

CASABLANCA, Morocco (AP)—New violence flared today in troubled French Africa. Persons identified as nationalists shot and seriously wounded Gen. Salah Toumi, a police inspector, in Tunisia.

It was the latest of a series of assassinations and attempted assassinations of pro-French Tunisian officials.

French colonials called on the French resident-general in Tunisia to take strong action to wipe out what they called nationalist terrorism.

Yesterday a young Moroccan house painter failed in an attempt to kill the new French-picked Sultan of Morocco.

$475,000 Contributed In Cancer Campaign

TORONTO (CP) — More than $457,000 has been contributed to the April campaign for funds by the Ontario division, Canadian Cancer Society.

E. S. Welsh, chairman, told a directors meeting Friday night that the objective of $500,000 probably would be reached before the year's end.

Rooming House Fire Claims Three Lives

VANCOUVER (CP) — Three persons died today, huddled together near the top-floor fire escape, when an early-morning blaze swept a skid-row district rooming-house.

Police listed the victims as Mrs. Helen Haden, 48, and two old age pensioners so far identified only as Robert and Jack.

Firemen said the fire started from a cigaret in Mrs. Haden's mattress.

the township will also pay a special levy for the project as well as its share of the county rate.

Actual construction costs are estimated at $203,000 (with another $3,000 for legal costs, interests on bank loans, committee fees etc.). This sum is shared as follows: $99,000 from the Department of Transport in Ottawa to build the high level bridge for Trent Canal boat traffic to pass under; 80 per cent of the remaining $104,000 to be paid by the Ontario Department of Highways; and the 20 per cent of the $104,000 to be divided 8/11ths by the county and 3/11ths by the township.

Using this estimate the county pays $15,127 and the township $5,673.

The rock fill will be hauled from a pit purchased by the county from James Hutchinson of Harvey, two and a half miles from the causeway. One matter of concern to both county and township officials is how badly the heavy trucks will damage the road as they draw their loads.

SIX FEET ABOVE WATER

When the contract is signed it will call for the fill to be six feet above the summer water level and 32 feet broad on top. Shortly before the causeway joins the high level fixed span, on the Ennismore shoreline, it will be built up from six feet above the water level to 25 feet.

Tenders for the rock fill were opened by the county roads committee on August 28 and it was the committee's recommendation that the tender of Armstrong Brothers Construction Co. should be accepted. The consensus was that the county had received a very good price for the job.

Guest of Tito

BELGRADE (Reuters) — Field Marshal Lord Montgomery, deputy commander of North Atlantic Treaty Organization forces, will arrive in Yugoslavia Tuesday for a five-day visit as guest of President Tito, the semi-official news agency Yugopress said today.

Sea Monsters Not Harmful Below Surface Divers Say

WASINGTHON—Diving has its perils, but modern practitioners of an art at which man steadily grows more proficient have concluded that the monsters of the deep, so feared in an earlier age, are the least of the dangers.

Sharks and barracudas, it has now been reliably established, seldom if ever attack swimmers except when they are near the surface and thus appear to be some sort of disabled fish. Even large octopi retreat from a man moving purposely over the sea bottom.

Capt. Jacques-Yves Cousteau, French leader of the National-Calypso expedition recovering a 2,000-year-old Greco-Roman cargo vessel from the bottom of the Mediterranean, recently reported that his free-swimming divers had met octopi of respectable size. The grotesque creatures fled in terror.

EYES LIKE SAUCERS

Perhaps the largest octopus yet met beneath the water was one with eyes "the size of saucers" seen by a reputable diver off Piraeus, Greece. The man, courageous as are all inveterate deep divers, admitted he was frightened, but said the animal beat him to the retreat.

A British diver working in Japanese waters owned up to "annoyance" with octopi. Small individuals clustered so thickly on his suit that he could not see through the helmet eyepieces.

There may be huge creatures at the depths to which men have not yet gone that will prove dangerous. No diver, for example, has yet met a giant squid (Archteuthis princeps) face to face. Weighing up to 30 tons, this carnivorous beast lives normally at depths greater than the 540 feet thus far attained by any suited diver. Like other squid, the giant has ten arms to the eight of its relative, the octopus.

Even without ferocious fauna, divers sometimes have weird and terrifying experiences as they wander in the depths on business or pleasure.

Working on the bottom of Sevastopol harbor after the Crimean War, a salvor was horrified to encounter a drowned battery of field artillery with skeleton horses still in the traces and skeleton Russian soldiers still in the vicinity. One gunner remained in his saddle, caught by a stirrup.

The explanation was simple: British guns had sunk a small boat ferrying the battery across the harbor.

UNDERSEA PRANKSTER

Grisly practical joking lay behind the shattering experience of a diver in the German battleship Hindenburg, scuttled at Scapa Flow after World War I. Entering a stateroom, he found a bristle-bearded uniformed figure in a flooded bunk. It was the body of a seal, tucked into the bunk by other divers.

Hollywood's well-known thrill sequence—undersea combat between divers—has rarely been recorded in real life, but it did happen in World War II. A British "frogman" sent below the water outside Gibraltar harbor to search ship bottoms for delayed-action mines caught an enemy diver in the act of placing a mine. The Briton knifed his suit, and he disappeared.

Not the denizens, but the attributes of the sea are the diver's worst enemies. Pressure or its after-effects can kill or cripple him. Air must be efficiently furnished him below lest he suffocate. And even air's ingredients — oxygen and nitrogen — will poison him unless mixed in proportions that differ both from the earth's atmosphere, and for each depth attained.

Royal Command Performance Has Very Long Tradition

By COLIN FROST

LONDON (AP)—Who will be the stars of this year's royal command performance?

A grey - haired Briton named Harry Marlowe sits by his phone in the heart of London's theatre district nursing that secret of international vaudeville.

A call from Marlowe may start a U.S. singing star arranging his schedule to be ready for a transatlantic dash to make the show at London's Coliseum Theatre Nov. 2. Or it may bring overnight fame and wealth to one of the hundreds of small-time acts making the rounds of Britain's provincial music halls.

Actually, the royal command performance is nothing of the sort. The performers do not appear by "royal command" and officially it is just a first-grade charity show attended by the sovereign. But the royal command tag has stuck and that's what everybody calls it.

LONG TRADITION

The tradition goes back to the late middle ages, when actors played in London only on licence from the Crown.

The modern command performance dates from 1921, when the variety artists benevolent fund started looking for new ways to raise cash to help its members and King George V let it be known he would attend a vaudeville show. Today the Queen carries on the annual tradition. It has raised around £250,000.

Marlowe is secretary of the fund and that makes him casting director of the show. He and his committee pick about a dozen acts for the big spots plus some 500 performers for elaborate production numbers and submit the list—and script—to Buckingham Palace. Once the palace gives the green light, the show goes on.

NO CHARGE

Everybody works free. After the show the Queen looks over the accounts—as with all charities she supports—and she likes to see expenses kept small.

In other matters the Queen is less particular. George V insisted on split - second timing. Modern royalty takes its theatre less formally. The young Queen and her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, go all out to enjoy themselves. Slapstick comedy is their favorite.

The true command performance, with the sovereign ordering his favorite entertainers to appear, has virtually disappeared from British life. George VI gave the last in 1938 to entertain visiting French President Albert Lebrun.

Queen Victoria often ordered actors and even whole opera companies to perform on stages fitted up in her palaces. So did Edward VII.

Royalty today, however, is neither so rich nor so reserved as it was before the First World War. When Queen Elizabeth and the Duke want a night out at a theatre they ordinarily buy their tickets and just go like anyone else.

Plan Qualifications Set For Plumbers

KITCHENER (CP)—The Ontario Association of Plumbing inspectors Friday announced plans for the establishment of qualifications for its members. Consideration is also being given to the preparation of a syllabus outlining an inspector's course.

Association secretary V. S. Baker of London said it is hoped "that the issuing of certificates for plumbing inspectors will eventually be under the supervision of the Ontario department of health."

There is no set standard of qualifications covering appointment of plumbing inspectors in Ontario at present.

Outboard Motors Stolen; Two Sentenced

COBOURG —(ENS)—Clifford Pelon, Toronto, was sentenced to 18 months definite and six months indefinite Friday when he pleaded guilty to theft of two outboard motors.

One of the motors belonged to Ezra Sherwin and the other to James Small, both of Roseneath.

Donald St. Francois, Sudbury, was last week found guilty of receiving the stolen motors and Friday was sentenced to nine months in the reformatory.

CHARGES DISMISSED

Charges of stealing the motors, laid against William Simmonds, Toronto, were dismissed. The motors were identified but one of the owners, Ezra Sherwin, had trouble identifying Simmonds.

Police were furnished with the licence number after the theft. Sherwin noted the number after two men rented a boat at his tourist camp. Simmonds' car was checked at Toronto but there were no motors in it.

Police found the two motors in a car owned by St. Francois, when they went to a Toronto address in the course of their investigation.

9 Men Adrift On Dredge Barge

MARQUETTE, Mich. (AP) — Nine men were reported adrift today on a powerless dredge barge ripped from its towing tug by a sudden storm over Lake Superior.

Crew members on the tug Purvis messaged the Portage Canal, Mich., coast guard station that freed the dredge barge and two other tows Friday night.

The coast guard ordered another tug, the Pontiac, to the scene. The freighter Albert C. Denkey also was reported on its way.

The nine crew members on the loose barge were not in immediate danger, coast guard officials said.

Also in difficulty but making headway was the 500-foot ore carrier Maryland, owned by the Bethlehem Transportation Co. Officials said the ships radio reported earlier that the vessel was in "the trough of the sea."

The Maryland reported that she would put in at Marquette today.

Football Player Died Natural Death

OTTAWA (CP)—Jim Ambrose, husky football player with Montreal Lakeshore of the Quebec Rugby Football Union, who died in hospital here after a Labor Day game with Ottawa Seconds, died from an acute inflammatory condition of the brain, a pathologist said today.

Dr. M. O. Klotz, who examined the brain and other organs today, said death was due entirely to natural causes and that the brain condition was "totally unrelated to any injuries."

He said he believed the 250-pound, 23-year-old player probably had been suffering from the brain condition for some days before his death. As a result of his findings, an inquest will not be held.

Surprise Party

On the silver wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Healy of 803 Aylmer St., which occurred on September 4th, a surprise party was given by friends and neighbours. During absence of the couple from their home the party-givers decorated it with flowers and laid a tea table with the centrepiece a tiered and decorated wedding cake surrounded by tall white tapers and silver bells. On their return they staged a mock wedding. Mrs. C. Morris, Miss N. Zolyomy, Mr. A. Reid and Miss F. Healy taking part with Mrs. H. Swanston playing the bridal chorus. Later, presentation of a purse of silver dollars was made by Mr. Carl Morris following the reading of an address by Miss Zolyomy, and everyone joined in singing the Anniversary Song. Contests were enjoyed with favors going to Messrs. Wm. Lang and Wm. Ashton, Mrs. R. McEwen and Miss R. Cassie. The refreshments were served by Mrs. Lang, Mrs. Ernest Beatty, Mrs. R. Hetherington and Mrs. John Zolyomy.

DID YOU KNOW?

Practically any fruit stain can be removed from clothing by washing the fabric in cold water and rubbing thoroughly. Another method is to stretch the stained portion of the material over a bowl and pour boiling water through it. Stains from dark red or purple berries are the hardest to remove, and if you use soap the stains set still more.

W.I. Protests Use Made Of Sir John A's Home

LAKEFIELD —(ENS)— Mrs. Howard Bullock, president, was in the chair for the meeting of the Women's Institute in Memorial Hall on Wednesday afternoon. The roll call was answered by 20 members.

Mrs. Alfred Dunford reported a balance on hand of $203.75.

Mrs. Clarence Foster reported on the annual picnic which was held in August at Prince Edward County, and Mrs. Bullock and Mrs. Theo. Nichols were appointed delegates to the Area Convention in Toronto in November.

On the trip to P.E. County, it was noticed, with regret, that the home of Sir John A. Macdonald had not been preserved as a public memorial, but was being used as a hen house. It was decided that a letter of protest would be forwarded from the Institute to the proper authorities regarding this matter.

The exhibit from the Institute at the Lakefield Fair and Peterborough Exhibition will be in charge of Mrs. J. McKerchar, who will be assisted by Mrs. Roy Farrow and Mrs. T. Payton. Mrs. J. Moore will be responsible for the exhibit at the Norwood Fair.

Plans for the public speaking contest, sponsored by the organization were discussed, and Mrs. C. Foster, Mrs. Moore and Mrs. Farrow were a committee named to be in charge of same.

Mrs. S. E. White presided for the program part of the meeting, which was the Agricultural one and gave an interesting paper on "Apples." She also read a humorous poem and conducted a contest, the winners of which were Mrs. A. Dunford and Mrs. Robert Charlton.

Tea hostesses were Mrs. Foster, Mrs. Evie Dunford and Mrs. Moore.

Marmora IODE Plans Dance In November

MARMORA (ENS)—Marmora Chapter IODE held its September meeting Thursday evening with Mrs. J. M. Brownlie acting as regent in the absence of the regent Mrs. H. Renie.

It was announced that the annual convention of the order will be held in St. Catharines.

Miss M. Savage read the acknowledgement of food parcels from overseas. A letter of thanks for the Chapter's donation to the Artificial Ice Fund was read. Mrs. Borland reported the sending of articles for Grecian relief.

The treasurer's report revealed that net proceeds from the booth operated by the chapter at Marmora Fair amounted to approximately $60.

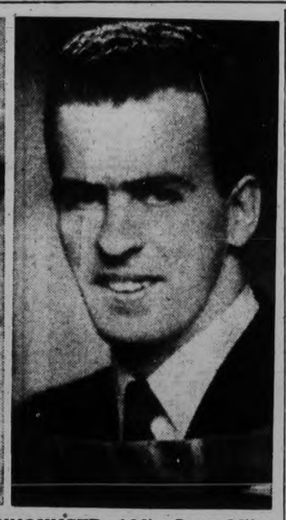
Mrs. R. G. Walsh reported on the curtains at Marmora High School. Samples of Christmas cards were on display and it was requested that orders be given as soon as possible.

Futher attention was drawn to the cooking school to be held in the Plaza Theatre September 17-18. Its advertising was planned as Well as other arrangements being made for its desired success.

A bridge tournament was discussed and the decision made to start it as early as possible and to follow the procedure of last year.

The question of the annual banquet and presentation of annual reports was discussed. It was decided to have the annual meeting in Februray and the banquet at some other time when husbands of members could be invited.

The final business dealth with a proposed formal dance. It was moved and seconded that the event take place either at the end of October or the beginning of November and that half of the proceeds go to the artifical ice fund.



THE ENGAGEMENT IS ANNOUNCED of Miss Inger Mikkelsen of Peterborough, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arne Mikkelsen of Copenhagen, Denmark, to Dr. H. R. Kidd of Hamilton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Everitt Kidd of Peterborough. The marriage will take place Saturday, October 10th, in the Murray Street Baptist Church.

Winston Churchills Hold 45th Wedding Anniversary

By DON STAINSBY

LONDON (Reuters)—On a late summer afternoon just 45 years ago today an eligible Edwardian bachelor named Winston Spencer Churchill walked down the aisle of London's St. Margaret's Church with Miss Clementine Hozier.

On that day, Churchill wrote later, he "married and lived happily ever after. . . with a being incapable of an ignoble thought."

Sir Winston, near 79, and Lady Churchill, 68, are to mark their anniversary today by attending the St. Leger classic horse race as guests of the Queen and later will spend the week-end at the Queen's Scottish home.

During the 45 years of their marriage, Lady Churchill has concentrated on being housewife, hostess and helpmate.

RUNS THREE HOMES

At the moment she is running three homes—the prime minister's two official residences and their own country estate at Chartwell. She also entertains the prime minister's important guests, listens to his speeches before he delivers them, and has supported him on the platform during campaigns.

She considers keeping Sir Winston fed to be one of her main activities. She once jokingly made up a list of instructions for her husband's care in case she died first.

"First and most important is feed him well," she said.

To see whether his addresses hold a listener, Churchill records his major speeches, plays them back and watches his wife's reaction.

Homewwork Can Be Fun In Efficient Study Areas

Now that school vacations are over, many mothers are wondering how to help Junior get higher grades next year. And many are missing an easy chance to help raise their small fry from C to A students by neglecting improvements in home study areas.

Psychologists say a child's surroundings and equipment can have an important effect on his school work. Most schools afford pleasant study surroundings and modern equipment. But some school work is done at home and, unfortunately, many home "study halls" are neither pleasant nor well equipped.

The mother who closely examines her child's study area and does something to improve it may be pleasantly surprised at mid-terms by the improvements in her youngster's marks.

Study space often is a problem in the average home. The dining room or kitchen table is the most frequently used study spot. But their poor light and bad location—amidst the main stream of household traffic—make them highly undesirable. Any student with a desk of his own, even a simple, homemade one, generally has some advantage over the "dining room pupil."

The preferred arrangement, of course, is a desk in the child's room. If a regulation student's desk can't be had, an old table sawed to the proper height, or an easily constructed drop-shelp will suffice.

Whether the desk is a miniature executive's layout of a hand-made corner built-in, it should meet certain standards. As a guide to the proper size and equipment of desks, study the following standards:

Desk tops should be at least two by four feet in area and 25 to 30 inches from the floor, depending on the child's size. The chair, straight-backed, should be high enough to bring the student's eyes 14 inches above the desk top.

Illumination should get special attention because of the danger of eyestrain. Lamps should be about two feet high with semi-direct lighting, a high-wattage bulb and a good-size shade. If a table lamp is used, it should be to the left and slightly forward from the back of the desk. Student lamps in the centre of the desk should be of the long fluorescent variety.

The desk should not have a shiny surface. A large pastel blotter will reduce glare (and save the finish). Such equipment as fountain pens, pencils, paper and reference books should be stored in special compartments for orderliness and convenience.

A dip pen of the reservoir type is recommended. One model of this type has the added advantage of being non-spillable, even when overturned.

A final suggestion: Don't put the desk in front of a window. Best location is flush against a wall with good artificial light provided, since most studying is done at night.

Actually, what you do to improve your child's study area depends on its size, location and decor. But if a close inspection convinces you it needs improving, improve it. Come February, both you and your youngster may be very glad you did.

Library Assistant Advises: Plan Tour; Travel Alone

A word of advice for those who may now be regretting that they did not take that longed for trip to Europe this summer comes from Miss Muriel Preston who just returned early this week.

She feels that a most enjoyable and a more thoroughly satisfying trip can be arranged by oneself, with the help of a booking agency and that there is much more to be gained of broadening experience by travelling alone.

By making her own arrangements, in advance of course, Miss Preston was able to pursue her own tastes in the arts to a much greater extent than a conducted tour would allow. For instance, she saw 15 plays in all; ten in London and five in Edinburgh where she also heard an opera on the Festival program, and she attended a Danish ballet in London.

There was just one thing went wrong. She overbooked herself and had tickets for two plays on one night.

She is also a lover of painting. Having toured the art gallerys in London where every type of painting can be seen, she went over to Holland and in Le Hague became enthusiastic about Dutch art as displayed in the country of its origin.

Miss Preston would also advise tour-planners not to overlook Holland. She found it a most pleasant holiday place, with prices low and plenty to see and do. One of her side tours was to what are called "The Costume Islands" where the people dress and live exactly as they did several hundreds of years ago. Nowhere else did the Dutch wear their traditional costumes unless for some special event.

Because of the rail strike she did not go into France and so spent one day and night in Brussels which is considered "another Paris," bristling with exciting night life. Having a little extra time then, she went to Geneva, Switzerland, in addition to Bern. This was the only country where she had any language trouble at all and then only slight. Having only high school French, and not even a French dictionary along, made things a little difficult at Bern, but at Geneva it was mostly German spoken and on signs, etc. and she had never studied this language at all.

However ,Miss Preston stresses that no one need hold back from going to the continent because of the languages. In all hotels and places of interest to sight-seers, and in big restaurants, there is always someone who can speak English, she says.

Planning and ordering meals in various countries was quite fun too, she found. She didn't always like what she got, and she thought Europeans ate too often, except when she didn't have time to eat before the plays in Edinburgh and couldn't find a restaurant open afterward. The English amazed her by walking around eating out of boxes of candy, but this may have been because it came off the ration list so recently.

The nicest part of travelling alone was associating with interesting people from other parts of the world, Miss Preston found. Nearly always someone would join her at a meal or come to talk to her on a tour.

But living out of a suitcase, and junketing around in strange places can tire one cosiderably, and she is glad to be back at her desk in the Public Library, checking in new books. She's glad too that she missed the Canadian heat wave. Weather on her trip was perfect—only three days of rain in a month—though she did run into a heat wave in England. This serves to emphasize not only the beauty, but the number of parks in London and the extent to which they are used, everyone carrying around a folding camp stool so they can sit down no matter how crowded.

Millbrook Women Hold Tea, Sales At Powell Home

MILLBROOK— (ENS)— The Golden Links Mission Circle of St. Andrew's United Church held a tea, home-baking, parcel post and African violet sale at the home of Mrs. Ernest Powell on Wednesday.

The tables for home baking, sale of plants, home-made candy and parcel post sale, were set up on the lawn. In charge of home-baking were Miss Mayne Skitch, Mrs. Eric Fallis, and Mrs. George Sedgewick, at the plant table were Mrs. Earl Armstrong and Mrs. Henry Gray. Mrs. Cecil Hubbeard sold the parcel post packages which caused much amusement among the patrons old and young. Mrs. Homer Ouellette and Miss Betty Lunn were in charge of the homemade candy, with girls from Mrs. Herbert patton's and Mrs. Ouellette's Sunday school classes taking turns doing the selling.

Mrs. M. E. Hobbs, Circle president, welcomed the guests at the tea-room door. Mrs. W. E. Ball honorary president, and the Rev. Margaret Butler poured tea. Serving were Mrs. Clarence Ball, Mrs. Aubrey Fallis, Mrs. Lavern Gibson, and Miss Betty Lunn, Mrs. Bruce Dawson and Miss Edith Shepard replenished the plates and Mrs. David Lunn made tea. Mrs. Alex Gilbert, circle treasurer was cashier for the tea tables. During the tea hour Mrs. G. A. Spicer played the piano. Mrs. Homer Ouellette used her car to bring guests to the tea.

There were guests present from Peterborough, Port Hope, Bewdley, Bailieboro, Cavan, Ida, and Centreville.

The committee in charge of the tea consisted of Mrs. Ernest Powell, Mrs. Arnold Fallis, Mrs. Homer Ouellette, Mrs. T. Wideman and Miss Marjorie Skitch. Proceeds are to go to help with the renovation of the church.

Millbrook News

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Smith were the guests last week of her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Acton of Detroit.

Miss Jean Smith spent the holiday weekend at a young people's camp at Bancroft.

Mrs. Chester Fisher spent the holiday weekend in Niagara Falls.

Mr. and Mr Robert Widdess of Vancouver, B.C. and Mr. Norman O. Philp of Whitby visited their cousin, Miss Mary L. Widdis on Thursday.

On Wednesday evening friends and neighbours living on Anne Street met at the home of Mrs. Chester Fisher for a farewell and presentation to Mr. and Mrs. Henry Gray. Mr. and Mrs. Gray are leaving early next week to make their home in Picton. Mrs. P. I. Bentley read an address and Miss Josie Sutton made the presentation of a trifite lamp. The Rev. Margaret Butler was chairman for the following program—piano solos by Loreen Guthrie and Patricia Peebles, a vocal duet by Lenore and Jane Ouellette, and a reading by Mrs. Chester Fisher. In the old-fashioned flowers contest Mr. Gray had high score for men, and Mrs. Gray the high one for ladies. Refreshments were served by the committee in charge, Mrs. Fisher, Mrs. Bentley, Miss Sutton, Mrs. Bruce Dawson and Mrs. Homer Ouellette.

Fur trimming is seen on dresses as well as on suits this fall. Some of this trimming is detachable (fox cuffs, for instance), giving it a greater use in the wardrobe.

SHOES FOR TEEN-AGERS—Canadian shoe manufacturers are catering to the style-conscious teen-age set this fall and winter, as is evidenced by some of the new styles now appearing in the stores. Here is a honey beige single strap shoe with white star trim on vamp and back of heel. Ideal for that very best pair of dress shoes.

Make The Shoe Fit The Loot

"My feet are a wreck—and it's the fault of the shoe salesmen." That's the blistering answer one lady recently gave a shoe industry pollster who was making a survey of customer complaints.

Although this lady was likely exaggerating, the survey found that 85 per cent of the women queried were not too happy with the treatment their feet received from the country's shoe clerks.

Actually, you are the best judge as to whether the shoe fits. And to make sure you won't be hobbling, follow a few simple rules laid down by the experts, when you go to buy those new fall shoes.

Generally, one recommendation is that you make certain your shoes are all-leather—top and bottom. The unique natural fibres in leather make it supple, yet tough, so that it supports the foot and molds itself to the foot's contours—without binding. However, even the very best leather shoe must fit properly, if you are to be comfortable. So keep these points in mind when you enter the shoe store:

1. The sales clerk should measure both your feet—they probably are not the same size, and you should be fitted for the larger one.

2. Don't be misled by a salesman who, in response to your anguished complaints, tells you, "They'll be fine when you've broken them in." Shoes that have to be "broken in" are usually shoes that do not fit.

3. The fit should be snug, but not cramped; three-quarters of an inch between the toes and tip of the shoe is ideal, with enough ease across the foot to permit the leather to be humped up slightly with your fingers. You need a firm counter at the heel that hugs the foot, especially if you're purchasing high heels. Constant slipping of the foot at the heel will give rise to bumps and calluses.

4. If your feet have a tendency to swell, never buy shoes in the morning. An accurate fit early in the day may be too tight by afternoon.

5. Remember, foot doctors stress genuine all-leather shoes for active everyday wear. Some shoe materials do not provide proper ventilation, and may cause excessive perspiration.

Incidentally, the same pair of shoes should not be worn two days in succession. Give them a chance to "air out."

Corduroy Easy To Hand Wash

BY ALICIA HART

Printed corduroy is among the season's fashion favorites and its washing requirements are so simple that it probably will be among your favorites for many seasons.

Gentle washing in soapy water, careful drying and brushing are the important steps. First be sure that linings and trimmings are washable, too.

Here are a few dont's too remember:

Don't soak or rub the fabric because this will mat the pile.

Don't wring after rinsing.

Don't dry over a line or rod because either will leave a ridge. Use regular clothes hangers.

When you hang the corduroys to dry staighten seams and close zippers. Then pull the fabric gently in the direction of the wales.

The garment should be brushed when it is almost dry. Brush in the direction of the pile, following the lines of the wales, to restore the corduroy's fluffy texture.

If the garment dries before you get to it with the brush, steam it on the right or wrong side with a steam iron held just above the material. Or spread a damp pressing cloth over the garment and hold a hot iron about one-quarter inch above the surface.

Challenges CWL To Carry Flag

TIMMINS (CP)—Bishop W. J. Smith of Pembroke, provincial director of the Catholic Women's League, Friday night challenged the CWL to "carry the flag of Christ and the flag of the country always."

Bishop Smith, in addressing the more than 300 delegates to the sixth provincial convention of the league, said the CWL has a record "second to none in Canada" for its contribution to the welfare of country and Christianity.

Catherine Toal of London, Ont., provincial president, said the league stands for "everything good."

"Our organization stands ready at all times to see that God is kept in his proper place in our government," she said.

Of Interest to Women

DOROTHY DIX:

Wife Finds Her Mother Too Eager To Give Advice

DEAR MISS DIX: My mother is a wonderful woman who is happily married, with three grown children. So successful has she been in rearing a family that she is frequently asked for advice from relatives and friends. Now, she has become accustomed to handing out counsel whether it's requested or not.

This is my problem. My husband and I live in the same town with my parents, and I am the only one of their children so close how to take care of baby, how to grandchild in the family. Mother has formed a tendency to tell me to take care of the baby, how to run the house, how to handle my husband, etc. I feel very resentful and am afraid if it continues, we'll run into serious trouble. As yet there has been no strife, no misunderstandings, in fact. Outwardly our whole family relationship is fine. Inside, however, I am seething and feel that I'll break out any day. How can I avoid the trouble I fear?

SUE M.

A DESIRE TO BE HELPFUL

ANSWER: You are apparently more concerned with adjusting your own temperatment to accept mother's advice, or at least listening to it, than you are with changing her—and I think you have the right angle. Your mother's attitude doesn't seem to be one of officiousness, or intrusion, but rather of a sincere desire to help, born of her own outstanding success in maintaining a well-ordered home. There can be no doubt that at least some of her ideas could be adapted by you, and your resentment should be conquered with the frank admission (to yourself at least) that you can profit by her suggestions.

Right now you are convinced that all you need in the world is your husband and baby. This spirit of complete self-sufficiency will last for awhile, as it does with all young married couples, but the time will come when you realize that a family unit, to be completely successful, must spread out to embrace other people, other opinions, than those held within your own four walls.

At present you need no outside help, advice, or companionship. This is the usual status of a family of three in good circumstances. Suppose illness enters your home, or another baby or two follow the present cherub in short order? Don't you think that a loving family standing by would be welcome? Your own description of your mother belies her status as an interloper; try to accept her on a more friendly basis. Also suggest to her, that since she did such a fine job raising you to independence, you'd like a chance to exercise it. Ask her to withhold all advice for a week to see how you come through alone, then make it a month, and so on.

DEAR MISS DIX: After being a widower for several years, I am considering remarriage to a lady named Florence. She has been married three times, and the only fault I have to find with her is that she likes to go out a lot. I have no objection to going out occasionally, but I do like to stay home most of the time. Can I break her of the habit?

R.B.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Since three husbands before you have tried, and failed, to make a home-loving wife of Florence, your chances of success certainly don't look very bright. You'd be a foolish man, indeed to marry a woman with her inclinations.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: In 1926 I married a widower with six children. At the time I was 28, and I did by best to be a good stepmother to the family. The children soon came to love me as their own mother, and our family life was very happy. Then, two years ago, I discovered my husband had been having an affair with another woman for several years. He refuses to give her up, though he doesn't want me to leave him, and his children have all turned against him.

MRS. BETH V.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: You must have been a very good mother to the children for them to champion you against their father in this crisis. Their devotion should do a good deal to sustain you through the emotional stress of your husband's infidelity. There is very little chance that he'll break with the other woman after all these years. Obviously, the reason he wants to stay is to provide a home for him, which apparently the other lady is not willing to do. Take a vacation for a while, and let him see how well he does without you to cater to his creature comforts.

NO AGE LIMIT

The age of a woman has nothing to do with the kind of perfume she likes. The mature woman may like something dashing and exciting while the twenty-year-old may like a conservative light scent . . . or vice versa. It's like color. Some women like pastels, others prefer bright, vibrant colors.

DID YOU KNOW . . .?

Fears that water containing chlorine is injurious to house plants and cut flowers are groundless. Growing plants are not injured when water containing 50 parts chlorine per one million parts of water is applied. Concentrations of chlorine commonly used in water supply systems are less than this.

Meet With Principal

CAVAN — (ENS)—The parents of the upper school pupils of Millbrook High School and members of the Durham County High School area board for Millbrook and Cavan met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Argue Tuesday evening to meet Mr. George Young of Leamington who has been engaged as principal of Millbrook High School.

Mr. Young who was introduced by L. Winslow, gave a very interesting talk expressing his opinion in favor of the smaller school where pupils come in closer contact with their teachers and long tedious bus trips are avoided. On the bus the pupils are without supervision for long periods of time and are absolutely without discipline. They arrive home too weary to do justice to their home studies.

Mr. Young who has had several years experience teaching in the larger schools feels that he can do a better job for the teen-age pupil by teaching in a smaller school.

Mr. Belch and H. Kent spoke briefly, cordially welcoming Mr. Young to the community. Mr. Kent outlined the value of cadet training on the high school curriculum.

Miss E. Kent, Mrs. N. Belch and Mrs. H. Patton assisted the hostess to serve lunch.

Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Humphries, Maurene and Darwen visited with the former's brother, Mr. Hamilton Humphries and Mrs. Humphries. Master Paul returned home with his parents.

Mrs. Anna Collins is teaching at the Cobourg Road School; Miss Catherine Convey, who had taught there for eight years, is teaching at Young's Point.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Jones spent Wednesday in Toronto.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Readers' Saturday Column

QUESTION: I have just stacks of your recipes but fail to have the ones I need. . . .one is for Pickled Carrots. In replying please state how these appear in the jars (whole, upright, etc.) . . . also a similar recipe for Pickled Corn Cobs, and how they appear when bottled. Third a good recipe for Pickled onions. I have done these successfully, but lately they turn and do not appear snow white. I am using the wrong vinegar? I have used both brown and white but no luck. Have you a recipe for Sweet Dill Pickles? Lastly a good recipe for Cocoanut Macaroons. Anxiously waiting as this is my Fall Fair list.

Mrs. W. R.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: My goodness. You are ambitious. I am forwarding recipe for Pickled Corn Cobs to you. It appeared on this page September 8th. Also recipe for Pickled Onions which appeared on this page August 20th. The pickled corn cobs are arranged upright. To fill in the centre of the jar while you do this make a cylinder of a piece of stiff brown paper about 1½ inches in diameter and about the lenght of the cobs. Slip it into the jar and stand it on bottom. Fit the cobs around the jar outside of it. Then fill it up with cobs then slip it up and out. They must be packed in rather tightly to make them stay erect. Repeat this for the next row. Tiny red peppers or slivers of pimiento are pretty in both of these products for show purposes.

PICKLED CARROTS

Use uniformly small carrots of 3 inches or 4 inches. When they are scrubbed and trimmed weigh 2 lbs. Cook until barely tender in very little water. Drain. Make a syrup of 1 cup sugar, ½ cup water, 1½ cups vinegar. 1 teaspoon whole cloves, 4 inches stick cinnamon and 1½ teaspons salt by boiling together for 5 minutes. Add the carrots and cook until translucent. Carefully lift out of syrup and pack in upright position (see above for tiny corn cobs) or in circles in jar. Pour over hot syrup and seal.

I do not have the recipe for Sweet Dill Pickles but I have one for Candied Dills. It is short so I will give it to you on the chance it may be right. If readers have a recipe for Sweet Dill Pickles I would be most grateful if they would mail it to me.

CANDIED DILLS

One quart jar commercially or home canned dills, 2 cups white sugar, 1 cup vinegar, ½ cup whole pickling spices. Wash the dills in cold water. Cut them lengthwise in quarters. Bring vinegar, sugar and spices to a boil. Pour over dills. Let stand overnight, bring to boil for 2 more consecutive nights and pour over pickles. Pour into jar and store covered—usually in refrigerator. The pickling spices should be tied in a bag.

COCOANUT MACAROONS

Three egg whites, ¾ cup fruit sugar, 1½ cups shredded cocoanut, 1 teaspoon vanilla. Beat the egg whites until stiff, then gradually add ½ cup of the sugar and continue beating until mixture holds its shape. Sift remaining sugar over top and lightly fold it in. Fold in flavoring and cocoanut. Drop from a wet teaspoon onto buttered baking sheet. Bake at 250 deg. Fahr. for about 20 or 30 minutes or until delicately tinged with gold.

✧ ✧ ✧

QUESTION: . . . the raised doughnut recipe of over a year ago was especially good and I have made it dozens of times. Please put a relish recipes in your column. I lost my copy which appeared in August or September of 1951 . . . tasty on hot dogs . . . ingredients wer cabbage, onions, green and red peppers, green tomatoes, cucumbers all put through grinder.—M. P.

✧ ✧ ✧

QUESTION: (from Tina and Betty M. T. came for a similar relish recipe.)

ANSWER: Two cups each chopped onion, cabbage, green pepper, 4 cups each chopped green tomtoes and cucumbers, 1 cup chopped sweet red pepper, ½ cup salt, 6 cups vinegar, 4 cups sugar, 2 teaspoons dry mustard, ½ teaspoon turmeric, 2 teaspoons paprika. Chop vegetables in food chopper or by knife finely, and mix them together. Sprinkle them with ½ cup salt and let stand overnight. Drain well, pressing out all liquid. Add vinegar, sugar and spices, bring to boil and cook slowly for 1 hour. Pour into hot, sterilized jars and seal.

LETTER: Tell the lady that has the trouble of her cakes falling out of the pan after being inverted, to boil her cake tin in hot sudsy water, and if they still fall out, to wash out her oven with the same. Any bits of grease from roasts, etc., can cause it to fall out, or if the pan has ever been greased. I had the same trouble years ago. First I boiled the pan and still they dropped, until I scoured the inside of the oven. I had used it for frying pork sausage and too much grease had adhered to the oven. I'm sure she will have no more trouble if she does what I did, and never grease your angel food or sponge cake pans.—Mrs. F. R.

ANSWER: This is certainly a highly practical solution, and I thank you for it and hope our reader who had the difficulty sees your letter.

LETTER: I notice you say there is no difference between "icing" and "powdered" sugar. Well, there used to be. We buy icing sugar here, but I've never seen powdered sugar in the stores in this small town, but years ago my husband sold Queen bees, and for such we had to make "candy" to put in their cages when we mailed them, for them to eat on the way. Now for this we bought powdered sugar in 20 or 24-lb. wooden boxes, from the sugar company. Icing sugar would not do. The icing sugar hesembles starch in texture, while powdered sugar is more like sand. It does have a grain, though so fine it is hardly noticeable.—Edne May M.

ANSWER: You people are wonderful coming through with such technical information. I have never been a beckeeper, and was delighted to hearofoceorsmmnscv delighted to hear from someone who has had experience. Thank you.

QUESTION: Have had good success in using your recipes. There is one I want—"unbaked cookies." Thank you.—Mrs. H. S.

QUESTION: Have written before and you have always been so kind and from other letters there are a great many you help. I was wondering if you have any cookie recipes you don't have to bake . . . some kind you mix up and drop or roll and put in refrigerator or mix in a hot syrup. — Mrs. C. D.

ANSWER: I think the following will suit you two girls perfectly.

VANILLA QUICKIES

(Contributed by Mrs. C. W.)

Bring to ful lrolling boil and let boil ½ minute 2 cups white sugar, ½ cup oleomargarine, ½ cup milk, 1 teaspoon vanilla, mixed together. Quickly add 3 oz. cocoanut (1¼ cups), ½ to ½

Smart Set Shop

Our Position Regarding Friday Night Opening

Smart Set Shop Ltd. wishes to remain open Friday night simply because we really do believe our customers would prefer to shop Friday night rather than Saturday, and if we are wrong, then we'll be the first to admit it and return to former hours.

As far as present Store Hours are concerned, Smart Set Shop Ltd. is now operating on a shorter hourly week than previously.

The Smart Set Shop Ltd. feels that this is just the beginning of a new era in retail merchandising. The time is not too far distant when most stores will close on Saturdays; we'll enjoy a 35-hour week or less, wages will be higher, and everyone will have the opportunity of living better and longer.

2 Brockville People Killed In Accidents

BROCKVILLE (CP) — Two Brockville persons were fatally injured in separate traffic accidents Friday night.

William McDonald, 57, was knocked down by a car as he stepped from a bus. He died in hospital early today.

Vera Jones, 17, suffered severe injuries on a road seven miles north of here and died later in hospital. William Dalling, 19, driver of the car in which the girl was riding, was taken to hospital with a broken leg and other injuries.

Put following in heavy saucepan: ½ cup milk, ½ cup oleomargarine, 2 cups white sugar, 6 tablespoons cocoa. Mix and bring to full rolling boil. Take from fire at once and add 3 cups rolled oats, 1 cup coarse cocoanut, mixing well. Drop from teaspoon on waxed paper immediately. Let set.

Veteran Red Purged

BERLIN (AP)—Veteran Communist Elli Schmidt was purged Friday as head of the Soviet zone women's organization on charges of having failed to defend efficiently the interests of the women and of the people in the days of the Fascist provocation."

IF YOUR CHILD breaks an ornament, are the pieces swept up and the mishap not mentioned? How do you encourage a love of truth in your child? These are two important things to ask yourself in every small family.

For Parents Only

Children Find Road To Love Of Truth A Real Long One

By NANCY CLEAVER

"George," said his father, "do you know who killed that beautiful little cherry tree yonder in the garden?"...Looking at his father, he bravely cried out, "I can't tell a lie. I did cut it with my hatchet."

This is from "The Life of George Washington with Curious Anecdotes Equally Honorable to Himself and Exemplary to His Young Countrymen," written by Mason Loche Weems (1759-1825).

Modern parents often feel that their child appears to have much less regard for the truth than this famous American. Why is the road to a real love of truth such a long one? How is it that so many youngsters have lapses of small dishonesties, even petty thieving and then lying to cover up their wrong doing? Why will a child who has accidentally broken an ornament in the living room, sweep up the pieces and say nothing when mother asks about it?

Some parents try to encourage truthfulness by punishing lightly or not at all the child who "fesses up," and punishing heavily if he deceives them. This system often seems to work for a time, but there is a wiser method. A child can be helped to accept the fact that truth may cause immediate trouble, but in the long run it pays. He who loves the truth can bear temporary inconvenience or even suffering for truth's sake.

NOT TEMPTED TO LIE

Parents must also be careful that their standards of behaviour are within the reach of the child at each stage of his growth. Then he will not be tempted to lie from fear fo punishment, or fear of disappointing his parents. Too high standards in honesty or in any other department may lead to trouble. Do not leave a cookie tin within reach of a hungry child, forbid him to help himself, and then leave him alone with temptation!

There is the story of a boy who handed in an essay which had been largely copied from a book. The teacher had said if anyone in the class could cheat and live with himself, she could do nothing about it. The boy sadly remarked, "To cheat and live with myself is tough, but to fail and live with mother is impossible." The child who is not straining to meet out-of-reach standards or unattainable goals is not tempted to deceive either himself or others to prove that he is far better than he actually is. Safe in his parents' love and appreciation, he can be objective and honest about his failures or misdeeds.

As children grow up parents find opportunities for positive training in truthfulness. Small children need repeated lessons in distinguishing fact from fancy, repeated satisfying experiences in telling the truth. Older children can be encouraged to enjoy the dictionary habit, to develop accuracy in observing and reporting. Both at home and at school, children should receive constant training in clear logical thinking. Idealistic teenagers can be encouraged in hero worship of men and women who told the truth in spite of difficulties.

UNDERMINE SOCIAL STRUCTURE

A general disregard for truth will undermine any social structure. We would have fewer divorces and a brighter international outlook today if the majority of men and women were convinced that this business of having a love for the truth is fundamental to the foundations of the home, of society, of the United Nations. The building of a brave new world is impossible without trust between classes and nations who have faith in each other's work.

The building of a happy marriage which will last is out of the question unless husband and wife can count on each other's integrity. The building of the character of children is on quicksand unless it is on the rock of truth and honor in the family circle. Truth is the foundation which is strong, enduring and essential for building which will last in the whole field of relationships between individuals or groups. "Speak the truth and shame the Devil" Rabelais said four centuries ago. The greatest Teacher of all time said, "The truth shall make you free". As parents, are we doing all we can by example and training to encourage our children to love the truth?

Experts Study Harnessing Sun For Power

By FRANK CAREY

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—Thirty-five of the world's foremost researchers on solar energy convened here today to "dream up" new approaches toward harnessing the sun for home and industrial heat and power.

The "sun men"—and one "sun woman"—will attempt to outline areas of further research best designed to allow future generations to tap the sun for such energy when "limited" sources of coal, gas and oil are exhausted. Up to now "nothing of substantial promise" in that field has been turned up, one of the conference officials said.

The conference announcement said nothing about future prospects for getting power from atomic fuels, but Dr. Farrington Daniels of the University of Wisconsin, chairman of the conference committee, said in a speech earlier this week that research on utilization of solar energy is needed because "the sun will still be going strong when all our chemical and nuclear fuels are exhausted."

GONE IN 1,000 YEARS

Daniels told the American Chemical Society in a Chicago speech that "according to optimistic guesses, in a few hundred years, or at best a couple of thousand," the world's supply of ordinary fuels will be nearly gone, with coal lasting the longest.

But he said also that the "atomic energy commission has stated that the world's energy resources of uranium exceed those of coal."

The three-day conference here—sponsored jointly by the University of Wisconsin and the National Science Foundation—will review research to date on such things as solar house heating, and sun-powered "engines," and will seek to point out "needed areas for basic research."

The sessions will be closed to the press, but a press conference has been scheduled for Sunday, and a summary may be issued Monday.

Fire Wipes Out Town

LA PAZ, Bolivia (Reuters)—A fire completely wiped out the Bolivian gold-mining township of Unutuluni, in the La Paz province Friday, leaving several thousand people homeless.

U.K. School Boys End Camping Trip In West

FORT ST. JAMES, B. C. (CP)—A group of 69 British school boys, tanned and toughened by five weeks camping in the northern British Columbia wilderness, have started the long journey home.

The boys, members of the British Schools Exploring Society, undertook the ambitious expedition to learn how to fend for themselves under difficult conditions.

Group leader Frank Hannell reported that the rugged area, some 600 miles north of Vancouver, proved "ideally suited" for their aims.

"Our stay in this most impressive country has been a character-forming experience that none of us will every forget," Mr. Hannell said.

HAD 11 MARCHES

The boys, aged 16 to 19, took part in 11 exploratory marches across densely-wooded terrain north of Stuart lake. Two parties reached the summit of Mount Sydney Williams, which rises 6,500 feet in the region north of Lake Trembleur.

The final test of endurance was a 116-mile hike exploring the unmapped region between Trembleur and Babine lakes, and the steep hills flanking the east shore of Babine.

The party making this 14-day trip was comprised of 15 specially selected boys, three leaders and a doctor.

Each member carried in his packsack his own personal requirements and a share of the party's food, tents and scientific equipment. Individual loads varied between 35 pounds on the shorter journeys to a maximum of 65 pounds on the long marches.

The group collected scientific data on their expeditions and Mr. Hannell said it is hoped that a detailed examination of the information will yield results of "real value."

WILL BE PUBLISHED

Hannell said full reports of some of the scientific work, together with detailed analysis of the results, will be offered later for publication in scientific journals.

The group did allow themselves a few modern conveniences. Radio sets loaned by the army and the B. C. forest service were used to communicate between camps.

The society was founded in 1932 by Dr. G. Murray Levick, formerly a surgeon with the 1912 Scott Antarctic expedition, and has taken English schoolboys on 15 exploratory trips to various parts of the world. Some 428 boys applied for the B. C. trip this year.

Born In Tweed Banker Dies

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Harold John Arbuckle, manager of the Tecumseh and Lincoln road branch of the Imperial Bank of Canada died Thursday after a lengthy illness.

Mr. Arbuckle, 37, was one of Windsor's best known bankers. For 30 years he served the Imperial Bank in Windsor.

Born in Tweed, Mr. Arbuckle joined the Imperial Bank in the Toronto district prior to the First World War.

Survivors include his widow, the former Margaret Dominey; his mother, Mrs. James Arbuckle of Belleville; and two sisters, Mrs. J. Wims of Belleville and Mrs. Fred Frederichson, Wetaskiwin, Alta.

Alert Bank Manager Brings Trio's Arrest

MOOSE CREEK, Ont. (CP)—Alertness of a woman bank manager, police said, resulted in the arrest Friday of three Montreal youths in connection with the theft of an automobile from a Cornwall man.

Arrested were Robert Belanger, 18, Leonard McDuff, 18, and Marshall Heffler, 23. They have been charged with automobile theft by Cornwall police.

The branch manager, Miss Elaine Monkland, was suspicious of the men when two of them entered the bank to ask road directions. She gave provincial police the licence number and the men were stopped at a road block at nearby Wendover.

Moose Creek is 35 miles southeast of Ottawa.

Boycott Perfumes

CAIRO (AP)—The newly-organized Arab "feminine front" has called on all Arab women to boycott French perfumes in protest against France's policies in North Africa. The front comprises women's associations of the Middle East and is headed by Doria Shafik, a leading Egyptian advocate of votes for women.

Forgot Piano

MEXICO CITY (AP)—The Palace of Fine Arts was packed and pianist Arthur Rubinstein was on hand and ready to give his widely advertised concert. Then the event was postponed Thursday night . . . no piano. Someone forgot to round up a crew to bring the piano from the basement and last-minute efforts to raise it by elevator failed.

Arrest 91 Delegates

TEHRAN (AP)—Police were reported to have arrested 91 Iranian Communist delegates to the recent Red youth congress in Bucharest as they disembarked from a Soviet ship at the port of Bandar Pahlevi last Friday night. Following their visit to Communist - ruled Romania's capital, the group had been wined and dined by Red leaders in Moscow, the police said.

U.S. TURNS DOWN CHINA'S PEACE TALKS

Quake Rocks Suva, Then Tidal Wave

Buildings Damaged, Power Cut In Sudden Shock

SUVA, Fiji Islands (Reuters) —Falling masonry and a tidal wave claimed at least two victims today in a terrifying earthquake which rocked Suva.

More deaths are feared among fishermen caught in the tidal wave, which followed three minutes behind the quake and swept through the harbor to the side of the Grand Pcaific Hotel where the Queen will stay during her visit in December.

First reported victims were a Chinese killed while sheltering in an Indian Sikh temple near here and an Indian child drowned at the coastal town of Nasese.

The shocks began at 12:30 p. m. local time. Three minutes later, while frightened crowds were still pouring into the streets, the tidal wave bulged over the coral reef at the entrance to the harbor and swept through the harbor itself.

Hundreds ran for the high ground as the wave rushed over the reclaimed land along Suva's main thoroughfare. Then it receded, leaving a thick deposit of mud, sand and debris in buildings along the waterfront.

ROADS BUCKLE

Roads cracked and buckled, the customs house tilted and a number of yachts and small craft were swamped.

The earthquake wrecked power works and disrupted the electricity supply. Telephones were out of action.

Many concrete buildings showed gaping fissues in their walls and a two-storey block of stores and offices was split as though by a giant chopper.

The earthquake occurred at low tide which minimized the flooding in the wharf area which was deva-

Britain Calls For Parley On Italy's Plea For Plebiscite In Trieste

ROME (AP)—Britain called today for consultations with the U.S. and France on Italy's new plea for a plebiscite on explosive Trieste which Yugoslavia's President Tito already has rejected. A British foreign office spokesman in London told a press conference recent statements by Tito and Italian Premier Gieuseppe Pella created a "new situation" in the old feud over rival claims to the Trieste free territory. He said the three Western powers will have to consider this, together with Pella's proposal for a conference on the subject.

Even as Pella was making his proposal in Rome, Tito declared in the Adriatic port city of Split:

"We are against a plebiscite now because of the policy of denationalization by Mussolini. First the injustices should be repaired. Then, after 10 to 15 years we could see. The people could freely decide about its future."

DISGUISE AMBITIONS

Borba, official organ of Tito's regime, charged that Pella had revived the old plebiscite proposal only to disguise Italy's ambitions for territorial expansion.

The Yugoslavs are well aware that Italy would have the advantage in such a vote, since about 70 per cent of the territory's 380,000 people are Italian. The Yugoslavs long have charged that Mussolini shoved out more than 100,000 Slovenes and replaced them with Italians i, a program of "denationalization."

Pella proposed a free plebiscite of all people in the territory — part of which is occupied by Yugoslav troops and the other part, including the port city of Trieste, by American and British troops— to determine whether the whole area should be handed over to Italy or Yugoslavia.

AT THE SAME TIME xx para 4 pvs.

REJECTS PROPOSAL

At the same time he flatly rejected Yugoslav President Tito's proposal a week ago to internationalize the port city of Trieste and give the surrounding rural territory to Yugoslavia.

The northern part of the territory, including the port, now is occupied by British and U.S. troops. Italy assists in its joint administration. The southern district—Zone B—is occupied by Yugoslav troops.

Tito, speaking Sunday to a crowd of 150,000 in the Adriatic city of Split, warned the Italians they would "break their heads" against a stone wall of Yugoslav resistance if they attempted to seize Trieste by force.

Britain Backs Allies Against Reds

Delegates Expecting Another UN Oratorical Battle

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. — (AP)—Tension built up again in the United Nations today as explosive new debate became a certainty in the wake of Communist China's demands for a "round-table" Korean peace conference.

The United States at once emphatically rejected the Peiping proposals, made in a long telegram Sunday from the Chinese premier-foreign minister, Chou En-lai, to UN Secretary-General Dg Hammarskjold.

With the UN General Assembly opening Tuesday, delegates prepared for another oratorical battle over Chou's demands that Russia, India, Burma, Pakistan and Indonesia be invited to the peace conference as "neutrals." And that Red China and North Korea be invited to send representatives to the UN assembly "to discuss the question of enlarging the membership of the political conference."

WON'T BACK DOWN

U. S. Assistant State Secretary Robert Murphy voiced the American rejection, telling the American Association for the United Nations in a speech in New York that the American plan for a two-sided conference must be carried out. The assembly approved this plan 43-5 last month.

Murphy said the U.S. government "sees no reason whatever" for new assembly debate on the conference make-up, or for inviting the Red Chinese to the assembly. But delegates generally felt the question would break into the open soon after the body elects its officers and organizes for what is supposed to be a three-month session.

Qualified quarters said the United States, rather than risk having no peace conference at all, would withdraw its opposition to renewed debate.

State Secretary Dulles arrived Sunday night to attend the assembly opening and huddle with Murphy.

Tis morning's session of the delegation at the U.S. mission headquarters was the first time that the new delegates—Governor James E. Byrnes, Henry Ford II, Representatives Frances P Bolton (Rep.-O.) and James P. Richards

BRITAIN BACKS

Blizzard Strikes Timmins, Damage Heavy

TIMMINS, Ont. (CP)—A snowstorm reaching almost mid-winter blizzard proportions Saturday night and early Sunday caused thousands of dollars damage to hydro lines, telephone lines and trees in the Timmins district.

Following hard on the heels of 30 hours of continuous rain, the heavy wet snow snapped hydro poles and wires, brought down lofty trees, some as thick as a man's wrist, and plugged the main arteries of Timmins with its weight by 6 a.m. Sunday.

Residents said the storm was the worst in memory to hit the area at this time of year. Hydro and telephone companies crews started to work as soon as morning light permitted. Crews of town employees began early Sunday to clear away tree branches felled by the snow which blocked streets and sidewalks to traffic.

The snow continued until almost noon.

The Porcupine area seemed hardest hit of all northern Ontario communities. To the east Iroquois Falls and Ansonville were soaked by rain but escaped the heavy snow. By the time the snow stopped in the Porcupine area it had reached a depth of from 4 to 6 inches.

Thieves Get Surprise

GRAVENHURST (CP) — Safecrackers who underestimated the strength of their explosive caused $2,000 damage at a dairy here Sunday when they blew the safe and escaped with $100. The charge blew out all windows in the building and wrecked the office in which the safe was located.

Milk Drivers Back On Routes As Strike Ended

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto milk drivers were back on their routes today after the most serious milk strike in the city's history. Most dairies said milk supplies were ample, although some reported deliveries would be a few hours late because they were still waiting for milk to come in from the farms. The 1,700 striking drivers and other workers, members of the milk drivers' union (AFL-TLC) voted 413 to 341 Sunday to accept wage boosts offered by the companies and the five-day week eliminating Wednesday deliveries.

The strike lasted four days, during which farmers dumped thousands of gallons of milk into ditches. Police laid charges of assault against four milkmen.

Farmers lost an estimated $320,000 in spoiled or dumped milk and strikers gained a wage boost of $6.50 a week, to bring weekly wages to about $68.

The strike didn't change the price of milk to Toronto consumers. It remained at 22 cents a quart, although the ceiling was removed in government meetings last Friday.

In voting to accept terms offered by the 13 struck companies, union members reversed a previous stand in which they voted against the five-day week.

When the vote was announced, dairy operators at once called plant employees into work. Milk trucks scoured suburban farms in search of fresh whole milk.

Most dairies hoped to make normal deliveries, but expected some difficulty in meeting demands as Toronto received its first milk at home since last Wednesday. It was the longest milk strike in the city's history. A 1951 walkout lasted 30 hours.

NO CHANGE PLANNED

Sunday's membership meeting was called following an all-day session Saturday at Queen's Park at which union chiefs and distributors met with Labor Minister Daley and chief conciliation officer Louis Fine. It was made clear at these talks that the milk board's order for five-day deliveries—dropping Wednesday as well as Sunday calls, would not be revoked.

The dairymen had taken the stand that the union's wage demands, $8 a week more for drivers and $7 for inside help plus $3 differential for night workers, could not be met without the economies of a five-day week or an increase in the price of milk, company officials much opposed to the latter.

Until now, drivers worked a five-day week, but deliveries were maintained on a six-day-week delivery plan. Relievers filled in for milkmen on a rotating day-off sys-

Mosher Expects Eventual Labor Merger

MONTREAL (CP) — A. R. Mosher, president of the Canadian Congress of Labor, said today he looks for eventual unification of the Canadian labor movement.

In his opening address to the CCL's annual convention, Mr. Mosher said the different branches of labor are "coming steadily closer to co-operation and ultimate unity."

"Economic pressure," he said, "will sooner or later force the workers of Canada to seek a unified labor movement, based on sound and enduring principles of freedom and justice.

"Wasteful and inefficient methods of organization will inevitably be discarded, and the closest co-operation be established between all labor organization in Canada. . . ."

CONVENTION OPENS

The 72-year-old president and founder of the 370,000-member congress was addressing about 700 delegates at the starting session of the CCL's five-day convention.

The appeal for labor co-operation followed a move last month by the 525,000-member Trades and Labor Congress of Canada in the same direction. The TLC voted at its convention to explore the possibilities of co-operation with rival groups with an eye to eventual unity.

However, President Mosher today took note indirectly of obstacles.

"I should not like," he said, "to give the impression that we favor unity at any price."

This was an evident reference to some basic differences between the CCL and the TLC, the major one being their political outlooks. The

Brazil Bars O'Brien Entry

MARSEILLE, France (CP) — Michael Patrick O'Brien, the man without a country, arrived today by ship from Brazil and as usual was refused permission to enter the country.

O'Brien, who earned the title of "the perpetual passenger" while shuttling between Hong Kong and Macao, will head next for Italy, hoping for permission to land there.

Thus far no country has opened its doors to the 58-year-old one-time Shanghai bartender who says he is an American.

Brazil granted him a visa a few weeks ago, but when he reached there decided not to let him in because of reports he had been engaged in drug traffic.

Ask Referendum Be Ignored

TORONTO (CP) — Protestants and Roman Catholics in Toronto have been urged by their leaders to ignore a referendum by the Canadian Peace Congress which began a house-to-house circulation here Saturday.

The referendum asks: "Do you favor a meeting of the leading powers with a view to solving, through negotiation, questions which threaten the peace of the world?"

Warnings about the petition were issued separately by James Cardinal McGuigan, archbishop of Toronto; Rt. Rev. A. R. Beverley, Anglican bishop of Toronto and Rev. Gordon A. Sisco, general secretary of the general council of the United Church.

U.K. Cabinet Plans Discuss Red Rejection

LONDON (Reuters)—The British cabinet will meet Wednesday to discuss Red rejection of the United Nations plan for a Korean political conference.

The meeting, called by Prime Minister Churchill, will also discuss the Anglo-Egyptian dispute over the Suez canal zone.

Authoritative sources said the government considers the Communist counter-proposals "disappointing." They are likely to delay arrangements for the political conference, they said.

Driver Suspect Gives Self Up

NEW YORK (AP)—Ex-convict William Howell, suspected of driving a getaway car in the murder of labor leader Thomas F. Lewis on Aug. 28, surrendered to police early today.

Later police ordered him charged with murder in the slaying of Lewis.

Howell, 35, of Ridgefield, N.J., was subjected to lengthy questioning at Bronx police headquarters.

He had been sought for questioning since a car seen speeding away from the murder scene was traced to him.

Lewis, 35, was shot down in his Bronx apartment house by Edward (Snakes) Ryan, 45, an ex-convict who was believed to have been hired for the murder. Ryan never had a chance to use the suspected getaway car; he was killed in a gun fight with a policeman while fleeing from the murder scene.

Railway Brotherhood Investigates Charge

WINNIPEG (CP)– W. K. McKee of Ottawa, vice-president of the Brotherhood of Maintenance of Railroad Way Employees, said during the week-end that "immigrant workers on the Lynn lake-Sherridon railway have been exploited by the Canadian National Railways by letting the construction to a private firm."

He was commenting on reports of alleged "slave labor" conditions among construction workers at the railway in northern Manitoba. Mr. McKee has been assigned by the brotherhood to investigate the reports. En route to Ottawa from Edmonton, he will visit the Lynn lake area in a few weeks.

Mr. McKee said:

"The brotherhod has an agreement with all railroads in Canada as far as maintenance-of-way employees are concerned.

"A specific wage rate of at least 90 cents an hour for an eight hour day, 40-hour-week has been laid down. Any time more than that is considered overtime and extra pay given accordingly. Way workers are entitled to seniority rights and two-weeks holiday with pay per year and also railway pass benefits."

Coast Guard Rescues 9 Adrift On Barge In Storm

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich. (AP)—The U.S. Coast Guard cutter Mackinaw Sunday rescued nine crew members of a Toronto-owned dredge barge which had drifted helplessly on the storm-tossed waters of Lake Superior since early Saturday. The Sault Ste. Marie Coast Guard station reported that the Mackinaw took the dredge Howard M. Jr., in tow 12 miles off Au Sable Point, west of here. The nine crew members were reported safe aboard the Mackinaw which was said to be towing the barge to Port Arthur.

Coast Guard spokesmen said the Mackinaw would hold the barge in tow until the arrival of a tug, the Favorite. The tug was expected to take the Howard M. Jr., the rest of the way.

STORM EASING

The storm which prevented the cutter from rescuing the crew members Saturday night was reported to have abated somewhat. However, waves, churned by a 32-mile-an-hour wind, buffeted the barge and its escort. The cutter Woodbrush was standing by if needed.

The storm beached the freighter Maryland, owned by the Bethlehem Transportation Co., early Saturday about 40 miles east of Marquette. Coast Guard and Michigan state police succeeded in freeing the freighter's 32-man crew Saturday night. Coast Guard officials said the boat was in no immediate danger.

The dredge barge ran into trouble off Caribou island. The high waves broke the barge from its tow tug. Another tug, the George Purvis, of Gore Bay, Ont., rescued six men from the barge before fierce waves forced the two vessels apart.

Offers McIlraith Deputy Speaker Post

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent has offered George McIlraith the post of deputy speaker in the next Parliament but the former dean of parliamentary assistants likely will turn it down, it was learned Saturday.

The 45-year-old lawyer, member for Ottawa West, recently stepped down from his position of parliamentary assistant to Trade Minister Howe, saying he wanted to devote more time to his law practice.

L. Rene Beaudoin, member for Vaudreuil-Soulanges in Quebec and deputy speaker in the last Parliament, likely will be appointed speaker.

W. A. Robinson, member for Simcoe East in Ontario, likely will be the new deputy speaker.

In Your Paper Today

Readers will find the first stories and pictures to be received from Don Grant, Examiner staff reporter and photographer, who is in Victoria, B.C., with the Peterborough Trailermen covering the Mann Cup finals. The first game is being played tonight and Mr. Grant tells of the arrival of the team in Victoria and of how lacrosse has replaced champion salmon catches, as the principal topic of interest. Mr. Grant's stories are on Page 6.

The pictures were taken on Sunday during the flight from Vancouver to Victoria and were rushed east by TCA arriving in Malton early this morning. They were then brought by CNR express to Peterborough, arriving at 1:50 this afternoon.

Then on Page 14 is the first of a series written for afternoon newspapers by William Oatis, AP correspondent in Czechoslovakia who was imprisoned by the Reds for more than two years.

The Examiner also carries on Page 5 the first story in a series written for Canadian Press on the plans being made for the visit of Queen Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh to Australia and New Zealand. The journey will start in October and will be by way of Bermuda and the Panama Canal.

Don't Want Canada Asked To Aid Church

LONDON (Reuters)—An editorial in today's Daily Express opposed the idea of Canadian contributions to the cost of building a new cathedral for Coventry in Britain.

"Two clergymen of the Church of England are on tour in Canada. They are the Rt. Rev. Richard Howard, provost of Coventry Cathedral, and the Rev. Clifford Ross, personal chaplain to the Lord Bishop of Coventry," the paper said.

"They have with them an architect, Mr. Basil Spence, and a model of his proposed new cathedral for Coventry. And they have their caps in their hands. They go a-begging for £100,000.

"It is a sorry thing to see these mendicant priests wandering around trying to talk Canadians into providing funds for an English church," this newspaper commented.

"If the people of England are deeply moved by their religion they will build their own churches.

"If they are not sufficiently moved, then the churches are not needed anyway."

Preparing To Crack Down

Adenauer Party Prepares To Discipline Labor Unions

DUESSELDORF (Reuters) — Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's Christian Democratic party, flushed by its election success, pits the power of its popular mandate this week against the organized strength of German labor.

Irked by the pre-election Socialist sympathies of the 6,000,000-member trade union federation (DGB), the party is pulling no punches in its move to draw the country's major labor body under closer surveillance.

Right now it talks of persuasion rather than ultimatum. But beneath its demand for DGB "neutrality in party politics" lies a sharp insistence that the union accept more Christian Democratic party representatives into its leadership to offset the present preponderance of Socialists. If the party doesn't get its way, it threatens to split the present unified labor movement and set up its own Conservative-led unions.

TO GO AHEAD

The decision to press ahead with its offensive came at a meeting Saturday of the 40 chief executives of the Christian Democratic workers organization, known as the party's "social affairs committee."

It appointed Jakob Kaiser, minister of all-German affairs in the outgoing Adenauer cabinet, to head a committee of three to lay down terms to the union leadership this Friday.

They are armed with a demand for "immediate establishment of conditions within the DGB which guarantee its neutrality in party politics." To ensure this neutrality and give more voice to non-Socialist workers, they will ask the union to increase its executive from nine to 11 men, with the new posts to go to Christian Democratic labor leaders.

They also are expected to press hard for the ousting of Matthias Foecher, one of the two present Christian Democratic representatives in the executive, who is regarded as having gone over to the Socialist side during the election campaign. If this manoeuvre succeeds, they probably will replace Foecher with Kaiser himself.

They also seek to build up their strength at lower levels throughout the DGB organization, installing more Christian Democratic leaders on the governing boards of the 16 different industrial unions making up the DGB.

Weather Jinx Keeps CNE Attendance Low

TORONTO (CP)—The 75th anniversary Canadian National Exhibition ended at midnight Saturday in a blaze of fireworks.

Its over-all attendance was down from that of 1952—2,619,500 during the 14-day run, as against last year's 2,717,000. Saturday's attendance was 252,000.

A sizzling heat wave that sent temperatures to as high as 100 degrees kept crowds away the first week, while cool weather with rain or threats of showers held down the turnouts during the second half.

The weather jinx persisted on closing day, when the management scheduled several special events in the hope of beating the previous attendance setbacks. Rain and gales lashed the fair grounds, wrecking a blimp which a grocery firm had been using for advertising purposes and forcing cancellation of a marathon veterans' swim. George Young, Ernst Vierkoetter and Ben Gazel were to have competed in it.

HOLD GIANT PARADE

However, the weather improved before the time came for the closing ceremonies of Canada's big fair. For the first time in the fair's history, a giant parade was held from the grandstand to the waterfront bandshell where crowds massed for the finale.

In the parade were bands, service organizations and other groups, grandstand show star Victor Borge and other performers, and cars carrying exhibition president J. A. Northey and other senior officials.

Mr. Northey in his bandshell address said there were 30 more exhibitors this year than ever before and he predicted the exhibition will go on to greater successes in coming years.

The ceremonies ended with the lowering of the flag and a burst of brilliant fireworks climaxed by shells soaring from mortars along the waterfront.

AWARDED SCHOLARSHIP

Blind John Nicholas Genovese, 25, of Dundas, was awarded the $500 scholarship as the most outstanding contestant in vocal competitions.

Mr. Genovese won the award over some 500 competitors.

Genovese, happy-go-lucky baritone who was blinded eight years ago in a welding accident, holds not only several vocal awards, but also excels in golf.

Nick holds the Ontario Blind Golfers' championship and the Canadian blind golfer's title.

INTO BOTTLES NOW—Toronto's 1,700 members of the Milk Drivers Union (AFL-TLC) voted to return to work today and Toronto will be getting its first milk since Thursday. Before the settlement there was nowhere for farmers to take their milk and men like farm manager John Kadilka (left) and some of his helpers of the Newmarket district had to dump their milk.

Fruit Crop Same As 1952

OTTAWA (CP) — With minor variations, Canada's 1953 fruit crops will be about the same as last year, the bureau of statistics estimated today.

The apple crop, estimated at 12,054,000 bushels, is practically unchanged from last year's 12,049,000 bushels. Output of peaches at 2,965,000 bushels is slightly higher than last year's 2,917,000, while the pear crop at 1,435,000 bushels, compares with 1,303,000 bushels harvested last year.

Other fruit crops, with 1952 figures bracketed: strawberries 28,086,000 quarts (32,358,000; raspberries 11,720,000 quarts (10,829,000; grapes 83,698,000 pounds (86,481,000); loganberries 1,525,000 (1,240,000); plums and prunes 911,000 bushels (896,000); apricots 180,000 bushels (243,000); and cherries 450,000 bushels (505,000).

Flees Police Cruiser

OSHAWA (CP)—Donald Leonard Dixon, 18, an auto-theft suspect, escaped from a police cruiser Saturday while being taken from Oshawa to the Ontario county jail at nearby Whitby. Police said Dixon leaped from the cruiser when it stopped for traffic lights in Whitby and disappeared into a crowd of shoppers.

Steel Workers To Demand Equal Pay With U.S. Plants

MONTREAL (CP)—Workers in Canada's basic steel industry will demand equal pay with those in United States plants. A policy conference of the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL) decided here during the weekend to press for parity, which would involve for Canadian workers hourly increases ranging up from eight to 31 cents.

The USWA, one of Canada's biggest unions with 75,000 members, reached the decision at its annual wage-policy meeting held in advance of today's opening of the Canadian Congress of Labor's annual convention.

NOW BEHIND

Canadian pay now is behind that in U.S. basic steel plants by varying amounts. The starting rate for Canadian labor in primary plants is $1.43½ an hour, 8½ cents below that in the steel industry of the U.S., with which there was general parity before a U.S. wage increase last summer.

Canadian pay goes up to $2.03½ an hour for classes such as machinists in basic steel. This compares with $2.34½ for counterparts in the United States.

Chiefly affected by the USWA wage policy would be employees in the primary steel plants of Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation at Sydney, N.S., Algoma Steel Corporation at Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., and Steel Company of Canada at Hamilton. There are more than 15,000 workers in these industries.

The USWA whose president, Charles Millard was a defeated CCF candidate in the Toronto area in the Aug. 10 federal election, said it will "continue to support the CCF as the political arm of labor." It urged all locals to contribute to provincial political action committe funds.

OTHER PROPOSALS

Other proposals of the conference during the weekend.

1. A recommendation that wage "inequities" in individual steel plants be eliminated and that differentials between different job classifications be laid down on a basis suggested by a union study.

2. Reaffirmation of the principle of a 40-hour work week in the steel industry as an objective for labor. This was adopted as an alternative to a proposal for a 35-hour week objective in 1954 negotiations.

3. A recommendation that the Ontario government appoint immediately a permanent chairman to the province's labor relations board.

4 Sea Cadets Hurt On Bus

GEORGETOWN (CP)—Four sea cadets from Stratford suffered cuts and bruises Saturday when the chartered bus in which they were riding plunged off No. 7 highway at nearby Norval and slid down a 15-foot embankment on its side.

The 18 other cadets in the bus, on their way to the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto, escaped injury.

Injured were Thomas Morris, R. Ditchborn, I. Munro and E. Rhodes, all 17.

Bus driver Robert Hale told police "ripples" in the paved road threw the bus out of control.

The injured boys were returned to Stratford by ambulance while the rest of the cadets went home in another bus, their outing at the CNE cancelled.

Newspaper Dispute Curtails Production

PORTLAND, Maine (AP) — A strike of CIO employees of the Guy Gannett Publishing Co., curtailed production of today's Portland Press Herald from a normal four editions to one, and was expected to involve this evening's Express.

About 100 workers in the editorial, maintenance, proof reading and mailing departments did not report Sunday night in a dispute stemming from a deadlock in contract negotiations between the company and Local 128, American Newspaper Guild.

The morning newspaper was produced by executives, non-striking employees, AFL mechanical workers and reporters from the company's Augusta and Waterville staffs, which are not guild-affiliated.

Pastor Jailed

MADRID (Reuters) — According to Protestant sources here a Spanish evanglical pastor, Florentino Tornadijo, of Valencia, has been sentenced to 15 days imprisonment and fined $100 for working to spread his faith. These sources said he applied in 1949 to the Spanish authorities for a permit to hold religious services there near Valencia but received no reply. He applied again last June when the application was refused.

Reds Reject Parley Plans

TOKYO (Reuters)—North Korea today joined Communist China in rejecting United Nations proposals for the Korean political conference.

A Pyongyang radio broadcast lined up the North Koreans with the Chinese, who Sunday rejected the UN plan for a conference attended by the two warring sides, plus Russia "provided the other (Communist) side desires it."

The Chinese also proposed inclusion in the conference of India, Pakistan, Indonesia and Burma.

Shah Orders Trial Of Former Premier

TEHRAN (Reuters) — The Shah Sunday issued an order for the trial of ex-Premier Mohammed Mossadegh by court martial.

Informed sources said the charges against Mossadegh will include:

1. On August 17 he dissolved parliament on the basis of an "unfair" nation-wide referendum and intimidated those who might have voted against him. (The Shah claims that he alone has power to dissolve the Majlis.)

2. He arrested the courier who handed him the Shah's order of dismissal.

3. He disarmed the Shah's imperial guard and arrested several of its chief officers.

4. He ordered his private guard to fire on people during the August uprising.

President Mosher hit at resolutions adopted by the Canadian Bar Association in Quebec last week. One was a proposal that compulsory arbitration be adopted in labor disputes where public health or safety is endangered.

"Legislation of that character," he said, "could have no other effect than to make slaves of the workers."

Mr. Mosher also objected to suggestions that union officers be made legally responsible for the acts of union members and that unions be made legal entities and liable to civil court suits. These measures would weaken unions, he said.

Clergymen Deny Reports Of Communist Activities

NEW YORK (AP)—A congressional report on alleged Communist activities of some clergymen has drawn new criticism and denials from members of the ministry.

The comments fell upon the House of Representatives un-American activities committee, which last Friday released testimony taken at secret hearings in New York in July.

Witnesses, three of whom said they were former Communists and successful examples of Red infiltration of religion, were quoted as saying the Communists plotted to plant hundreds of followers among the clergy.

Among those named in the testimony as involved in such a plot were the Rev. Dr. Harry F. Ward, the Rev. John Haynes Holmes and late Rabbis Stephen S. Wise and Judah Magnes.

FANTASTIC TESTIMONY

Sunday in New York two prominent Jewish leaders, Dr. Israel Goldstein and Rabbi Maurice N. Eisendrath called "fantastic" the testimony concerning Rabbis Wise and Magnes.

Mr. Holmes, pastor of the Community Church at Park avenue and 35th street in New York City, denied any collaboration with Communists. He said any statements to that effect "are absolutely false."

Dr. Ward on Friday issued a statement calling the committee testimony about his alleged Red activities absolutely false.

At Los Angeles Sunday night, the Rev. Stephen Fritchman denied testimony given the House committee by Herbert Philbrick, an undercover agent for nine years. Philbrick was quoted on Friday as saying the Mr. Fritchman was one of seven or eight ministers in the Boston area who were Communist party members.

Mr. Fritchman said Philbrick's testimony "is by his own confession hearsay, second hand and conjectural."

Many of those clergymen named in the committee testimony issued denials Saturday.

Pennsylvania Girls Take Beauty Titles

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP)—Pennsylvania had a corner on the beauty market today, with lovelies from that state the winners of the 1954 Miss and Mrs. America crowns.

As Evelyn Margaret Ay launched a whirlwind tour today, her victory Saturday night over 51 other beauties in the Miss America pageant seemed like a dream.

It was the same for Mrs. Erna Snyder, who was chosen from among 32 other wedded beauties to wear the Mrs. America crown at Asbury Park Sunday night.

The 20-year-old Miss Ay is surprised she was the victor, because she thinks she's too fat in places. She weighs 132 and stands five feet eight inches. Her bust-waist-hips measurement are 37, 24, and 36 inches.

WORTH WINNING

Besides $40,000 in personal appearance fees, Miss America gets awards worth another $5,000.

There'll be an ironic touch to Mrs. America's appearance today at a fair in Reading in her home state of Pennsylvania. Mrs. Snyder had entered two beauty contests there in the past, but the best she did was to finish as a runner-up.

The 115-pound, five feet 4¾ inches-tall mother of two boys also has a year of personal appearances ahead of her as the queen of married lovelies.

Mrs. Snyder, 24, has a 34-inch bust, 23-inch waist and 34-inch hips.

Canadian contestants, brunette Kathleen Archibald, 19, of Kelowna, B. C. and Mrs. Olga Habbeshaw of Toronto failed to win major awards.

Mining Prices Continue Lower On Exchange

TORONTO (CP)—Mining prices continued lower in early afternoon stock market trading today but industrials recovered part of early losses.

Base metals and golds struck a three-year record low with losses of about one-half a point and one point respectively on the exchange indexes. Western oils touched their lowest point since January 1951. Industrials also continued weak.

Volume for the first three hours totalled 1,319,000 shares.

Uraniums countered the general decline with a list of penny gains, including Gunnar, Calder Bousquet and Pitch-Ore. Marbenor added pennies in a turnover of almost 250,000 shares. New Brunswick base metals slipped slightly, as New Larder U faded.

Western oils continued their recent decline but a number of issues showed strength.

Industrials continued weak with steels, papers and refining oils weak.

Senior and junior base metals traded lower, juniors led by Pend Oreille and Barvue. Noranda gained a fraction. Holding companies and junior producers led golds lower. Ventures lost more than 50 cents.

tem with no delivery Sundays.

The drivers based their opposition to the elimination of Wednesday deliveries on three main points:

1. There would be heavier loads Tuesday and Saturdays.

2. There would be no more Saturday - Sunday - Monday weekends each six weeks since days off would be permanently fixed at Wednesdays and Saturdays.

3. The commission earnings would drop when housewives went to stores to buy milk on days when there were no deliveries.

EMPLOYEES' GAINS

In return for the five-day delivery, employees gained:

1. A general wage increase of $6.50 a week.

2. An increase in the commission rate for sales over 2,000 points. A quart of milk or half a pint of cream represents one point.

3. Four more statutory holidays, bringing the number to eight. The men are guaranteed five long weekends a year under this plan.

4. Retroactive pay of $50 will go to each man to compensate for the time elapsed since the agreement expired last March.

NO STRIKE PAY

The milkmen were given no strike pay during the walkout, but will return to normal wages today.

However, possibility of another strike loomed when 100 employees at Silverwood's Dairies voiced a strong opposition Sunday to the five-day-week delivery plan. All members of the CIO Retail and Wholesale Employees Union, they did not take part in the general strike.

Premier Frost expressed great satisfaction with the way in which conciliators handled the strike talks and said the vote by the drivers to return "is a vote for common sense."

The strike began Thursday when the union called a morning meeting of its 1,700 members in lieu of milk deliveries. They voted overwhelmingly in favor of immediate strike action.

TORONTO (CP)—Prices were steady with last week's close at the Ontario stockyards today. Receipts: cattle 5,910; calves 800; hogs 360; sheep and lambs 720; holdover from the weekend 500 cattle.

Choice weighty steers 20-21.50; good 19-20; medium downward to 18; plain light steers and heifers 11-17; good heifers 19-19.50; good cows and bulls 12-13; choice fed yearlings 22-23; medium to good stockers 17.50-20; a few good stock calves up to 21.

Choice veal calves were 21-23 a few tops 24; medium to good 15-21; grass calves 10-13.

Hog prices were not established.

No early sales on sheep or lambs.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO (AP)—Grain and soybeans futures mostly were weak at the start on the board of trade today. Wheat was down as much as ¾ cent a bushel and soybeans 1½ cents.

Indications of a heavy Canadian wheat crop helped depress wheat futures.

Wheat started ¼-¾ cent lower than the previous finish, Sept. $1.90 ½; corn ⅜ lower to ⅛ higher, Sept. $1.57-1.56¾ and oats were ⅛-⅜ lower, Sept. 73¼. Soybeans were off ½-1½ cents, Sept. $2.59¾.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG (CP)—Oats and barley prices moved narrowly while other grains dropped lower in dull trade early today on the Winnipeg grain exchange.

Only small domestic purchases appeared in oats and barley, with indications of light export demand in barley. Rye fell off under American selling. A few hedges sent flax lower as buying was confined to small export purchases.

11 a. m. prices:

Oats: Oct ¼ lower 71½A; Dec unch 68⅞; May unch 69A.

Barley: Oct ⅛ lower 1.09⅛B; Dec ⅛ higher 1.02⅞B; May unch 1.02¼B.

Rye: Oct 1⅛ lower 1.05½A; Dec 1 lower 1.05¾B; May 1⅛-1¼ lower 1.10⅜.

Flax: Oct 1¼ lower 2.91½A; Dec 1½ lowr 2.76½; May not open.

BUFFALO LIVESTOCK

Sheep and lambs 1,000; one lot of choice ewe and weather lambs 22; choice bucks eligible to 20; choice old sheep 6-7.

TORONTO PRODUCE

TORONTO (CP) — Churning cream and butter print prices were unchanged today.

The egg market was firm on large, steady on medium and weak on small grades in moderate trading. Quotations for graded eggs in fibre cases were: A large 68; A medium 53; A small 32; grade B 45; grade C 29-30. Wholesale to retail: A large 73; A medium 58; A small 37; grade B 50; grade C 34-35.

Butter solids: First-grade tenderable 58¼; non-tenderable a nominal price of 57¾; and western 59.

Policeman Shot Toronto Man Being Held

BUFFALO, N.Y. (CP) — David Read, 24, of Toronto was arrested Saturday following the shooting of a police lieutenant and the burglary of a private home.

Lieut. Philip J. Francis, 35, is in hospital in good condition with four bullet wounds in his left hand and legs.

Police gave this account of the incident:

Police patrolman Russell Valvo, 38, driving a taxi during his off-duty hours, answered a call to pick up a man at a service station. The man, identified by police as Read, asked to be taken to the home of Clayton Smith, a lawyer.

STOP AT POLICE STATION

The man went into the Smith house and returned with a zippered bag, which he put in the cab. He re-entered the house, brought a second bag to the taxi, then asked to be driven to the bus station.

Valvo stopped at a police station, saying he had an errand to perform. He told Francis the details and the police lieutenant, accompanied by other officers, went out. The taxi passenger leaped out and, in the ensuing struggle, Francis was wounded.

Police said Read, when arrested, had in his possession two zippered bags containing some $500 worth of silverware, a portable typewriter and a record player.

They said Read is known in Toronto as the "taxicab burglar."

(Dem-S.C.)—had a chance to sit down at their own round table.

Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., permanent U.S. delegate, came back from a vacation Sunday night to join the group.

Byrnes, now governor of South Carolina, was state secretary under President Truman in 1945 and 1946. He has dealt with the Russians in Big Four meetings and at the Paris peace conference in 1946.

WILL KEEP SPLIT

The Russians may count on Jacob Malik's experience in London to help the Soviet bloc campaign to split the United States and Britain. The Reds worked hard on it last month, trying to make the most of a dispute over seating India in the peace conference. But they failed and Britain has since moved closer to the United States with a promise to support any move to postpone giving Red China a UN seat now.

Chou's telegram said his government "cannot be satisfied" with the UN plan for a two-sided conference and "expresses deep regret at it."

His proposed conference line-up did not differ in principle from the Russian plan for a round-table of belligerents and "neutrals" rejected last month by the assembly. Though the assembly-adopted plan provided for only belligerents on the UN side, it agreed to Russian attendance on the Communist side.

RED SUGGESTIONS

Chou proposed:

1. That the conference be attended by all nations of the two warring sides—the 16 UN allies, Red China, and North and South Korea; and by the five "neutrals;"

2. That the conference take the form of a round-table but that decisions must obtain the unanimous agreement of both belligerent sides in Korea;

3. That the conference settle Korea's future and then go on to other Far Eastern questions;

4. That as soon as the composition of the conference is settled the two belligerent sides arrange for its place and time.

This last proposal ignored the United States, which was designated by the assembly to consult on the time and place with the Communists.

Scientists Studying Chance Of Chemically Speeding Spring

BY FRANK CAREY

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—Scientists are planning to explore the possibilities of chemically speeding springtime and delaying winter—as far as crops are concerned.

This was made known Sunday at a conference of some of the world's outstanding experts on solar energy. They seek ways and means to allow man to take better advantage of sunshine energy already available to agriculture—and also to tap a virtually wasted bounty of solar radiation as a means of supplying useful heat and power for homes and industry.

The idea of the chemical "crop season extension" would be to hasten the opening of planting season a couple of weeks by spreading chemicals on the snow or frosted ground to promote melting, and chemically treating the ground during growing season so as to absorb enough solar heat to delay Jack Frost's attack for another couple of weeks at season's end.

But scientists told reporters at a press conference in connection with the meeting that, while the objective is one justifying intensive research, the problem will be to find chemicals that would trap the sun's energy—and release it under controllable conditions.

RUSSIAN CLAIM

One scientist said the Russians claim to have achieved good success in speeding springtime in the Soviet by spreading coal dust on the snow to trap rays of the sun.

The conference of solar experts, including about 30 Americans, two Canadians and one scientist each from Australia, Israel, India, Italy and South Africa, ends today.

The need for research into various conceivable uses for solar energy was underlined at the press conference by statements made by Palmer Putnam, an engineering consultant to the U. S. government. He asserted that if the present "increasing" rate of power demand continues — and under-privileged countries are developed as envisioned by some authorities—the economically recoverable resources of regular fuels, such as coal, will give out in about 70 years. On the same basis, he added, the atomic fuels, uranium and thorium, will last only 175 years.

Dr. G. O. G. Lor, Denver, scientific consultant to the American Window Glass Co., said his firm has supported research on solar heating of homes "and has faith that such solar heating is realizable within 10 years."

Dr. Charles G. Abbott, sun-scientist of the Smithsonian Institute, said he's invented a "solar engine" which he's confident could be developed into a commercially feasible device for furnishing heat, electricity and pumping and irrigation power for "a small farm." He envisions a mass-production cost of about $1,000.

A scientist from India reported that "solar cookers" costing $14 each have recently been placed on the market in that sun-rich country.

Canadian Dogs Win Top Prizes In Cobourg Show

COBOURG— (ENS) —Canadian-bred dogs made a very good showing in the annual dog show and obendience trails held Saturday by the Northumberland and Durham Kennel Club, under the auspices of the Rotary Club of Cobourg.

There were 164 entries. Additional entries had to be turned down because of lack of room.

It had been planned to hold the dog show in the recreational centre but as the building was destroyed by fire some weeks ago, the site was changed to Victoria Park where the dogs were shown in tents loaned by the army ordnance depot here.

Judges were Louis K. Schmidt, Wooster, Ohio, spaniels; Virginia Keckler, Greenvile, Ohio, toys, boxer, dobermans, shepherds, danes and poodles; George Kynoch, Winnipeg, working dogs; Alan Sharp, Montreal, obedience classes and terriers.

Following were the results:

RESULTS

Best in the show, Kerry blue terrier, international champion, "Miss Show-Off' owned by Eileen McEchren, Todmorden. This was also the best in group 4, terriers; prize donated by Dick Parker, Cobourg.

Bset Canadian-bred in the show winner of the Gaines Trophy, "Champion Nugget May Ballet the Second," English bulldog, owned by Albert Farrell, Toronto, presentation of trophy by Mrs. Marjorie Parker, Cobourg.

Best Canadian-bred puppy in the show, "Beau Gals - Black Knight," German Shepherd owned by Mr. and Mrs. S. Wintour of West Hill.

Highest score in obedience class—German Shepherd, "Champion Orla of Saundrea," owned by Miss Margery Parkinson, Toronto.

Group 1—sporting dogs—American cocker, "Maddis Vagabond's Return," owned by Madeline Peuquet, Buffalo; group 2, hounds —beagle, 'Merry Chase Lucklady,' owned by J. J. Farmer of Ottawa; group 3, working dogs — boxer, "Champion Havelands Fancy Beau," owned by Mr. and Mrs. S. Whitmore, Hareland; group 5 — toys — pomeranian, "Caulfield's Nifty Lady" owned by Mrs. E. McDermott, Kingston; group 6— non-sporting— Boston terrier, "Rhythm Regards," owned by Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Ducketts, Hamilton.

Town Withdraws Injunction Against School

CAMPBELLFORD — (ENS)— An injunction issued by the town against the building of a new school in the village of Brighton was withdrawn by the council last week when a notice was received from the Department of Education that this would have to be done before the Department would approve the new High School area division in East Northumberland.

J. F. R. Douglas passed some correspondence on to council, from the department, which explained the move the town must make in withdrawing the injunction. Formal approval of the division of the present high school area board has not yet been received.

EXTRA CONSTABLE

Chief Charles Lockwood requested an extra constable be hired by the town, to provide a force of three men. At present, there are only the chief and one constable on the Campbellford force, which makes it difficult, and at times practically impossible, to police the town 24 hours a day, the chief explained. The request was referred to the police committee to bring in a report at the next meeting.

Mayor Locke was delighted to attend the conference of the trades and Industry branch of the Department of Planning and Development at Port Hope.

Permission was granted the RCAF to "bomb" the town with leaflets September 19, Air Force Day.

A taxi licence was granted to Douglas Nicholas.

A. F. Collette, local insurance agent, asked council to arrange a meeting of the various municipal authorities to discuss apportioning insurance in line with resolution passed by council some time ago. Council named the chairman of the property committee and the chairman of the finance committee to be their representatives at such a meeting, and set the date as September 16.

Councillor F. M. Rutherford told council that the local firemen were putting a ceiling on their portion of the fire hall, and the Legion was contributing a door.

MUDDY WATER

Councillor Isobel Tatham complained of the muddy water that comes from Campbellford mains and asked that the matter be brought to the attention of the Public Utilities Commission.

Councillor Burgess stated that Charles McCoy, garbage collector, had asked an extra $2 a week for taking away garbage from the new hopsital. This was left with the property committee with power to act.

Councillor George Free reported for the legal committee, stating that the provincial government would assist in planning local parks. He sponsored a motion thanking Mr. R. H. Wilson for giving up the property recently rented by him from Mr. F. A. Burger and purchased by the corporation. This property will be used as a public park.

A discussion arose as to the use to which the old hospital could be put. It was decided to have the property committee investigate the matter and report at the next meeting.

Council also decided that they would discontinue payment of the water and light bills for the old hospital.

Surviving her are one daughter, Mrs. Harold Clarke (Margaret) of Hamilton and two sons: Harry Currie of Toronto and John of Peterborough, and three grandchildren.

The funeral service will be held Tuesday at the Kaye funeral home at 2 p.m. The Rev. M. P. Poole, of All Saints' Anglican Church will officiate. Burial will be in Little Lake cemetery.

JOSEPH M. BUTLER

Joseph Murray Butler, 46, chartered accountant with Caverhill-Learmont Hardware Co., Montreal, died in a Montreal hospital Saturday.

He was born on Perry St., Peterborough, youngest son of the late Pierce P. Butler and Johanna Heffernan. He received his early education at Sacred Heart School before moving to Montreal where he attended university.

Surviving besides his wife and two sons, are two brothers and a sister, Dr. K. C. Butler, Ottawa, Raymond Butler, Detroit, and Mrs. Thompson Neal, Akron, O.

Mrs. Kate McGillen, Peterborough, is an aunt, and Rt. Rev. Monsignor Butler, also of this city is a cousin.

The funeral was held this morning from St. Malick's church following requiem mass. Burial was in Montreal.

JOHN SHAW

John Shaw, 78, of 9 Hilliard St., died suddenly Sunday in city hospital.

Mr. Shaw was born in England, son of the late Mark Shaw and the former Elizabeth Darlington. He immigrated to Canada when he was six and has lived in Peterborough for the past 72 years, with the exception of seven years, when he lived in Hespeler.

He worked for the Auburn Knitting Mills for over 25 years and retired in 1947. He was a member of the Salvation Army and belonged to the Order of Foresters No. 29.

Surviving are his wife, the former Mabel Rice, one daughter Mrs. George Ferguson (Annie) of Smith township, one brother, Mark Shaw of Hespeler, and four grandchildren.

The funeral service will be held Wednesday at the Kaye funeral home at 2 p.m. Major H. G. Roberts, of the Salvation Army, will officiate. Burial will be in Little Lake Cemetery.

Sample The Cheese

Ontario cheese producers are studying the problem of how to sell more cheese by getting Canadian people to eat more cheese. The problem is acute, because the bottom has dropped out of Canada's export market for cheese. Some of the suggestions made at the recent Belleville conference should help to improve the poor cheese-producers' lot. Attractive marketing and parcelling is one. Packaging in smaller units and in "shorter blunter wedges" was suggested "because consumers bought more this way." We have no opinion on this; cheese producers ought to know their customers' tastes best.

* * *

Another hint was "give-away samples" to create a demand. That meets with our full approval. It is really an old-fashioned Canadian method of selling cheese. In early days—but within living memory—grocers used to stock whole cheese, in the storeroom. A section of the cylinder would be on display at the counter, or in the ice box, if the store had an ice box. The customer could take his choice of three or four cheeses—old, medium and new. More, the grocer let him sample each cheese, nipping a corner from a wedge and handing the morcel to the customer on the butcher knife. Thus you tasted the cheese before you bought it.

* * *

Proof that good Ontario cheese set before the customer's eyes and offered to his tongue will sell well is the Hamilton grocery store in Peterborough. This store, now selling out and closing its business, was one of the few remaining fine traditional groceries in Canada. To go into it was to get a wonderful whiff of the past while buying new and foreign delicacies as well as bulk tea from a chest. Spices in jars, sugar in bins, pickles in crocks, cheese in bulk. Hamilton's was renowned for its cheese. While offering curds of France, Germany and Italy, it took chief pride in providing customers with good Ontario cheese. You could see it whole, there, and would be given a taste before deciding which to buy. Last Saturday, by eleven o'clock in the morning, only a few days after its final clearance began, the last pound of Hamilton's cheese was sold to eager customers.

* * *

In such a store and by the sales method of taste and see, Canadian cheddar needs no promotion to popularize it. Canadian cheese is good enough to sell on its own merits, if the merits are properly displayed and demonstrated by samples. It does not need vulgar advertising on Ontario licence plates—which was a revolting suggestion which came out of the recent cheese-producers meeting in Belleville.

We Pay Tolls

Some weeks ago we discussed the toll roads built as private commercial ventures in the United States. Suggestions have been made that the Ontario Department of Highways should consider constructing toll roads in this Province. One to run from Montreal north into the Laurentians has been advocated by Quebec resort operators. The Governor of New York State looks forward to a Turnpike between Albany, N.Y., and Montreal.

Despite this and other talk, there has been little public interest in or demand for toll roads in Ontario. One reason may be that the population of the province is not sufficiently dense to make turnpikes commercially profitable. Like so many other public utilities in Canada, roads are expensive to build, maintain and operate when the people being served by them are few and scattered, compared with, say, the American Atlantic seaboard.

Another reason for lack of demand may be due to the fact that Canadian motorists are actually paying sufficient tolls in the form of taxes to provide good roads without any added charge. For every gallon of gasoline a motorist buys in Canada, he pays at least ten cents in tax, and ten cents is double the tax on gasoline in the United States. For every mile travelled, the motorist is paying at least half a cent, and a single mile of heavily travelled highways may provide the taxing authority with as much as fifty thousand dollars a year in revenue. At that rate, it would not take very long to pay for the most modern type of highway.

Yet the Canadian motorist pays this tax whether he is bowling along the Queen Elizabeth Way or bumping uncomfortably along a backwoods road. And whether he is bowling or bumping he is paying fifty or sixty cents to one of the provincial treasuries every time his car travels a hundred miles.

So we have toll highways and toll roads in Canada. Revenues are collected on them at a higher rate than in the United States. And if there is need and public demand for super-highways or turnpikes, like those built or being built in some of the Eastern United States, surely a thirty to thirty-five per cent. gasoline tax should provide enough revenue to build them.

Famous Old Company To Disappear

A report that the Canada Company will surrender its charter this month is a twinge of history as disconcerting to southern Ontario people as would be a report that the Hudson's Bay Company was to disappear into the shades. The Canada Company is a much newer incorporation, having been formed in 1824; the Hudson's Bay Company was founded in 1670. Yet the Canada Company is part and parcel of the development—and exploitation—of Ontario in its settlement days.

The Canada Company was organized by John Galt, Scottish poet and novelist with a turn for practical affairs. The Company proposed buying the crown reserves and one-half the clergy reserves in the townships then surveyed, but the price was not acceptable to church authorities. So in place of the clergy reserves the Canada Company acquired an area known as the Huron Tract, more than a million acres. This was chiefly in the present area of Galt (named after the Company's founder), Guelph, and Goderich, which towns were established under the direction of Galt who managed the Company's affairs. A substantial sum of money was paid for the Huron Tract, and the Company hoped to recover it by selling the lands to colonists. Settlers were brought out, most of them of very good types, and gradually settlement was pushed northwards into new areas, now forming part of the counties of Lambton, Middlesex, Huron and Perth.

Samuel Strickland, founder of Lakefield, was an agent of the Canada Company for three years, and he and his wife lived in Goderich and Galt around 1829. Strickland describes some of the Company operations and the countryside and people in his two-volume memoir Twenty-Seven Years in Canada West.

The St. Catharines Standard comments on the reported end of the famous old Canada Company, now a shadow of other days and properties long since disposed of:

Now all the land is gone in the tract from Galt to Goderich. But the old marks of settlement remain. There is Secretary John Galt's spokes-of-a-wheel plan for Guelph and Goderich—and for tiny Bayfield which forgot to grow. There's the twist in the old Huron road at Punkeydoodle's Corners where the surveyors changed course to hit Goderich—and crossed a river at a ford a few miles west to found Stratford.

There are the stone houses and the soft brick of early days, the carriage shops, the old Canada Company office at Goderich, and the nearly 100-year-old Goderich court house, now slated for destruction.

Unfortunately there are only a few people (typical are those who encouraged the Goderich Museum in an old school house) who give two hoots about saving some of the past.

Besides its Huron Tract the Canada Company acquired nearly 300,000 acres of Crown reserves in scattered parcels throughout the Province. First title to many farms and lands around Peterborough is in the name of the Canada Company, but in this area the Company acted more as a broker than colonizer. Nevertheless the link of this district with the Canada Company is strong, and its work on behalf of settlers, its road-building, its provision of necessities for work and food for sustenance, fostered by example the lot of pioneers in Peterborough, Durham and Hastings counties.

Peterborough Slighted

The biggest picture magazine in the United States recently had a two-page spread of the Peterborough Ornamental Swimmers going through their prize-winning paces in Florida. Throughout the article and photographs it referred to them as "Canadian swimmers", not once as coming from Peterborough. In the lay-out was one solitary photograph of an American contestant, one girl. It conspicuously detailed that she came from Sneetchu, Texas, or some such important place. We feel hurt. All our swimmers, amateur every one, come from Peterborough and its district, have had their training here, are employed here, and many Peterborough citizens and organizations have encouraged them with money, attendance at their shows and praise for their work and spirit. Yet Peterborough is refused even a mention by the high-falutin magazine. Just to spite you, we'll not mention your name, either. So there. Life's like that.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Now that the armament race will apparently include the stockpiling of hydrogen bombs, the question of whether there is life on the other planets becomes more academic than ever. The chief worry now may be how long there will be life on the planet Earth.

Musical Notes

By PETER PIPER

THE abrupt end to the heat wave coinciding with the opening of the academic year gave a special emphasis to the fact that the holidays are over. Hands that have been used for hauling ropes and rowing boats have become stiff, and voices that have been used for calling the family in for mealtime have lost some of their flexibility and control. Now we are back to work again scrubbing our technique back to some semblance of decency. This is the most rewarding time of year for those who have kept up their practising throughout the summer. They may not have had time to make much progress, but at least they have not slipped back.

✧ ✧ ✧

TEACHERS, too, are busy arranging their timetables. Teachers in general and music teachers in particular are not accorded the same amount of prestige in Canada as they are in many other countries. It is a little saddening to contrast the respect and esteem that is enjoyed by teachers elsewhere with the prevailing attitude towards this noble profession in this country. Men like Faure, Stanford and Matthay were almost worshipped by their pupils, many of whom themselves rose to the front rank.

IT IS OFTEN SAID of medical men (and they will usually agree) that there is a goodly element of faith-healing in their profession. A bottle of flavoured water is said to accomplish miracles when other methods have failed. In any case it is certain that a patient who trusts his doctor and carries out his part of the treatment implicity has a better chance of recovery than the cynic. It is the same thing in teaching. The pupil must have faith in his teacher to accomplish great things. The teacher stands in the place of a parent in the broadest possible sense. An advertisement that used to appear on behalf of a correspondent college displayed the features of a benign old gentleman and the legend, "Let me be your Father." This is the right attitude that should exist between pupil and teacher, even when the teacher may be actually younger than the pupil. Affection, respect and at times a wholesome awe should characterize the attitude of the pupil, while the teacher should be wise, far-seeing and loving though severe when the occasion demands it.

Now is the time for teacher and pupil to re-examine their relationship. Is the pupil lacking in respect? Is he inclined to contradict? Is he afraid of bringing a badly prepared lesson with a few mumbled words of excuse? Does he take to heart what his teacher tells him? Does he take the attitude summarized by the words, "Well, I hired him"? Does the teacher take his full responsibilities to heart, even to the extent of administering the necessary rebuke for slipshod work? Does his behaviour conduce towards maintaining the respect to which he as a teacher is entitled?

BEVERLEY Baxter is one of those Canadians that have made a name for themselves in Britain, where he is a Tory Member of Parliament. He has been active in many fields including journalism, and it is on account of his contributions to MacLean's Magazine that he is best known to the public on this side of the ocean. He is a versatile man who has dabbled in a large number of different enterprises, some more successfully than others.

His latest excursion into the field of music criticism has been somewhat less happy. In a sense every man is his own music critic. The earliest form of music criticism was probably of a destructive nature in the form of a rock hurtling through the air in the direction of the primitive musician. But in these degenerate days it is customary for the music critic to have a little more in his arsenal than missiles, whether factual or verbal, if his opinion is to be considered "weighty" enough. Mr. Baxter, in spite of his versatility (or because of it—Jack of all trades?) does not possess this.

HIS London letter, entitled "The One Sour Note of the Coronation", is devoted entirely to an attack on Benjamin Britten's new opera "Gloriana". He spends a good deal of space building up Britten as a shy and gawky misanthrope who is taken up by a coterie of "young extremists". "Here was the new man", Baxter says, "to lead the cubists, the surrealists, the modernists, the rebels, the emancipated school which proclaimed the arrogant philosophy that the highest form of truth was ugliness".

This is the sort of nonsense that politicians are apt to talk when delivering their opinion on matters musical. The truth is that Britten is no musical revolutionary. His style shows few influences of atonalism, and most of his themes are frankly diatonic. To use the jargon of politics he is a Centre Party man, musically speaking. His first full length opera, Peter Grimes, which appeared at the end of World War II, appears conservative in idiom when compared with Berg's Wozzek (1925).

✧ ✧ ✧

THERE ARE several factual errors in Baxter's article, which though unimportant in themselves tend to undermine our faith in his other statements.

He states that Billy Budd was Britten's third opera; what about Paul Bunyan and Albert Herring?

In another place he refers to "young Sir William Walton, a deadly musical rival of Britten's". Walton is now 51 years of age and would doubtless be highly flattered to continue to be described as "young"! Incidentally Baxter takes a swipe at Walton's new arrangement of the National Anthem, calling it a "disarrangement".

✧ ✧ ✧

AS A CORRECTIVE to Baxter's spiteful and ignorant article I would like to quote from an article on Gloriana which appeared in the London Musical Times. Bradbury, unlike Baxter, saw the dress rehearsal, two performances and heard a radio broadcast before committing his views to paper. After a good deal of adverse criticism of the work, mainly on account of the libretto, he says, "Admiration for the music has grown with each repeated hearing". To sum up, he says, "Perhaps Gloriana has not added much to Britten's stature as an operatic composer, but as a festival opera it has much to commend it." I note that the CBC intends to mount a broadcast version during this coming season, and it is my hope that I shall have the opportunity to listen to it.

✧ ✧ ✧

FRIENDS of church music will join with me in congratulating Mr. F. G. Mann on the completion recently of thirty consecutive years as organist and choirmaster of St. John's Anglican Church, Peterborough. Mr. Mann was born in Norwich, England, and came to Canada as a young man. His published compositions include anthems and other liturgical music and organ music. His other interests include Freemasonry, in which he occupies the position of Grand Master of the Knights Templar for the whole of Canada, and gardening. I wonder whether there is anyone else at present in this neighbourhood who can lay claim to an equally long period of service as organist?

An American View: SMOTHERED

Mr. Frost And The Federal Campaign

(KINGSTON WHIG-STANDARD)

ACCORDING to the Ottawa Letter published in a recent issue of Saturday Night, members of the Federal Conservative Party have been criticizing Premier Leslie Frost of Ontario for his attitude during the recent Federal general election campaign. These critics, while expressing disappointment over the lack of co-operation received from Premier Duplessis of Quebec, are reported to be much more aggrieved by what they term the "passivity" of Premier Frost and his colleagues. The article says that they maintain that if the latter had exerted the same energy on behalf of Mr. Drew as was exerted by Col. T. A. Kennedy, former Premier and long-time Minister of Agriculture, the Federal result in Ontario would have been far more favourable to the Conservatives.

Premier Frost's critics maintain that the attitude he adopted was attributable to two major reasons. One is that the Ontario Premier was unwilling to alienate the large number of Liberals who are said to have voted for Conservative candidates in the last Provincial general election. The other is that Premier Frost does not like Mr. Drew's persistent condemnation of the Federal-Provincial tax agreements. This persistent condemnation, the critics say, carries the implication that Premier Frost was unwise and lacking in financial acuteness when he agreed to a bargain with the Federal Government involving some of Ontario's financial rights.

The critics seem to us a little confused. Premier Frost is leader of the Conservative Party in Ontario, and his first duty to that Party is to maintain and strengthen the position of the Party in this Province. If he and his colleagues and advisers feel sure that they received a substantial number of Liberal votes in the last Provincial general election, they acted wisely and responsibly in not jeopardizing that support by extreme partisan participation in the Federal campaign. Neither Mr. Frost nor his colleagues faltered in their loyalty to the Conservative Party; they simply guarded the interests of that section of it for which they are primarily responsible.

If the critics are right about the implication carried by Mr. Drew's condemnation of the Federal-Provincial tax agreements, Premier Frost's attitude could be justified on that score alone. Mr. Frost and his financial advisers most certainly believed that the agreement would be advantageous to Ontario, and the terms of the agreement were thoroughly publicized. It was a campaign issue, or feature, in the last Provincial general election, and it received the warm approval of the voters. Persistent condemnation of the agreement, therefore, seriously questioned the wisdom and judgement of Ontario voters, in addition to any other implication it may have carried. Neither Mr. Drew nor his advisers have any ground for complaint if the steady attack on Dominion-Provincial agreements cost their party active and effective support in Ontario.

In any event, it is doubtful that the most active campaign that could have been waged by Mr. Frost and his colleagues would have had any appreciable effect on the outcome of the voting on August 10. Any contention that a party strongly established provincially is capable of exerting appreciable influence in a Federal election is very much open to question. The Liberal Ministries of Edward Blake and Sir Oliver Mowat were strong in Ontario, but Sir John A. MacDonald and the Conservatives usually won a majority of Federal seats in the Province. The Union Nationale Party of Premier Duplessis dominates Quebec provincially but Mr. Duplessis is wise enough politically to know that this would mean little or nothing in a Federal contest. Mr. Drew himself, while he campaigned vigorously, when Premier of Ontario, was ineffectual in gaining enough Federal seats for his party to bring a change of government, although maintaining his strength in the Province. The critics can find little support for their argument that the August 10 result could have been altered appreciably by strong participation by the Frost Ministry.

In a bus was a dignified man carrying a pair of women's shoes. He had evidently collected them from the repair shop, and was taking them home to his wife. But he had not been supplied with packing material.

A man opposite was interested. Finally he leaned over, tapped the dignified one on the knee, and said, with a knowing wink: "That's right. Don't let 'er gad about, guv-'nor!"

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And he spake many things unto them in parables, saying, Behold, a sower went forth to sow; and when he sowed, some seeds fell by the way side, and the fowls came and devoured them up: some fell upon stony places, where they had not much earth: and forthwith they sprung up, because they had no deepness of earth: and when the sun was up, they were scorched; and because they had no root, they withered away. And some fell among thorns; and the thorns sprung up, and choked them: but others fell into good ground, and brought forth fruit, some an hundredfold, some sixtyfold, some thirtyfold . . .

And the disciples came, and said unto him, Why speakest thou unto them in parables? He answered and said unto them, Because it is given unto you to know the mysteries of the kingdom of heaven, but to them it is not given . . .

Hear ye therefore the parable of the sower.

When anyone heareth the word of the kingdom, and understandeth it not, then cometh the wicked one, and catcheth away that which was sown in his heart. This is he which received seed by the way side. But he that received the seed into stony places, the same is he that heareth the word, and anon with joy receiveth it; yet hath he not root in himself, but dureth for a while: for when tribulation or persecution ariseth because of the word, by and by he is offended. He also that received seed among the thorns is he that heareth the word; and the care of this world, and the deceitfulness of riches, choke the word, and he becometh unfruitful. But he that received seed into the good ground is he that heareth the word, and understandeth it; which also beareth fruit, and bringeth forth, some an hundredfold, some sixty, some thirty. (Matt. 13:3-8, 10, 11, 18-23.)

"The Giants Is Dead"

(Ottawa Citizen)

An American broadcaster, Allan Jackson of CBS, recently ventured into the quaking muskeg of grammar and English style. He explained how usage in some places prefers a collective noun to be followed by the plural form of a verb, while in others it favors the singular. For example: "The government are," or "the government is".

His text was a laconic four-word sentence uttered by Mr. Charley Dressen, manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers, with reference to the ancient enemy over in the Polo Grounds. Once a threat to the champions of the National League, the New Yorkers have fallen upon evil days since mid-season of this 1953 pennant race. This prompted Mr. Dressen to observe, not in any spirit of gloating but as a simple statement of incontrovertible fact, "The Giants is dead".

Someone appealed to the New York Board of Education on a point of grammar. One authority supported Mr. Dressen to the hilt. He took the Giants to be a collective noun, "just as you say the United States is, not are."

He pointed out that Mr. Dressen would have been in error had one member of the Giants been still alive. "But", observed the authority, obviously an embittered as well as a learned man, "every member of this entity is dead, hence the Giants is dead."

Queen and Duke Will Fly To Bermuda To Commence Commonwealth Tour

LONDON (Reuters)—The Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh will fly about 3,600 miles to Bermuda Nov. 23 to start a Commonwealth tour which will take them to New Zealand, Australia, Ceylon and Africa.

They will be away for nearly six months—until May 15. It is expected that a British Overseas Airways Corporation plane will take them to Bermuda and Jamaica.

SAIL NOVEMBER 27

At Jamaica they will join the 15,902-ton Shaw Savill liner Gothic Nov. 27 and sail through the Panama canal across the Pacific to Auckland, New Zealand.

On the way they will visit the crown colony of Fiji, mountainous and volcanic islands at the crossroads of the south Pacific, and the British-protected state of Tonga, whose Queen Salote attended the Coronation in London last June.

The royal couple will reach New Zealand Dec. 23. As the Gothic sails into the lovely Waitemata ("sparkling waters") harbor at Auckland, the Queen and her sailor-husband will be greeted by crews of up to 2,000 yachts and motorboats — some of them from ports hundreds of miles away.

The main part of the tour then begins. For the next six weeks they will visit race meetings, attend a Maori (native) gathering, hold royal garden parties and inspect New Zealand industries.

BROADCAST FROM AUCKLAND

On Christmas Day the Queen will broadcast to the Commonwealth from Auckland. Altogether they will see 44 New Zealand cities and towns before once more boarding the Gothic for a 14,500-mile tour of Australia.

They will land at Sydney in February. Again they will see a country at work and play, attending sports meetings, a life-saving display and visiting the mining areas of Broken Hill and other industrial districts.

The Royal couple will make 35 separate flights totalling nearly 10,000 miles during their two-month Australian tour. The longest will be from Adelaide, South Australia, to Kalgoorlie, Western Australia—a little over 1,000 miles.

The Duke of Edinburgh will visit the Woomera long-range missiles testing ground, where Britain plans to detonate her second atomic weapon in October. April 1 they join forces again to begin their homeward journey in the Gothic from Fremantle, Western Australia.

VISIT OTHER LANDS

On the way, they will visit other lands of the Commonwealth—Ceylon, Aden, Uganda, Malta and Gibraltar. They will arrive home at Buckingham Palace May 15.

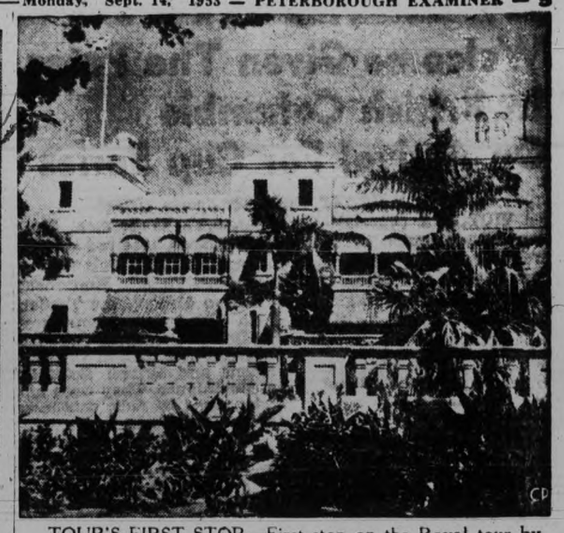
Uganda will be the only African stopover. They will fly there from Aden April 28 for a visit of three days which will include the official opening of an important dam at Owen Falls.

El Adem and Tobruk in Libya—names made familiar through the desert fighting in the Second World War—come next on the itinerary. At Tobruk, the Queen and her husband embark in the Royal yacht Britannia for the rest of the voyage.

Following is a list of the main dates and places to be visited during the Royal tour:

Nov. 23: Leave England by air for Bermuda in BOAC stratocruiser.
24: Arrive Bermuda.
25: Depart Bermuda by air. Arrive Montego Bay, Jamaica.
27: Depart Jamaica, from Kingston in liner Gothic.
Dec. 17: Arrive at Suva, Fiji Islands.
19: Depart Suva.
20: Visit Tonga.
23: Arrive at Auckland, New Zealand.
23-28: At Auckland.
28 to Jan. 1: Visit to area around Auckland.
Jan. 1-6: Rest at country home at Rotorua, in the Hot Springs district.
6-9: Visit to towns in southern part of North Island.
9-16: At Wellington, including visit to Mastertown Jan. 15.
16: Fly to Nelson.
17: Fly to Hokitika, drive to Greymouth.
18: By rail to Christchurch.
18-22: at Christchurch.
23-25: Rest at Long Beach.
28-30: At Invercargill, in southwesternmost tip of South Island.
30: Fly to Bluff, to board liner Gothic for Australia.
Feb. 3: Arrive at Sydney, Australia.
3-13: New South Wales.
13-18: Canberra.
20-24: Tasmania.
26 to March 9: Victoria.
March 9-18: Queensland.
19-26: South Australia.
26 to April 1: Western Australia.
Apr. 1: Leave Australia, for Fremantle.
5: Visit Cocos Islands.
10: Arrive at Colombo, Ceylon.
21: Leave Ceylon.
27: Arrive Aden.
28: Leave Aden, by air for Entebbe, Uganda.
30: Leave Uganda by air for El Adem.
May 1: Arrive El Adem. Embark in the Royal yacht Britannia at Tobruk for Malta.
3: Arrive Malta.
7: Leave Malta in Royal yacht Britannia, which will take the Queen and Duke of Edinburgh on the remainder of their voyage back to England.
10: Arrive Gibraltar.
11: Leave Gibraltar.
15: Arrive London.

WAITING FOR THE QUEEN—This Maori youngster, playing in a hot pool at Rotorua, North Island, New Zealand, is one of the thousands of children here looking forward to the visit of the Queen and Duke of Edinburgh next January. The Royal couple will spend New Year's day in Rotorua, largest health resort in the northern island's hot springs district. They will visit the Maori tribal centre and make sightseeing trips among spouting geyzers and boiling mud pits.



TOUR'S FIRST STOP—First stop on the Royal tour by the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh, starting next November, is Bermuda. They will fly there from London before continuing on to New Zealand and Australia. While in Bermuda they probably will visit Government House, shown here. It is the official residence of Bermuda's governor, Lt.-Gen. Sir Alexander Hood, and is ringed with royal palms and cedar trees.

QUEEN'S PACIFIC VISIT—The Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh will fly out of London next November on a round-the-world Commonwealth tour. Visiting first Bermuda, the West Indies and Jamaica, they will sail to Fiji, New Zealand and Australia. This map shows their route in the South Pacific. Due to arrive in Fiji December 17, the Tong Islands December 20, and December 23 at Auckland, N.Z., they leave the southern tip of New Zealand, at Bluff, January 30, 1954. They then go to Sydney, Australia, arriving February 3. April 1 they leave Fremantle on the west coast and go to the Cocos Islands April 5, before continuing their tour to Ceylon.

Expert Gives Advice

Play Dead To World If Burglar In Room

By JACK ERICKSON

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP)—If you hear a burglar rattling around in your bedroom, don't try to be a hero. Your best bet is to play dead to the world.

This advice on the proper nocturnal etiquette if a burglar crashes your boudoir comes from Prof. Richard L. Holcomb, State University of Iowa specialist in police methods and an authority on the lore of house-breaking.

A former Kansas City police lieutenant, Holcomb has assembled a complete compendium of breaking and entering in a book called "Protection against Burglary."

He worked both sides of the street in gathering his material.

"I talked at length with several highly skilled burglars now serving time," he says. "I found that one kind of burglar actually prefers to work in the same room where his victims are sleeping—so he can keep his eye on them."

EXTREMELY DANGEROUS

This type of burglar can be extremely dangerous. If he disturbs your slumber, the best thing to do is just go right on letting him think you're asleep.

"Don't sacrifice your life just to save $50, $100, or even $500 a burglar may find in your room," says Holcomb.

Other pointers Holcomb gleaned from the men who know house-breaking best:

That house key you hide under the porch flower pot is duck soup for a burglar to find.

A skilled burglar can get through any door and into any sort of place.

If you keep your money at home (which is foolish) don't brag about it.

The best safeguard against burglary in a place of business is to keep it well lighted.

NEED WATCHDOG

A smart watchdog is a good protection for your home, if he can be trained to bark and keep barking whenever an intruder comes around.

Some burglars haul away a safe, instead of trying to crack it on the spot, and open it at their leisure.

Most burglars, Holcomb says, tend to become specialists. Sometimes they even get into a rut.

"If a burglar has success in breaking in through rear windows, he may make a career of breaking in through rear windows even though there may be easier places to gain entrance."

On the other hand, some burglars are strictly opportunists. If they see a place that looks easy they'll break in on the spot without any advance planning.

MATINEE BURGLAR

Among the specialists is the "matinee burglar," who operates in the afternoons when many housewives are away at the movies, shopping or at the bridge club.

Another type is the "party burglar." He enters while a party is going full blast in one part of the house and heads for the room where guests have piled coats and purses.

If you hear a burglar before he has actually broken into your home, Holcomb advises, it's effective to turn on the lights and make some noise.

As for guns, their value is dubious, he says. Unless you're familiar with their use, it's not good policy to have them around. For every case where a gun has protected someone, there are 10 where a child or unsuspecting adult has been accidentally killed or wounded.

Tunisian Nationalist Murdered In Car

TUNIS, Tunisia (AP)—Hedi Chaker, 45, a member of the policy committee of the Tunisian nationalist Neo-Destour movement, was found shot to death Sunday in another outbreak of violence in troubled French North Africa.

Chaker's body was found a few miles from the house in Nabeul where French authorities had ordered him to live. He was arrested last year and sent off to southern Tunisia. He was released earlier this year and ordered to live in Nabeul so that he could not rally his old nationalist following in his native Sfax.

Chaker apparently was machine-gunned in a car, and his body was abandoned along the road to Grombalia.

Big Bang

KIRK HALLAM, England (CP)—Civil defence workers in this Derbyshire town used £2 worth of chemicals and a dustbin lid for a recent "atom bomb" exercise. They got a big bang and an orange flash, but wind spoiled the expected mushroom cloud.

Welcome Given The Petes In British Columbia On Arrival For Cup Series

By DON GRANT, Examiner Sports Writer

VICTORIA (Special)—Peterborough's Trailermen, Eastern Canada senior "A" lacrosse champions, received a warm welcome Sunday when they arrived in British Columbia to defend their 1952 Mann Cup title against Victoria Shamrocks. After an all-night flight from Malton airport, the Trailermen were first welcomed west by Dr. Frank Kenny, Canadian Lacrosse Association vice-president and British Columbia commissioner. They were also interviewed by radio announcers and newspapermen.

After a half-hour trip to Victoria on Vancouver Island, the Trailermen were greeted a second time by the Shamrock Club on their arrival at the island airport. There Shamrock Club president, John Wallace, the team manager, Ralph Baker, and club directors welcomed the Trailermen to Victoria and the series. They helped the Peterborough club to the Strathcona Hotel where the Trailermen will stay for the series.

Although the Petes had very little sleep during the flight, they were content to spend Sunday lounging around the hotel, sightseeing throughout the city or playing a few rounds of golf (arranged by the Victoria Club).

HAD A WORKOUT

After a night's rest, the Trailermen settled down today to working out a few tired muscles, as Bob Thorpe conducted a brief pre-game workout on the large Victoria memorial arena floor.

The Trailermen made the first step of the trip west to Toronto by car along with relatives and friends. There they caused considerable attention in their new navy blue jackets (sporting a white Mann Cup crest) and with their team ribbons of red, white, and black, hanging from a small plastic lacrosse stip in their lapels. During the first lap of the flight, to Winnipeg, most of the players were content to play cards or chat. After a hasty stop at Winnipeg, which saw the players dashing for the plane loaded with coffee and sandwiches, most of the Trailermen got a few hours of sleep.

WOKE UP IKE

During the 20-minute stopover at Saskatoon; the Trailermen roused teammate Ike Hildebrand from his bed. The popular player who is trying out with New York Rangers in camp in Saskatoon, will not likely see any action with the Trailermen in the final series.

After a few more hours sleep the Petes dropped down again at Edmonton for the final stop before British Columbia. Once awakened they stayed up to see the fast-developing Alberta oil fields, the rich farm lands of Southern Alberta and then finally the Rocky Mountains. Viewing the snow-capped, cloud-veiled peaks kept the boys busy during the last lap of the flight. A few who had made the trip west two years ago were satisfied to play rummy rather than see the sights.

P. Skitch Wins Empress Cup On Greens Here

For the second consecutive year the veteran Percy Skitch, from Lindsay, piloted his rink to win the Empress Hotel Shield at the open trebles tournament held on the local greens Saturday afternoon and evening. J. Hunter of Oshawa was a close second with M. Booth from Cobourg being the third three-game winner.

Playing under weather conditions that would discourage most bowlers, the tournament commenced around two p.m. and was concluded by 10 o'clock.

Those heavy rains early Saturday morning and then that drizzle during the last game did not help very much. However, the boys, showing good sportsmanship, played the games through.

The committee appreciates this fine gesture.

HANDLED WELL

Roy Lewis and his committee ran everything in fine style. It's the last open tourament for men, this season.

There were entries from Cannington, Lindsay, Campbellford, Cobourg, Port Hope, Oshawa and Peterborough.

WINNERS

Lindsay, O. Cuthbert, B. Everson, P. Skitch skip. First, Empress Hotel Shield and each a silver plated water pitcher donated by Dr. D. Kerr.

Oshawa: F. Keller, C. Lister, J. Hunter, skip. Second, each a blanket.

Cobourg: C. Cooper, G. Handley, M. Booth, skip. Third, each a blanket.

Peterborough: F. Turner, F. Hapgood, C. Jay, skip. Fourth, each a verandah chair.

Port Hope: B. Dawson, J. Adams, J. McTaggart, skip. Fifth, each a sport shirt.

Peterborough: E. Mesley, E. Robbins, W. Jolley, skip. Sixth, each a sport shirt.

Peterborough: C. McIntyre, H. Taylor, I. Cipin, skip. Seventh, each a belt.

The ladies are holding their last open tournament to-morrow, play begins at 10 a.m. It's atreble tournament. There will be a pot luck lunch at the noon hour.

Oshawa Runner Sets Track Record At CNE

TORONTO (CP)—Jack Bell, a husky Negro runner from the Oshawa Shamrock Club, set a track record and then equalled it Saturday in the Canadian National Exhibition junior track meet.

Bell covered the 100 yards in the first heat of the boys' under 20 years competition in 10.2 seconds, one-tenth of a second better than the previous record set in 1949 by Don McFarlane of Hamilton.

Bell came back to win the 100-yard event final and was again clocked in 10.2.

U.S. Players Win Most Of Table Tennis Titles

TORONTO (CP)—United States players won most of the awards in the national and international table tennis championships which ended Saturday night at the Canadian National Exhibition.

Art Barran of Vancouver was the only Canadian player to take an international title, winning 21-13, 21-13 and 21-11 over Gerry Campbell of Altoona, Pa., in the senior men's singles for players over 35 years.

Lionel Cloutier of Montreal defeated Paul Belanger, also of Montreal, 13-21, 22-20, 22-20, 11-21, 21-19 to win the Canadian closed men's singles.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

A story elsewhere tonight tells of Oddfellows dropping out of OHA junior "B" hockey here for the next year, though willing to run a juvenile team in the OMHA to keep a hand in. This isn't good news by any means, as Peterborough definitely should have a junior club in the Ontario Hockey Association. Wonder if Marines or one of the other juve clubs would step up for a season. Belleville, too, seems to be having trouble lining up junior backing, but Kingston, Lindsay and likely Oshawa will go again in this grouping. In a good puck spot like this we need a club between the PMHA juves and the senior "B" Petes to take care of players coming up the ladder.

* * * * * * *

The IOOF club did a grand job for eight years in carrying on—and they hope to resume in another year. But they took a financial beating right along and reluctantly have to drop out of the OHA for a year. They were a credit to sports and to the community, and many former junior players owe a lot to the Triple Links. Civic Arena isn't an ideal setup for packing in large crowds, except perhaps in playoffs, and the juniors don't draw well here. Also, some of the better juniors let their team down last semester by treking to paid play in TVL tilts. All these things work a hardship on a junior club trying to make a go of it. If we only had that Memorial Centre.

Big Bill Heading East

Bashing Bill McMaster heads east from his harvesting job on his dad's Saskatchewan farm shortly and hopes to catch on with the OHA Petes this season. Big, fast and colorful, Bill is a pretty fair defenceman and we'd like to see him make it. Played here ere going to Lake Placid for a season and then proving a popular puckist in Scotland the past two winters. Local fans liked him when he did his stuff for Red Creighton and Ed Foley in the feuding Legion-Petes' campaigns. Should Bill make it, the Petes would have a right husky defence, as Jim Munroe may be out, Keith Montgomery, and other hefty prospects as well as playing coach Eddie Redmond, a heavyweight. There'll be a real scramble for berths next month.

Plenty of harness horse racing coming up this week. They go for five afternoons and five evenings at the Peterborough Exhibition commencing tomorrow. A total of $3,700 in purses, a record here, to attract the pick of pacers and trotters in the province, not forgetting some fine horses in the city and district. Some afternoons there'll be two races with one that night, other days will see one in the aft and two at night under the arcs— two heats to a race. All classes right up to the Saturday free-for-all, with a $500 purse for that one. The race committee of the Ex. board has been busy for some time and reports considerable interest from race-owners in this five-day meet at Morrow Park.

Ready As They'll Ever Be

Word is wafted back from the west coast that the Petes' Trailermen arrived on schedule in Victoria, B. C., and bedded down for a needed rest. A light workout to loosen up and get accustomed to the large arena floor. Most of the Petes played on that floor twice in 1951, once in a playoff game and later in an exhibition after capturing the Canadian senior "A" lacrosse crown for the first time. The best-of-seven Mann Cup series opens tonight there, next games being Wednesday and Friday evenings, Pacific Coast time. We should have the complete account of the opening playoff around nine a.m. Tuesday.

Clayt Browne comments: "The present CLA probably is gleeful to the point of overflowing. For Victoria filled their million-dollar arena for every home playoff with Vancouver and that means corn in Egypt for all hands. So plane fares, of $288.55 return, for say, some 20 persons, will be merely a passel of hay to the CLA in the event they pack in 6,000 souls a game. It is unlikely any city could erect a costly arena with less than 10,000 seats and, if Peterborough and their 1952 record can attract the latter figure to the four-game series, it will just about constitute a record for Canadian lacrosse. In the event it went the extreme limit of seven, nothing but bundles of boodle would be garnered." Mm, what a cash-and-carry comment!

Cunningham Wins Decision Over Carter

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Johnny Cunningham, a Baltimore welterweight who wasn't supposed to belong in the same ring with a champion, startled an audience of 1,800 in the City Auditorium by winning a split decision over lightweight king Jimmy Carter in a 10-round string-bean Cunningham, winner of only eight out of 35 professional fights, peppered Carter with long, stinging left hand punches and drove him to cover several times in the early rounds while piling up a point margin the champion couldn't overcome.

Lacrosse Talk Drowned Out Famous Salmon Fishing

By DON GRANT, Examiner Staff Reporter

VICTORIA. — If Peterborough people feel that their Kawartha Lakes centre is the hottest lacrosse city in Canada they should spend a few minutes in this Western Canada centre. Everyone is talking about the Canadian senior lacrosse championship which opens tonight between the Peterborough Trailermen and the Victoria Shamrocks.

Lacrosse chatter has even drowned out the fishing tales about this district's great Cohoe salmon fishing.

It's lacrosse now and will likely be for the next two weeks. At noon Sunday there was only standing room left in the city Memorial Arena which has a capacity of 5,700. This means that more than 4,000 reserve seats have been sold for the opening game. At the same time the fans are picking up tickets for the next three games and those are expected to be sell-outs.

These western lacrosse fans expect the series to go beyond the four-game mark, probably requiring at least the full seven games before a winner is declared.

They feel that this year's Western Canadian champions are at least equal to the 1952 Mann Cup champions and that the Rocks could easily upset the Trailermen for Victoria's first Mann Cup in 34 years.

ADD TWO PLAYERS

On the weekend, the Shamrocks were straightened when they added Lew Landers of Vancouver Indians and Jack Byford of Vancouver Pilseners to their lineup.

These players will be replacements for the injured Bill Jobb and playing-coach Red McMillan. McMillan, in announcing the acquisition of Landess and Byford said that he felt it only right to start with the team that won the Intercity Lacrosse championship. Therefore it is quite likely, that Landess and Byford won't see action until Wednesday night's game, the second of the series.

McMillan announced his starting lineup would have Jim Hetherington, in goal; fronted by Bill Bamford, Bob Anderson, Tom Druce and Bobby Monaghan. Larry Booth, who has recovered from injuries which kept him out of the final western series will again be working with stars Archie Browning and Whitey Severson. Browning will be playing with a broken finger in cast.

Al Gill, who has been subbing for Booth, will be moved back, to the second line with Arnie Ferguson and Jackie Northcup while the third Rocks line will include Norm Coates, Harry Irwin and Duff McCaghey.

Expecting a tougher series than last year's championship with Vancouver Pilseners(won in four straight) coach Bob Thorpe said that the Trailermen feel the opening game the most important, adding "that we want that first game badly."

The Trailermen will enter the finals without four regulars, Jerry Fitzgerald, Ike Hildebrand, Grant Burns and Brian Robinson.

Fitzgerald, a Scarboro High School teacher couldn't make the trip, while Hildebrand had commitments with the New York Rangers who are in training camp at Saskatoon.

High cost prevented the Trailermen carrying Robinson and Burns since the Canadian Lacrosse Assocation only pays for 17 players.

Therefore Thorpe will have Lloyd (Moon) Wootton in goal with Joe Hickson on reserve in case of injuries. On defence will be Nip O'Hearn, Harry Wipper, Lou Nickle and replacement Derry Davies, who played with St. Catharines during the regular schedule.

Curly Mason is expected to start at centre, flanked by Roger Smith and Russ Slater, Ross Powless working from the rover position.

Along with Thorpe on the second line will be Don Ashbee, Dootch Vitarelli and Ken Croft, picked up from Toronto West Yorks.

Also ready for action will be Gary Robinson, Mick Magee and Bob Batley.

Wm. Moulton Captures City Golf Title

Bill Moulton of Kawartha Club won the men's Peterborough city golf championship and the J. E. Girven Trophy yesterday over Les Reid of the Peterborough Club six and five. The 36-hole club competition was changed this year to match play from medal play, Les being the winner last year. The trophy will be presented at the closing day ceremonies later this month.

Playing under adverse weather conditions, before a slim gallery, Bill took the first four holes, and at the end of 18 he was up three, play finishing on the 31st hole to give him the title by six and five. Don Vyse was referee for the match.

Minto Cup Playoffs

TORONTO (CP)—Long Branch Monarchs will play New Westminster Salmonacs in the first game of their best-of-five Canadian junior lacrosse championship series tonight at suburban Mimico Stadium, it was announced Sunday. All games in the series, for the Minto Cup, will be played at Mimico. The other dates are Sept. 16, 18 and if necessary, 19 and 21.

Windsor Clips Sarnia

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Windsor AKO, defending Canadian junior football champions, trimmed Sarnia Knights of Columbus 16-6 Saturday night in the opening game of the local Junior Ontario Rugby Football Union season.

Kawartha Gets Tennis Title In Close Play

The Kawartha Tennis Club took the championship of the Kawartha Tennis League and the Morrow Trophy for the third straight year over the weekend in the closest of competitions with Port Hope. It was the final of the home-and-home final series, with Port Hope winning the first playoff 4-3, and Kawartha taking the second by a similar score.

This left the series tied at seven matches each. According to league rules, in such a case the decision is reached by counting games and Kawartha had a three-game margin in the totals of the 14 matches to gain the title. The final matches were staged in Port Hope.

In ladies' singles, Maurice Charlton won from Donna Reid, of Port Hope, 6-3 and 6-1. Men's singles also saw a Kawartha victory, Willard Elmsley defeating J. Plummer 6-2, 6-1. Port Hope took the ladies' doubles, Doris Jennings and E. Hunter being successful over Joan Lye and Dorothy Hunter 6-1, 6-3. Kawartha took both men's doubles, the first going to F. Hunter and J. Thicke over J. Pillsworth and T. Fulford 6-2, 6-2; and the second to Ron Lye and Ted Mercer against Ray Clark and D. Dillon 6-2, 6-0. In the first mixed doubles, P. Lewis and M. Douglas, of Port Hope, won from John Hickman and Janet Collins 6-2 and 6-0. The second mixed was taken by default by George Sneyd and Doris Sneyd, of Port Hope, 6-0, 6-0.

Jessup Heads Sports Writers

FRENCH RIVER (CP) — Britt Jessup of the North Bay Nugget Sunday was elected president of the Ontario Sports Writers and Sportscasters Association, succeeding R. W. Hewiston of the Toronto Telegram.

Other officers elected at the annual meeting of the association at this resort centre were: first vice-president, Rex Stimers, CKTB, St. Catharines; second vice-president, Laurie Brain, Galt Reporter; third vice - president, Wes McKnight, CFRB, Toronto; secretary - treasurer Fraser MacDougall, The Canadian Press, Toronto.

Elected to the executive were Harry Eisen, London Free Press; James Vipond, Toronto Globe and Mail; Milt Dunnell, Toronto Star; Jack Berry, Canadian Pacific Railway, Toronto; Len Taylor, Kitchener-Waterloo Record; T. N. Morrison, Welland Port Colborne Tribune.

McKnight announced that the Association's next annual sport celebrity dinner for crippled children, which netted more than $12,000 last year, would be held Feb. 18 at Toronto.

Smiths Falls Club Drops Out For Year

SMITHS FALLS (CP) — The Smiths Falls Rideau Hockey Club decided at a week-end meeting to withdraw the team from competition for one year.

Spencer King, secretary of the club, said the decision by the executive and shareholders was made for financial reasons. He said the club has a deficit of $3,250, and added that it received $4,675 from Allan Cup playoffs this spring despite a promise of $6,000 from the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association.

The Rideau team reached the eastern finals of Allan Cup competition before being eliminated by Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen.

IOOF Suspends Operations As OHA Junior "B" Club But Will Operate Juvenile

Following a lengthy meeting of the executive of the local OHA junior "B" Oddfellows, President Herb Youngs made the announcement to the public that the IOOF will not operate a junior team this winter in the Ontario Hockey Association. "We hope to be able to resume junior hockey sponsorship here in another year," Mr. Youngs told The Examiner, "and we will run a juvenile "A" team in the OMHA, as an affiliate of the PMHA, this coming season to aid younger Peterborough hockeyists. But we reluctantly had to forego a junior sponsorship for the 1953-54 season owing to financial difficulties. We are still paying off last winter's bills."

DIDN'T DRAW

The Oddfellows' hockey president went on to say that the juniors do not draw well here and it is necessary to raise money in other ways to carry on in OHA competition. He also felt that some of the players had let the club down last winter by going off to play for pay in the Trent Valley League instead of being on hand for all junior practices and games at home and away. He was critical of the TVL for allowing OHA juniors to compete in that independent intermediate circuit of this district.

Spin Hope is to be the manager of the juvenile Oddfellows this year, with Glyn Edwards— long a valued hockey worker in the organization— acting as an advisor for the club. Meantime, the franchise to operate a junior "B" team in the OHA this coming winter season is open for a year here, if any other sponsor wishes to carry on. The local club usually operates in a group with Kingston, Belleville, Oshawa, Lindsay and sometimes Port Hope or Cobourg.

VALUABLE WORK

In eight years of operating a junior "B" club in Peterborough, the Triple Links have filled a valuable spot in the local hockey setup, that bridging the gap between PMHA (minor hockey) teams and the senior "B" Petes, IOOF puck officials have worked hard— without any financial appeal to the public— year after year to develop good young hockeyists here. They have supplied fine senior "B" players to the Petes, boys such as Freddy Mortomer, Chum Fryia, Don Floyd, Ted Collins and others, and had George (Red) Sullivan—now with Boston Bruins —at one time on their club.

Gratton Harris was a prime mover in starting IOOF-sponsored junior hockey here after the second world war, when no other club would touch it. They got going in 1946 and didn't miss a season since, playing in Lakefield and Omemee before Civic Arena was built. Some of the club coaches in that period included Doug Mortimer, Archie Weir, Bun Kingdon and Johnny Godfrey. They suffered a bad loss of all equipment during the big downtown fire of several years ago— when four fire-fighters died — but the club got busy with bingoes, etc., and replaced this equipment in time for the following puck season.

CLUB A CREDIT

Oddfellows was a well-run sports club, a credit to the community, and highly respected by the OHA and opposing clubs in group play and in playoffs, which they made frequently. They had partial sponsorship for a time by Boston Bruins, but later continued as a completely independent club until financial obligations forced the executive reluctantly to suspend OHA operations for a year, though doggedly remaining in the puck picture by running a juvenile team.

Mexico Wins First Tuna Championship

By KINGSLEY BROWN, Jr.
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WEDGEPORT, N.S. (CP) — Dr. Rodolfo Araujo's 723-pound catch won Mexico its first championship of the international tuna tournament Saturday.

In one of the most thrilling climaxes of the tournament's 16-year history, the tiny Mexico City obstetrician, who had never caught a tuna in his life, hooked the whopper as the fog lifted on nearby Lobster bay. He landed it in an hour and 45 minutes.

It was the biggest of the four fish caught during the three-day tournament that was spoiled when a hurricane last Monday scattered tuna seaward. Four was the smallest number ever caught in the matches.

Three tuna were caught Saturday. Argentina had held the lead since Thursday on the strength of a 158-pounder landed by Pablo Bardins.

NONE GET FISH

Argentina, Cuba and Holland placed after Mexico in that order and none of the other six teams landed a fish. Venezuela's Julio de las Casas lost a big one after a five-minute struggle.

The standing: Mexico, 1,239 points; Argentina 608; Cuba 501; Holland 480. Scoreless were the United States, the British Commonwealth, Brazil, France, Venezuela and Chile. Cuba has won three times and Chile once. Scoring is based on poundage, with bonuses for the biggest and most fish of the day and the match.

The tournament was saved for the second consecutive year by the alternate fishing hole at Lobster bay, discovered last year when fishing was not good on Soldier's Rip, which in good weather is the world's best tuna fishing ground. After a storm the best spot is the bay, where all four fish were caught.

Yankees Trample Cleveland In 6-3 Triumph

By JOE REICHLER, Associated Press Sports Writer

Today is V-Day for manager Casey Stengel and his New York Yankees. V stands for five, the record number of consecutive pennants Stengel and his Yanks are certain of winning, a feat never accomplished before by club or manager. The world champions reduced their "magic number" to two Sunday by defeating Cleveland Indians 6-3 on a Johnny Mize pinch-hit home run with two on in the eighth. The triumph boosted the Yankee lead over the Tribe to 12 games.

Two Yankee victories or Indian defeats are all that is needed to gain New York's fifth straight pennant. A New York victory over Cleveland today would eliminate the Tribe.

FADE OUT OF RACE

Chicago White Sox officially faded out of the pennant race Sunday, losing 7-6 to the Red Sox in Boston. In other American League games, Detroit solidified its hold on sixth place, sweeping a doubleheader from Washington 10-4 and 6-4 while St. Louis Browns and Philadelphia A's divided.

The Browns spoiled Ottawa's rookie righthander Bob Trice's major league debut, defeating the Negro 5-2 in the opener. The A's won the second 2-0 as Harry Byrd ended a personal nine-game losing streak.

Chicago's seventh-place Cubs extended their winning streak to nine straight, defeating the champion Brooklyn Dodgers 3-2 in 10 innings. St. Louis Cardinals rolled up 19 hits, crushing Philadelphia Phils 17-3 for Harvey Haddix' 18th win.

Warren Spahn won his 20th as Milwaukee split a doubleheader with New York Giants. Joe Adcock's 18th homer with a man on enabled Spahn to win a 2-1 duel from Larry Jansen in the opener. Five unearned runs in the fourth inning gave Marv Grissom and the Giants a 7-4 victory in the nightcap, called on account of darkness after eight innings.

WIN SECOND GAME

After Pittsburgh's Paul Lapalme pitched a seven-hit 5-4 triumph in the opener, Cincinnati came back to win the second game 8-6 to hand the Pirates' Murry Dickson his 19th defeat. Rookie Jim Greengrass hit his 19th homer for the Redlegs. Frank Thomas hit his 23rd four-bagger for Pittsburgh and teammate Preston Ward hammered two in the nightcap.

Mize was the Yankee hero. The 40-year-old pinch-hitter de luxe strode out of the dugout with men on first and second, one out in the eighth, the score tied 3-3 and whacked Mike Garcia's first pitch into the right field stands for a three-run homer. It was his third pinch hit homer of the season, his fifth as a Yankee and the sixth of his long career.

Reliever Harry Dorish walked Milt Bolling with the bases filled in the eighth to force in the winning run in the Red Sox' victory over the White Sox.

Randy Jackson singled in the 10th and eventually scored on Joe Garagiola's grounder to score the run that gave the Cubs their longest win streak since their 11 straight in 1945. Warren Hacker went the distance for the Cubs to record his 11th triumph against 18 defeats.

Fresno Rockets Softball Champs

TORONTO (CP)—Fresno Rockets defeated Orange Lionettes 2-0 Saturday night to become 1953 womens' world softball champions.

The two California clubs battled to the wire after surviving six days of double-knockout competition among a field of 19 top United States and Canadian teams.

Rockets' victory, their second by the same score over Orange, broke Lionettes' world championship streak at three.

Orange entered the final with a 5-0 victory over Denver in a rain-interrupted semi-final earlier Saturday.

Toronto Kalyx bunched five hits on top of three opposition errors in the first inhing to whip Regina Legion 10-0 in a sudden-death game Sunday for the Canadian women's softball championship. Winning pitcher Olga Murray held Regina off the scoreboard with a four-hit performance.

Red Wings Leading League As Playoffs Ready To Start

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

It's in the book as far as the International League is concerned.

The curtain was rung down on the 1953 schedule Sunday with Rochester Red Wings atop the eight team league with a comfortable seven-game lead.

Montreal Royals ended in second place, two games ahead of Buffalo Bisons. The last playoff spot was held by Baltimore Orioles, 15 games behind the pace.

Out of the select circle were Toronto, Ottawa, Syracuse and Springfield.

In the playoffs, Rochester meets Baltimore and Montreal tangles with Buffalo, both series best-of-seven affairs.

The survivors meet in another best-of-seven series for the Governor's Cup.

The Baltimore-Rochester series opens at Rochester Tuesday and Wednesday with the next three games at Baltimore. The Montreal-Buffalo series opens at Montreal Tuesday and Wednesday with the next three games at Buffalo. If further games are necessary, they will be played at Rochester and Montreal respectively.

TAKE TWIN BILL

At Montreal Sunday, the Royals took a twin bill from Buffalo, 5-1 and 7-4 before a chilled attendance of 3,891. Saturday, Buffalo took the first game 7-5 and tied the second 4-4 after eight innings.

In the opener Sunday, Sandy Amoros belted his 23rd circuit clout of the season with a man on in the third frame and it proved to be the winner. Ed Roebuck was the winner, scoring his 15th win in 29 starts. In the nightcap, Hamp Coleman tamed the herd on four hits to score his eighth win in a dozen decisions.

At Toronto, Ottawa Athletics came from behind in both games to sweep a doubleheader from the Leafs, 2-1 and 6-3, the latter in an extra inning. Toronto downed Ottawa 7-1 Saturday.

Centrefielder Joe Taylor was the big gun for Ottawa, slamming two home runs. He accounted for both Ottawa runs in the first game with a last-chance homer in the top of the ninth with one on.

Taft Wright won the second game with a bases-empty homer in the extra inning. Taylor's second four-bagger put the game on ice.

DIVIDE DOUBLEHEADER

At Syracuse, Springfield Cubs and Syracuse Chiefs split a doubleheader, pitcher Jack Griffore driving in the run that gave the Chiefs a 3-2 win in the 11-inning opener.

The Cubs bounced back with 15 hits to rout the Chiefs 8-3 in the nightcap.

At Rochester, the champion Wings and Baltimore divided their season windup. Baltimore won the opener 4-2 and the Red Wings came from behind to take the nightcap 6-5 in eight innings.

Righthander Bob Greenwood struck out 11 in the opener to pick up his 11th win. Jack Grimian took the loss. Jordan singled in the winning run in the eighth inning of the nightcap to get his eighth victory against one defeat.

Rochester took the first game Saturday 5-1 and Baltimore the second 2-1 in 10 innings.

Ireland Defeats England 2-1

COLERAINE, Northern Ireland (AP)—Ireland put up a sparkling performance Saturday to confound the prophets and defeat England 2-1 in their amateur soccer international.

The Irish forwards shone during the first half and McDowell scored with a 20-yard shot from a pass by Cunningham.

Lewish headed in the equalizer shortly after the restart but Coyle managed to sneak in the winning goal for the Irishmen only three minutes from the end.

U.S. Makes Clean Sweep Of Series Against Canada

By BOB JOYCE

MONTREAL (CP)—The United States turned a 3-0 win into a clean sweep Sunday against Canada in the North American zone tennis finals of the Davis Cup, but had to fight to do it.

Paul Willey of Vancouver and Bob Bedard of Sherbrooke, Que., both newcomers to international cup competition this year, put America's second-string on its toes in the closing singles, but failed to halt them.

Straight Clark, a lanky Californian from Pasadena, found the flaws in Willey's game to put him away 7-5, 6-2, 6-0, while Bernard Bartzen of San Angelino, Tex., wrapped it up after dropping a set to Bedard, 6-4, 7-5, 1-6, 6-0.

It was the 10th victory for the U.S. over Canada. During the three days of play the Canadians failed to better their score of two match victories over the Americans in the last 30 years. Canada has never defeated the U.S. in Davis Cup competition.

TAKE NO CHANCES

The Americans, taking no chances on an upset in a year in which they hope to recover the cup from Australia, sent in their two top players, Tony Trabert and Vic Seixas, to make sure of victory.

The U.S. national singles champion and the 1953 Wimbledon champion brushed aside Canada's best, Henri Rochon of Montreal and Lorne Main of Toronto in the opening singles Friday. They clinched the series for the U.S. Saturday when Trabert and Seixas beat Willey and Main in doubles, 3-6, 6-2, 6-3, 6-2.

Trabert and Seixas, a long gruelling circuit of international tournaments behind them, didn't live up to their reputations, but they were sufficiently superior to dispose of the Canadians.

In doubles, played in a steady drizzle, neither was outstanding, although they broke through the Canadian serve five times during the match. Willey aced Seixas twice and Main aced him once, while the sole U.S. ace of the match was delivered by Trabert against Willey.

AGGRESSIVE PLAYER

In Sunday's first match Willey proved an aggressive player at the net, and got in several good angled volleys which coupled with a powerful service, worried Clark in the early games of the opening set.

But by the end of the ninth game Clark, ranked No. 11 in the U.S. last year, began to get the feel of Willey's serve, and discovered the Canadian's weakness, his backhand.

Bedard opened the second match fast, aceing Bartzen in the opening game, forcing the American to deuce four times before he held his service in the second, and breaking through the Canadian's service in the seventh and ninth on placements, and won the set 6-4.

The Canadian, however, extended him in the second to 7-5, scoring points on the American's errors and forcing him to go to deuce four times on set game in the twelfth. Bedard's service was broken in the 11th.

RATTLES AMERICAN

The Sherbrooke lad combined top-spin forehands and drop shot kills to rattle the American in the third set, and Bartzen continually hit out. Bedard broke Bartzen's serve in the second and fourth games, and took Canada's second set of the series.

The American moved in fast to the net on the next set, broke through Bedard's serve in the second, fourth and sixth games, and turned back a threatened breakthrough on his own service in the third with a cross-court placement after the game was deuced five times.

Cobourg Takes Grid Win Over Oshawa

COBOURG (ENS) — Overcoming a one-point deficit at the end of the first half here, Cobourg Galloping Ghosts defeated Oshawa Red Raiders by the score of 16-7 on Saturday to retain second place in the Central Ontario ORFU league. This puts the Ghosts one game behind Peterborough. Oshawa is in the cellar with Toronto Marauders.

Oshawa had only one quarter in the hard-hitting game when they came from behind a 6-1 Ghost lead in the second to tie up the count and then edge ahead by on point. The Oshawa crew opened the scoring on the first play of the game when Red Alexander was rouged on Burkhart's long kick-off. The Ghosts came right back from the Oshawa's 52 on runs by Alexander, Reeves and Aubrey McGee. The Raiders held at their own one-yard line for a single play and then Jim Sellers went wide around the end for a major score. Art Jones made the convert. In the second quarter the Raiders' star quarter, Loreno, hit fast-moving end Hood with a pass in the end zone from the Ghost 10 and the game was all tied up. A rouge gave Oshowo another point as the first half ended.

With the start of the third quarter, Alexander reeled off a 30-yard run to set them up on the Oshawa 10 and Jim Sellers plunged over for the second Cobourg touchdown, which Jones converted. Jones booted a placement right after the opening whistle of the fourth, bucking a strong wind off Lake Ontario. Jones tried another placement as the game came to a close but was wide. An official ruling of illegal blocking on the placement attempt gave the Ghosts their final point.

The Ghosts line was a big improvement over their mid-week loss to Peterborough, and Larue's kicking was a feature. Loreno was the star for the losers as he turned in a good effort against the superior Ghosts.

Ottawa Riders Batter Argonauts 20-16

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Dazzling Billy Vessels, Edmonton's fleet back from the Oklahoma Sooners, personally put his team atop the Western Interprovincial Football Union Saturday night.

Vessels snapped on touchdown pass and swept 40 yards for another major as the Eskimos pummelled Saskatchewan Roughriders 13-1. The victory broke a first-place tie and put the Eskimos in the lead with eight points, two ahead of Winnipeg Blue Bombers, who lost 23-14 to Calgary Stampeders.

In the East, Ottawa's surging Rough Riders battered down a desperate Toronto Argonaut rally Saturday to climb into a three-way tie for first place in the Big Four Football Union. The 20-16 win over the Canadian champions put Ottawa atop the four-club heap along with Hamilton Tiger-Cats and Montreal Alouettes.

The powerful Eskimos, watched by a capacity hometown crowd of 15,300, counted converted touchdowns in the first and third quarters and added a single in the final. Frank Tripucka, last year with Dallas Texans, counted Saskatchewan's only point, in the first quarter.

INITIAL MAJOR

Edmonton's initial major came in the first four minutes. The Eskimos swept up a Saskatchewan fumble, cracked through for a first down and then Vessels gathered in a pass from Rollie Miles for the touchdown, converted by Ted Tully.

Tully's convert also was good in the third quarter after Vessels raced around the left end of the Roughrider line, cut back and went 40 yards for a touchdown. Eskimos' final point came in the last quarter when tackle Charlie Genther rouged Ken Charlton on Rod Pantages' kick.

At Calgary the Stampeders snapped a two-game losing streak by a final-quarter rally. The Stamps fired two converted touchdowns late in the game to take the decision before a crowd of 12,000.

Leading the Calgary attack was Pete Thodos who snatched passes from quarter Frankie Albert for two touchdowns. Another major came from a John Henry Johnson plunge. Albert went through for another on a quarterback sneak. Winnipeg majors were by Tommy Ford and Neill Armstrong, both converted.

HELD OFF RALLY

Ottawa, endangered by the collapse of their own pass defence, managed to hold off a spectacular Argo rally which scored 15 points.

Ottawa counted touchdowns in the first, second and fourth quarters, leading 13-1 before Argos took fire behind Knobby Wirkowski's fine passing. He completed 12 of 25 heaves for a total of 282 yards.

Gene Roberts, who scored three points on a single and two converts, also counted one Ottawa major, the others going to Bernie Flowers and Bob Simpson. The other Riders' points were by Avatus Stone, who booted singles.

The Argos, in the final quarter, were sparked by Joe Scudero, formerly with University of California, who crossed the goal line twice. Scudero grabbed a 43-yard pass from Wirkowski to whisk away for 42 yards to score the first of his majors.

His second came on a 11-yard pass from Wirkowski after the Toronto quarter heaved a 40-yarder to Al Pfeifer for a 53-yard gain to the Ottawa 11. The Argos moved 45 yards for their final major, Curtis grabbing a 35-yard pass.

In the senior Ontario Rugby Football Union Toronto Balmy Beach overwhelmed injury-ridden Brantford Redskins 31-0 Saturday night while Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen celebrated the return of senior football to their city by downing Sarnia Imperials 20-16.

Kitchener's victory sent them in front with six points, two ahead of Toronto and Sarnia, tied for second place. Brantford has yet to win a game.

Beaches rolled to a 20-0 halftime lead on the strength of an air and ground attack that bowled over the fighting Redskins, who played the last half without a regular quarter after Dave Anderson and Addie Harras were hurt.

Jack Barry starred for Toronto, speeding for three touchdowns.

About 2,000 fans watched the contest at Kitchener, where senior football hadn't been seen for 10 years. Sarnia led 15-14 at the end of the third quarter but Kitchener came through with a 55-yard march climaxed by Jack Mancos smashing through for a touch on two plunges from 22 yards out.

Car Leaves Road

CAMPBELLFORD — (ENS) — The only accident reported to the OPP here on the weekend was a minor one in which only one vehicle was involved.

A car driven by 59-year-old Richard Bannon, of Campbellford, went off the road into the ditch when it struck a soft shoulder on a county road a short distance south of Hastings. Damage amounted to about $75. There were no injuries.

SHARE CHESS HONORS

WINNIPEG (CP)—A 25-year-old University of Toronto student and a master law student from Oxford University became co-holders of the Canadian chess championship Saturday.

Frank Anderson, who this year enters U. of T. as a maths and physics student, clinched a tie with Winnipeg's Abe Yanofsky, recently graduated from Oxford with a master's degree in law.

Yanofsky, British chess champion, drew his final-round game with Paul Viatonis of Hamilton, defending Canadian champion. Anderson won from George Berner of Toronto in 47 moves. The Yanofsky Viatonis match went 60 moves.

Dr. N. J. Divinski of Winnipeg, first vice-president of the Canadian Chess Federation, said after a meeting Sunday that the federation decided to declare the men co-champions instead of holding a playoff. A match will be arranged sometime in the future.

The other ninth-round matches went to Gerald Fielding of Saskatoon over Ross Siemms of Toronto in 36 moves and to Jack Taylor of Vancouver over R. E. A. Doe of Calgary in 10 moves.

Standing at the end of the final round with points earned of a possible eight: Yanofsky 7, Anderson 7, Viatonis 6, Berner 4½, Fielding 4½, Siemms 4, Taylor 2, Doe ½ and Tauno Saila of Vancouver, who had a bye in the final round, ½.

THE Calvert SPORTS COLUMN

by Elmer Ferguson

The most important toe in the sports world does not, oddly enough, belong to a soccer player, a football or rugby ace. In fact, this toe isn't employed in any part of the kicking business.

The toe belongs to the greatest shot-putter the world has ever known, big Parry O'Brien of Southern California University, Olympic champion and world record-holder in the business of heaving the 16-pound missile for distance.

Just how did a toe become important to a shot-putter? You might ask. And the story is this:

In 1950, O'Brien had set a national college freshman record of 53 ft. 10½ in. Instead of being satisfied, his coach, Jess Mortensen began experimenting with O'Brien to the extent that by the athlete's sophomore year his putting style had been completely rebuilt.

Under the new style Parry's right toe is the key to his success. Most shot putters stand squared away in the ring but when he puts the shot O'Brien's big toe is pointed toward the rear of the circle. Among other things this means that his heel and back are to the direction of the put.

Mortensen believes this vastly improved O'Brien's leg drive. Whatever did it, progressively this young stalwart has broken the National Collegiate Athletic shotput record, set a new mark for the National A.A.U., established the all-time Olympic record, and beaten Jim Fuch's world record. His most recent mark, when this was written, was two and three-quarter inches beyond the 59-foot mark.

Back in 1904, Ralph Rose was putting the 16-pound shot approximately 49 feet, at the time a tremendous heave which nobody believed would ever be excelled. Rose, a giant of a man, put the pellet 48 feet 7 inches to win the Olympic title. O'Brien's title-winning and record smashing Olympic heave was just beyond the 57-foot mark. But that was merely a start. Today, O'Brien, with his toe working smoothly to help provide great leg-drive in his push-off, is getting closer and closer to the 60-foot mark, and may be able to achieve this, come the next Olympics. Or perhaps sooner. At any rate, he's one athlete of whom you can truthfully say, he's the greatest the world has even seen, and prove it by figures.

Recently, a fraction of an inch was added to Les Steers' high-jump record of 6 feet 11 inches, and even though a technical flaw barred the new record, it indicates that techniques have improved by leaps and bounds, particularly in field events.

Good Deeds you may have done unknowingly

1. Here's a new home you may have helped provide for one of your neighbours — if you are a life insurance policyholder. For part of your premium money is invested by your life insurance company in ways that provide funds for building not only houses, but schools, roads; power plants, other developments.

2. Perhaps, too, you can take a small part of the credit for Tommy's recovery from a serious illness. Medical science is always learning more, through research, about how to combat disease. And you may be providing some of the funds that life insurance companies contribute to such vital research projects.

3. Ever help a man get a job? You may have — unknowingly. For life insurance money, invested in ways that enable an industry to expand, has played an important part in providing new jobs for many workers — including, perhaps yourself.

4. As a life insurance policyholder, you do all your fellow-citizens a service. For the financial security you've provided for your family reduces the chance of their ever becoming a burden to others. The more protection you own, the more that chance is reduced.

In all these ways, millions of life insurance policyholders are building security for their future — and helping make Canada a better land to live in!

Five Doukhobor Homes Burned Over Weekend, Nude Parades Continue

By JOE MacSWEEN

KRESTOVA, B.C. (CP)—This small mountain community was silent today, but no one knew for how long. During the weekend, men and women paraded in the nude and several homes were burned as the radical Sons of Freedom Doukhobors in their own strange way protested the arrest last week of 148 other members of the sect. Early Sunday, five homes were put to the torch, four at this headquarters of Freedomite activity and one at nearby Glade. Later Sunday some 50 men and women staged a parade in the nude, starting and ending at a crude meeting hall, a converted barn where they had held a meeting to consider the arrests of their companions.

The burnings followed the pattern of Sons activity in their long quarrel with man-made laws. The nude parade, nothing new in this area, consisted largely of elderly persons. They toured the village—one unpaved street and a few clusters of unpainted hovels and homes—chanting Russian hymns and prayed for the welfare of those in jail at Vancouver on charges of contributing to juvenile delinquency by parading in the nude.

HURL THREATS

The paraders, especially the women, hurled threats at photographers taking their pictures and glared at reporters on the scene.

There was considerable commotion during the parade. Afterwards, the Freedomites returned to their homes. They were accompanied during the demonstration by a handful of orthodox Doukhobors, who number in all about 8,000.

The orthodox groups seldom mixes publicly with the radical Freedomites. Their action Sunday gave rise to speculation that the Sons have received recruits from the orthodox Doukhobors since the mass arrests.

The Doukhobors, of which probably more than 2,500 are Freedomites, tend to become extremely close knit in the face of outside pressure. An entirely religious rather than radical group, they came to Canada from Russia around the beginning of the century and frequently have been in trouble for rebelling against man-made laws.

In search of information on the Doukhobor problem this reporter travelled over the unlit, rutted roads of Krestova in an atmosphere of strange disquiet and wariness. The yellow light of kerosene lamps shone in a few windows. Most were dark. Sometimes lights were doused by the occupants when they heard footsteps approaching.

At the first several homes even the dogs crept out to investigate in silence.

Nuzzling around the legs of the visitors, later near midnight when conversation began at a doorway between a Doukhobor and the reporter, the dogs found voice and the neighborhood became a howling chorus of canine outrage.

Observers close to the Doukhobor scene for years said one of the most significant new developments was the fact that the home of one leading Freedomite was lit by electricity. This was taken as a discouragement to fire raiders since the lights were left burning all night.

The Freedomites, who believe in life reduced to the utmost simplicity, are likely to consider such things as electrically-operated gadgets works of evil. This philosophy is the enigma that runs through their beliefs, making them wish to shed all earthly evidence of possessions such as they do when they undress in public.

Trudging across fields and rustic fences a bearded patriarch was encountered leaning on a cane and peering through the gloom with a friendly eye.

Identifying himself as Pete Gurko, he expressed surprise when asked if the leader of the Freedomite sect lived nearby. "We have no leader," he said, "we are all equal."

Accident Toll Reaches 10 Over Weekend

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Highway mishaps took 10 of the toll of 19 lives by violent means in eastern Canada this week-end. Ontario's figure was 10 deaths, with five in Nova Scotia, two in Quebec and one in New Brunswick.

Four lost their lives on Ontario highways. Mrs. Madeline Suholotuik, 48, of Grimsby was killed in a head-on collision near her home town; Gerhard Soll of Sudbury lost control of his car near Barrie and died after his car overturned in a ditch; Mrs. Lloyd Zack of Detroit lost her life after her car smashed into a tree at Beachville, near Woodstock; and Aurel Boyer, 25, of Montreal, was killed when a car, in which he and his two companions were riding, crashed at Simcoe.

TWO DROWNINGS

Sylvio Beaudoin and 26-year-old James Robertson, a University of Toronto student, were both victims of Ontario drownings. Beaudoin, a firefighter, drowned when his canoe overturned at Temagami. James was drowned when his sloop drew in too much water and sank in Toronto's eastern gap of Lake Ontario.

Thomas Jones, 17, Dean Irwin Gilmer of Iroquois, and Ovila Jeanveau, 37, of Sudbury, all lost their lives through accidental shootings on three different hunting trips and Arthur Joseph Bielek, 38, was buried in a cave-in at the McIntyre Mines in Timmins.

Murray Bowman, 37, of St. Catharines died in hospital there Sunday of injuries suffered Sept. 8 when a taxi in which he was riding was in collision on the Queen Elizabeth Way.

Mrs. B. I. Wilson

Funeral service for Mrs. Bertha Isobel Wilson, 67, a lifelong resident of Apsley who died Thursday, was held Saturday at Trinity United Church, Apsley. Mr. Cleveland Robb officiated.

Pallbearers were Arthur Wilson, Gordon Lean, Robert Scott, Eric Whitmore, Frank Tanner and Aubrey Blakely. Burial was at St. George's Anglican Cemetery, where St. George's rector conducted graveside services.

Baby Band Meets

SPRINGVILLE — (ENS) — Mrs. Elwood Johnston entertained the Springville Mission Band at her home on Thursday, the birthday of her son, Keith. Eighteen boys and girls were present for their meeting, after which they had games and lunch. Mrs. Ken Hall led in senior members in their study of the concluding chapters of their study book, Nianga's Two Villages, while Mrs. C. Johnston told Bible stories to the children. The worship service was conducted by Freddie Flokstra who read the Scripture and Joy Seymour who led in prayer. Keith Johnston gave the peace report. Plans were made for the next meeting to be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Flokstra and family, with David Neals, Neal Cathcart and Neal Dunford as the lunch committee.

Four Provinces To Discuss Their Problems

By IRVING C. WHYNOT

MONCTON, N. B. (CP)—Premiers of the three Maritime provinces and a cabinet minister from Newfoundland meet here today to discuss mutual problems and possible solutions.

If things work out the way some hope, the meeting may lead to a new era of co-operation in the eastern provinces, known usually for their regional jealousies.

P. J. Lewis, minister without portfolio, is representing Newfoundland's Premier Smallwood, who couldn't attend. Premiers Macdonald of Nova Scotia, Flemming of New Brunswick and Matheson of Prince Edward Island are attending with some of their advisers.

The meeting, first of its kind in history, was arranged by the Maritime Provinces Board of Trade which invited the premiers to talk over mutual problems.

POPULAR IDEA

All quickly agreed and the idea also found favor among business and political leaders. About 50 said they would attend today's sessions as observers.

High on the agenda was a study of the economic position of the provinces. All have something in common on this subject and Maritimers are well known for their argument that they were bilked when they joined Confederation.

Establishment of a joint tourist promotion scheme, a uniform highway code, standardized education regulations and development of industry and natural resources were also on the agenda.

A scheduled discussion of the Atlantic provinces' position on freight rates was cancelled when Rand Matheson, head of the Maritime transportation commission, a board of trade branch, left for Montreal to appear before the transportation commission hearing on freight rate equalization. The transportation commission is the official representative of the provinces on transportation matters.

WORKABLE SUBSTITUTE

Business and political officials here for the meeting said it could well develop into a workable and effective substitute for actual union of the four provinces. This would be particularly true, they said, if some sort of permanent committee were established to keep things running.

One of the big benefits which might come about, they claimed, would be a unified voice in the House of Commons. If the provinces themselves could agree, the federal members from the provinces might present a solid front. They would wield considerable influence, for there are 4 members for the four provinces.

Car Crashes, 4 Die

LADYSMITH, B.C. (CP) — Four persons were killed and two severely injured Saturday night when their car swerved out of control and smashed through a concrete safety wall on an island highway bridge near here. Three of the dead were identified as Hugh A. Green, about 50, of Port Alberni, B.C. and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rayner, both about 34, also of Port Alberni.

Grandmothers Guests Of Selwyn WI

SELWYN (ENS)—The Women's Institute meeting took the form of a grandmother's party, when a number of grandmothers from this community were entertained.

Mrs. Kenneth Sweeting and Mrs. William Elliott were appointed delegates to attend the WI convention in Toronto in November.

Committees were apopinted to prepare two projects for the fall season, a bus trip and an oratorical contest.

The October meeting will take the form of a banquet. Husbands and families of the members will be invited.

Reports on the ACWW convention in Toronto were given. The afternoon session was reviewed by Mrs. Clayton Fitzgerald, and the evening pageant was described by Mrs. Kenneth Sweeting. The other two delegates, Mrs. Reg. Bell and Mrs. Wilfred Nichols, added to the reports.

Mrs. Wilfred Nichols took charge of the program. A reading was given by Mrs. Clifford McIlmoyl and two duets were sung by Mrs. T. Payton and Mrs. R. Farrow, of Lakefield. The Rosborough girls sang two numbers and Mrs. Payton gave a humorous reading.

Mrs. Chalmer Sweeting conducted a contest among the grandmothers. The winners were as follows: Mrs. Ivy Northey, for the youngest grandchild; Mrs. Fred Sweeting, for the shortest grandmother; Mrs. Edith Davis, for the smallest waist-line. Each received identical prizes.

Other guests from Lakefield included Mrs. Clarence Foster and Mrs. Theodore Nichols.

After singing, "God Save The Queen", refreshments were served by the lunch committee.

Lakefield Players Win Drama Award

LAKEFIELD — (ENS) — The United Church Theatre Group took top honors Saturday night at the Orono Drama Festival, when they presented their one-act play, "The Amazing Arabella," by Norman Ashton.

The festival, which runs for two evenings, is sponsored by the Agricultural Board. Orono town hall was filled to capacity both Friday and Saturday evenings.

Knox Theatre Group, directed by Peter McCombe, was second with their play, "The Miller Takes a Wife." Orono was third and Brooklin fourth.

Members of the Lakefield cast were Mrs. J. Keller, Miss Jean Millar, Mrs. S. A. Grylls, Miss Bette Millage and Miss Jean Spence.

The play was directed by Mrs. Grylls and prompting and sound were by cast members.

SCHOOL BEHIND A TRACTOR — Although tractors are taken for granted in the U.S., they are somewhat of an innovation in many parts of the world. In Venezuela, where strenuous efforts are being made to increase food production, the National Agricultural Institute has founded a tractor farming school at Maracay where students learn mechanical farming techniques with aid of various types of equipment. Last year, Venezuela bought $19 million worth of farming equipment from the United States. Photo shows agricultural students following tractors driven by instructors.

Fear U.S. Tourists Getting Disgusting Tales of London

ONDON (Reuters). — The ...s of the World, Britain's biggest selling Sunday paper, said Sunday Americans are taking home "a disgusting story of life in London" as a result of being molested by prostitutes.

The paper was commenting on an attack made on an American wife in Piccadilly Circus. It was the second such incident there in the past six months.

American tourists Donald Lloyd Stevenson and his wife, Maureen, were walking in Piccadilly Circus shortly after midnight when Mrs. Stevenson was suddenly attacked by Sheila Margaret Walker, 26.

Stevenson defended his wife. Then a friend of Miss Walker, Mary Stacey, 28, joined the assault, hitting Mrs. Stevenson with the heel of her shoe. A large crowd gathered before police arrived to break up the fight.

Magistrate Milton told Miss Walker "Your conduct was disgraceful. You thought you and your friends should have the monopoly of men around Piccadilly Circus and you assaulted a perfectly innocent woman because you thought she was trespassing on your preserves."

News of The World asked: "What goes on in the capital of the empire?"

The paper called it "disgraceful" that a husband and wife "cannot stand in Piccadilly Circus at midnight without feeling they are trespassing on someone's preserves."

Ex-Wartime Housing President Dies

TORONTO (CP) — Joseph D. Payne, 78, former executtive assistant to the president of Wartime Housing Limited, died here Saturday.

A native of Port Stanley, he began his business career with the Michigan Central Railway and later became general manager of Empire Cotton Mills Limited at Welland. During construction of the Welland canal, he was manager of National Sand and Materials Limited.

Game Sparks Riot

HAGERSTOWN, Md. (AP)—Rioting prisoners smashed windows, furniture and equipment at the Maryland state reformatory for males Sunday night in an uprising blamed on a baseball umpire's decision. Superintendent Henry R. Raymond said a few prisoners received minor cuts from window glass before the rebellion was crushed by guards and police manning fire hoses and tear-gas guns.

Loses Right Hand

SUTTON (CP)—Albert Comer, 29, of nearby Brown Hill suffered the loss of his right hand Sunday when a stick of dynamite which he was holding exploded. Taken to hospital, his condition was reported satisfactory. Comer and a companion were blasting on a Brown Hill farm when the accident occurred.

Made Chrysler Director

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Frank J. Hogan, Windsor, who entered the employ of Chrysler Corporation of Canada, Ltd., as a timekeeper 28 years ago, has been appointed a director of the corporation, E. C. Row, president and general manager of Chrysler of Canada, announced Saturday. Since last May, Mr. Hogan has been treasurer of the corporation.

SEEING SERPENTS? — Not this time. The Loch Ness-like monster being lowered into the water is one portion of a 20-inch pipeline of the Ohio Fuel Gas Company, which crosses the Scioto River 20 miles south of Columbus, Ohio. The $2,300,000 project will snake its way into Dayton, Ohio, where it will connect with cross-country pipelines which supply the east and midwest with fuel gas from Texas.

Havelock WMS Holds Season's First Meeting

HAVELOCK (ENS)—The WMS of Havelock United Church opened their season's work Thursday with a well attended meeting in the Sunday School auditorium.

The president, Mrs. R. G. Newman, opened the meeting and was assisted in the worship service by Mrs. H. Hoard, Mrs. F. Chase, Mrs. F. Rogers. The new study book, "Where'er The Sun," which deals with the world church in all its mission fields was introduced by Mrs. Newman. She was assisted in the study period by Mrs. P. Haig, Mrs. A. Anderson, Mrs. W. Lewis and Mrs. A. Haacke.

It was decided to make a quilt to be given to one of the scholarship students who are attending college here from overseas.

Daughter For Powers

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Mrs. Tyrone Power, the former Linda Christian, gave birth to an eight-pound girl at Cedars of Lebanon Hospital Sunday. The actor and his wife also have a two-year-old daughter, Romina. The Hospital reported mother and daughter in fine condition.

Names Of PoWs Won't Be Given

CAMP EBISU, Japan (AP)—A spokesman for the Canadian military mission said Sunday the names of three Canadian prisoners of war not returned or accounted for by the Communists were still unavailable for publication.

He said he had no idea whether the names would be released at all despite requests for their publication.

The three Canadian prisoners were among more than 3,000 Allied soldiers believed captured but not accounted for or returned by the Communists in operations Little Switch or Big Switch.

Indian Guards Take Over Some Of Allied Prisoners

By ROBERT B. TUCKMAN

PANMUNJOM (AP) — Some of the 320 Allied prisoners who refuse to return to their homelands from Red captivity have arrived at nearby Kaesong, Communist correspondent Wilfred Burchett said today.

They are expected to be handed over to Indian custody in the Korean neutral zone Sunday.

Burchett, the Paris l'Humanite reporter who often speaks unofficially for the Red command, did not say how many men are at Kaesong nor did he give their nationality.

About 20 of the 320 are non-Koreans.

Meanwhile, Indian troops guarding anti-Red Chinese and North Koreans squelched angry but small outbursts among the 1,800 Chinese being handed over Monday.

HURLED ROCKS

The PoWs hurled rocks and insults at Communist observers watching outside, but the crack Indian soldiers moved into the stockades and quieted the shouting, fist-swinging captives.

Monday's shipment brought the total of PoWs already in the demilitarized zone to almost 5,000 Chinese and 1,000 North Koreans.

In all, about 14,700 Chinese and 8,000 North Koreans will be held under Indian guardianship to hear explanations why they should return home and wait while the political conference tries to work out their fate.

If the problem isn't settled by about Jan. 25, 1954, those remaining will be freed as civilians.

DON'T WANT TO BE SEPARATE

The first 250 Chinese being brought to the demilitarized zone this morning balked at being separated from 250 others who accompanied them.

However, the Indian camp commander, Maj. Gen. S. P. P. Thorat, gave them 15 minutes to move in. The prisoners entered the compound quickly.

Thorat warned Red and Allied observers and representatives of the overseeing five-country repatriation commission to move away from the barbed wire enclosure.

Indian troops picked up many stones in the area before the prisoners entered. There were no reports of stone throwing.

One prisoner, his fists clenched as if holding a stone, resisted efforts of an Indian guard to open his hand.

Some of the prisoners spat and shouted at Communist observers who took the epithets without any display of emotion.

Others ripped open their shirts to show the Red observer teams tattoos on their chests of Nationalist Chinese flags and slogans.

Meanwhile, the four-nation truce supervisory commission met at Panmunjom in what its chairman called a routine session.

Maj.-Gen. Sven Grafstrom, Swedish delegate and chairman, said the commission received statistical reports from its supervisory teams stationed in North and South Korea and scheduled another session Tuesday.

See No Drastic Change Likely In Canada's Economy

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

EDMONTON (CP) — Some 500 Canadian business men are in Edmonton for the four-day annual meeting of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, and for a look at the Prairies.

They'll discuss whether the immensely prosperous conditions of recent years will continue, or if there may be a slow-down.

Few seem to see probability of any drastic change in the near future, but some foresee more worrisome conditions for both business and individuals.

On the basis of what seems most likely to happen, they will try to decide what should be done; and on how well they do this will depend the success or otherwise of their meeting.

Perhaps as important as the former sessions will be the informal daily chats among delegates from all sections of the country, both during the meeting and on post-meeting trips to the Northwest Territories, the Peace River country and other points in western Canada and Ontario.

TASTE OF ROMANCE

Eastern delegates left Montreal and Toronto Thursday night, and stop-overs at Winnipeg, Saskatoon and Wainwright, Alta., quickly gave them a taste of the romance of the western empire created virtually within their own lifetimes.

At Saskatoon Sunday, for instance, curator George Shepherd showed us through the Western Development Museum.

We saw the huge unwieldy-looking tractors which were a feature of western farms scenes in the quarter-century from about 1895 to 1920, and such things as horse-driving threshing treadmills which many remembered from farms across Canada.

They looked antiquated, but, as one of our group remarked: "This wasn't our grandfathers' day, this was us!"—a reminder that the events of a single lifetime have made museum pieces out of the implements of a few years ago.

Later, at Wainwright, the visitors were greeted with regimental march pasts by the bugle band of the 2nd Canadian Infantry Battalion from Wainwright military camp; and the Wainwright and district chamber, headed by Len D'Albertanson, president, presented them with samples of oil and wheat produced in the district, together with an economic survey of Wainwright.

At Winnipeg, Saturday, the Heather Bell girls pipe band, in kilted costume, gave a colorful start to a 10-hour stay there. Later, delegates were guests at a civic luncheon in the Assiniboine Park pavilion.

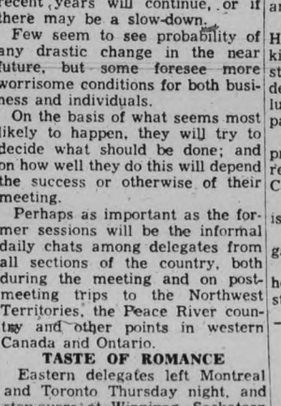
Lewis W. Simms, of Saint John, president of the Canadian chamber, responded, and, referring to recent Canadian growth, declared:

"More than we realize, Canada is the hope of the world."

Finally, Sunday night, Edmonton gave its greeting.

Committee meetings are to be held today and sessions proper start Tuesday.

TO HEADQUARTERS—Capt. Reginald A. Webber, 41, of Ottawa, has been appointed director of personnel (officers) at naval headquarters in Ottawa. He enlisted in the RCN as a cadet in 1930. In the Second World War he served as executive officer of the destroyers Saguenay and Saskatchewan and on the auxiliary cruisers Prince Robert and Prince Henry.



RCMP PROMOTION — Inspector R. F. Karrow, 46, chief preventive officer at RCMP headquarters in Ottawa, has been promoted to acting superintendent. Born in Kitchener, Ont., he was a member of the preventive service when it was absorbed by the RCMP in 1932.

If the children and I were left alone—

How long could we live on my husband's insurance?

"Money slips away so fast these days—no matter how well you manage . . .

"It makes me wonder just how long our insurance would take care of living expenses, if anything happened to my husband.

"What would I do if the money ran out? Get rid of our home? Find a job—if I could? Forget all about our plans for the children's education?

"This is so vitally important—we should find out where we stand, and what we can do about it."

STOWAWAY BRIDE — Christine Castle, 19-year-old Scottish bride, stowed away on the British freighter Cairnesk to be with her sailor husband, Maurice. She hid in a locker. When she landed in Montreal immigration officials put her on a return ship bound for her Edinburgh home. She said, "I'm not sorry I did it, I wanted to be with my husband all I could."

An American In Hyde Park

LONDON—(OFNS) —In London's Hyde Park you see all the visitors strolling in the late summer sunshine, Australians in straw hats, Frenchmen in dark glasses, elegant Indian girls; and Americans with smiles and cameras. As it grows dark the pattern changes. The strollers become shadowy in the twilight; and the gentlemen who stand near Marble Arch on little wooden boxes, preaching all the strange and not-so-strange creeds and beliefs under the sun, these gentlemen assume the air of prophets or poets as they wave their arms and throw back their heads against the fading orange sky.

The Communist Party is fond of holding meetings here. They have a superior sort of wooden box for their speakers, and the chairman's voice is apt to rise above even the trombones of the Salvation Army band a hundred yards a way, or the loud and bitter singing of the Welsh people who sometimes gather here to remember the hymns of home.

As you approach the meeting, sellers of the "Daily Worker," the British Communist Party's newspaper, press you to buy a copy of the following day's edition, or perhaps a copy of the "Soviet Weekly". But once in the crowd around the speaker you may stand without let or hindrance . . . unless, of course, you happen to be an American, and make no secret of the fact.

There were in fact three Americans, two young men and a girl, and they arrived as it was growing dark and the neon signs were beginning to flash across the way. The girl was a pretty blonde in a blue frock. One of the men had a crew cut and wore glasses. The other was tall and pale. In front of them, the speaker was talking about atom-bomber bases in Britain, and at last the crew-cut American could stand it no longer. "Why don't you go back to Moscow?" he called. The speaker waved a hand derisively in his direction, and went on with his thunderings. But in the audience it was as though a missile had been flung into a pond as the Party members—of whom there is always a large number present — rippled with anger and turned towards the stone in their midst. And so before long there was a secondary, and far more interesting, meeting in progress within the larger one.

"Democracy?" said a young Communist fiercely. "Sticking your noses into Korea! Tell me why didn't you interfere in Spain before the war? Tell me that."

And then they argued about who had invaded whom in Korea in that far summer of 1950 before anyone had heard of Syngman Rhee and the Thirty-eighth Parallel. And soon the pale American, who was a Roman Catholic, was accusing the Communists of religious persecution in Eastern Europe, at which onlookers murmured agreement; and one Communist replied that the priests were all reactionaries, at which the blonde girl looked as though she was going to burst into tears. She turned to the person next to her, who happened to be me, and said despairingly: "What can you do when they just bring out these words? Reactionaries, imperialists, capitalists, they just say them like parrots."

A Communist heard her. He was an older man in a wide-brimmed hat, and he said to her quietly: "You've got your magic words too, you know. What about democracy and freedom of speech?"

The American who had spoken first now lost his temper. "There are two systems in the world and there isn't room for them both," he said.

"Of course there is," shouted a woman in a brown dress, and a Communist said: "There, you all heard that. You heard what he said."

But the girl said: "I'm not saying there isn't room for the two." And perhaps because she was so obviously sincere, hand had been courageous in parrying the invective of a group of tough Commies, the older Party member said: "Yes, I'm sure we could all agree."

"Yes, yes," echoed two younger members. "There is that possibility."

And the belligerent American, who saw that his outspokenness had isolated him, said: "Yes, I guess we could."

The crowd shifted and swayed, and the band played lustily, and the Welshmen sang sadly, and the neon lights of London shimmered through the trees. For a moment, for this one instant, there appeared to be a sense of agreement; but then we all became aware of the speaker, waving his arms against the sky and declaiming, and the Americans turned away and walked towards the roar of the streets outside the park. And I saw that the girl was crying.

Veteran Star Lewis Stone Dies Suddenly

HOLLYWOOD — Veteran film star Lewis Stone died of a heart attack Saturday night while chasing a group of teen-age boys from his swimming pool.

Stone, 73, best known for his portrayal of Judge Hardy, collapsed on a sidewalk outside his home and died without regaining consciousness. Minutes earlier his wife, Hazel, had warned him of over-exertion. He had been troubled for six years by a heart condition, she said.

Mrs. Stone said the white-haired actor had called police when he heard youths hurling lawn furniture in the pool. But before officers arrived. Stone seized a flashlight and ran into the yard to pursue the boys. A gardener saw him collapse and called Mrs. Stone and an ambulance.

A special officer found three boys hiding in a neighboring yard. They were taken into custody and later released to their parents.

IN TWO WARS

Stone served as an army officer in two years and as a colonel, for a brief period, in the Chinese Army. He became an actor shortly after graduating from college, 55 years ago. He was nearing Broadway Stardon when the Spanish-American War broke out and he enlisted and was commissioned a lieutenant. Following the war, he came to Los Angeles to continue his stage career.

But instead, he took a job as a colonel in the Chinese Army to help train Chinese troops. He resigned the post at the outset of the Boxer Rebellion. He returned to the stage then and later went into films. He enlisted in the army again during the Second World War, to become a major in the cavalry.

Stone first appeared on Broadway at the age of 20 in the play, Sidetracked. He later became a matinee idol through appearances in such plays as The Girl of the Golden West and Bird of Paradise. Among his best-known silent pictures were Scaramouche. Don Juan's Three Nights and The Private Life of Helen of Troy.

With the advent of talking pictures he appeared with Greta Garbo and Norma Shearer. In talkies, Stone reached his greatest popularity. As the white-haired judge in the Andy Hardy series, he became almost better known as Judge Hardy than as Lewis Stone.

Stone married three times. His first wife, Margaret Langman, died. In 1920 he married Laura Oakley, whom he divorced. He leaves his third life, whom he married in 1930, and two daughters.

Just recently MGM awarded him a gold key to his studio dressing room. He was under lifttime contract at the studios. His last film, just compited, was All the Brothers Were Valiant, starring Ann Blythe, Stewart Granger and Robert Taylor.

U.S. Union Affiliation Harmful To Canada

QUEBEC (CP)—Canadian workers affiliated with American unions are an obstacle in our evolution towards national sovereignty, Gerard Picard, president of the Canadian Catholic Confederation of Labor, said Sunday.

In his annual report submitted to the confederation for study at the group's 32nd annual convention, Mr. Picard said these Canadians are helping maintain a trade policy contrary to the interests of Canada and unfavorable to a number of other free nations.

HOLD FALL OUTING

Fall outing of the Peterborough Nature Club will be held September 26 at Cedar Lake park.

ICE ON WATER

The official low temperature recorded at the filtration plant last night, was 37 degrees, but there was one report of ice in Otonabee township. An unidentified customer in Doig's vegetable market today said that he had found the top of his rain barrel coated with ice.

SPECIAL MEETING OF AA

More than five Alcoholic Anonymous Clubs from Lindsay, Peterborough, Port Hope, Belleville, Trenton and the surrounding district crowded the Centre Theatre Sunday night to attend a special meeting to hear two addresses.

WINS AT COBOURG

A beagle owned by William Thompson, 664 Brown St., was first in winners in the open class and first and best in Canadian bred dogs at the Northumberland and Durham Kennel Club Show in Cobourg on Saturday. It was the first time Mr. Thompson had entered a dog show.

REMARKABLE VISIBILITY

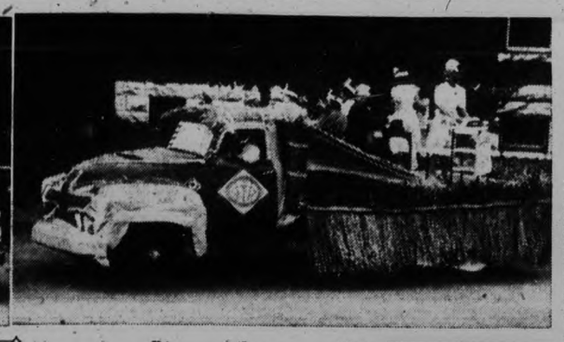
Today's clear, cool lucid air provided notable visibility. This morning from Armour Hill the southern horizon, usually a ridge of bluegrey haze, when visable at all, was distinct enough for light autumn colors in it to be seen, and seemingly close, so that individual groups of trees on the skyline could be clearly distinguished.

TWO FIRES ON SUNDAY

Firemen were called out twice during Sunday to put out two small blazes. The first was at the home of Harry Brooks, 246 Aylmer St., when a chesterfield chair caught on fire. It was caused by a cigarette butt. Damage was estimated at $100. The other fire was at the home of J. J. Frost, 351 Wolsley St. A pot of grease caught on fire, but there was only minor smoke damage.

TENT RIPPED

A 25 by 15 foot tent to be used for the St. Luke's Church concession at the Peterborough Exhibition was torn completely in half on Saturday by a gust of wind. The incident occurred as the tent was being erected. A small rip in the canvas was the starting point when a blast of wind billowed the interior of the tent. The church reports that a smaller tent has been erected for the light lunch concession.



Allan B. Mann Wins Horse Show At Orillia Fair

Horses belonging to Allan B. Mann, R.R. 4, Peterborough, took six first prizes, two seconds, and four thirds to lead the horse show at the 103rd Orillia fall fair, Saturday afternoon.

Mr. Mann's daughter, Mrs. Jean Due, of Champaign, Ill., took first place in the special class for lady-driven rigs.

Grand prize winner of the fair, Fren Kentner, of Acton, walked off with 52 firsts, 22 seconds, and five thirds. All the prizes were in the poultry field. John Kelsey, Woodstock, won the swine competition with five firsts and five seconds. He also won the special class for pigeons.

The fiddlers' championship for Simcoe, Dufferin and Ontario counties was taken by Roy Renwick, of Brampton. In the Canadian championship at Shelburne earlier this year, Mr. Renwick placed fourth.

J. L. McKeever At Chalk River

In his capacity as engineering manager of the Canadian General Electric Company, Peterborough, J. L. McKeever attended last week's three-day conference at Chalk River on atomic energy research and its application by private industry. The most detailed account of atomic energy research results ever issued to private industry was attended by more than 70 selected representatives of Canadian companies. The symposium was conducted by Atomic Energy of Canada, Limited, the Crown company administering Canada's atomic energy program. On returning to Peterborough, Mr. McKeever said today that he was greatly impressed by the "capabilities and enthusiasm of the Canadian scientists" at Chalk River. Nearly everything discussed and seen was "classified," that is, on the secret list.

"WOT, ANOTHER FAIR?" the prize horses in the upper right photo seem to be saying as the enter the grounds of the 98th annual Lakefield Fair Saturday. Part of a team of four Percherons, owned by Gower Robinson, Cavan, they have won prizes at the CNE in Toronto, and the Central Canada Exhibition, Ottawa. The parade sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce was voted one of the best ever seen in Lakefield. The Women's Institute's winning float preceded by a two-man band is shown (upper left). The fair was officially opened by G. H. Lashley, provincial secretary of agricultural associations, seen (centre, right) talking to Roland Darling, president of the fair board. Making friends with a junior Ayrshire calf (bottom, right) owned by Clarence Mann, Peterborough, are two 11-year-olds, Lorraine Stenner (left) and Nancy Henry, both of Lakefield. Four-year-old Billy Northey (bottom, left) of Peterborough, saved his attention for the more docile pony on the merry-go-round, but obviously with some misgivings.

Lakefield Fair Dodges Rain, Produces Exhibits Of Top Quality

LAKEFIELD (Staff)—They say here that it always rains on the day of the annual fair. Saturday was no exception.

During the morning, a steady deluge almost forced the directors to cancel the 98th annual presentation of the fair. President Roland Darling was beseiged with telephone calls from exhibitors all over the district who wanted to know if they should bring their stock to the show.

When the rain stopped falling about noon, it was decided to go on with it, even though the sky was a mass of rolling grey clouds and the track was laced with pools of water.

Although judging was less than an hour late getting under way, the big parade down the main street to the fairgrounds was postponed an hour and a half, until 2:30, and the official opening came half way through the afternoon.

Then at 4:15 the rain came down again, interrupting the program and driving hundreds of people from the grounds but not before they had a good chance to survey an excellent sampling of the farm produce and crafts of the district.

ATTENDANCE CUT

While the weather thus interfered with the day's activities and cut down the attendance this year to about 1,500, it didn't succeed in marring the top quality of the exhibits. Entries were larger and better in all departments, according to secretary-treasurer Howard Beavis.

G. H. Lashley, provincial secretary of agricultural associations, who officially opened the fair, commented that the cattle on display were some of the best he had seen at any exhibition of this size.

Mr. Lashley also had high praise for the mile-long parade.

"It told of the past of this community," he said, "and, like the fair itself, it showed the way of the future."

Dozens of local business and service organizations had entered floats in the parade, which was led by the Havelock pipe band. While many of the floats were straightforward illustrations of the economic and social life of the community, the predominant note was one of humor, with pioneer plumbing exhibits among the top laugh-raisers.

Following the parade, the crowd were treated to a full program of grandstand events, including trotting and running races, old-time fiddlers' and step-dancing contests and songs and recitations by professional entertainers.

The bulk of the crowd was content to wander about the grounds, however, viewing the displays of livestock and other exhibits. Because of the outbreak of hog cholera in the province this spring, there were no pigs entered in this year's fair.

MAIN BUILDING

The main building contained the entries of district Women's Institutes, schoolchildren and housewives. Mrs. Joseph Moore was in charge of the women's section. Dressed poultry, eggs, sewing, needlework, baking and preserves were all on display.

The midway was also a popular attraction, with a merry-go-round for the kiddies, refreshment booths, games of chance, and a fortune-teller's tent all adding to the color of the fair.

When the rain came late in the afternoon to drive most of the crowd away, it was an anti-climax to the day's activities.

"I felt pretty blue this morning when I saw that rain," Mr. Darling said. "But I'm glad now we went ahead. The show was bigger and better this year and we had a better sample of exhibits."

As Mr. Lashley summed up, "When we realize this fair has been going on for almost a century, we come to realize that without fairs there would be no real communities."

Following is the list of prize-winners:

Tame Bear Scares 4 Robbers Away

SCHOMBERG, Ont. (CP)—Police said today four masked men intent on robbing a service station were frightened off Sunday night by the growling of a tame bear.

Tiny Todd, owner of a service station in this community 25 miles north of Toronto, said the four knocked on his door and one pushed a gun into his stomach when it was opened. Todd slammed the door shut in the gunman's face and dropped on the floor.

The commotion roused the bear, locked in a cage a few feet from the door. The animal growled and the four ran to their car.

Accident Victim Condition Critical

Eighty-year-old John LeBarr, a resident of Anson House, is still on the critically ill list at Civic Hospital. He was struck by a truck Saturday while crossing Water St. at Hilliard St.

Mr. LeBarr suffered head injuries, possible internal injuries and severe shock, and his condition has not changed since Saturday.

Witnesses said that the elderly man looked to the north, but not to the south when he hurried across Water St. from the east side to the west. A northbound truck driven by George Irish of Coe Hill hit Mr. LeBarr.

Wins Pipe Contest

PURMEREND, The Netherlands (AP)—Anton Bernhard van Domel of the Hague won the national pipe smokers' contest Sunday by keeping his pipe going for 89 minutes and 30 seconds on 2½ grams of tobacco.

Explosion At Plant

WETZLAR, Germany (Reuters) A heavy explosion rocked a steel plant here Sunday. Damage was estimated at $100,000 and doors were blown open more than half a mile away. Nobody was hurt.

340 Attend Test Reunion

Three hundred and forty members of the CGE Test Association attended the annual test reunion Saturday. Attendance was down slightly from the 1952 reunion.

After golf and tennis at the Kawartha Club in the morning, members met to register and have lunch at the CGE cafeteria. The business meeting followed the luncheon.

Main part of the reunion was held at Max Metheral's cottage at Gail Park, Chemong Lake, where the traditional afternoon sports—horseshoes, volleyball and relays—were held. A buffet dinner concluded the day.

House Fire Quelled No One Injured

STRATFORD (CP) — Fire was quelled early today in the two-storey frame home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bartlett and their two small children. No one was hurt.

John, 4, awoke and smelled smoke. His shouts woke his parents.

Mr. Bartlett got the blaze under control in the front room and called firemen, who said flames had come from a fireplace.

George Doucett To Open Peterborough Exhibition Children's Day Tuesday

Junior Farmers Events Featured First Day, Livestock Show Heftier Grandstand Show, Midway Enlarged

Hon. George S. Doucett, Ontario's Minister of Highways and acting Minister of Agriculture, will formally open Peterborough Exhibition Wednesday at 7:15 p.m. President Norman McConkey said today this ceremony will take place at the grandstand platform, and expressed the hope that the public would co-operate with the directors of the Exhibition by a large attendance to greet the Minister. "We are deeply grateful to Hon. Mr. Doucett in arranging his affairs to enable him to be with us, and I am sure that feeling will extend to the people of the city and district," Mr. McConkey told The Examiner.

Hon. H. R. Scott, of Peterborough, represented the Exhibition board in conveying its request to Mr. Doucett.

Following the formal opening, Premier Breeder banners will be presented to the winners of the day's judging of the dairy cattle

DAIRY CATTLE

"We would like to impress on the public that the dairy breeds will be judged on Wednesday, and the beef cattle on Friday," Mr. McConkey said. "We have entries for approximately 450 dairy cattle. The figures from the office are: 101 Jerseys, 90 Guernseys, 100 Holstein, 50 Ayrshires and 90 Dual Purpose Shorthorns.

"We were expecting a big livestock show this year, and the cattle division is an indication of what the public is going to see. I especially refer to those who are interested in the background of the Exhibition. The beef breeds will be proportionately as largely represented as the dairy. Judging of the cattle begins at 10 a.m., and we have arranged for separate judges for each breed.

"This change in the days of judging cattle was necessary because we wanted the stock to be properly housed, instead of having to put up canvas covering for the overflow from the barns in recent years."

JUNIOR FARMERS

Children's Day is Tuesday (15th) and the day's program for the Junior Department, including Junior Farmers and 4-H Club boys and girls, begins with registration Thursday at 9 a.m.

The events for boys are scheduled for the Exhibition Park, and the girls carry on their Homemaking Club affairs at the Market Hall.

Frank C. Paterson, agricultural representative, said that 110 boys and 110 girls from the central Ontario counties have registered. The boys begin work at 9:30 a.m. on the judging of beef and dairy cattle, heavy horses, sheep and swine.

The boys continue their examinations and tests at 1 p.m. beginning with an agricultural quiz, tractor defects competition, forestry and conservation quiz and identification and several other items.

John Edmison is chairman of the junior committee, with Don Chambers, Jack Matchett, Reg Ferguson, John Waterman and Don MacFarlane.

DEPARTMENT HELP

Mr. Paterson will be assisted by representatives of the Department from Toronto and the district counties, and W. S. McMullen, Toronto, of the federal Department of Agriculture.

Canada Packers' dinner to the young people taking part in the Junior "Ex" will be at 5.45 p.m. at Club Aragon. Announcement of the day's winners is always a highlight of the dinner which will be concluded in time for the evening grandstand show.

"The directors have drawn up the best balanced Exhibition in my memory," president McConkey said. "We have splendid vaudeville entertainment. That is the assurance from George Hamid, booking agent of New York City. We have a good midway for the youngsters, and adults too, and I think we have the goodwill of the people of the city and district.

"I'd like to stress our manufacturers' building. I don't think we have ever had so many interesting displays."

Bishop Appoints Priests To New Parishes

Most Rev. Gerald Berry announced today the following appointments in the diocese of Peterborough, effective September 26:

Jailed By Communists For More Than Two Years

Oatis In Trouble Two Months After Arriving In Prague

By WILLIAM N. OATIS

(Copyright 1953 by The Associated Press)

The first sign that I was in trouble came in August of 1950, two months after I went to Prague, Czechoslovakia, as a foreign correspondent.

It happened at the world congress of the International Union of Students, held in a big trade exposition hall on the outskirts of Prague.

The IUS had its secretariat in Prague and included member organizations of college students in 68 countries. The secretariat and most of the member organizations were Communist dominated, but some of the latter, notably in England, Scotland and Denmark, were not.

My newsgathering routine consisted mostly of sitting in the office and writing stories I selected from the official Czechoslovak News Agency and local news papers and radio, and occasionally going out and getting what I could from diplomats. The student congress gave me a chance to get something first hand — to cover a story with my own eyes and ears.

The convention produced no world-shaking news. But I reported how delegates demonstrated for Soviet Prime Minister Stalin, while some Western delegations sat silent, and how an American speaker proclaimed, "In America, we will shout, 'Hands off Korea!'"

ENTER JAN

I later went down on the convention floor to talk to that speaker and some other delegates seated there. The hall was well staffed with ushers, but none stopped me.

I was in my office the next morning when a man telephoned asking if I knew where he could find Russell Jones, the United Press chief in Prague. I said I could not, and inquired who was calling. The man said, "This is Jan."

(Editor's Note: Associated Press Correspondent William N. Oatis, rested and restored to health after two years in a Communist prison cell in Czechoslovakio, has written the story of his ordeal, as promised when he returned last May. Here is one of a series of articles in which Oatis relates his experiences.)

WILLIAM N. OATIS watches as his pass is torn up at Prague student convention, in this sketch by AP artist John A. Carlton.

I had heard about him. Jan Stransky had worked for the UP until shortly before I arrived in Prague. Then he had been picked up and sent to a labor camp on the grounds he had planned to leave the country illegally.

A few minutes after he had called, he walked into the office, a slight, boyish fellow with a lively manner, wearing khaki work clothes and brown from the sun. He had a pass to spend Sunday in a town near the camp, and he had taken a chance and come by bus to Prague.

I gathered that he expected to be freed before Christmas and wanted to talk to Jones about getting his job back. Since Jones could not be found, Stransky wrote a note for me to deliver next time I saw him.

Stransky sat down and typed out something on some paper I gave him — a sheet of yellow foolscap. Without reading it, I put it in my pocket.

When I met Jones at the student congress and gave him the note he grimly tore it up and dropped it, piece by piece, on the floor.

PASS CANCELLED

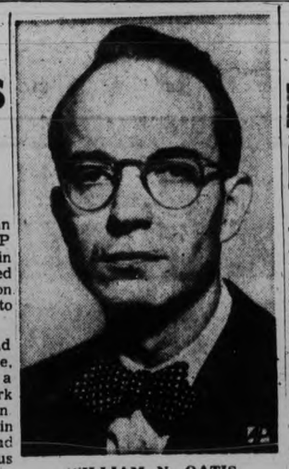
A little later I showed my pass to get into the convention hall. The usher grabbed it and rushed off. After some delay, a young man in glasses appeared. He was trembling with anger. He waved my pass, torn in two, and said it had been canceled.

"You were not behaving as a journalist only and were working through the conference hall," he said.

I thought at once of how I had gone onto the convention floor and questioned the American that had talked about Korea, and of how unhappy he had seemed to see me.

His speech, reported by the official Czechoslovak News Agency and by at least two American agencies, had caused him some trouble back home. And now, I supposed, the young Communists running the congress were punishing me for sending the story.

The congress ended and I turned to other things. In September, Bedrich Runge, a press officer, called me to the Ministry of Foreign Affairs.



WILLIAM N. OATIS

Runge was a tall, gray-haired man with vague blue eyes in a beefy face. On my previous visits, he had received me cordially. This time his manner was stiff and cold. And he was not alone. There was a third party on hand — a mousy little mustached man.

INVITED TO LEAVE

Runge failed to offer the usual handshake. Instead, he waved me to a little table. He told me I would not be reaccredited when my permission to work as a correspondent expired Sept. 30.

"This is not a measure directed against The Associated Press," he said. "It is a measure directed against you personally."

"You cannot work in this country unless you respect our laws."

I asked him to be specific.

"You know very well the reason," he said, and I answered, "But I don't know the reason."

I wrote a letter to Runge, requesting permission to stay till a replacement could get in. Finally it was decided I would not be re-accredited but that I could stay and work temporarily as a "private person".

I still did not know why my re-accreditation was being refused, but I had a hunch this had to do with the young Communists that had banished me from the student congress, and with the story about the American who spoke on Korea.

About that time, I had a talk with Vaclav Korinek, general manager of the Czechslovak News Agency, and asked him if he could tell me what was behind my trouble. And he spoke of the same story.

Maybe that story did have something to do with it—the whole thing is not clear yet. But the story was not the only thing involved. And the people who told me about that were the secret police.

Ottawa Girl, 18 Has 3 Winners In Horse Show

TORONTO (CP) — Shirley Thomas, 18-year-old rider and owner from Ottawa, had three winners in the national horse show Saturday—including victory in the $1,000 Jumpers Sweepstake — to take home the International Equestrian Trophy awarded to the top winner in jumping competitions.

Miss Thomas rode Revlon's Princess Midas to victory in the jumpers event, defeating two others in a jump-off.

Her victories—five in all with Princess Midas and Paint the Town Pink—mean an automatic berth on Canada's international jumping team.

She won the Handy Jumper event with Princess Midas and took the Corinthian Hunter Competition with Paint the Town Pink, as well as the sweepstake.

OTHER RESULTS

Results included:

Single heavy harness horse (pace and action): 1—Seaton Leader, W. S. Munro, Embro; 2—Golden Glow, Dr. E. E. Foster and Son, Galt.; 3—Golden Charm, R. M. Barden, Hillsburgh.

Handy jumper: 1—Revlon's Princess Midas, Shirley Thomas, Ottawa; 2—Panama, E. H. Cudney, Winona; 3—Honour Bright, H. A. Knight, Guelph.

Singing Rave On Broadway Fled From Role For Year

By WILLIAM GLOVER

NEW YORK (AP) — Dolores Gray, the first singing rave of the emergent Broadway theatrical season, chuckles now about how she ran and ran from the part for a year or more.

Equipped with vocal pipes of rafter-ringing vibrance that also are melodious, and a face of high comic expression, Miss Gray has come to town as the comedienne star of "Carnival in Flanders," a singing fable at the Century Theatre of maners and morals in Flanders long ago.

It's not Miss Gray's first appearance in these parts, of course, but the "Carnival" role, with tunes custom cut to her resonant dimensions, is the richest plum yet to fall her way on Broadway. Earlier she had been well praised for supper club engagements, featured parts in such offerings a few seasons back as "Two On The Aisle" and a lengthy London stint in "Annie Get Your Gun."

As a matter of fact, her New York success began exactly 9½ years ago by Miss Gray's own reckoning. Turns out she is quite exact on such mathematical matters.

FLED OFFER

It was this arithmetic precise-ness which prompted golden-curled Dolores to first flee when Paula Stone and Mike Sloan invited her to star in their "Carnival" production.

"I'm still in the 20s' you know," she says, "and I'm going to hang onto them. This 'Carnival' role is a mother with a teen-age daughter. I didn't want people to start saying, 'oh, Dolores Gray, the last time I saw her in a play she was a mother.'"

By certain mathematical squeezing and reference to the Flemish age of consent long ago, the mother's age was established at 29; Miss Gray gave in, the producers turned happy and the mechanism of turning ideas into a show ground into action. For "Carnival" the process as long, with a three-month tour to Los Angeles and San Francisco involved in the shaping up.

FIRST RETURN

The summer-long trip to the coast was Dolores' first return in the same 9½ years to her native Hollywood.

With her on the long road to stardom all that time has been her mother, to whom Miss Gray unreservedly gives the credit for her success.

"I've got a great voice," she begins, adding that false modesty in the theatre is "ridiculous."

"The voice came from heaven, but mother did the rest."

At first, her mother was opposed to Dolores' adolescent yearnings for singing or dancing lessons. The youngster picked up dance steps from schoolmates who did take lessons, she says, and when she was 16 began to sing in school shows. Vocal instruction came only after she reached New York.

The reluctant mother gave in after hearing daughter sing in a graduation show.

Torch-Light Parade For Veterans

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Burning torches lighted rain-washed downtown London Saturday night and thousands of citizens watched London unit No. 12's fifth annual memorial service and torch-light parade.

A half-mile long parade of veterans' organizations from many parts of Ontario and Michigan and New York drew citizens to the parade route as skirl of pipes and notes of trumpet and brass bands sounded throughout the area.

Mayor A. J. Rush paid tribute to veterans' groups, in particular those of London, for their contribution to betterment of the city, especially in benevolent work.

Veterans and their families were exhorted to a rededication to loyalty, tradition, patriotism and democratic way of life by a past president of the corps' Dominion command, Lt.-Col. J. A. McCamus, Toronto.

Others taking part in the service were Cecil L. Russell, president, London unit No. 12; Joseph Lowe, St. Catharines, president, Ontario command, and the Rev. Stuart H. Brownlee of London, honorary unit chaplain.

A $50 award went to the color party of No. 55 branch of the Canadian Legion, Woodstock, for the best color party on parade.

TEN-TEST* INSULATING SHEATHING

THE "SENSIBLE" INSULATION FOR ANY EXTERIOR FINISH

BRICK • STUCCO • SIDING

It's good sense to use TEN/TEST Insulating Sheathing — Asphalt Coated both sides and edges to prevent moisture penetration — insulates efficiently and strengthens the walls in one application.

1. Save as much as one-third on application. Speedy installation lowers labor costs.
2. Save on waste by using all cut-off pieces with this modern sheathing! Large 4' x 8' and 4' x 9' panels, 5/8" thick, are economical, easy to handle.
3. Save on fuel through strong, draft-free construction. 1" of TEN/TEST is equal to 3" of solid lumber in fuel-saving value.
4. Save valuable time! All panels are white-ruled at 16" nailing centres, to go up fast in any kind of weather.
5. Save all worry! Sheath in the building now against Fall rain and Winter snow. Finish interior at leisure and exterior next spring.

TORONTO (CP) — Bob Kesten, Toronto radio personality wanted by police on charges of theft, walked into city police headquarters Sunday and was formally charged with theft of money.

He is accused of misappropriating about $1,000.

Kesten, who has been in England for a few weeks, told the police he has just returned to Toronto from overseas. He was released on $1,000 property bail and is scheduled to appear in court today.

RCAF At Trenton Unveils Flying Saucer

TRENTON (CP) The RCAF's first flying saucer was unveiled here Saturday when a hangar at No. 6 repair depot was unlocked for newspapermen.

Some 17 feet in diameter and six feet high, it has a cockpit for two men. A tricycle landing gear supports two concentric circles, one powered by jet exhaust and the other by gas turbine.

The saucer was designed and built from scrap material by RCAF members at the base here. It will be one of the highlights Saturday when the base is opened to the public for Air Force Day.

By the way, it doesn't fly.

Johnny Ray Still Bitter At Hollywood

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — It's just about a year ago that Johnny Ray first came to Hollywood to make his big splash.

Helped by Marion Davies' famous party, the cryin' crooner broke all attendance records before or since at Ciro's.

Thus, it is puzzling why Ray bypassed Hollywood on his current trip west. He is quite bitter about it.

"I may play here again but right now I don't care if I never do. I thought I had made friends out here but the same people turned out to be my nastiest detractors. Man, I don't know what I could have done to make enemies out here but I sure got them."

He declined to name names but commented:

"I guess I'm not thick skinned enough to ignore what is said and printed about me."

DENOUNCES STORIES

Johnny denounced stories which reflected on his moral behavior and hinted that the gossip spread about him helped to cause the break-up of his marriage to Marilyn Morrison after seven months.

"I'm real crazy about Marilyn yet and I'm sorry that our marriage didn't work out. She used to hear all these stories about me from people I thought were my friends. I know she didn't want to believe them but I guess they upset her. They couldn't do otherwise.

"But you got to work at a marriage to make it last in this crazy show business world and I never got a chance to work at it.

"And then maybe I made some mistakes. I seldom drink except when I get real confused. Maybe that hurt some because I confuse easily."

His wife used to travel with him on the road but had to give it up after a miscarriage.

Johnny played the Del Mar hotel here one week-end and then bypassed Hollywood to go to Las Vegas for an engagement.

His new act features a lot of rhythm songs plus his tent meeting histrionics. Audiences, he says, still want him to cry.

He said he got the same reaction at the Palladium in London.

". . . Those British cats dug those crying songs the most."

He admits that as a singer, he is lousy and laughs about his disregard for pitch.

"I sing the way I feel."

When the Quints Were Babies: 6

Their First Five Years Had Portents of Future

ONE MINUTE they are babies, and then all of a sudden they are little girls.

That's the way it seems to all parents, and as you leaf back through the pages of history when the Dionne quintuplets were babies, in almost no time at all the five tiny infants you first saw come into the world in 1934 are standing around their fifth birthday cake.

And as you go back through those baby days, you'll find some portents of the future, too.

For instance, you'll see Marie, the deeply religious and quietest of the quints, solemnly trying to capture the attitude of the Blessed Virgin as she stands before the image in the nursery creche. This fall Marie leaves her sisters for the first time, to enter the order of the Sisters of the Holy Sacrament at Quebec.

And you'll see Yvonne standing with brush in hand as if awaiting a nod from the critics for her somewhat swirly painting back in 1937. Now Yvonne is leaving, too, to study art at Notre Dame Congregation in Montreal. — (End of Series.)

Charge Against South Africa Of Violating Human Rights

By JOHN WORRALL

CAPE TOWN (OFNS)—In a memorandum sent by the African National Congress and South African Indian Congress to the United Nations Commission on Racial Discrimination in South Africa, the South African government is charged with "violating the fundamental human rights of the ten million non-White people of South Africa to participate in democratic self-government and to share the land and wealth of their motherland."

The commission met in Geneva last month, but the memorandum has only just been released here. It contains forty-two pages, and sets out to prove that the racial policy of the South African government is "patently in violation of the spirit and letter of the Charter of the United Nations."

The memorandum said that the United Nations, under the terms of its Charter, is bound to take measures to promote "respect for and observance of human rights and fundamental freedom for all without distinction in South Africa." It submitted that "the most onerous, unashamed and deliberate discrimination is and has for many years been practised against the non-White peoples as a matter of fixed government policy. This policy and these practices have not been abated, but on the contrary have been intensified by the South African government since it was admitted to the United Nations and deposited its instrument of ratification of the United Nations Charter on November 7, 1945.

"The policy of racial discrimination has been particularly intensified since accession to office of the Nationalist Government in 1948."

The memorandum submitted that this policy was not merely a matter for domestic jurisdiction but that it constituted a threat to peace. "We charge this government with flagrantly overriding, rejecting and flouting the United Nations principle of the equal rights of men and women without distinction as to race, sex, language or religion. We charge this government with crudely insulting and wounding the dignity and worth of these ten million human persons.

"We charge this government with failing to fulfil in good faith the obligations assumed by it in accordance with the Charter. We charge the government with blatantly and contemptuously infringing the fundamental freedoms of these people—freedom from fear and want, freedom of movement and organization, freedom of speech and opinion, freedom to learn and develop their inherent capacities and talents."

Barns, Kilns Destroyed

LONDON (CP) — Fire took a heavy toll of barns and tobacco kilns in Western Ontario during the weekend.

A barn on the farm of Melvin Shantz near Petersburgh was destroyed Sunday with loss estimated at $16,000.

Loss was estimated at $30,000 when a barn owned by Gold Seal Dairies Ltd., near Talbotville was burned, apparently from spontaneous combustion.

Two barns were destroyed Saturday during a heavy electrical storm, one owned by Earl Bogie at Shepparton, just north of Goderich, the other owned by Alfred Draper in Ashfield township.

Tillsonburg fire department fought weekend fires in tobacco kilns, one at the Wilmer Atkinson farm, and one on the farm of James McCabe.

Two kilns caught fire on the John Croft farm near Aylmer. Firemen saved one. One kiln was lost at the Mac van Overloop farm near Aylmer. At the Alex More farm near Port Bruce one kiln was destroyed and two others saved from fire.

Lawyer Makes Charge Against Crown Attorney

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Lawyer Morris Kamin charged Saturday that crown attorney Bruce J. S. Macdonald was using his power as crown attorney and police commissioner to run "roughshod over the citizens of Windsor."

Mr. Kamin made the statement when he appeared in court on behalf of city constable Lloyd Harwood, 27, who was charged with drunk driving following an accident Friday night.

"I say this, your worship," Mr. Kamin said to magistrate J. Arthur Hanrahan, "my friend (Mr. Macdonald) would not give bail to Harwood because he has a personal grudge against myself."

SUSPEND HARWOOD

Earlier deputy police chief John J. Mahoney announced suspension of Harwood pending outcome of the court case.

In reply to Mr. Kamin's statements, Mr. Macdonald said that some time ago he set bail for one of Mr. Kamin's clients and the next day the client "went to the press with a false statement."

"He made a false accusation against the police and his conduct was so that I decided to refuse Mr. Kamin bail at any time."

Magistrate Hanrahan released Harwood on $300 bail.

Make Bell Homestead Natonal Historic Site

BRANTFORD (CP) — The Bell homestead, the house where Alexander Graham Bell lived, Saturday was marked as a national historical site.

Two daughters of the inventor of the telephone officiated at the unveiling of a monument erected by the historic sites and monuments board of Canada. They were Mrs. Lillian Grosvenor Colville of Washington and Mrs. Nancy Bell Fairchild Bates of Ann Arbor, Mich.

It was at the Bell homestead that Alexander Graham Bell first made use of the phone July 26, 1874.

Calls Truckers' Strike "Most Mismanaged"

TORONTO (CP)—William Mills, president of the Toronto Teamsters' Union (AFL) local, told members of his union Sunday that the recent southwestern Ontario truckers' strike was the "most mismanaged strike in the history of Canada."

Mr. Mills said the strike cost 1,500 striking truck drivers of the Hamilton and Windsor locals an $8 reduction in wages and the loss of six week's pay.

He said $250,000 in United States money was poured into Canada to bolster the strike which cost employees more than $2,000,000.

"All that money just went down the drain."

Harding Declares Canadian Army Good

MONTREAL (CP) —Canadians have every reason to be proud of their army, Field Marshal Sir John Harding, chief of the imperial general staff, said at a press conference here Saturday prior to leaving by air for England.

Sir John has completed a 13-day visit to Canadian military establishments and service colleges from coast to coast.

"I was very impressed with all I saw," he said. "I saw a good cross-section of the Canadian Army which in methods of training compares favorably with the British Army."

Heads Perth Veterans

STRATFORD (CP)—F. S. Walker of Stratford was elected president of the Perth Regiment Veterans' Association at the group's reunion held here during the weekend. More than 500 regimental veterans attended. Capt. Rev. D. Crawford Smith of Guelph, the regiment's Second World War chaplain, preached the sermon at Sunday's church parade.

WED IN CHRIST CHURCH, Omemee, Saturday afternoon, were Mr. Sherman Gordon Harrison of RR 2, Omemee, and Miss Joan Ellen Saulter. —(Roy Studio Photo)

Harrison-Saulter Wedding

OMEMEE (ENS). — At Christ Anglican Church, Omemee, Saturday afternoon, in a setting of gladioli and mixed garden flowers, Joan Ellen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Saulter of Omemee, became the bride of Sherman Gordon Harrison, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Harrison, R.R. 2, Omemee. The Rev. V. E. R. Zufelt officiated.

The wedding music was played by the churc horganist, Mr. Milburn Jones. Before the ceremony Miss Dorothy Connell sang "The Lord's Prayer" and during the signing of the register she sang "I'll Walk Beside You."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a strapless gown of nylon tulle over taffeta, with a tulle jacket. The bodice was pleated nylon tulle, and the ankle-length skirt fell in full scalloped tiers. Her fingertip veil was of nylon net, caught with a sweetheart coronet, and she carried a bouquet of red roses.

Maid of honor, Miss Joan Whitmore, was frocked in apple green net over taffeta, and Miss Beth Saulter, who was junior bridesmaid, wore yellow net over nylon. Both wore matching headdresses, and carried nosegays of pastel gladioli.

Mr. Charles Wellman was groomsman, and the ushers were Ray Saulter, brother of the bride, and Haroid Harrison, cousin of the groom.

The reception was held at Coronation Hall, Omemee, where the bride's mother received in a gown of periwinkle blue with a hat of navy velvet and wearing a corsage of pink roses. The groom's mother wore a gown of navy sheer with a navy velvet hat and corsage of yellow 'mum. Among thoe present were friends from Huntsville, South Portage, Lake of Bays, Gravenhurst, Orillia, Peterborough, Fenelon Falls, Cobourg, Dunsford, Weston and Bridgenorth.

Later the bride and groom left on a trip to U.S.A. and Northern Ontario. For travelling, the bride chose a navy velvet suit with matching hat and white accessories. Her corsage was of red roses.

On return they will live on the groom's farm at R.R. 2, Omemee.

Airman And Bride Go To BC

A double ring marriage ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. F. M. Grant at the St. John the Baptist Roman Catholic Church Saturday morning uniting Jacquelyn Ann Gosselin and AC1 Ronald Joseph Coulson of the RCAF.

The bride is daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Angus Gosselin and was given in marriage by her father. The groom is son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Coulson, also of Peterborough, and his father was soloist for the wedding singing "Panis Angelicus" during the signing of the register.

A gown of slipper satin made on classic lines with tight fitting bodice and full pleated skirt falling into a three yard train was worn by the bride. The gown was finished with a yoke of Chantilly lace and net and she wore a veil of tulle illusion caught in cap effect with a spray of lily of the valley at one side. Her bouquet was a cascade of white gladioli.

Maid of honor was Miss Patricia Coulson, sister of the groom, bridesmaid was Miss Doris Stanbury and flower girl was Miss Rosemary Coulson, younger sister of the groom. The attendants were frocked alike in chic ballerina dresses of turquoise and orchid nylon net over taffeta, made with very full skirts banded with taffeta and strapless tight-fitting bodices topped by short taffeta jackets and the flower girl was in a pink nylon marquisette dress. Their hats were of the material of their dresses. The flower girl carried a basket of pink and blue 'mums and the others carried muffs of gladioli in shades to contrast with their gowns.

Mr. Robert McCoy attended the groom and ushers were Jack Amyotte and AC1 Michael Parsons. The wedding music was played by Mr. Heribert Michel.

The reception was held in the Kawartha Room at the Empress Hotel. Mrs. Gosselin received her guests in a gown of cocoa brown crepe and was wearing a rust velvet hat and a corsage of yellow roses. The groom's mother was gowned in a rayon metallic and her hat was of wine velvet. She also had a corsage of yellow roses.

The bride's going-away ensemble was a black and white silk bengaline suit with velvet trim, black accessories and flamingo topcoat. Her corsage when leaving was of yellow 'mums.

The couple are going to live in Courtenay, B.C. while the groom is stationed there with the Air Force.

Jean E. Brown Wed Saturday

White gladioli and pink and white asters decorating the George Street United Church on Saturday made a lovely setting for the wedding of Miss Jean Eleanor Brown to Mr. David Woodside Stubley, of Toronto.

The Rev. Arnold Mathews performed the marriage ceremony and organist Mr. Charles Allen played the wedding music. Mrs. James Goldie sang "The Wedding Prayer", while the register was being signed.

The bride is daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon R. Brown, of Peterborough, and was given in marriage by her father. The groom is son of Mr. and Mrs. Redvers L. Stubley, of Orillia.

White brocaded taffeta in floor length with a chapel train fashioned the bride's gown and it was finished with a Mandarin collar and long sleeves. A matching headpiece held her fingertip veil of tulle illusion and her bouquet was a cascade of Johanna Hill roses.

Miss Marion Brown was maid of honor for her sister and Miss Jean Stubley, sister of the groom, and Mrs. Bruce Ferguson, of Orillia, were bridesmaids. They were all wearing strapless bouffant dresses of royal blue faille taffeta topped with jackets of royal blue lace with Mandarin collars, and bonnets of matching material. Each carried a ballerina bouquet of pink Pinnochio roses.

Groomsman was Mr. Harry Stark, of Kingston, and ushers were Ralph Brown and Phillip Stubley, brothers of the bride and groom.

The reception of guests took place in the church parlor. Mrs. Brown received in a street-length gown of plum crepe and wore a black velvet hat and a corsage of buff Pinnochio roses. The groom's mother was gowned in rosewood lace and crepe and wore a brown velvet hat and brown accessories and a corsage of pink rosette roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Stubley are spending their honeymoon in Haliburton and afterward they will take up residence at 22 Lindsay Ave., Toronto.

When going away, the bride wore a beige wool suit with cocoa brown hat and accessories and her corsage was of orange Sweetheart roses and white 'mums.

MR. AND MRS. DONALD ROBERTSON of Peterborough, the bride formerly Miss Gail Teneycke, as pictured following their marriage Saturday at Knox United Church. —(Duke Studio Photo)

Robertson-Teneycke Union

The marriage took place in Knox United Church on Saturday of Ilene Gail, youngest daughter of Mrs. Violet Teneycke, Crawford's Grove, to Donald Roy Robertson, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Robertson, of 265 Bethune St. The Rev. H. G. Douglas officiated in the double ring ceremony.

The church was decorated with ferns and pink and white gladioli. Music was played by Mr. W. R. Potter. During the signing of the register, Mr. Kenneth Snider, cousin of the groom, sang "I Love You Truly."

The bride was given in marriage by Mr. Gordon Innes. She wore a cocktail length gown of white slipper satin and Chantilly lace with sweetheart neckline and sleeves coming to a point at the wrist. Her veil was of nylon net, shoulder length, and caught with a French celese headdress of seed pearls and brilliants. She carried a bouquet of pink Sweetheart roses.

Mrs. Joyce Sampson, of Warsaw, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She was frocked in mauve net over taffeta with matching hat and accessories and carried a bouquet of white gladioli.

Miss Marie Martin, of Crawford's Grove, bridesmaid, was frocked in blue silk sheer over taffeta with matching hat and accessories and carried a bouquet of pink gladioli. Flower girl was Carol Lee, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Lee, of R.R. 1, Norwood. She was frocked in shell pink flowered organza with poke bonnet and matching accessories. She carried a white Bible with streamers of pink sweet peas.

Groomsman was Mr. Jack McLean and the ushers were Dan Sampson, brother-in-law of the bride, and Samuel Walker, cousin of the groom.

A reception was held in Knox banquet hall, where the bride's mother received, wearing a gown of brown crepe with velvet trim and tan accessories. Her corsage was of yellow roses. The groom's mother, who also received, wore navy sheer and net over taffeta with black accessories. Her corsage was of red roses.

In the evening a dance was held at May's Orange Hall, Lansdowne Street, where more than 100 guests gathered.

Later, the bride and groom left for a motor trip to Ottawa, returning through Parry Sound and Algonquin Park. For travelling, the bride wore a navy suit with navy and grey accessories.

They will live at Crawford's Grove.

Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Adamson, Bolivar Street, and Mr. K. S. Wightman, Geraldine Avenue, are in Halifax to attend the Canadian Educational Association convention which opens there today. Mr. Adamson is chairman of the Peterborough Board of Eduaction and Mr. Wightman is secretary-treasurer and the superintendent of schools in the city.

Mrs. Sydney Storey and daughter Eleanor of 562 Patterson Street have spent the past two weeks visiting with her sister, Mrs. Keith Ferguson at Saint Foy, Quebec, and were joined for the latter week by Mr. Storey.

✧ ✧ ✧

Prior to her marriage Saturday at Warkworth, Miss Jean Nelson, Reg.N., was honored when some of the nurses of the Peterborough Civic Hospital gathered at the home of Mrs. Anthony Mattucci and gave her a surprise shower.

✧ ✧ ✧

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Harwood of 311 Swanston Avenue were in Toronto Saturday to attend the wedding in St. Thomas' Anglican Church of Miss Josephine Midwinter-Steane of Toronto to Mr. John Kenneth Drury at which Mrs. Harwood was an attendant of the bride.

✧ ✧ ✧

Previous to the marriage of Miss Joan Saulter to Mr. Sherman Gordon Harrison at Omemee on Saturday there were three miscellaneous showers held in honor of the bride. Two were in Omemee where Mrs. Carman Whitmore and Miss Joan Whitmore were co-hostesses and Mrs. A. Finney entertained and one in Peterborough was arranged by Miss Joyce Wannamaker. Miss Saulter was presented with a trilight lamp by her officie associates of the De Laval Company.

✧ ✧ ✧

Mrs. A. E. Strickland of Victoria Avenue was present at the induction ceremony at Royal Military College, Kingston, on Friday when her son, Roy William Strickland, a graduate of the Lindsay Collegiate, was accepted. The ceremony was conducted impressively by Brigadier Agnew of the College. A reception followed and a buffet supper was served the parents and students.

Hay-Nelson Two Ring Rites

WARKWORTH (ENS) — In a double ring wedding ceremony at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Warkworth, on Saturday, Miss Jean Carolina Nelson, Reg. N., became the bride of Mr. Edward Desmond Hay. The Rev. T. E. Kennedy officiated at the altar banked with autumn flowers and ferns.

Wedding music was played by Miss Alice Nelson and Mrs. Wm. Craighead was soloist. Before the ceremony she sang "Bless This House" and during the signing of the register "I'll Walk Beside You."

The bride is daughter of Mrs. Nelson and the late Mr. W. S. Nelson, of Warkworth, and was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Mac Nelson. She was wearing a redingote of white lace over a strapless gown of bridal satin and nylon tulle, the redingote falling into a slight train at the back. A pearl tiara held her fingertip veil of tulle illusion and she was carring a cascade of gardenias.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Bryce Hazelwood and bridesmaids were the Misses Muriel and Berniece Nelson, sisters of the bride. All were in ballerina length gowns of shrimp tulle over taffeta made in redingote style and they wore matching gloves and shoes and white flowered headdresses. Each carried a bouquet of white gladioli.

Mr. Donald Thomson attended the groom and ushers were Bernard Hay, brother of the groom, and Harold Linn. The groom is the son of Mrs. Hay and the late Mr. Bert Hay of Campbellford.

The reception following was in the church parlours with the bride's mother receiving, gowned in navy crepe and wearing navy and pink accessories and a corsage of pink roses Guests were present from Toronto, Niagara Falls, Peterborough, Trenton and Campbellford.

Leaving later on a trip to the southern United States the bride wore a red suit with black accessories and had a corsage of white carnations. On return they will take up residence near Campbellford.

DOROTHY DIX:

Taken For Fool By Widow, Daughter

DEAR MISS DIX: I sure would appreciate anything you could do to help me out of this mess. Two years ago I married a widow with two daughters, 13 and 15. My wife at the time was 37; I was fifteen years older. I have done my best to be a good father to the girls, helping with their education, etc. They refuse me even the courtesy ordinarily extended to a stranger. They seem to regard me as an intruder. They discuss everything with their mother, who makes decisions, without consulting me. My wife refuses to speak to the girls about being more pleasant to me.

At the beginning of our marriage we were involved in so much expense that I took a job in addition to my regular work, making a total of about 16 hours a day. Now, if I suggest giving up one job, my wife becomes very indignant.

C.N.

HE'S DEALING WITH INGRATES

ANSWER: Some of the details of your position I have omitted for lack of space, but the whole thing adds up to one clear summation—you have been taken for a fool, Mister, and no mistake. Your wife engineered you into a marriage that would prove materially beneficial to her and her daughters. There evidently has never been any thought for your welfare. Don't be foolish enough to try to satisfy these females in your family; they're money mad, and no amount of personal interest or concern means anything to them. You are a dollar sign in your household — and nothing more.

It would be a good idea for you to see a family counsellor who will help you unravel the tangled threads of you domestic plight. I hope you'll be shown a way to shed these parasites.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I'm in love with Sally, and though I still date her and we talk about marriage, I don't believe she really cares for me. She doesn't take me seriously, wants her own way in everything, and is very inconsiderate.

R.P.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: When a young man can see the faults of his near-fiancee so plainly, it's certainly time to write finis to the romance. There's no alchemy in a marriage ceremony to change a person's fundamental character.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: My husband has declared that he's taking his vacation next month to visit his people. We have two small children, so he feels we can't afford to take the whole family. He was home three years ago, and I went back two years ago. My parents visited us this summer, but I would like to see my sisters and their families. Also, I would like a vacation, and I think my husband is rather selfish to want to go alone.

P.A.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Of course the ideal vacation for a family is for everyone to go together, but where children or finances make the ideal impracticable, a compromise must be arranged. In all fairness, since you have been home more recently than your husband, and saw your parents this summer, I do think the current trip should be Dad's. Many young mothers feel the same urge for a vacation that you do, but foregoing it is one of the sacrifices that go into a family's making.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: When I go to a dance, or a social gathering with my friends, I'm always uncomfortable because I can't "let myself go." I don't dance well, consequently I always seem to be in the background. I'd love to be more popular with girls; as well as with other boys.

HARRY S.

A GOOD INVESTMENT

ANSWER: How about starting with some dancing lessons, so your inferiority in that department will be overcome. A few dollars spent at a first-rate dancing school is a good investment, both in the terpsichorean skill acquired, and in the self-confidence you pick up from competent teachers. You wouldn't be nearly so self-conscious if you knew at least this one social skill.

Don't worry about not being able to "let yourself go" as you put it. Some people are born extroverts, and have no difficulty at all in propelling their own personalities — in fact, sometimes their companions wish they could be subdued. Others are inclined to be audiences or onlookers, and their place in the world is just as important.

Show your appreciation of the ways of other party-goers, and you'll win popularity with them at any rate. Don't be misled by the idea that you must be a first-rate raconteur, or an amateur magician, to be one of the crowd. On the other hand, don't be content to sit back all evening without saying a word. Be pleasant, friendly, and cheerful to those around you. Join in dancing, singing (even if your voice is a falsetto), offer to help with refreshments, and pick up a few ideas for parlor games that you can suggest during a lull.

Your problem can be solved much more easily if you learn to accept yourself as you are, than if you try to make yourself different. An agreeable personality will lead to much firmer friendships than will any bag of tricks.

DEAR MISS DIX: I believe I noticed in your column that you would reveal the name of the person who wrote a certain letter. Right?

Mrs. C. E.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: You are absolutely wrong. Under no circumstances will I disclose the identity of anyone who writes me. Real names are never printed in the column, so the cloak of anonymity is assured to every correspondent.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a widow of 59, living quite comfortably in my own apartment. I have a friend, a married woman about by own age, who has fallen in love with a married man. Since neither one can receive mail from the other at home, they have been using my address as a mail box. I don't like the idea, but I don't want to hurt anyone's feelings. How can I handle the situation?

J. T.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: If people's feelings are hurt because you refuse to be used as a convenience, you may be sure their regard for you isn't very strong in the first place. You are as entitled to your principles, as they are to be unprincipled. As tactfully as possible, tell your friend you refuse to continue as a participant, however passive, in underhanded actions. I suggest that she use a post office box as a medium for her correspondence.

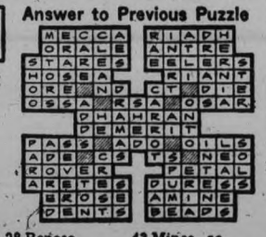
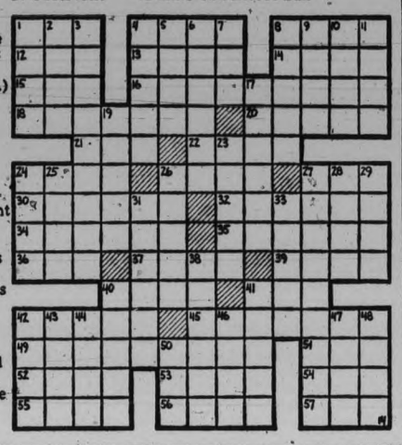
Answer to Previous Puzzle





Springville News

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Dainard and daughter, accompanied by Mrs. Dainard's parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. Hall, all of Highway 28, have returned from a nine-day holiday trip by motor to Quebec City.

Miss Maxwell of Windsor is teaching at the Fairmount school this year.

Miss Wilma Seymour and several other graduates of Peterborough Civic Hospital have returned from a holiday trip to New York State.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Get Cooks Away From White Flour, Sugar

Recently at a medical convention four doctors conducted a panel on the subject of nutrition. One of them who is a specialist in nutrition said: "The food editors on the North American continent would all be out of business if white sugar and white flour were taken out of their copy."

Being a food editor I naturally sat up sharply and took notice. Then I began to get mad. For most food editors are dietitians and know quite a bit about nutrition.

I believe that food editors as a whole are endeavoring to wean their readers away from daily baking of white flour and white sugar products. I know I am. But the desires of readers are important to us. What you want we try to give you. Then, when we have satisfied that requirement we go right off on our health crusade—that is eating for health.

It is my firm belief that white flour and white sugar (indeed all sugar could be completely eliminated from our diets and, as a consequence, we would be a much healthier nation.

A story I can now tell might point up this belief: During World War Two a friend of mine living in Victoria, B.C., wrote that the worst feature of the war to her was sugar rationing. Since we did not nearly use up our sugar coupons I shared them with her, for I could not care less whether sugar was rationed or not. According to her I did her a favor that she will never forget. It was an easy way to make a lifelong friend and she is a dear. But why anyone would permit that type of restriction to make them unhappy I cannot figure.

This is an ideal time of year for me to bally-hoo the virtues of fresh fruit desserts and sisters dear, I'm the gal to do it. You really need not bake for months to come if you use the plentiful supply of fresh fruits to their maximum capacity.

How many of you serve at least one fresh fruit salad dessert per week ?Do you want me to tell you how to make a prize beauty? This is worthy of your next dinner party, and you can give all of your artistic talent full rein.

PEACH DELIGHT
(A Fruit Salad Dessert)

On a bed of washed and dried grape leaves or shredded lettuce, place two halves of pealed, ripe, choice large peaches. Fill each hollow with a mixture of white cream cheese, chopped pecans and drained crushed pineapple. Place a rosette of cream cheese thinned with table cream at ends and rosettes of watercress at sides. Garnish top with 2 slices of pickled walnut or two ripe olives. Pass French or Fruit Dresing (see below).

FROZEN FRUIT SALAD

Mix together ½ cup each diced ripe peaches, pears, seeded Tokay grapes, or seedless sweet green grapes, cantaloupe balls and orange sections. Whip ¾ cup of heavy cream until stiff, then fold into it ½ cup best genuine mayonnaise. Stir these into the fruits. Pour into freezing tray and freeze firm. Slice thinly and serve several slices on each bed of lettuce on the plates. Garnish with strips of candied ginger and Swiss cheese. If desired, additional Mousseline dressing may be passed; it is simply mayonnaise and whipped cream mixed together.

NOTE: Any combination of fruits may be frozen Indeed when I am hard-pressed for time I have frozen a can of pears or peaches. These make a delicious dessert when sliced and served on bed of greens with cheese and cherries for a garnish.

FRUIT DRESSING
(For Fruit Salads)

In top of double boiler melt ¼ cup butter and stir into it 1 tablespoon cornstarch (and if desired ¼ teaspoon dry mustard), then ¼ teaspoon salt and ¼ cup honey (or sugar) and mix well. Add 1 cup grapefruit juice or juice from canned pineapple, and stir until thick. Cook over boiling water, covered for 15 minutes, stirring twice. Pour this over 2 beaten egg yolks and cook 1 minute longer, stirring. Chill. When ready to use fold in ½ cup heavy cream which has been whipped until stiff. Orange juice may be used instead of grapefruit or pineapple juice.

Remove iron rust from fabric by sprinkling with salt, moistening with lemon juice and drying in the sun.

"I always use MONARCH FLOUR

I've found it gives me lighter more tender cakes and the flakiest pastry every time

The difference that Monarch Flour makes is quite noticeable. You see, Monarch Cake and Pastry Flour is specially milled from the softer kinds of wheat, so it's an extra fine flour. This means it's perfectly suited for all non-yeast baking.

For bread and rolls, an all-purpose flour is quite satisfactory, but only Monarch Flour can get the best out of a non-yeast recipe.

Several of my newly married friends have asked me, "Is there a secret to baking cakes and pastries so deliciously tender and light?" There is no secret, of course, you just need to know there's a difference between flours, and use the only flour that can give such splendid results."

Mrs. R. E. Pugh of Chatham bakes all her own cakes and pastry using home recipes and Monarch Flour for sure success. Her husband and two small daughters weren't at all surprised when she recently won 2nd prize in a province-wide contest with her recipe for Black Currant Cup Puddings (See Below).

WIN A SUNBEAM MIXMASTER!

ENTER THIS EASY "WHO WAS THE MONARCH" CONTEST—CLOSING SEPT. 30

Imagine winning a Sunbeam Mixmaster! The famous Mix-Finder Dial will put scientifically correct mixing speeds at your fingertips for all food preparing needs. You'll save time and labour every day with the finest food mixer ever made. This month, fifty Sunbeam Mixmasters must be won by users of Monarch Flour.

HERE'S ALL YOU DO—Write on plain paper your name and address and the answers to these four questions about Kings and Queens of the English Monarchy.

1. Which Monarch conquered England in 1066?
2. Which English Monarch had six wives?
3. Which Monarch was crowned on June 2nd 1953?
4. Which English Monarch was portrayed by Alec Guinness at the Stratford (Ont.) Shakespearean Festival?

Enclose the lion's head cut from a bag of Monarch Flour with your entry and mail it to "September Contest," Maple Leaf Milling Co., 12 Monarch Road, Toronto. Entries must be postmarked not later than midnight Sept. 30th, 1953.

Prizewinners will be the first fifty correct entries drawn, and will be notified by mail within 14 days of closing date. This contest is limited to Canadian residents. Employees of Maple Leaf Milling Company, and its advertising agency are ineligible.

A SURE SUCCESS USING MONARCH FLOUR!

Black currant cup puddings

Grease 8 deep custard cups. In each put 2 tablespoons Black Currant Jam. Cream well—¼ cup shortening—½ cup sugar. Sift, then measure 1 cup Monarch Flour. Resift with ½ teaspoon salt—½ teaspoon baking powder. To ½ cup sour milk add ½ teaspoon baking soda. Add the sifted dry ingredients alternately with the milk to the creamed shortening, beginning and ending with the former. Then add ½ teaspoon vanilla extract—½ teaspoon lemon extract—1 teaspoon grated lemon rind.

Fill prepared cups ⅔ full. Bake in pre-heated oven 350°F. for 20 minutes. Serve warm or cold inverted with hot caramel sauce.

CARAMEL SAUCE—In a heavy sauce-pan or top of double boiler, heat until brown and bubbly—¼ cup butter or margarine—½ cup brown sugar. Add and blend 1 cup boiling water. Stir in slowly—2 tablespoons Monarch Flour—¼ cup cold water. Then add 1 teaspoonfull Vanilla. Keep warm until serving.

NAVY APPOINTMENT — Capt. L. Lyons Atwood, 45, of Halifax and Ottawa, has taken up the dual appointment of commander of Newfoundland and commanding officer of HMCS Avalon at St. John's. Capt. Atwood entered the Royal Canadian Volunteer Reserve in 1928 as a midshipman. He served during the Second World War as executive officer of the auxiliary cruiser Prince Robert.

Escort Service Million Dollar Vice Business

CHICAGO (AP)—The operator of an agency which advertised in the classified telephone directory, "nationally famous glamorous models available for all occasions," today faced a charge of pandering.

Detectives who arrested Miss Kay Jarrett, 45, and 12 women employees Sunday night said seized records of her escort bureau disclosed she did a "million dollars a year business" in vice.

Some of the models, detective Russell Burton said, earned as much as $1,000 a week on their $25 a night and up assignments to pleasure - seeking males. Burton said Miss Jarrett collected half of the girls' fees, her take amounted to $1,000,000 a year.

CANADIAN CLIENT

Burton said the clients included a mayor of a Canadian city. He did not identify the mayor.

Miss Jarrett told police she operates a legitimate escort service and said she never encouraged prostitution among her girls. She was boked for appearance today and released on bail.

Detectives said several of the 11 women, ranging from 19 to 32 years old, orally admitted prostitution.

Police said associated escort services exist or have existed in Miami and Mexico City. The Federal Bureau of Investigation is investigating whether the case may involve interstate transportation of women for immoral purposes, a violation of federal law.

Also seized were two men, one of whom tried to interfere with the arrest of a girl.

Burton said the investigation of the agency began two months ago on a tip from a former employee. The raids followed two samplings of the bureau's service.

Car Skids, Upsets Sudbury Man Killed

POINT AU BARIL, Ont. (CP)—Gerhard Soll, 30, of Sudbury was killed and two other Sudbury men hurt Saturday night when their car skidded on wet pavement during a heavy rainstorm and overturned.

Police said the car somersaulted end-over-end and landed in a creek beside the road near this vacation-resort community 185 miles north of Toronto. Soll, the driver, was thrown from the car and his neck broken when his head struck rocks.

Rudolph Meyer, 25, (307 Elm St.) suffered bruises and cuts and was taken to hospital at Parry Sound for treatment. Another passenger, Victor Butuskas, 33, (19 Dufferin St.) was bruised.

12 Die In Explosion

LISBON (AP)—Twelve persons, including women and children, were killed today in an explosion at a fireworks factory in Villa Real, a town in northern Portugal about 50 miles northeast of Oporto in Tras os Montes province.

Bus Runs Over Mine

RANGOON (Reuters)—A bus ran over a mine near Tavoy in southeast Burma, killing nine soldiers, two women and the driver, a report received here said today. The mine was believed planted by Communist guerrillas. The mishap occurred Friday.

Have Wild Time

SOMERVILLE, Mass. (AP)—Teen-age hot-rodders had a wild time Sunday crashing used cars head-on into each other behind the Somerville Burial Co. After a salesman chased them away, company officials counted 14 cars smashed and estimated damage would total "at least $5,000." They said mechanics had left keys in the ignition locks.

Of Interest to Women

Mrs. L. M. Angus, nee Mildred Rowan, was entertained before her marriage Saturday by Miss Jean Gillespie at her cottage at Stony Lake, where associates of the Medical Centre presented kitchen shower gifts. Mrs. Earle Wellman also entertained for Mrs. Angus at a shower. Friends gathered at the home of Mrs. [illegible] Huggins and presented Mrs. Angus with a hammered aluminum tray. Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Macdonald entertained at dinner.

✧ ✧ ✧

Prior to her marriage Mrs. Donald Robertson (nee Gail Teneycke) was entertained at several showers by relatives and friends. A linen shower was given by her mother, Mrs. V. Teneycke, Crawfords Grove. A kitchen shower was given by the groom's mother, Mrs. T. H. Robertson, 265 Bethune Street, and the groom's sister, Mrs. Fred Salisbury. A personal shower was given by her sister, Mrs. Joyce Sampson of Warsaw. The groom was entertained at a bachelor's shower given by Messrs. Allen Smith and Jack McLean.

✧ ✧ ✧

Miss Jacquelyn Gosselin was much entertained before her marriage on Saturday to AC-1 Ronald Joseph Coulson of the RCAF. A linen shower was held for her by the groom's mother, Mrs. Harold Coulson, 576 McKellar Street. Miscellaneous showers were held by Miss Patricia Coulson, Miss Doris Shanbury and Mrs. Wally Wells at their homes and Miss Shirley Shaughnessy and Mrs. Joseph Shaughnessy were co-hostesses. Mrs. Leo Tetherington held a garden party and shower at her home. Mrs. Clinton Wilson and Miss Shirley Goodman entertained jointly at the former's home.

✧ ✧ ✧

Out of town guests at the Robertson-Teneycke wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stanley, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Morris Fisher, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Smith all of Parry Sound; Mrs. Lil Bailey of Orrville; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Beirness and Shirley of Hekkla; Mrs. Jenny Wellman and Charles of Bonarlaw; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hindes of Madoc; Mr. and Mrs. A. Newlyweds Feted

SPRINGVILLE — (ENS) — Congregations of Fairmount and Springville United Churches gathered in the Sunday school auditorium Thursday evening to honor Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Minnie who were married recently. Mrs. Minnie was the former Lois Paddock.

Mr. H. Johnston was chairman for a short program. Miss Myrna Seymour was pianist. Vocal selections were given by Raymond Kelk, Gordon Clifford and Hazel McIntosh and speeches by Fred McIndoo, Lloyd Hooten, Walter Brown and Gordon McIntosh. Mrs. Larke conducted a humorous contest.

Miss Marie Hooten read an address of congratulations and good wishes from the two congregations while Mr. Fred McIndoo, Mrs. Lloyd Whittington, Mrs. A. B. Preston and Miss Marilyn Bowles made the presentation of a matching coffee table and magazine table and also trilight lamp and a table ornament.

Both the bride and groom expressed their appreciation of the lovely gifts.

The Rev. A. E. Larke, minister of both congregations brought a message from the church to the young couple.

"Tore Up Blueprint Of Marriage" Says Bishop

TIMMINS (CP) — The failure, misery and evil in marriage is the result of the abandonment of God, Most Rev. B. I. Webster, auxiliary bishop of Toronto, said Saturday night.

In an address to the provincial convention of the Catholic Women's League, Bishop Webster said man was given a blueprint for successful marriage but tore it up.

"There is only one way to accomplish the rejuvenation of marriage, parenthood and the family and that is by getting back to God, accepting his plans, abiding by his law."

It is the duty of parents to protect their children from bad literature by providing good literature and recreation, Mrs. F. Drake of Regina, national director, told delegates.

Sisson-Oaks

KINGSTON — Standards of white gladioli decorated Chalmer's United Church, Kingston, for the wedding on Saturday of Miss Elinor Mary Lee Oaks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Oaks, of Kingston, to Mr. Jack Riddell Sisson, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Sisson, Peterborough.

The Rev. Dr. W. F. Banister performed the double ring ceremony. Miss Lenore Black, organist, played the wedding music and accompanied the soloist, Miss Ann Thomson, of Kingston, who sang the "Wedding Hymn" and "Be Thou Mine Own."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was in a floor-length crinoline gown of white nylon net over white slipper satin. The batteau neckline of the bodice was outlined with a lace-trimmed shirring of the net. This shirred trimming was repeated on the bouffant skirt, making a short overskirt in front and running diagonally to form a long overskirt at the back. Her fingertip veil of tulle illusion was held by a tiny cloche of lace and satin and she carried a bouquet of white gardenias and ivy.

Miss Catherine Oaks was maid of honor for her sister. The bride's cousin, Miss Susan Thomson, was bridesmaid and the flower girl was another cousin, Miss Jane Thomson, all of Kingston. Their gowns were styled alike of taffeta with batteau necklines, tiny sleeves, and bouffant skirts in violet, periwinkle blue and pale pink. They wore tiny cloches of matching taffeta and carried white daisy 'mums.

Mr. Eric MacIlveen, of Oshawa, was groomsman, and Paul Estlick, of Kingston, and Leo de LaPlant, of Peterborough, ushered.

The reception was held at the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. Graham Thomson, where the bride's mother received wearing champagne net over taffeta with black accessories and a gardenia corsage. She was assisted by the groom's mother in navy with pink accents and pale pink roses in her corsage.

Guests were present from Peterborough, Toronto, Woodstock, Ottawa, Montreal and North Bay.

Leaving on a motor trip through the Adirondacks, the bride wore a brown flannel suit with champagne accessories and Johanna Hill roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Sisson will live in Toronto.

Angus-Rowan

The home of Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Rowan, 549 King St., tastefully decorated with white chrysanthemums and ferns, was the setting Saturday for the wedding of their only daughter, Mildred Elizabeth, to Leslie Morrison Angus of Montreal, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Angus of Fort William. The Rev. Charles G. Boyd officiated.

The bride, wearing an ankle length gown of chantilly lace and net, was given in marriage by her father. She carried a cascade bouquet of red roses. Miss Jean Gillespie, cousin of the bride, was her only attendant. She wore a floor length gown of orchid net over taffeta and carried yellow roses. Mr. Earl Angus, brother of the groom, was groomsman. The wedding music was played by the bride's brother, Mr. Russell Rowan of Montreal.

The bride's mother, wearing a blue crepe dress with corsage of pink roses, and Mrs. Angus, mother of the groom, in a navy ensemble with corsage of red roses, received with the bridal party after the ceremony.

On their return from New York and Boston the bridal couple will reside in Lachine, Que.

Two Boys Tried To Steal Gas

Ernest Gilbert, 16, Orillia boy was given one year's suspended sentenec today when he pleaded guilty to a charge of stealing gasoline Sunday morning.

Gilbert was arrested as a result of two telephone calls to the police station early Sunday. The calls sent Constable Jack Wilson and Eldon MacDonald to William and King Sts. There they found a five-gallon can being filled with gasoline by an unattended syphon, Constable Wilson told court.

Farther south on William St., near Bolivar St., they found two boys in a car, and questioned them. Gilbert, older of the two questioned, admitted trying to steal the gasoline. He and the other boy, a juvenile, had been waiting until the can was full before they returned to fill their empty gas tank.

Gilbert was freed on probation and on a $250 bond.

Daughter's Marriage Causes Two Deaths

FAIRHAVEN, Mass. (AP)—Police said music lover John Duarte killed his wife and then himself Sunday after a violent argument over their daughter's marriage, which he feared would end her career as a violinist.

Duarte, [illegible] former who used to teach vi[illegible] trumpet and also was an amateur song writer, was 47. His wife, Mary, was 38.

Their eldest daughter, Philomena, 19, was married Saturday to Henry Grigorian, 30, an assistant instructor at Boston University School of Music, where she is a student. Grigorian is a concert violinist.

Duarte opposed the marriage and police said he was not invited to attend the wedding.

Scraps Of Flag Left By Peary Through North

WASHINGTON — Robert A. Peary's famous North Pole flag, a fragment of which has just been recovered by Canadian scientists from Cape Columbia, Ellesmere Island, did more travelling in high latitudes than any flag ever made.

Engaged in a coast line survey for the Canadian Defence Research Board, Geoffrey Hattersley-Smith, a glaciologist, and Robert Blackadar, geologist, found a pile of rocks high on a mountain peak that proved to be a cairn built by Admiral Peary in 1906. In it were legible written records, food still in good condition, and the bit of flag.

The silk Stars and Stripes was a gift to Admiral Peary from his wife. During 15 years of Arctic exploration, Peary carried it wrapped around his body on all his expeditions.

CUT FIVE TIMES

Each time he reached a "farthest" point, he cut off a piece of the flag and left it there. This he did five times, but once he left two pieces in one place because the first fragment he snipped had only red and white, no blue.

The two pieces were left at the world's northernmost tip of land, Cape Morris Jesup, Greenland. A single fragment was placed in a cairn at Cape Thomas Hubbard on Axel Heiberg Island, Peary's westernmost point.

The fragment deposited at Cape Columbia had dual significance. The Cape area is the northernmost part of Canada and was the jumping-off point for Peary's last two Polar dashes, including the successful one. He finally reached the Pole in 1909.

All these pieces have been recovered. Commander Donald B. MacMillan, one of Peary's aides, brought back the Cape Hubbard fragment in 1914, and a Danish expedition found the Cape Jesup fragments. The Hubbard and Jesup bits were given to the Peary family.

Two fragments probably will never be seen again. Peary left one in a bottle on the drifting Arctic Ocean ice at his record-breaking 87 deg. 6 min. of 1906, whence he turned back in disappointment only 174 nautical miles from his goal.

Reaching the Pole three years later, wearing what remained of the ensign, Peary at last "nailed" the flag to the Pole, as he triumphantly announced. What he actually did do was unfurl the banner, cut off a diagonal strip which he left at the point of supreme victory, again in a bottle, then wrap the remains of the flag about him for his return journey.

BROUGHT FLAG HOME

Members of his family still cherish the mutilated banner in their Washington home, along with the Cape Hubbard and Cape Jessup fragments. They have expressed a desire for the Cape Columbia piece.

Ad. Peary unfurled five flags at the Pole. Three of them are now in the possession of the Smithsonian Institution in Washington.

One was the banner of Peary's college fraternity, Delta Kappa Epsilon. Another was the flag of the Navy League, and the other was a "World's Ensign of Liberty and Peace," a United States flag on a white background given to the explorer by the Daughters of the American Revolution.

The fifth ensign was a white Maltese cross on a red background. It was described by Peary as a "Red Cross flag". Recent efforts to trace its whereabouts failed.

Tie Replacement Program Keeping Belfast In Red

By JOSEPH D. KAMIN

BELFAST, Maine (AP) — Railroad crossties are of unusual importance to this city of 6,000 on an inlet of Penobscot Bay.

The city isn't in the crosstie business, but it is in the railroad business and it was a tie replacement program that puts its 85-year-old Belfast and Moosehead Lake line into the red last year after long years of profitable operation.

The tie replacement cost $38,540 and that was the big difference between a loss of $18,253 last year and a profit of $25,973 the year before.

That's small potatoes to the big lines, but it's a hefty item to the Belfast and Moosehead Lake. The line is only 33 miles long and schedules only two round trips daily. The average train consists of a small diesel engine, a combination express and mail car, a passenger coach and six to 10 freight cars.

OF SPECIAL CONCERN

The welfare of the Belfast and Moosehead Lake is of special concern to the city of Belfast because it owns 95 per cent of the line's common stock and 52 per cent of the preferred stock. The other five per cent of common stock is owned by the neighboring town of Brooks and the remaining preferred stock by 112 stockholders, most of them business men in Belfast or elsewhere along the line—which does not go anywhere near Moosehead Lake despite its name.

The Belfast and Moosehead Lake bears faint resemblance to the grandiose dreams from which it was conceived, but New England ingenuity has kept it going under conditions that might have caused a bigger enterprise to throw in the sponge.

The road was born during the great railroad empire building era right after the U.S. civil war. The original plan of Belfast business men — who hoped to give inland Canada an ice-free port nearer than Halifax and at the same time establish Belfast as an outlet for northern produce — was to have the line run all the way from Belfast to Quebec. This finally was abandoned and a shorter route to Greenville on the shore of Moosehead lake, Maine's largest, was proposed.

CHARTER GRANTED

In 1867, a legislative charter was granted and delegates from 23 towns met in a "railroad convention." Belfast voted 859 to 27 to buy $650,00 worth of stock. The news was greeted with ringing of bells, bonfires, band concerts, oratory, firing of cannon and a parade of 100 sleighs.

A first mortgage bond on city property was issued and construction began. But the road never reached even its revised destination of Moosehead lake. At Burnham 33 miles away, a railroad that now is the Maine Central passed through. The completed track from Belfast to Burnham was leased to it.

All went well until 1925. The lease expired that year and the Maine Central, deciding the 33-mile line was unprofitable, refused to exercise its purchase option, removed its rolling stock and returned the road to the stockholders—the city of Belfast. Then the bonds began coming due for retirement.

COUNCIL OF DIRECTORS

After a series of meetings citizens of Belfast elected a council of directors under a court-approved agreement and the bonds were refunded. Then, Jan. 1, 1926, the city began to operate the railroad it had owned more than 50 years.

Since 1926 the line has showed a net profit of $185,955, mostly from freight business in hauling grain for Waldo county's big poultry industry and pulpwood and milk.

The road has 38 employees whose weekly pay ranges from $54.57 to $95. The trip from Belfast through Waldo, Brooks, Knox, Thorndike and Unity to Burnham Junction takes an hour and 15 minutes. The fare one way is $1.35.

Steel Union Signs Agreement

KINGSTON (CP)—Officials of local 343, United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL), announced Sunday the signing of a new agreement with the Aluminum Company of Canada's Kingston works.

The new contract calls for an increase of 10 cents an hour for all employees, retroactive to May 24, 1953. Also included are night shift premiums of 10 cents for overnight hours and seven cents for evening hours.

Dirty job premiums will run at 10 per cent of the hourly rate while double time and a half will be paid for statutory holidays. Retroactive pay for each employee under the new agreement will amount to between $60 and $70.

Duke Of Abercorn, 83 Dies In London

LONDON (CP) — The Duke of Abercorn, governor of Northern Ireland from 1922 to 1945, died Sunday. He was 83.

The duke, a member of the ancient family of Hamilton, was the holder of 13 titles in England, Scotland and Ireland as well as the dukedom of Chatelherault in France. He owned large wine growing estates in South Africa.

In February, 1930, he declined the governor generalship of Canada because he felt he should remain in Ulster to complete his second term of office there.

Car Upsets Cobourg Youth Killed

3 Other Teen-Agers Shaken Up But Not Injured

COBOURG (ENS)—Sixteen-year-old Louis Lingard of Cobourg suffered fatal injuries Monday afternoon when his car rolled over several times on Highway 2 between Cobourg and Port Hope.

Taken to Cobourg General Hospital after the crash, he died there at 5:15 a.m. today.

Lingard suffered serious head lacerations, and a fractured skull. Three other teen-agers in the car were shaken up but not otherwise injured.

The survivors told police that they were travelling east when the car went onto the shoulder of the road and Lingard lost control. The auto rolled three times before coming to a stop, upright, in the centre of the highway.

Unhurt were: David Miller 15, of Port Hope; Jean Bell, 16, of Campbellcroft, and Helen Byers, 15, of Welcome.

Four doctors were on the scene in short order. One was the doctor who was called to the crash, the others were two army doctors and one from the navy who happened by in a car.

It is believed Lingard's skull was fractured when he was thrown forward by the impact and hit his head against the steel mounting of the windshield.

PLAN NO INQUEST

Lingard, who lived at 59 Bramley St., Port Hope, is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Lingard, two sisters, Margaret and Jean, two brothers, Wallace and Peter, and a step-sister and step-brother, Wilma Tennant of Toronto and Ronald Tennant of Sudbury.

No inquest will be held. Provincial constable Stan Judson of Cobourg investigated.

More Earth Tremors

PAPHOS, Cyprus — (Reuters) — Four more earth tremors, one of them the most severe since last Thursday's earthquake, were felt on Cyprus today. The tremors caused little new damage and no casualties were reported. The worst shock lasted 10 seconds and was preceded by a low rumbling in the earth.

Pearson Hopes UN May Yet Bring Security

OTTAWA — (CP)—Lester B. Pearson, whose term as president of the United Nations General Assembly ends today, says that in bringing about an armistice in Korea the UN has successfuly met its greatest challenge.

From the record of the UN seventh General Assembly session which ended last June "we may draw some confidence that the UN will yet be able to play its full part in the achievement of international peace and security."

Mr. Pearson, Canadian external affairs minister, makes the statements in a signed foreword to an external affairs department publication, "Canada and the United Nations, 1952-53," which reviews the work of the seventh assembly session. The booklet was issued Monday.

2 ISSUES INVOLVED

The UN intervention in Korea as well as the ultimate success of UN action in connection with Korea involved a spiritual as well as a military issue: "The recognition of the conviction, held by the greatest part of mankind, that unprovoked aggression must be resisted."

The instrument for this resistance to aggression is the UN, "through which the peaceful and law-abiding peoples of the free world can, if they desire, unite their strength to maintain international peace and security."

"In Korea, imperfect as the action there may have been as a demonstration of collective action, the UN has given the first example in history of successful collective resistance to aggression, undertaken after an international judgment had been rendered and in support of a principle which went far beyond the necessity of immediate and territorial self-defence."

Heavy Loss In Team Equipment

Believe Blaze Started In Boiler Room Building Goes Fast

OSHAWA—(CP) The $500,000 Oshawa arena was destroyed by fire today. The 3,500-seat home of Oshawa Generals of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A League, was levelled in an hour after flames apparently spread from the boiler room.

Jerry Brown, coach of the Genrals, said the team's equipment was destroyed and added he had "no idea what the team will do now." The club began practice for the 1953-54 season Monday.

Mr. Bown said hockey equipment which arrived here Monday from Boston was also destroyed in the blaze. The equipment was sent by Boston Bruins of the NHL who were conducting a hockey try-out among Oshawa youngsters this week.

The arena was the only one in the city.

Lounge furnishings, offices, seats and a great deal of skating and hockey equipment were reported lost in the fire. Players' equipment for 55 prospective junior "A" hockeyists went up in the blaze. The senior "B" Truckmen place their equipment loss at $4,000, not insured, and the OMHA lost 10 sets of uniforms, valued at about $4,000.

Left without ice facilities, along with the Generals, are Smith Truckmen, the city's OHA Senior B team; the Oshawa Skating Club and eight juvenile and bantam teams in the City Hockey League.

The fire was discovered by Paul Clarke, a nearby ice plant employee who was checking on the arena's ice-making equipment.

"The place was a raging inferno when we got there," acting fire chief Ray Hobbs said. Smoke from the brick building was visible in Scarboro, 25 miles to the west.

Albert Hambly, manager of the arena, said a meeting has been called for today in an attempt to find a new home for the hockey and skating clubs. It was reported they would seek use of the Bowmanville arena.

Believe Big Fight May Break Out In 2 Labor Groups

MONTREAL—(CP)—An uneasy peace has settled over the Canadian Congress of Labor oil and mine workers unions, but jurisdictional feuding between the two international labor bodies may flare out anew. Silby Barrett of Toronto, burly director of district 50, United Mine Workers of America (CIO-CCL), has warned of a possible "big fight" developing. And the 69-year-old Irishman has even hinted at the possibility of the 26,000-member mine workers considering withdrawal from the 370,000-member congress.

He received a set back Monday as the 756-delegate central labor body, opening a week-long convention, voted to toss the miners out of two Edmonton chemical plants and turn the territory over to Alex McAuslane's Oil Workers' International Union (CIO-CCL).

TAKEN BY SURPRISE

This reversal of a CCL jurisdiction committee's decision apparently caught Mr. Barrett by surprise. He asked for a second unrecorded vote. The decision was the same.

"It (the vote) may have repercussions," he told reporters later. "There is no question but that the jurisdiction in the chemical field was given to us in 1940. It is too early to say if we will be retiring from the congress. But there will be a big fight."

Compared to the miners 26,000 membership, the oil workers have about 4,000. The union potential in the two Edmonton plants—Canadian Industries, Ltd., and the Canadian Chemical Company Ltd.—is about 1,000.

Some labor men close to the CCL executive saw the convention reversal of the jurisdictional committee's decision was a blow to the prestige and power of 72-year-old A. R. Mosher, veteran president of the CCL, who plans to stand for re-election this week.

He was chairman of the committee which favored the miners. And Monday, in defending the committee's decision, Mr. Mosher warned that an upset may force a change in the pattern of CCL organizational and jurisdictional policy

Mr. Barrett is a CCL vice-president; Mr. McAuslane a former vice-president who walked out in 1951 in sympathy with Pat Conroy. Mr. Conroy resigned as CCL secretary-treasurer in an internal dispute.

WON'T TRY FOR JOB

Mr. McAuslane, native of Glasgow, said, however, that he will not attempt to regain his former executive position.

BELIEVE BIG FIGHT

Doesn't Believe Truce Liable Ruin Economy

MONTREAL (CP)—Labor Minister Gregg told the Canadian Congress of Labor convention here today that there is nothing to justify serious fears about the effect the Korean armistice will have on Canada's immediate economic future.

In a speech prepared for delivery he said:

"There are some tremendous things waiting to be done just as soon as it is possible to divert to them the sinews of production now occupied with defence."

He said that 1953 is one of the busiest years Canada has ever known. This summer more than 98 per cent of the country's 5,500,000 workers held jobs and their incomes established records. Great industrial development is under way, he said.

Difficulties had arisen in textiles where manufacturers found the market increasingly competitive, and in farm implements where producers had reached the end of the backlog.

Textile sales may pick up again this fall and farm implement firms were trying to diversify their production to broaden their markets.

Of the Korean fighting he said the men there had bought time that the free world might reorganize for survival.

Canadian Army In Germany Good - Fisher

LONDON (CP) — John Fisher, Canadian radio commentator, said today the Canadian army in Germany is doing a good job. He suggested that those who criticize it perhaps give only one side of the picture.

Fisher, en route home after a European visit, told a luncheon meeting of the Canadian News, Advertising and Publicity Club, that there may be some basis in fact for published criticisms of the 27th infantry brigade by Lionel Shapiro in an article in Maclean's Magazine.

"There is certainly some venereal disease among the troops," the commentator said. "But that's only one aspect. Every military outfit since the days of Genghis Khan has had troubles like that."

The heartening factors were that British military writers such as Chester Wilmot called the Canadians the best troops in Europe; that the Canadians have a high reputation with at least a good percentage of the German people; that the Canadians are paying their own way in Germany; and that they perform many acts of kindness, including financial support from individual soldiers for an orphanage near Hannover.

HAVE TOUGH PROBLEM

"Admittedly the Canadians have a tough problem," he said. "They are stationed in Saxony, which many consider the dullest part of Germany. But many are learning the German language, some are going to the opera and some are taking advantage of the opportunity to make low-cost trips to places like Copenhagen, Oslo, Rome and so on."

The CBC commentator said his visit had convinced him that the West has beaten the Russians "hands down" in Berlin.

Acquit Bus Driver Of Dangerous Driving

BROCKVILLE (CP)—Hubert R. Somerville, 29, of Kingston, driver of a Colonial Coach Lines bus that crashed into the rear of a parked car near here, was acquitted Monday of dangerous driving. He was convicted on a lesser count of careless driving and fined $25.

The bus smashed into the rear of a car owned by Harold Good of Langstaff, Ont., went out of control and grazed a house. Two persons were injured.

The bus driver said he overtook the car before he realized it was stopped. He said a passenger was thrown over the gas and brake pedals and he was unable to halt the bus after the collision.

RCAF Plane Strikes Mountain In Gaspe

CARLETON, Que. (CP) — An RCAF jet plane struck a mountain top and crashed in flames 12 miles east of this Gaspe peninsula town today killing the pilot.

RCAF officials reached the scene shortly after the plane, accompanied by another jet, appeared to be in trouble and crashed near two farms at Maria-Ouest.

Identification of the pilot, found strapped to his seat 500 feet away from the wreckage, was withheld by RCAF officials pending notification of next-of-kin.

Order Hospital Employees Pay Up To $900 Income Tax

WINDSOR—(CP)—Employees and former employees of East Windsor Hospital have received demands ranging from $25 to $900 from the income tax department because a pension plan adopted in 1949 by the deposed board of directors never was approved by the department.

The pension plan was criticized during a royal commission inquiry into the hospital's affairs last summer as being "very much unbalanced" in favor of former superintendent J. P. G. Morgan.

Some 30 persons, 12 of them still on the staff of the institute for the chronically ill, have received the demands from the tax department.

OFFICIALS FIRM

One nurse, billed for almost $800, said she found local department officials sympathetic but firm.

A spokesman said the old hospital board, dissolved following the inquiry, volunteered to take over the employees' share of the contributions to the pension fund in 1950. Several witnesses said during the inquiry that the board's unusual action in offering to pay the employees' share "loaded" it in Dr. Morgan's favor.

Dr. Morgan, who has returned to private practice after being dismissed as superintendent, has appealed to the income tax appeal board but no date has yet been set for the hearing.

The present hospital board, appointed by Attorney-General Dana Porter after he dissolved the old board, is studying the possibility of revamping the plan so it will meet with department approval.

Meanwhile, the board has complied with income tax regulations and is deducting from the payroll the tax due on contributions to the pension fund.

See New Hope For Diabetics

TORONTO (CP)—The day may not be far off when many diabetics will be given back the physical ability to produce their own insulin instead of relying on injections, the Canadian Diabetic Association was told Monday.

Dr. Joseph P. Hoet, professor of medicine at Louvain University, Belgium, said at the Association's inaugural meeting that several forms of reversible diabetes already are known.

Research workers hoped that "still in the course of this generation, the failing pancreases of our patients may recover the ability to produce endogenous insulin and to prevent all complications."

5 In Family Die In Fire

SYDNEY MINES, N.S. (CP)—Five children of a miner and his wife died early today when fire swept their home at Alder Point, six miles northwest of here.

The dead, children of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Reshore, are: Mary 13, Georgette 6, Alden 5, Frederick 2, and Linda, 6 months.

The mother and 12-year-old twins, Cameron and Carlotta, escaped. Mr. Reshore was at work.

Other occupants of the two-storey duplex, Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Deveaux and their children, Francis 10, and Glen 7, and an infant, also reached safety.

Most of the Reshore family were in bed when the fire broke out about 6:30 a.m.

Cause of the fire wasn't known immediately.

Mrs. Reshore and the twins were said to have jumped to safety through a window.

Czech Gov't Streamlined

VIENNA, Austria (AP)—Prague radio announced a sweeping reorganization of Czechoslovakia's Communist government today. The emphasis seemed to be on streamlining and centralizing operations rather than on purging disgraced officials.

Premier Vilem Siroky remained head of the government under President Antonin Zapotocky, but the "Soviet-style" praesidium of premier and numerous vice-premiers set up last February to control the government apparently was replaced by a three-man committee.

This new "high command," Prague radio said, is made up of Siroky and two former praesidium members, state planning chief Jaromir Dolansky and defence minister Alexei Cepicka, who become the new cabinet's only vice-premier. Other praesidium members, however, were given new posts of ministerial importance.

Other praesidium members, however, were given new posts of ministerial importance.

Reds Ask Ban On Army Planes

LONDON (Reuters)—Russia has demanded a western ban on the flying of military planes in the three air corridors linking Berlin with West Germany in return for a Soviet assurance that planes straying from the corridors will not be fired on, it was authoritatively learned Monday.

As a result, the four-power Berlin air safety talks, once regarded as the most promising of Russia's "peace doves," have brought no result after six months of negotiation.

Russia first proposed the talks after two of her fighters shot down a British bomber in the Soviet zone of Germany last March.

Diplomatic quarters said the western powers agreed at the meetings that any of their planes straying out of the corridors should land if ordered to do so by Russian patrols.

In return an assurance that Soviet fighters would not open fire on straying planes was asked for. But Russia refused to give this unless the western powers banned military flights in the corridors. The three governments declined.

Rents Submarine To Give Party

CHICAGO (AP) — A U.S. plumber has rented a submarine to take 50 guests on a Lake Michigan cruise with him while he delivers a bathtub and other plumbing fixtures.

Edward M. Moran, a plumber who has branched out into selling plumbers' supplies, made the rental Monday so he could throw a party — "a real party, that is, something that has never been done before."

His advertisement in Chicago newspapers said that "owner of submarine must furnish pilot, cook and bartender. The latter must be able to prepare delicious roast beef dinner and mix finest of drinks."

"I've got to deliver the bathtub, pipe and other supplies at St. Joseph and Benton Harbor, Mich., and I thought we could make it a combined pleasure and business trip across Lake Michigan," he said.

Moran said he found his submarine, the property of the Federal Shipbuilding and Drydock Co., Kearney, N.J., which will deliver it within the next three weeks.

Will Demand Investigation

TORONTO (CP)—City controllers Ford Brand and Louis Shannon said today they will demand at Wednesday's meeting of board of control an investigation into the situation on downtown Jarvis street.

In a newspage story Monday, The Telegram described the street as a night-time "three-ring circus of drunkenness and prostitution."

Mr. Brand said he had "no doubt things are going on there that should not be permitted."

Mr. Shannon said he will demand stricter law enforcement and a crackdown by the liquor licence board on hotels violating regulations.

Mayor Alan Lamport commented "Give us the names and addresses and we'll clean it up . . .I'm not going to arrest everybody on the street without just cause, but if I can be given specific cases of law-breaking they'll certainly be attended to."

British PoW Beaten By Mates On Ship

SINGAPORE (AP) — Another British ex-prisoner of war from Korea, alleged by his mates to have been pro-Communist, was taken off the troopship Dunera here today after being beaten up by other repatriates.

Twelve other PoW's accused of being so - called "progressives" were removed under protective custody in Hong Kong after similar attacks or threats on the voyage from Japan.

The 13 men will be returned to Britain in other ships.

Soldiers aboard the Dunera, all members of the famous Gloucestershire Regiment taken prisoner during the Imjim river battle in 1951, said the men who were beaten up or threatened did jobs in their prison camp for the Chinese Communists, and in consequence got better treatment and food from their guards.

Anti-Communist ex-prisoners singled them out soon after the ship left Japan, the soldiers said. Two of those attacked had to be placed in the ship's hospital.

U.K. Jetliner Pioneers S. America Service

RIO DE JANEIRO (Reuters)—A British Comet jetliner Monday pioneered a new London-South America passenger service with a trail-blazing flight over the 6,000-mile route in just half the flying time it takes piston-engined planes.

It reached here 12½ hours flying time after taking off from London airport late Sunday.

En route, it set a record by flashing over the South Atlantic in four hours, 36 minutes from Dakar, French West Africa, to Recife, Brazil.

Find Bomber Lost 8 Months

VANCOUVER (CP)—The wreckage of an RCAF Mitchell bomber, lost eight months ago, was found Monday on a search that was renewed only last week. Sun, shining on the wreckage, had melted the snow, exposing the plane's skeleton to FO. Art Lamb, flying with FO. D. M. Levy out of Vancouver's International airport.

Pilot of the plane when it vanished en route here from Saskatoon on Jan. 28 was FO. Jack McIntosh, 29, of Regina. Navigator was PO. M. D. Hill, 24, of Lindsay.

Elephants Have Long Memories

COLOMBO (AP)—An elephant never forgets—where he gets his drinks—Royal Navy men at a jungle station near the Trincomalee base on Ceylon's east coast have learned.

The site selected for their station included a water hole long used by elephants, but the British naval engineers thought a concrete fence would keep the previous consumers away.

But the first night the camp was occupied two telephants heaved a gap in the concrete to reach the water hole.

Engineers repaired the gap and reinforced the fence with steel rails 30 feet high. Next morning the rails had been twisted aside and the gap was there again.

The navy men tried a new approach. They built a water tank for the elephants outside the fence. But the fence was breached again.

Steel submarine nets were added to the re-erected rails. Even the nets, the rails and the concrete wilted before the elephantine thirst.

Now the navy has obtained permission to shoot the intruders, but no one wants the job.

Fifth Hurricane Noted Off Miami

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The season's fifth hurricane, packing 115-miles-per-hour winds, developed today in the Atlantic 930 miles east southeast of Miami.

The tropical storm, named Edna for the fifth letter of the alphabet, was centred about 200 miles north northwest of San Juan, Puerto Rico, moving in a west northwest direction.

MacNamara Mediator In Dispute With Seamen

OTTAWA (CP)—Labor Minister Gregg today announced the appointment of Arthur MacNamara, former deputy minister of labor, as mediator in the dispute between four steamship companies and the Seafarers' International Union.

In a telegram to SIU director Harold Banks and the heads of the four companies, Mr. Gregg said "an interruption of lake transportation would have serious economic results and I urge on the parties concerned the desirability of reopening negotiations."

The telegram was jointly addressed to Mr. Banks and to T. R. McLagen, president of Canada Steamship Lines; I. C. McEwen, traffic manager of N. M. Paterson and Sons Limited; Capt. Scott Misener, president of Colonial Steamships Limited, and J. D. Leitch, president of the Upper Lakes and St. Lawrence Transportation Company.

A strike is threatened in the 4,000-member SIU. The union announced in Montreal Monday night that one section of the group favors a walkout to support its demand for a 40-hour week. The members of this section, 500 men employed by Colonial Steamships, have been working a 56-hour week.

A strike vote among the other 3,500 union members is believed to be complete, but results have not yet been announced.

Russia, West Square Off

Bitter Debate Expected On Touchy Issues

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) Russia and the Western powers squared off for 12 weeks of bitter fighting today as the United Nations General Assembly gathered again to debate such issues as Korea and the seating of Red China in the world organization.

As the eighth annual session opened, Western delegates were confident the 60-nation body would sidetrack the Chinese question for the remainder of this year at least.

They also believed the assembly would stand pat on its previous recommendations that the Korean peace conference be a two-sided negotiation rather than a round-table including both belligerents and neutrals.

There was no indication just when Soviet delegate Andrei Y. Vishinsky would bring up these two issues, but it was expected within the first few days.

MUST ELECT PRESIDENT

This afternoon's meeting was scheduled to be devoted to the election of an assembly president, seven vice-presidents and seven committee chairmen, who will constitute the powerful steering committee.

The sister of India's Prime Minister Nehru, Mrs. Vijaya Lakshmi Pandit, was reported to have enough support for election as president, but Prince Wan Waithayakon of Thailand still was in the race.

Britain and the United States already have agreed to back a move to postpone all consideration of the China representation question during 1953. They believe that most countries outside the Soviet bloc will support this.

CLOSELY LINKED

The seating of Red China is closely linked with the Korean peace conference, since the Peiping regime was one of the belligerents in Korea and one of the proposed participants in the peace parley. The United States and some others take the position that no action must be taken until the Chinese Reds prove themselves worthy of a UN seat.

The Korean question already is on the assembly's agenda, so discussion is assured. Western delegates are prepared, however, to urge the assembly to stand by last month's decision that the UN should be represented only by countries that fought under the UN banner.

Greenland Now Full-Fledged Part Of Denmark

COPENHAGEN (Reuters)—Denmark Monday informed the United Nations that Greenland no longer is a colony but an integral part of the Danish kingdom.

Greenland now will leave the committee for non-self-governing territories and Denmark will stop supplying information on her North Atlantic possession to the United Nations.

The Danish government's note to UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold brings to a climax Denmark's plan to give the 840,000-square mile island full equality.

TAKEN SHORT TIME

The transformation of Greenland from a backward, under-developed colony into a fully-fledged part of the Danish kingdom has taken only a few years. A Danish commission investigated the future of Greenland in 1949. Two years later Greenland elected a national council (landsraad), giving the country a political voice.

Under an amendment to the constitution, Danish voters in a plebiscite last May approved the integration of Greenland into Denmark. Two representatives from the island will sit in the Danish Parliament for the first time later this year.

RCN Describes Evacuation Of Korean Island With Secret Radar Station

OTTAWA—Throughout the Korean war United Nations warships kept up a ceaseless patrol to protect three islands off the Korean coast from invasion because radar equipment on the islands was keeping watch on enemy planes. Under the terms of the July 26 armistice the UN was required to evacuate within 10 days Chodo and Sokto islands, off the west coast, and Yang-Do off the east. All are north of the 38th parallel. The Canadian Navy today in a statement told the story of the evacuation of Chodo island.

Work parties from the Canadian destroyer Iroquois started an hour after the armistice to remove radar and military equipment and to demolish what was left.

The Iroquois, commanded by Capt. William Landymore of Brantford, Ont., worked in company with such other UN warships as HMS Birmingham, a British cruiser, the Dutch frigate Johan Maurits Von Nassau, the U.S. tug Lipon and three U.S. minesweepers.

STOW VALUABLE GEAR

Work parties from all the ships sweated and struggled to stow the valuable gear aboard U.S. LSTs, a type of landing craft, which shuttled back and forth between Chodo and the anchored ships.

One job which Iroquois took on herself during the five-day job was making sure the civilian inhabitants of the island who were remaining were well and healthy.

The great part of the civilian population was evacuated in mid-June. Twelve persons declined evacuation at that time, saying they were too old.

Two officers, Lt.-Cmdr. Keith Stokes of Ottawa and Hardy, Sask., and Surg. Lt.-Cmdr. W. C. Wood of Regina, visited all 12, again offering them evacuation. One couple accepted the final offer, explaining through an interpreter they were unable to leave earlier because the husband was crippled with arthritis.

LEAVE FOOD SUPPLIES

The officers made sure the 10 remaining had six weeks' supply of food, examined them to see none was ill, and left.

The last LST left Chodo shortly after midnight Aug. 1. A demolition team of 17 men from the Iroquois headed by Lieut. D. A. Wardrop of Seven Sisters, Man., along with a similar group of U.S. Air Force personnel, remained behind to blow up a few remaining installations. Then the island was declared evacuated.

Thieves Loot Clubhouse

LINDSAY (ENS)—Thieves broke into the clubhouse and pro shop of the Lindsay Golf and Country Club on Monday night and made away with more than $100 in loot including a dozen new golf clubs, the complete stock of cigarettes and candy, some china, a complete service from the kitchen, and an undetermined amount of private articles from lockers in the club house.

Entry to the clubhouse, where the thieves stole a quantity of china and silver was made through a door. The pane of glass was removed with the molding to gain entrance. In the kitchen of the clubhouse, cupboards had been ransacked and a large amount of china taken. Several folding chairs and card tables were also taken. The thieves had a party after their escape judging by the number of soft drink bottles around the kitchen.

In the pro shop, the lock on the door had been removed, apparently by some type of crowbar. The thieves removed 12 new golf clubs from a wall rack, took balls, cigarettes and candy and one "seat stake" but failed to touch hundreds of dollars worth of members' clubs and "caddy carts" standing in another room.

Pro Ted Hill however lost an electric razor he had in the shop and a small quantity of change. In the locker room of the clubhouse more than a dozen lockers had been opened, the padlocks smashed. No estimate of the amount of goods stolen was available since the lockers were rented by the members. Two bags of clubs and golf shoes had been dropped outside the locker room door. Provincial Constable Mountsteven of the Lindsay detachment, is investigating the break-in. Tracks from Angeline St. to the town limits, across the fairways to the clubhouse indicate the thieves used some vehicle to take away their loot.

Lindsay Whips Stouffville 9-5

LINDSAY (ENS)— Lindsay Walkwoods took a big one-game lead in their best of three final series for the Tri-county title Monday night defeating the eastern section champions, Stouffville 9-5.

Under the light at Stouffville. Big Hal Williams hurled the win for the Lindsay club, which last week won the eastern section title from Bobcaygeon.

He limited the homesters to seven hits and accounted for the winning margin with a grand-slam home run on a 3-2 two-out pitch in the fourth. Tommy Stephenson also had a home run for the winners.

For the losing Stouffville crew, Bobby Hassard of the Maple Leafs hockkey team had three singles. He played a standout game at third base before coming in in the seventh to pitch in relief.

Second game of the series is set for Lindsay on Wednesday evening, with the third if necessary back at Stouffville Friday.

45th Regiment To Hold Re-Union

LINDSAY (ENS)—Plans have been announced for the annual 45 medium regiment re-union to be held in Lindsay this weekend.

Some 200 men from all parts of the province are expected to attend. The 45th battery, which was formed in 1939 in Lindsay originally recruited men from Lindsay, London, Walkerton and Listowell. Members from those points are expected to arrive in town for the registration Saturday afternoon at the armouries here.

A banquet at the Canadian Legion Hall will be held Saturday night and on Sunday a church parade to the civic cenotaph will include all the delegates, when the former padre of the battery Capt. Rev. Costigan will be the speaker. The public is invited to the service.

Electricity Experts To Hold Conference

LINDSAY (ENS)—Hydro Commissioners, superintendents and managers will gather at Gil-Mar lodge, Sturgeon Lake, Wednesday and Thursday for the annual convention of the eastern Ontario Municipal Electric Association.

Highlight of the convention after the opening day will be taken up with business sessions, with the official banquet on Thursday when Premier Leslie Frost will make the address.

U.S. Dollar At Discount

14-Foot Sloop Built By Blind Man

VICTORIA (CP)—Arthur Barnes 30-year-old blind boatbuilder of Cadboro Bay is proving that sightless persons can be useful citizens.

Mr. Barnes, who lost his sight and one arm in a dynamite explosion when he was 10 years old, has sold the confectionery store he operated here with his mother and plans to build and sail boats.

Proof that he is not day-dreaming was shown here recently when he launched a 14-foot "Skuta" class sloop built by himself in his spare time.

It took three years to build the sloop, a new design created by Peter Clows of Victoria. Barnes, who sails the boat on nearby Cadboro bay, says she's like a dream.

Before that Barnes had built a yacht tender and a rowboat. Jack Nicholson, a boatbuilder here, directed him in the use of special tools fitted into his artificial arm.

The blind builder says that every bit of the work on the boat was done by himself.

"I don't say that to gain personal credit," he says, "but to impress people, especially other blind or so-called handicapped folk, with the fact that it can be done.

"Society must realize that the blind can be useful citizens if allowed to take their place in the nation's industry. That is why I built it."

Barnes sails his boat, the "Margaret M.," by himself with another boat alongside or else with a passenger to act as his eyes. He can gauge the wind by his cheek and feel the tremor of the wind by brushing his hand along the boom.

"I'm too busy," he said. He was elated over the convention decision.

Mr. Barrett, in argument preceding the vote, said that if the delegates favored the oil workers, they would be playing into the hands of management.

The CIL had about 18 plants and controlled about 65 per cent of the chemical industry. The management, he argued, would like to see different unions among the plants. Management then could play one union off against another.

Mr. McAuslane argued that the Edmonton plants used mostly oil in their production. The entire field of petroleum chemicals could be summed up in the term—oil industry.

WON'T STAND FOR IT

The committee's decision would mean that district 50 of the UMW "should be given the entire oil industry," said Mr. McAuslane. "Certainly our international union will not stand for the industry being cut up and apportioned to district 50, or to any other international union."

Mr. Mosher, summing up the committee's position, said if Mr. McAuslane's argument is correct, there would have to be changes all along the line.

Since the basic ingredients in clothing are textiles, then the clothing union should be eliminated by textile bodies. But that was not the end. Since textiles came from the fields, then the "sheepherders and cotton workers" should be organized to take over the textiles territory.

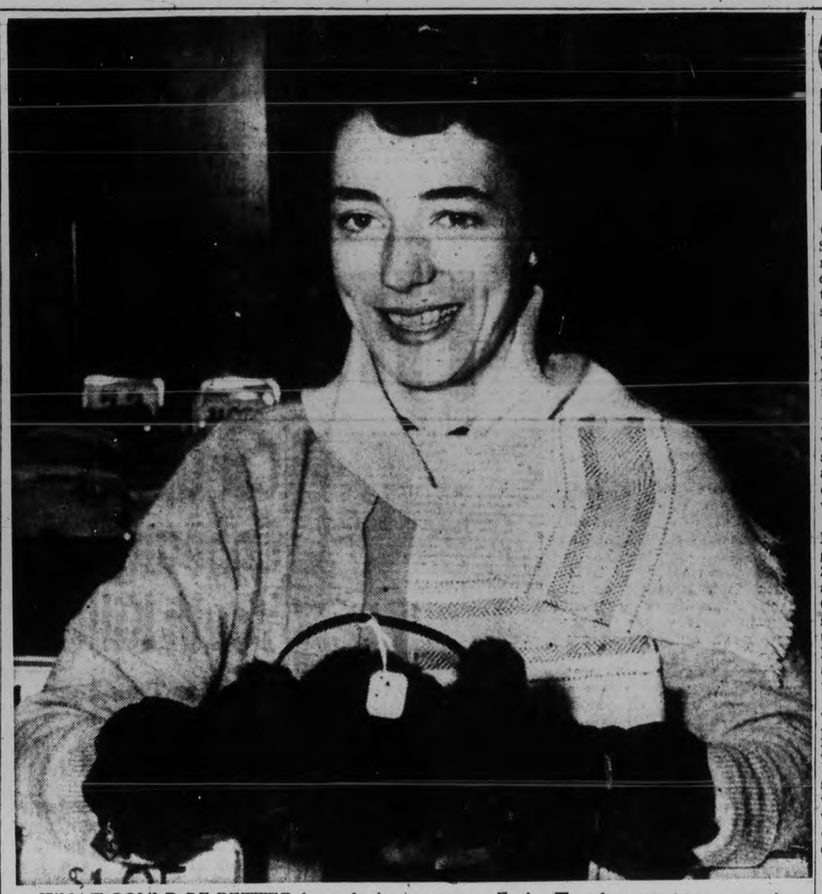
Russian Ambassador Returns To Work

TEHRAN (Reuters)—A Russian official here said today that Anatoli Lavrentiev, Russian ambassador who recently was rumored to have attempted suicide, has resumed work at hin embassy.

The suicide rumors were spiked last week when an Iranian diplomat, Abdul Hussein Maykades, said Lavrentiev was recovering from the after-effects of a heart attack.

27 Cases Of Polio

KITCHENER (CP) — Twenty-seven cases of polio are being treated at Kitchener-Waterloo Hospital, Dr. G. E. Wilson, Kitchener medical officer of health, said today. Four new cases were recently brought here from Guelph and two other patients have been admitted from out of town.



WHAT COULD BE BETTER for today's weather than a pair of earmuffs? Answer: Three to four pairs like those displayed by sales clerk Iris Zinston who is also equipped with scarf and mittens for the low temperatures. Early Tuesday morning saw the mercury sink to 36 degrees and to counteract the sudden change, many considered an outfit like Miss Zinston's which would cost $3.53.—(Examiner Staff Photo).

Italy Refuses Accept O'Brien

GENOA, Italy (Reuters)—Italian authorities refused to let stateless Michael Patrick O'Brien land today from the French liner Bretagne and thus likely condemned him to a marathon sea voyage almost as tedious as his epic 10-month ride on a Far Eastern ferryboat.

Unless he's allowed to go ashore at Marseille, France, when the liner reaches there Wednesday he may be doomed to shuttling indefinitely between Genoa, Marseille and Rio de Janeiro, Brazil.

His chances don't look too hopeful. When the Bretagne called at Marseille Monday on its return voyage from South America, he was told to go back to Genoa, where he first boarded the ship a month ago after being rescued from the Hong Kong-Macao ferryboat.

About a year ago, 58-year-old O'Brien, who claims to have been born in Tacoma, Wash., arrived in Portuguese Macao after leaving Communist China where he worked in Shanghai as an engineer. He left immediately for Hong Kong, riding the ferry boat Lee Hong on Red Cross travel papers and without a ticket.

Hong Kong denied him admittance and sent him back to Macao, where authorities also refused to let him ashore. So for 315 days he shuttled between the two countries on the same ferryboat. He covered 24,000 miles.

Millard Charges Frost Lines Up With Mine Heads

MONTREAL (CP)—Charles Millard, head of the Canadian steelworkers union, today charged that Premier Frost of Ontario and Premier Duplessis of Quebec have lined up with the mine operators in the prolonged and bitter Noranda and Timmins gold miners strike.

"Are we going to let Premier Frost and Premier Duplessis get away with it?" he shouted as the 370,000-member Canadian Congress of Labor launched a vigorous discussion of the nine-week struggle by some 2,500 miners for higher wages, shorter working hours, and social security benefits.

The congress pledged full support to the miners and agreed to "mobilize its full strength in raising funds."

Mr. Millard charged that Mr. Frost has allowed himself to be "intimidated" by a group of operators, led by J. Y. Murdoch, president of Noranda mines, and involved in other mining interests as well.

"Mr. Frost has taken the position that the operators can't give us any more money," said Mr. Millard, and yet an Ontario conciliation board had recommended an increase in wages and shorter working hours.

Alex McAuslane, Canadian director of the Oil Workers International (CIO-CCL), supporting Mr. Millard, described Mr. Murdoch as "King Midas" Murdoch who eventually would have to "get down from his millions" and negotiate with the workers.

Mr. Millard said the operators at Noranda and Timmins have declined to sit down at a conference to negotiate with the miners. The operators were trying to block unionism from reaching into the north.

The powerful steel union was pouring all its resources into the strike.

"I don't know how long the strike will take. There is going to be a great deal of sacrifice on the part of the workers . . . but we are prepared to carry on the strike to ensure victory."

Spokesmen for other unions rose one after the other to pledge their support. Miners from the two strike bound areas appeared to paint dismal pictures of working conditions in the mines.

Stock Market Prices Sliding Downward

TORONTO (CP)—Stock market prices returned to their recent downward path in today's early afternoon trading after a short-lived forenoon rally.

Base metals hit a three-year low and industrials lost more than a point in the Exchange's index. Golds and western oils lost one quarter of a point each.

Industrials declined steadily after a slightly promising opening. Steels papers and constructions led the fall. Consolidated Paper was down more than $1, Canada Wire B was down $2, and Canada Cement was down $1.75. Other losses were fractional.

Senior base metals weakened with East Sullivan and Noranda the major senior losers. A majority of small losses freatured the juniors with Quebec Metal losing almost 50 cents.

In the uraniums most variations were small. Rix and Chimo were the principal losers. Gunnar gained. The Bathurst-area base metals rose with Conwest leading.

Losses in western oils exceeded gains two to one but Calgary and Edmonton regained some of Monday's loss.

Juniors were the principal gold losers with Campbell continuing to lead downward. Seniors were mixed with Bralorne gaining 25 cents. Holding companies continued weak.

Bishop, 4 Others Tried For Spying

WARSAW (AP) — The Roman Catholic bishop of Kielce, Czeslaw Kaczmarke, three other Roman Catholic churchmen and a nun were scheduled to be tried today by the Warsaw regional military court on charges of spying for "American imperialists" and the Vatican.

An official announcement said the bishop was accused of organizing an espionage and diversionist centre in Kielce province, central Poland, of directing anti-state activities, of sabotaging economic plans and carrying on black market activities.

He also was accused of co-operating with the German occupation forces during the Second World War.

Standing trial with him were the Rev. Jan Danilewicz, former treasurer of the Kielce Curia; the Rev. Jozef Dabrowski, the bishop's former chaplain; the Rev. Kwladyslaw Widlak, a former official of the Kielce seminary, and Sister Waleria Niklewska.

Cobourg Man Rescued From Barge

MICHIPICOTEN ISLAND, Ont. (CP)—Adrift on storm-swept Lake Superior for more than 24 hours, nine Canadian seamen from the dredge, Howard M., Jr., were towed into harbor here Monday, still safe aboard their vessel.

The men were reported suffering from exposure, but were otherwise unharmed as the Sault Ste. Marie tug, Favorite, towed them into port.

The dredge, owned by the McNamara Construction Company, was being towed along with two scows by two tugs Saturday when a severe storm struck the convoy off Au Sable point, Mich. Huge waves snapped the tow cable.

One of the tugs, the George Purvis of Gore Bay, managed to get six men off the dredge before 20-foot waves drove the vessels apart. The nine others, including Capt. Ted Scott of Collingwood, stayed with the floundering dredge until the U.S. Coast Guard cutter Mackinaw was able to put a line aboard her early Sunday. The Favorite took over later in the day.

Rescued crew members included William Lourie of Cobourg, Paul Beliveau and Charles O'Malley of Frankville.

Planes in the meantime have sighted the two drifting scows, worth some $70,000 each and they will be towed to port. Reports indicate the $200,000 dredge was not damaged.

Must Be Strong Adenauer Says

BONN (AP)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer predicted today that Soviet Russia will end the cold war when it realizes it cannot win the struggle with the free world and that its security is not threatened.

"Thus it is absolutely necessary for the West to continue its present policy of strength toward the East," the chancellor said.

Addressing the 244 members of his Christian Democratic party who were elected in the Sept. 6 election, Dr. Adenauer said:

"The present foreign policy of my government will be unerringly pursued."

This policy is based on close German co-operation with the free nations in their defence efforts against the threatened Soviet aggression.

On domestic affairs, Adenauer asserted that west Germany's powerful labor unions "must recognize that their great task involves working for the betterment of the working class. They can accomplish this only through a policy of political neutrality."

Use of Glands of Animals To Aid Humans, Rotary Told

How the glands of animals slaughtered in meat packing plants are extracted and used by science to help ailing humans was outlined to the Rotary Club Monday by William Nash, chief chemist for Canada Packers Ltd.

Mr. Nash explained that the principles for the curing of meats have been known for centuries. The very word salsus from which the modern term sausage is derived is translated to mean salted. For salt is an important constituent in curing a compound.

EARLY SAUSAGES

Sausages were being made years before the coming of Christ, and even the American Indian knew something of the science of sausage-making and the preserving of meats. During the hunting season he would dry and chop up the meat from his kills with berries in order to keep the partially dehydrated form for the seasons when game was scarce.

Though the Indian was not versed in the why and the wherefore of the theory of dehydration, he did know that by reducing the moisture content of the meat it would remain stable for quite some time.

The modern packinghouse is no longer the slaughter-house of yesteryear. It is a food packing plant where a high degree of sanitation must prevail. The vapors carrying odors of cooking, drying and evaporating are no longer released into the atmosphere. They are directed through the latest type of water condensers and thus confined.

Meat, the most closely associated with such a plant, plays the role of supplying our bodies with the nourishment required for our daily metabolism. However, due to discoveries by modern medical science, the packing plant is an important source of many life-giving and life-sustaining products.

SUPPLY GLANDS

These are the various animal glands that only the packing house can supply. It has been determined, explained Mr. Nash, that when our body glands cease to function through disease or injury the corresponding gland from healthy domestic animals can be processed to give a highly purified glandular extract.

In selecting the glands, though, one of the most important operations is probably one of the least spectacular. The job of extracting and testing the vital chemicals is largely dependent on the care which has been taken in saving the gland. You must be sure the right gland is saved and not just a piece of meat.

The gland must be trimmed well, and if there is too much fat or other tissue left on, the recovery is made difficult and the extract will be weak. The glands must be in good condition and have to be chilled as quickly as possible, or they will spoil. The glands also must be kept dry or the chemicals in them will leak out.

ADRENALIN

The extract obtained from the adrenal gland known as adrenalin, is used by surgeons who wish to cut down the supply of blood to the place where they are operating. Physicians have started an apparenlty dead person's heart with adrenalin used as a stimulant, and have thus saved a man's life.

Another important gland is the pancreas. It is located near the stomach, at the beginning of the small intestine. It is from this the extract known as insulin is produced and used to combat diabetes.

The thyroid gland, which is located in the neck is an iodine containing gland. It is used to combat simple goiter. Other life-giving glands used by science are the ovarian and testes used to combat melancholia, senility, impotency and neurasthenia. The pituitary gland is located in the cavity of the brain. It is said to be the control centre of the whole intricate gland system. The pituitary extract is used by the obstretrician.

Magistrate Refused To Allow Plea Change

COBOURG—(ENS) — Charged with incest, George Vesterfelt of Castleton was remanded until Friday for sentence. His trial was held at Brighton two weeks ago. Magistrate R. B. Baxter Monday turned down the application of his counsel for reversal of his guilty plea to not guilty. The magistrate said that from the contents of the statement made by the accused to the police and from the evidence, including that of his daughter, he saw no reason to assume that the accused was not aware of what he was doing when he pleaded guilty.

Charged with illegal possession of liquor, a third charge under the L.C.A., John Ross Gregory, 20, of Trenton pleaded not guilty and the case was adjourned until Friday.

Man Jailed 15 Days For Row And Escape

COBOURG—(ENS)—Lawrence Gehrlan of Indian River was sentenced to 15 days in jail, dating from his arrest on September 3, on four charges, involving attempted theft, causing a disturbance, assaulting a police officer and breaking out of custody. The terms are to run concurrently.

The affair took place at Hastings where, it was stated, Gehrlan tried to steal a blanket from a car, caused a row in a Hastings hotel, took a swing at the chief of police and broke out of the village lock-up. The evidence was taken at Hastings and he was remanded to Cobourg for sentence.

New Minister

WASHINGTON (AP)—Wiley T. Buchanan, 39-year-old Washington investment banker, was sworn in Monday as United States minister to Luxembourg. Buchanan will succeed Perle Mesta who resigned last spring.

FRAMING 50 GOLDEN ROSES, one for each year of their married life, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. McAuliffe, of 538 Mark St., celebrate their golden wedding anniversary today. Although Mr. McAuliffe officially retired from the Dewart Milling Co. three years ago, he still puts in an occasional day's work as a veteran millwright. —(Examiner Staff Photo).

Mr., Mrs. Wm. C. McAuliffe Celebrate 50th Anniversary

One of the few remaining millwrights who helped build the Quaker Oats plant in 1901, William C. McAuliffe and his wife, the former Mary Lynch, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary Monday at their home, with relatives and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. McAuliffe were married 50 years ago today, by the late Monsignor McColl in St. Peter's Cathedral. Mrs. McAuliffe was born in Otonabee township, daughter of the late Michael Lynch and the former Ellen Sheehan. She moved to Peterborough when she was about 11 years old.

Mr. McAuliffe was born and brought up in Harwood, son of the late Cornelius McAuliffe and the former Margaret Whaley. Before coming to Peterborough in 1901, Mr. McAuliffe ran a lathe mill for two seasons in Parry Sound.

On coming to Peterborough Mr. McAuliffe started to work on the construction of the Quaker Oats plant as a millwright.

TWO FIRES

The first sod was turned on July 17, 1901, recalls Mr. McAuliffe. During the 18 years he was with the Quaker Oats as a millwright, Mr. McAuliffe was on hand when Quaker had their two worst fires. The first fire was on February 14, 1904, which practically gutted the whole insides of the plant. The second fire, which completely destroyed the plant was in 1916. The fire, which took about 16 lives, was caused by spontaneous combustion.

Following the fire in 1916 the company sent him to Neepawa, Manitoba, for nine months to set up a mill to frind oats. During the next five years he was sent to Vermont twice and Montreal to help set up two more mills for the Quaker Oats Company.

In 1923 he left Quaker for the Pillsberry Milling Company in Buffalo and worked there for a year as a millwright. Since then Mr. McAuliffe has worked for the International Milling Company and many others and has set up more than 100 mills in Canada and the United States.

Officially Mr. McAuliffe retired two years ago, but he is still being called basck to work by milling companies to oversee the construction of new mills. At present he is working part time at the Dewart Milling Company supervising some new additions. Two years ago he remodelled their whole plant.

Both he and Mrs. McAuliffe are members of the Immaculate Conception Church. Mrs. McAuliffe belongs to the Catholic Women's League, the Altar Society, and the League of the Sacred Heart. Mr. McAuliffe is a former member of Catholic Order of Foresters and the Knights of Columbus.

They have two sons and six daughters. They are: Leo McAuliffe at home and Gerard also of Peterborough, Mrs. Joseph Colosimo (Norberta) of Cleveland, Ohio, Mrs. George Watkins (Pat) of Detroit, Mrs. Ulric Brioux (Eleanor) of Toronto, Mrs. J. J. Mehan (May) of Toronto, Mrs. George Mostens (Margaret) of Peterborough, and Miss Dorothy McAuliffe at home; and 16 grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

The whole family and grandchildren were present at the anniversary.

Won't Permit Plane Details

LONDON (AP)—Government security officers today banned the revealing of details of Britain's "flying wing" jet planes at the fourth Anglo-American aeronautical conference, a non-official gathering of aviation experts.

Sir William Farren, president of the Royal Aeronautical society, said a talk on "The Family of Delta Aircraft" by S. D. Davies, chief designer of the Avro Aircraft Company, had been withdrawn "for security reasons."

"Owing to the difficulties of security, it was decided it was unwise you should know such things even exist," commented Farren. "It is difficult to understand who lays down the law on these things —and even more difficult to understand why."

Youth Returns To Reformatory

Only out of reformatory a short time, Ronald Hunt, 21, of RR 4, Peterborough, was sentenced to six months definite and three indeterminate when he was convicted on three charges of theft.

He was charged with theft of two wool blankets and three flashlights from the car of Early Belsey, 412 George St., two tires from Godson Motors, and some tools from an unknown car.

Evidence by Inspector of Detectives W. A. Clarke revealed Hunt had purchased a second hand car shortly before the thefts occurred. The tires stolen were apparently for the car Hunt had bought.

On a charge of careless driving, Hunt was fined $10 and $2.50 costs or 10 days.

Egypt Denies Report Iran Fugitive Coming

CAIRO (AP)—A spokesman for Egypt's governing revolutionary council today denied reports that Hossein Fatemi, righthand man of Iran's ousted Premier Mohammed Mossadegh, is in Egypt or is expected here.

An informed source said here Monday that Iran's former foreign minister, a fugitive from an Iranian police dragnet since Gen. Fazollah Zahedi overthrew the Mossadegh regime nearly a month ago, either had arrived or would arrive shortly in the Egyptian capital.

Capt. Amin Shaker, personal aide to Vice-Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser, said the report was "completely false."

Planes Salute Fliers In RCAF

LONDON (Reuters)—An armada of 252 British, Canadian and American jet warplanes flashed across mist-shrouded London today in thunderous salute to the handful of fighter pilots who whipped Hitler's Luftwaffe in the Battle of Britain 13 years ago.

The only Hurricane still flying with the RAF and one of the last serviceable Spitfires led the five-minute flypast over the capital. They droned along at 1,000 feet through light cloud at a speed of 184 miles an hour.

The Royal Canadian Air Force jet formation was led by Wing Commander Douglas Lindsey, whose parents live at Arnprior, Ont.

Insurance Covers Complete Arena Loss

COBOURG—(ENS)—The recreational centre insurance, on the building which was destroyed by fire last month, will be met 100% of the claim, the board has been advised. Anticipating that the loss would by 100% the board had called for tenders for rebuilding and these will be opened shortly, the period for tenders expiring Monday night. Amount of the insurance claim is about $135,000. The loss would have been greater but firemen were able to save the refrigeration plant and very little damage was occasioned to the terrazo floor over the pipes.

TORONTO (CP) — Jack McLaughlin, 53, who lay outside unattended all Sunday night after falling 20 feet into a cement stairwell in front of his apartment, died Monday in hospital. Death was attributed to a fractured skull and ruled accidental.

Midway Caters To All Family; No Gyps - Mgr.

Motor City Shows of Windsor are supplying the midway attraction at Peterborough Exhibition.

They arrived here Monday from Niagara Falls Exhibition which was sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

"And Niagara Falls have a wonderful asset in their Jaycees," the manager told the Examiner today. "If they carry on as they did this season, I feel safe in predicting that it won't be long until they have the best "Ex" in the Niagara district, and should rate with any of the secondary cities of the province. I have an idea their opinion of our Motor City Shows is just as high as is our opinion of those young men of the Junior Chamber of Niagara Falls."

After the disappointment and virtual fiasco of the midway here last September, the public is likely to be asking "what kind of a midway have we got this time?"

Briefly, this is an outline of the Motor City people as they provided the answer.

STARTED IN 1943

"Our shows have been built up in the last ten years with the idea of catering to the children of a community, and while this is still the basis of our show, we have expanded it gradually to entertain the older people too. Bearing this in mind, we allow no illegal shows such as gambling, girl shows, etc. We are trying to build our reputation on the idea of clean and wholesome amusement.

We started out with only two kiddie rides, and we have grown in the last ten years to 13 to 15 rides, two side shows, a bingo that all can take part in with prizes picked for satisfaction, and concessions for the young and old.

In the past the public has not heard our name as we have been at the C. N. E. and the London Exhibition, and so on, as part of the Conklin Shows. So, this is the first year our show has felt that the public would accept them whole-heartedly. During the last few months we have been playing at some of the largest fairs in Ontario, such as Aylmer and Woodstock, to mention two.

USED IN WINDSOR

We would like to say, in that respect, that we set up at the big Freedom Show, that is held annually in Windsor for the colored people from both sides of the border. The recent attendance at that show was between 40,000 and 50,000, and the crowd was composed of people both white and black.

Our Motor City Shows comprise merry-go-round, caterpillar, tilt-a-whirl, flying saucer, octopus, ferris wheel, hi-ball. Excepting the merry-go-round, these cater mainly to the general public. Then for the youngsters, the kiddies: auto ride, rocket plane, space patrol rides, Flying Jenny, aeroplanes, the Arizona walking ponies, kiddie pony ring, and a miniature merry-go-round for the tiny tots. They all go into the making of a genuine kiddies' land while we are in Peterborough."

That is the modest statement of the Motor City Shows management. The public can see for themselves this week how the fact compares with their claims. It is their own assertion that they do not tolerate "gyp" games.

20 People Receive Certificates Of Merit

EDMONTON (CP) — Twenty graduates of the Canadian Institute for Board of Trade and Chamber of Commerce Secretaries today received certificates of merit at the annual meeting of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce.

The institute is held each spring at McMaster University, Hamilton.

Certificate winners included: C. A. Junke, Port Arthur; Margaret Rae, Guelph; H. F. Edwards, Welland; C. N. Hall, Waterloo; S. L. Shippam, Timmins; B. V. Bedore and Mrs. Bedore, Arnprior.

Hails A-Sub Great Weapon

GORTON, Conn. (AP) — U.S. naval secretary Robert B. Anderson today hailed the atomic-powered submarine as "a marvellous new weapon" that could bottle up enemy warships half a world away from North American shores.

Anderson came here today for keel-plate laying ceremonies for the second U.S. nuclear-powered undersea craft, the USS Seawolf. Under construction here also is the Nautilus, first U.S. atomic submarine which Anderson noted "soon, very soon," will put to sea on her undersea trials.

Anderson warned that "our enemy may at any day enter the war with six times the number of submarines possessed by Germany at the outset of the Second World War, most of them better, harder to find and harder to sink than their predecessors."

In the event of war, the West, he said, must bottle up enemy submarines in the enemy's own harbors or destroy them in narrow waters en route to the open sea.

Anderson said the atomic sub will be able to travel thousands of miles underwater at a rate of "better than 20 knots."

Charged With Arsenal

TEHRAN (AP)—Iranian police were reported Monday to have arrested Yamad Alioff, a Russian barrel-maker, on charges of keeping a small arsenal of guns and ammunition in his home. The Russian embassy protested to the foreign ministry, which promised to look into the matter.

Soldiers Hit By Train

TAIPEH, Formosa (AP) — A truck carrying 60 Chinese Nationalist soldiers was hit by a train at a grade crossing near here Monday. Four soldiers were killed and 29 were injured.

Australia Denies Bargain Rates For Uranium

CANBERRA (Reuters) — Supply Minister Howard Beale said today that Australia is not being paid bargain rates for her uranium supplies.

He was commenting on a report in the London Financial Times that Australia is receiving about half the price paid to Canadian producers of uranium.

Beale said Australia has arranged to sell whatever uranium is to be exported on terms which "by no means constituted a bargain price."

Government officials in Ottawa declined to state whether Canadian uranium supplies are being sold for more or less than the Australian product.

Officials of Eldorado Mining and Refining Ltd., a Crown company, said Eldorado purchases acceptable concentrated uranium ore from Canadian producers at a minimum price of $7.25 a ton. Eldorado refines the ore into uranium oxide and sells this product to the U.S. atomic energy commission. The price is not made public. Atomic Energy of Canada Ltd. purchases its supplies of uranium metal from the American commission but this price is also secret.

Destroy French Post

HANOI, Indo-China (AP) — A French army spokesman announced Monday that Communist-led Viet Minh troops attacked and destroyed a small French Union defence post in the Red river delta near Hung Yen, 25 miles southeast of Hanoi. The spokesman said the strong rebel assault began early Monday morning.

Compensating Ontario Workmen

The Ontario Workmen's Compensation Board is not a Government agency, although it was set up by act of the Provincial Legislature. It is an independent body of three men established to assess and levy upon employers sums sufficient to pay compensation in case of accident. The objective of the Act which became effective January 1st, 1915, is to spread the cost of injury over industry at large and to prevent costly legal proceedings in law courts between employees and employers. When the Act was passed it was unique on this continent as a measure of public welfare and security. Today every province in Canada has workmen's compensation, with most legislation for it being modelled on the Ontario Act.

* * *

The growth of the influence of the Act (and Board) has been in accordance with the growth of Ontario's population and industry. Thirty-eight years ago the newly-formed Workmen's Compensation Board paid about $900,000 in benefits to injured Ontario workers as a result of 17,000 accidents. Now the annual payment of compensation medical costs amounts to some $29,000,000 a year on 200,000 accidents. (This latter figure does not mean that there are 200,000 industrial accidents a year; it is cumulative—representing accidents of this and earlier years for which compensation is being provided.)

* * *

The Board and legislation are a notable instance of what can be accomplished for public welfare without socialization. The scheme resulted from a practical as well as humanitarian desire to deal justly and serve both employers and employees alike. The experiment has worked well and has been maintained abreast of the times. The original Act provided for compensation to injured workers of 55 precent, of their average earnings based on a maximum of $2,000 a year. Through amendments since 1915, the compensation has been increased to a maximum of 75 percent. of an injured worker's average earnings, based on top wages of $4,000 a year. Other changes provided for medical aid to injured workers and the use of artificial appliances in treatment. The number and kind of workers entitled to receive protection under the Act have also been increased.

* * *

The Workmen's Compensation Board —and its staff—have moved into new headquarters, officially opened today in Toronto. That a new building was necessary is an indication of the growth of the Board's work and its continuing service in a vital public welfare area. The Board now has a thousand employees, including the staff of the Rehabilitation Centre at Malton. For as well as providing cold cash, the Board tries to help the injured workmen's health and to assist them to regain ability to work at some fitting and remunerative task. The Rehabilitation Centre has fourteen buildings set on twenty-eight acres of land. Patients receive treatment by physiotherapists, occupational therapists (teaching new earning techniques) and remedial gymnasts.

* * *

The problem of what to do with and for injured workmen is as old as history. Ontario's solution is one of the more enlightened that history records.

Jewish Senator

The Prime Minister is being showered with gratuitous advice about Senate vacancies, particularly by Conservatives. Having been unable to materially increase their representation in the Lower House through popular election, they see an opportunity to increase it in the Upper House by appointment—through the grace of their opponents. As a matter of fact, the Government does have an opportunity to widen the basis of representation in the Senate, and for the betterment of that House lopsided with Liberals. But if a significant departure in method of selection is to be made, we see no reason why it should be narrowly extended only to Conservatives. To do so would still keep the selection political.

A truly representative Senate would include men of distinctions other than political, and persons who by racial antecedants, profession or occupation would make valuable contributions to legislation because they could speak as representatives of their sections of the Canadian community. Further to dignify such men with senatorships would honour these groups, their arts and professions.

A suggestion has been made that an Indian be appointed to the Senate, in recognition of the historic importance and privileges of the native population of this country. Such an ethnic representation would be interesting, and no doubt there are Indians qualified by character and attainments for Senatorship. A much larger ethnic group, which has made a valuable contribution to the development and growth of Canada during two centuries, has been the Jewish people. They have brought to this country many skills, establishing new industries and made remarkable cultural contributions in all the arts. Yet no Jewish person has been appointed to the Senate, if our memory mistakes not.

Even politically this has been an anomally, in a country where Jewish people, as a minority, have long been accorded political freedom and won political office on their merits. A Jewish mayor was first elected chief magistrate in 1858—William Hyman, mayor of Cap des Rosier, Gaspe, who is reputed to have been the founder of the fishing industry in that part of the country. In 1832 the first Jew to be elected to a Canadian Legislature was Ezekial Hart of Three Rivers, Quebec. Ezekial Hart was the son of Commissary Aaron Hart who came to Canada with the British Army in 1759 and settled in Three Rivers. Ezekial Hart advanced the economic development of his native town, religous toleration, and largely through his influence British subjects of Jewish faith in Canada were given, in 1832, a charter of equal rights with other British subjects.

It is more than a century since Hart died. Is it not time that a Jewish person be appointed to the Senate? There are many citizens of that faith eminently qualified for the honour and service.

Low Man On The Totem Pole

Since the Republicans took office in Washington last January eighty-eight thousand Government employees have been dismissed. Eighteen thousand of them were given the boot last month alone. This sound like a wonderful example for Ottawa. The wonder grows less exemplary when it is examined.

The fact is that 88,000 is only a small proportion of the two and a half million civilians who are employed by the American Government. Ottawa and Canadian Federal Government offices elsewhere have multiplied and magnified themselves but not to the swollen shape of the Washington Federal bureaucracy. The dismissal of three percent of all Canadian Federal employees —the proportion thus far dismissed by the Eisenhower administration—would not be the spectacular lopping some Canadian taxpayers crave.

A further dimming of the shining Washington light on this matter is caused by the method of dismissal. It is wholesale and on a going-down escalator. Dismissal notices—headed R.I.F. (Reduction in Force) go to a civil servant. This man so "riffed" (from R.I.F.) can then bump the man next below him and claim his job. So in turn can B claim C's job. As one candid observer says, it is a kind of musical chairs, which Washington civil servants do not find as funny as it sounds. Our private metaphor is a totem pole, so grotesque and hierarchical does the system seem. The low man is out. Those who remain are not necessarily the best for the jobs they lower themselves to take.

The Foreign Operations Administration (that is the Mutual Security Administration) which has just been consolidated with the economic aid program (Point Four) has devised, by order of Mr. Harold Stassen the administrator, a different method. Congress had told Mr. Stassen to abolish a third of the senior jobs. A fifth of them had been riffed by last week through a system which left harder feelings than the ordinary riffing. Mr. Stassen ordered all his staff to take aptitude tests. Those that passed with high marks were retained in the service; those who did not, were put on the street. Mr. Stassen himself took the test, to show how bravely impartial he was. It is reported that Mr. Stassen's marks were not as good as those obtained by some of the officials who were released. So to "riffed" has been added another Washington slang term: stassenated.

Jumping The Gun

A few hardy fishermen braved last Sunday's cold, damp weather to continue the long summer search for the biggest fish. September days often provide better fishing temperatures than July or August—and better catches. Also braving the Sunday weather were some sporting gentry with guns. The cold, gray skies had put them in mind of partridge and duck-hunting October and November days, it seems. Perhaps, however, the men we saw Sunday afternoon along the west shore of Pigeon Lake in Victoria county, were after coons or rabbits, for which the season has opened. This seems odd, however, in the marshy area famous for grouse and ducks. From the same quiet country road winding beside the lake, could be seen men in several boats. They had no fishing lines. Perhaps they were preparing hides for duck-shooting later; perhaps they were merely hiding some other equipment when cars passed by.

Britain's Lead In Jet Engines

By CHESTER WILMOT
(Noted Military Correspondent)

BRITAIN'S claim to world leadership in the the design and development of turbine-engined aircraft has been further strengthened this week during the annual display and exhibition of the Society of British Aircraft Constructors at Farnborough, in Hampshire. Both 1951 and 1952 were vintage years for new aircraft, but the outstanding feature of British aviation since the last Farnborough display has been the continued progress in developing power units —both turbojet and turboprop— which are the foundation of Britain's present superiority.

✧ ✧ ✧

THIS PROGRESS has been marked by the establishment of two new world records and the production of two new jet-engines. It was most appropriate that on the eve of this year's S. B. A. C. show, a Hunter jet-fighter, powered by a Rolls-Royce Avon engine, should have regained for Britain the world air speed record at 727.6 m.p.h. As a new world altitude record of 63,668 feet was created last May by a Canberra jet-bomber equipped with two Bristol Olympus engines, Britain now holds the two most important air records.

✧ ✧ ✧

WHILE these achievements stand to the credit of engines now in production, others of a greater power are already being tested. Rolls Royce have announced the development of an entirely new type of engine — a by-pass jet, known as the Conway. The leading feature of this engine, which will be used in the new military jet-transport, the Vickers 1000, is that it gives higher propulsive efficiency with lower fuel consumption.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE CONWAY is expected to give a thrust of more than 10,000 pounds, but this will be out-matched by the performance of the new De Havilland engine, the Gyron, which is believed to be in the 15,000 pound class. If this degree of thrust is achieved, the Gyron will have double the power of the Avon engine in Squadron-Leader Neville Duke's record-breaking Hunter. Whatever the Gyron's ultimate performance, the makers are already claiming it to be the most powerful aircraft engine in the world today.

✧ ✧ ✧

IT MAY BE some years before these new power units are in service, but in the meantime existing engines are being steadily improved.

When the first Rolls-Royce Avon appeared in 48 it had a thrust of 6,000 pounds, but the thrust of the latest Avon is 9,500 pounds and the new version, being developed for the Comet III, will be even more powerful. Similarly, the thrust of the Armstrong-Siddeley Sapphire has been increased from 7,200 pounds to 8,300 pounds and there is scope for still further improvement.

✧ ✧ ✧

IN ADDITION to continued progress with individual engines, Britain has now built up a family of gas-turbine engines which, for variety and quality, no other country can match. In every important engine class, with the exception of the smallest, there is at least one first-rate British product, and in the main classes there is also an adequate alternative. This is the result of the happy combination of private initiative within the industry and Government backing provided through the Ministry of Supply.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE CLIMAX of this years flying display at Farnborough afforded a striking illustration of the success of Britain's engine development. When the prototype of the Avro delta-winged Vulcan bomber appeared last year it was powered by four Avons, each with a thrust of 7,500 pounds. That prototype has now been fitted with Sapphires delivering 8,300 pounds, but it was overshadowed at Farnborough this week by the second prototype equipped with four Olympus engines which have a thrust of 9,750 pounds.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE CONTRAST between the Sapphire-Vulcan was most marked during the display. The former has ample power in any case, but the Olympus engines lifted the second Vulcan at a remarkable angle of climb and gave the impression of having a great reserve in hand all the time.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE INTERNATIONAL recognition accorded to British engines was apparent at Farnborough from the keen interest taken by foreign buyers, especially the Germans. British jet-engines are already being produced in nine foreign countries— Argentina, Australia, Belgium, France, Italy, the Soviet Union, Sweden, Switzerland and the United States— and negotiations are in train for new licences for increased production abroad. Eight British turbojet or turboprop engines are now being manufactured in the United States — including the Sapphire and the Olympus— and the Americans have shown their faith in the Avon by ordering 450 Hunters for North Atlantic Treaty Organization air forces under the "off-shore purchase" scheme.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE ONLY disappointment at this year's Farnborough show was the reminder that, although Britain leads the world in design, finished aircraft are slow to come from the factories. The prototypes of the Vickers Valiant swept-wing bomber, of the Gloster Javelin all-weather fighter and of the Supermarine Swift and Hawker Hunter day-fighters all appeared in 1951, but none of these aircraft is yet in service. If the British aircraft industry were as efficient in manufacture as it is in invention, Britain would enjoy much greater military security at home and could command the commercial markets of the air.

Letters To The Editor

IN NEWSREELS

Sir: Thought the Ornamental Swimming Club would like to know that they're appearing in all the newsreels shown here last week. Am looking forward to the short which I understand is being released.

Congratulations and continued success in future, girls.

Best wishes too, to Peterboroughs Senior Lacrosse Club in their series in the West.

Sincerely,
LOIS LINDECKER.

SHORT ENOUGH TRIP FROM BASKET TO CASKET

Sir: One would assume that Mr. Horn was referring to animals in his letter of September 11th regarding "Mercy Killing."

Incidentally Mr. Horn, the term mercy killing, in my estimation, is no less than a modern term used for "mass murder" of which you state you are a believer.

I'm sure that your ideas and services would be appreciated by other inhuman sadists with neither heart nor feeling, perhaps the Reds.

Quoting Mr. Horn, "if a practical solution can be found place in the hands of skilled men the tools they need.'

What tools do you suggest Mr. Horn to murder these poor creatures? Gas chamber or furnaces? Who would fulfill such a morbid scheme? How would you rationalize yourself if you were appointed for this mass murder?

I think that this is nothing less than proposing premeditated ways for mass murder, and anyone participating in mass murder (mercy killing) is as guilty as an murderer could possibly be.

Mr. Horn refers to two religions, the ancient and the modern. Bah!

Modern times do not change true religions nor the Commandments of God. Did you ever hear the Commandment, "Thou shalt not kill."

In conclusion I say, "live and let live," and if Mr. Horn has followers (and I doubt if anyone is that gullible) a few years hence, murderers on trial could plead "mercy killing" and have just as much right. Just where to would this end? It's a short enough trip from the basket to the casket without some fiend trying to rush one's eternal sleep.

WM. A. McTEAGUE.

RELIGIOUS PURPOSE

Sir: On Friday, Sept 11, a certain letter appeared in your paper which disturbed me immensely. I believe it was singed Fred Horn and concerned "unfortunate" children. I would first just like to say, that this certain gentleman should get down on his knees and thank God that he is normal and able to think and do for himself. God does not bring children into the world in such a "condition," and if they remain with us, it is for a purpose that he allows them to remain, instead of taking them home with him immediately.

My little sister passed into his kingdom in August just this year. She has been with us for sixteen and one half years almost. She had never been able to talk, walk, feed herself, or even sit up (unless propped all around with pillows). It had been a burden for the family of which there were 2 children, but who suffered most, us, or herself. The pain she must have suffered and we never knew. For she could cry but could never tell us what was wrong. Nevertheless, she was here for a purpose. We were just very slow in fulfilling it. You see, through her, there is now a family of two parents and eleven children, who are working for God's kingdom.

We must all go sometime. Life is very short here, but our souls live eternally. Yet how many of us stop to think of where we are going when our bodies die. Through my sister, we came to learn, "Except a man be born again, he cannot see the kingdom of God.' John 3:3. Therefore now, her mission fulfilled, God has taken her home. For all children, as are the minds of these "unfortunates," go to his kingdom. "Suffer the children to come unto me for of such is the kingdom of heaven." We were just very slow as to her reason for being here, so it was really us who prolonged her suffering.

No. I cannot agree with this man, and I'm sure there are a good many others feeling the same. When we produce children, that is something we accept. Who are we to question God and his work?

Perhaps this gentleman would like to try to tell the few mothers that I know of, including my mother, that just because one of their children is "not quite right," they should destroy that child.

Yours truly,
"JUDY."

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Make a joyful noise unto the Lord, all ye lands. Serve the Lord with gladness: come before his presence with singing. Know ye that the Lord he is God: it is he that hath made us, and not we ourselves; we are his people and the sheep of his pasture. (Ps. 100: 1-3).

✧ ✧ ✧

Surely there is vein for the silver, and a place for gold where they fine it . . . But where shall wisdom be found? and where is the place of understanding? . . . The depth saith, It is not in me: and the sea cometh wisdom? and where is the place of undestanding? . . . God understandest the way thereof, and he knoweth the place thereof. (Job 28, 1, 12, 14, 20, 23.)

✧ ✧ ✧

The disciple is not above his master: but every one that is perfect shall be as his master . . . And why call ye me, Lord, Lord, and do not the things which I say? Whosoever cometh to me, and heareth my sayings, and doeth them, I will shew you to whom he is like: he is like a man which built an house, and digged deep, and laid the foundation on a rock: and when the flood arose, the stream vehemently upon that house, and could not shake it: for it was founded upon a rock. But he that heareth, and doeth not, is like a man that without a foundation built an house upon the earth; against which the stream did beat vehemently, and immediately it fell; and the ruin of that house was great. (Luke 6: 40, 46-49.)

Rev. Mark Burnham In St. Thomas

(St. Thomas Times-Journal)

(Ed Note: The Times-Journal reprinted the Examiner's editorial comment on the death of Mr. Mark Burnham and its remarks on the Burnham family tree, and added the following paragraph.)

Rev. Mark Burnham, mentioned above, only son of Hon. Zaccheus Burnham (1777-1857) was rector of the old St. Thomas Church in Walnut Street, St. Thomas, taking charge in 1829, five years after the opening of that now historic church. While in St. Thomas, Rev. Mark Burnham married a daughter of Colonel Bostwick of Port Stanley, who was instrumental in having a church erected on a site presented by him at Port Stanley. During Mr. Burnham's incumbency at this church, the church was enlarged by the addition of the transepts. One of his sisters, Achsah Burnham, married Edward Ermatinger, father of the late C. O. Ermatinger, County Judge of Elgin and the late Frank Ermatinger, postmaster. Rev. Mark Burnham after leaving St. Thomas, retired to Ashburnham. Edward Ermatinger built a very beautiful home in St. Thomas, "Oakton," which is now known as 46 Stanley street.

AP Employee Disappearance Tipoff Reds Closing In

By WILLIAM N. OATIS
(Copyright 1953 by The Associated Press)

One night in February of 1951 the Prague radio broadcast that a policeman had been shot to death near Charles Square in downtown Prague. The killers had escaped. The public was asked to tell the police anything about them.

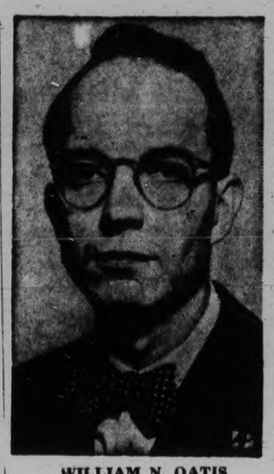
In that killing, I saw only one item in the day-by-day grist of news that passed through the office. Actually, it was an event that was to wield an enormous influence on my own life.

About a month later Mrs. Hana Svobodova came into the office. She was the wife of Thomas Svoboda, one of my translators, and the mother of his baby daughter. She was looking for her husband, and she was weeping.

He was off that day, and nobody in the office had seen him. His wife, who had a clerical job and had worked herself during the day, would say only that he had left the apartment where they lived with her parents, and had not come back.

Svoboda never came back to work, either. I reported his disappearance to the Ministry of Information, which had approved his employment by The AP, and to the police.

But neither was any help in tracing him. And as I learned more about what had happened that day his wife had come looking for him. I was pretty sure I knew why.



WILLIAM N. OATIS

"THAT BOY OUT OF THE COUNTRY"

While Svoboda was in the apartment with his mother-in-law, a strange man had come asking for him. Svoboda had talked with the man briefly in an undertone, and then both had left.

As they walked down the street below, another man had fallen in behind them, and the three had vanished around a corner. That night, plainclothesmen had searched the apartment.

It seemed safe to guess that Svoboda was in the hands of the secret police. But, by virtue of the very nature of the secret police, it did not seem safe to say so—not out loud, anyway.

A few days after that, Paul Woydinek of my Czech staff said he had learned the trouble was that "that boy who's out of the country" had been connected with "some people that had something to do with the murder of that policeman."

I had never met "that boy who's out of the country." But I had heard a lot about him.

He was a chum of Svoboda's from college days, a young Czech refugee who lived in Paris and was in and out of Czechoslovakia from time to time.

WOYDINEK VANISHES

It was fairly clear to me that he crossed the border illegally. But I was unaware of whatever else he might be doing. In fact I did not even know his name.

I had heard of him first from Nathan Polowetzky, my predecessor in charge of the Prague AP bureau. Polowetzky was expelled from Czechoslovakia on grounds of "unobjective reporting" and came back to London in April, 1950, while I was waiting there for a visa to go into that country.

In talking with me about his work in Prague, he spoke of "a little guy"—he did not mention any name—that had given him news, a man that came from Paris but seemed well informed on doing in Czechoslovakia.

After I got to Prague I heard from Czech employees that this man had given Polowetzky a story the Ministry of Information had cited as an example of "unobjective reporting"—a factual story on a coal mine strike in the Bohemian town of Kladno.

Woydinek did not show up for work April 2. I went to his room with an interpreter and found it sealed with paper tape. A neighbor told us what had happened:

About 6:30, as Woydinek was getting ready to go to the office, six plainsclothesmen had walked in. Three had led him away. The other three had stayed, searched the place and sealed it.

EXIT PETER MUNTZ

Since Svoboda's arrest, we had seen strange men around our office. One, peeking out from behind a curtain, had looked in now and then through our wide second-floor front windows from another window across the street. Others, haunting a passageway beside our building, had watched our visitors.

On Friday morning, April 20, I awoke about 8:30 in my room at the Ambassador Hotel and telephoned the office to see if there had been any news worth picking up on Prague's morning newscast.

Our old night watchman, who spoke only Czech and German, answered the telephone. I asked for Peter Muntz, the translator who had been due on the job an hour and a half earlier. The old man said, "Nein, nein"—"No, No."

I called Muntz's apartment. His wife said, "Mr. Oatis, my husband is at office." I waited awhile and then called the office again. Again the watchman answered, but a moment later somebody else was on the wire, telling me in broken English that Muntz was not there.

It was a man whose voice I did not recognize. And I thought, "This is a cop. Muntz has been arrested, and if I go to the office I will be arrested too." I asked the man what he was doing there. He said he was fixing the teletype machines.

I drove to the U.S. Embassy. I told the counselor, Tylor Thompson, I was afraid police were in my office. On his advice, I had Miss Mary Horak, an embassy secretary, telephone the office and speak Czech with the alleged teletype repairman. He told her exactly what he was doing to the machines, and we decided he was no impostor—and no policeman.

"WHY SHOULD YOU WORRY?"

Richard G. Johnson, the vice consul, went with me to the office. The night watchman was still there. The printer repairman—whom I recognized immediately when I saw him, though I had not recognized his voice—was just leaving. Muntz was nowhere in sight.

Johnson said he could do nothing for him because he was a Czechoslovak citizen. "Now if you were to get arrested," he added—and I gathered that in that case he could take a hand.

That afternoon I went to Dr. Rudolf Popper, head of the press section of the Ministry of Information.

"Three of my employees are missing and I think they've been arrested," I said. "Am I going to get arrested?"

The swarthy, black-haired little man, who looked something like a thin Pierre Laval, asked me if I had a guilty conscience. I said "No."

He leaned back in his chair in the tired way he had, looked down his face at me and said, "Why should you worry? You have semi-diplomatic status."

A BIG BLACK CAR

It was true that my official accreditation gave me something like diplomats' extra rations. But it was not true that it granted me diplomatic immunity from arrest.

That was Friday. On Sunday at about 10 a.m., I drove out of the public garage where I kept the office car and turned a corner on my way back to the hotel. In my rear view mirror, I saw another car pull away from the curb behind me.

It was a big, black, streamlined Tatraplan, a Czech model commonly used by the secret police. It kept a half block behind me. Was it following me? I would see.

Instead of going straight to the hotel, I made a detour around a block. The Tatraplan followed me all the way. When I parked in front of the hotel, it parked about a block behind.

I hurried inside, picked up my key at the desk and dashed upstairs, two steps at a time, to my room on the third floor. I bolted the door and stood there with cold terror stabbing into my stomach. I decided to go to the embassy. That was U.S. territory, and Czech police could not reach me there. Without thinking to pick up even pyjamas and shaving kit, I set out.

RACE TO THE EMBASSY

There were two ways from stairway to street—one through the front entrance, the other out a side door and down a passageway. I chose the second as the safer.

It was not necessary. Nobody recognizable as a detective was either in the lobby or out front. I slammed the car door and drove off. Down the street, the Tatraplan also pulled away from the curb.

Once I was in National Avenue, I had a straight stretch of almost a mile down past the National Theatre and across the Vltava river. Then a turn to the right and another mile's drive would bring me to the hilly side street on which the embassy fronted.

My shadows—there were two men in the car behind—kept a discreet distance till after the turn. Then they started gaining on me.

I speeded up, trying to steer clear of the car tracks in the narrow brick street and wondering how it would be to blow a tire just then.

They speeded up, too, despite heavy traffic. At length, the Tatraplan was the third car behind me. But a few seconds later I turned up the hill and parked opposite the embassy.

TWO SHADOWS

I looked back. The black automobile had not followed me into the side street. I ran across to the embassy gate. And for the first time in many minutes I felt safe.

Sgt. Harry Morrissey of the military attache's office was on guard duty in the front office. I asked if the counselor, Thompson, was in. He said everybody had gone on a picnic except Ambassador Ellis O. Briggs, who was ill at home.

"Do you want to talk to the ambassador", he asked.

"No", I said, "I won't bother him."

I returned to the office. Another black Tatraplan picked up my trail and followed me all the way, parking up the street from the office.

I walked back and looked at the two men seated in it— a little bald fellow with a fringe of gray hair and a thin, swarthy youth who looked Italian—both of them in shirtsleeves. I said, "StB?" (That is the Czech abbreviation for the official name of the secret police—the Statni Bezpecnost [State Security].) The dark young man rotated an index finger beside his right ear. It was a gesture that means, in any language, "You have wheels in your head."

That evening I was lying on my bed at the hotel when Thompson telephoned, back from the picnic and anxious to know if I was all right. I told him I would see him the next day.

But I did not. Because the next day—Monday, April 23, 1951—six men walked into my office and arrested me.

EXHIBITION 30 YEARS AGO is seen in this photograph that was in an album presented to John S. Martin who, as Ontario Minister of Agriculture, opened the Peterborough Exhibition in 1923. Note the judges' stand on the north side of the track shown on the left of the photo. It is now opposite, but the general scene looks the same.

3 Boy Campers Reach Safety

MARQUETTE, Mich. (AP) — Three wet and weary boy campers waded safely to the mainland from a storm-beaten tiny island in Lake Superior today.

Their safe arrival, after two nights on cold Presque island, put a happy ending to a perilous weekend on the upper lakes.

The three boys, all 14-year-olds escaped injury. Jack Johnson, David Lompre and Harry Kelly, came to safety on their own. They waded 200 feet through waist-high water as boats were being prepared for their rescue.

A 50-mile-an-hour wind trapped them on the island Saturday.

Souvenir Photo Album Recalls Exhibition Of 1923

In this picture of Peterborough Exhibition 30 years ago, only the crowd is different from what it will be any afternoon this week. And the crowd itself should arrest the attention of the readers of this page. The grandstand was packed that autumn in 1923.

Most of the directors who planned that Exhibition are gone. This photograph recalls a pleasant custom, which Rollie Denne conceived, of presenting to visiting dignitaries an album of representative scenes of Peterborough. In 1923 the Exhibition was formally opened by Hon. John S. Martin, Ontario Minister of Agriculture, and he was here on March 19, 1924, as guest at some dinner meeting of the directors of the Exhibition.

PHOTOS OF CITY

And, as was their wont, they presented the Minister with the book of photographs, each about seven by nine inches, and including pictures of industrial plants, churches, public buildings, Kawartha beauty, and George St. with its electric railway and its street cars. Mr. Denne's idea was to keep Peterborough renewed in the memories of visitors. At any rate, this illustrated souvenir rested for years in the files of the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

It outstayed John S. Martin, and lingered through successive administrations and ministerial tenancies.

Some time lately there must have been a housecleaning of such accumulations around the Minister's office. They were a collection of articles that had outgrown their significance and association.

In that clearance, somebody was imaginative and considerate enough to recognize a Peterborough value in the album. It was forwarded to Frank C. Paterson, agricultural representative, who recognized its photographs of a forgotten day at Morrow Park as recommending a final service through the Examiner in the publicity for the 1953 Exhibition.

The only change in the vicinity of the grandstand is the absent fence on which small boys found preferred seats of dubious comfort. They were youngsters of ten or twelve years, who probably now have boys of their own looking toward the Exhibition this week.

Tours Canadian Mines

TORONTO (CP)—Seeking Canadian mining ideas to apply to a newly-developed industry in Pakistan, Moinuddin Sidequi, director of the department of mineral concessions for Pakistan, visited here Monday. He is touring on a United Nations fellowship and will attend a mines ministers conference at Niagara Falls, Ont., this week as an observer and then leave to tour mines in the Sudbury district.

Novotny No. 1 Czech Party Man

LONDON (Reuters)—Antonin Novotny, 49, Monday emerged as Czechoslovakia's No. 1 "party man"—the Czech equivalent of Russia's party boss, Nikita S. Khrushchev.

The official Czechoslovak news agency Ceteka reported that the central committee of the Czechoslovak Communist party elected him first secretary of the party.

On Saturday, Moscow radio announced that Khrushchev now holds the title of first secretary of the Soviet Communist party.

Comparatively little is known here about Novotny. He first entered the top leadership of the Czechoslovak Communist party at the end of 1951 as a member of the party's praesidium and of the party secretariat.

2 Civil Cases Settled At Fall Assizes

KITCHENER (CP) — Two of three civil jury cases listed for trial at the fall assizes of the Supreme Court of Ontario opening here Monday before Mr. Justice G. A. Gale were settled and a third is scheduled to be adjourned, if not settled, today.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Kuhl and their daughter, Patricia, of Waterloo county received $3,500 from the defendant, Lester Hertel of Hayesville, for injuries received in a motor accident. Hertel had previously been acquitted of manslaughter in the death in the crash of Mrs. Anna Dope, Mrs. Kuhl's aunt.

An unspecified amount was awarded to Erlis R. Yutzi of Baden, arising from a motor accident with Howard Herald of Shakespeare and Marlin Ruby of Tavistock as defendants. Yutzi, who lost an arm, was asking $26,875.

Mildred Dickout and Jack McComb, both of Galt, asked for $13,000 damages from George Nutt of Salford for injuries received in a motor accident last year. This case was adjourned.

Mr. Justice Gale was presented with the traditional pair of white gloves when the court convened, marking the absence of criminal cases on the docket.

PETES CAPTURE MANN CUP OPENER FROM VICS

Early Drive Proves Payoff In 13-12 Trailermen Win Before 5,472 Victoria Fans

(By DON GRANT, Examiner Staff Reporter)

VICTORIA—Previous experience in Mann Cup playoffs paid off for the Peterborough Trailermen Monday night when they eked out a 13-12 victory over Victoria Shamrocks in the first game of the Canadian Senior Lacrosse championships. The Bob Thorpe-coached Eastern Canada Champions took advantage of Shamrock nervousness in the first quarter and built up a three-goal lead. The Shamrocks gradually overcame their uneasiness but couldn't fight their way back to take the lead. It was Victoria's first loss in 23 games this season on their home floor in the Victoria Memorial Centre.

After the game, coach Thorpe said, "We're awfully tired," but he added that, "If we stay out of the penalty box we'll be all right".

Meanwhile in the Shamrocks' dressing room there wasn't the usual round of back-slapping and words of excitement. The Rocks took the loss badly; they all felt except for the dismal first quarter that they had matched the Trailermen.

Coach John (Red) McMillan commented that "we gave away five goals. It was a bad first quarter. We came back but didn't have enough to finish it up."

OFFICIAL OPENING

British Columbia's Lieutenant-Governor, Clarence A. Wallace performed the opening ceremonies, helping face-off. He was introduced to the 5,472 Victoria fans by the Canadian Lacrosse Association president, James MacLeod of Owen Sound.

The Shamrocks who were playing their first game in Mann Cup play just couldn't get untracked in the first quarter. On the other hand the experienced Trailermen, led by Russ Slater, Bob Thorpe and Curly Mason were steady, working methodically through the Rocks to run up a 4-1 score in the first quarter.

McMillan's Rocks became steadier in the second quarter, helped by several slashing penalties handed out to the Trailermen. Even then they were still behind 6-4 at the half and 10-8 at the three-quarter mark.

Edged on by the thoroughly home crowd which booed the Trailermen at every opportunity, the Rocks managed to tie the score 10-all early in the fourth. But goals by Harry Wipper, Derry Davies and Nip O'Hearn sent the fans home unhappy.

Apart from the Rocks' early uneasiness, the main factor in the Trailermen's win was their power to control the play. This was mainly due to the excellent faceoff work by Mason and Thorpe who took 31 and 40 possible draws during the game. Most of the successful draws came in the first, third and fourth quarter, giving the Trailermen a decided edge on the play.

GOT LOOSE BALLS

The smooth-passing Shamrocks, who specialize on short, fast passes quickly down the floor, were able to retrieve most of the loose balls which helped keep them in the game. The ball would bounce at odd angles off the boards and it wasn't until late in the game that the Trailermen became accustomed to this.

Slater, a specialist in ragging the ball when the Trailermen were ahead, three times in the fourth quarter held the ball for intervals of at least a minute. This play, considered excellent lacrosse, didn't meet with the approval of the Rocks' fans who booed him each time.

Lloyd (Moon) Wootton again shone. He out-guessed the Rocks time and again as they slipped inside the Trailermen defence to perch on Moon's doorstep. Wootton left the Rocks' fans definitely worried.

The Rocks' weakest points were on the defence. Their goalie, Jim Hetherington, couldn't cope with the fast-moving Trailermen who mixed an assortment of long and short shots at him. The Rocks' defence faded badly several times, but this will probably be corrected in the second game Wednesday when Rocks will dress Jack Byford, picked up from the Vancouver Pilseners.

The refereeing by westerners Bill Dickinson and Bill Wilkes rather surprised the Peterborough team. They called an even game, probably favoring the Trailermen. Just the same, the Trailermen managed to pick up more than their share of the penalties during which the Rocks' capitalized for five goals.

OPENED SCORING

Russ Slater opened the scoring with a long low shot from well out and Hetherington fanned on it. Powless followed up two minutes later by grabbing a rebound in front of Rocks' net. While leaping high in the air, Powless shot. Slater repeated at the 10-minute mark and then Wipper broke past Bob Anderson to score from the edge of the crease. Archie Browning started the Rocks' off with 13 seconds left in the period, scoring on a short shot from six feet out.

Thorpe made the score 5-1 early in the second on a screen shot. Browning answered with a neat backhand shot. Mason high-sticked Bob Monaghan and while he was off Larry Booth whipped in two goals from the crease edge. A neat three-way passing play featuring O'Hearn, Slater and Mason ended in Mason scoring. The half ended at 6-4.

O'Hearn and Powless set Slater up in the first minute of the second half and Hetherington didn't have a chance. Monaghan with a floor-length dash, dogged by Smith, scored. Smith came back with the night's best goal, taking a quick pass from Slater, turning to sink a backhander. Mason, set up by Powless, broke Rocks' defence to easily beat Hetherington. Smith was penalized for slashing Bill Bamford, and Browning, helped by Severson, capitalized. Duff McCaghey and Bamford followed up with quick counters before Mason, combining with Davies, set the Petes up again.

Arn Ferguson on a solo effort and Harry Irwin on a long shot tied the score at 10-all early in the fourth. But Wipper came back on a quick break to score. Davies sent home a long shot to put the Petes up two.

Northup raced the length of the floor to beat Wootton and for a while it looked as though the score might be tied a second time. O'Hearn then walked through the Rocks' after a pass from Powless to score the winning goal. Norm Coates ended the scoring on a rebound with 10 seconds left.

Salmonacs Win 16-14 Thriller From Monarchs

MIMICO (CP)—If the first game is any indication, the Minto Cup final for the Canadian junior lacrosse championship is in for a long run.

Monday night in the Mimico Bowl, New Westminster Salmonacs western junior lacrosse champions from British Columbia, fought from behind throughout a thriller to defeat Long Branch Monarchs 16-14 in overtime. The victory, played before an estimated 800 fans, gave the Salmonacs a 1-0 jump in the best-of-five Canadian final.

It was the first time the visitors had played on a dirt floor and the New Westminster defence, in particular, had trouble settling down in the early stages of the game.

As the game progressed, however, the Salmonacs untracked themselves and showed why they went through an undefeated 25-game schedule, including five play-off contests, in the West.

TAKE 4-0 LEAD

Long Branch jumped to a 4-0 lead before the game was 10 minutes old and added another goal before the period ended. New Westminster managed only two counters, thanks mainly to the outstanding goaltending of Long Branch's Dave (Porky) Russell.

At the end of the second quarter the eastern champions led 8-6. New Westminster drew to within one goal of the Monarchs' 10-goal total in the third and came from behind to tie it 13-13 with little more than a minute remaining in regulation play.

In overtime, Ken Lytle sent Long Branch into a short-lived 14-13 margin at the 1:15 mark. That was it as far as the Monarchs were concerned.

It took the Salmonacs little more than two minutes to wrap it up. Rover Jack Barclay tied it, forward Ivan Gujar won it, and centre Harry Kelleher put it on ice.

The star of the game, as far as scoring went, was Larry Ruse, Long Branch forward who fired five goals and collected an assist.

Cliff Sepka was the top sniper for the Salmonacs, rapping in three counters and assisting on three more. Jack Barclay also shone for the West, notching three markers, followed by Barry Pfaff and Max Skinner who had two each. Noble Collins, Don Sepka, Stan Cowie, Harry Kelleher and Don Martin chalked up singles in addition to Gujar.

Norm Neave, George Kapasky and Lytle banged in a pair each in the losing cause. Jack Coleman, Glen Passmore and Paul Henderson rounded out the scoring for Long Branch.

Ketchikan, Alaska, claims more salmon is canned there than in any other city of the world.

Seabrook, Bell Take Wins To Open Series

Civic league semi-finals began Monday night at East City Bowl, with a sizzling doubleheader between the top four leaders of the regular season. Seabrook Electric took the curtain-raiser, a sparkling duel by a 7-6 margin, handing Foresters their second defeat of the entire season, including play-offs; while Bell Telephone handed Bill's Lunch a 4-0 setback, behind the seven-hit flinging of Burt Harrison.

Thus the winners go one up in their best-of-three series which continues with another twin-bill Wednesday night, before what may prove a record Civic crowd for the season. Last night's show saw a fair-sized crowd, despite chilly winds.

Coach Ray Harrison called on his ace twirler, Eldon Conroy, to break Forester's winning streak; and Ralph Parnell countered with his speedy ace, Ken Hall. Both boys covered the route with honors about even in a grand display that might well have ended either way. Conroy struck out six, walked a pair and allowed six hits; Hall fanned eight, passed two and was nicked for nine bingles.

REALLY CLOSE

It was nip-and-tuck all the way with the winning tally registered by Keith Goodfellow in the eighth, on Bruce Harris' infield out as it turned out Galley, Little, Eldon Conroy and Goodfellow each hit safely twice for the winners; while Hall, Murray and Quigley led IOF stickers.

Burt Harrison twirled great ball in the nightcap to earn a fine victory for Bell; but Peters shone as well, on the opposing hill, to treat the fans to a fine display. The former was nicked for seven bingles, struck out 10 phone men and walked one; the latter allowed eight safeties, whipped seven Lunchmen and passed three.

A three-run rally in the third due partly to an outfield bobble, cost Bills a closer margin of defeat; but defensively both team's looked good and the telephone men earned their close trimuph. The fielding of Keith Harrison stood out prominently for winners with coach Chum Gillespie performing his usual brilliant game at the initial sack, and at bat, as well. Pagett and Brierly starred afield for Bob Welch's Lunch boys; but everyone gave his best on both squads. They go again Wednesday at seven p.m.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Evidently, scribe George Carver had not seen the midget pro wrestlers in action before — though they've performed here. Anyway, he saw 'em go in Bella Villa the other eve and this was only part of his rave: 'The miniatures put on a show that had Referee Bunny Dunlop looking at the rafters searching for the principals. They're fast, rough, tough and know plenty of the answers. One sneaked into the Dunlopian hip pocket at one stage of the game and the referee finally fished him from his hiding place between two one-dollar bills. Lil Beaver parked his two-by-four carcass in another pocket figuring the change would do him good. The economy-size guys put on a show that had 1,300 appendices in stitches without benefit of anaesthesia."

Harness hores racing takes over the local sports scene to a large extent the rest of this week. Seeing as it's Exhibition time once more in Morrow Park. The pacers and trotters from all parts of the province whirl the bikes around the half-mile track each afternoon and evening Tuesday through Saturday. Tonight, it's the 2.19 race in two heats. Tomorrow has the 2.25 in the aft with the 2.18 and an invitation race (by the local Turf Club) in the eve. Latter event is for $500, requiring no entry fee. Thursday has the .24 and .20 races after lunch and another at night for non-winners of $2,000. Friday it's non-winners of $400 and of $750 in two during the aft with the .22 at night. On Saturday afternoon horses out of the money in the 2.20, .22, and .24 go, plus the 2.17 race, the free-for-all ending it at night. Purses for the five-day meet total $3,700.

Along Rue de Rumor

Comes an item from the St Catharines' sheet: "Readers can take sport rumors for what they are worth, often times only a dollar a dozen. But from a Garden City man who went to Peterborough in the Eastern Canada lacrosse finals comes word those triple champ Petes will not be operating next boxla season. The story goes their present sponsor is ready to call it quits, presumably from a financial standpoint. They operated for several seasons under the banner of a lumber company, then switched this year to a trailer manufacturer. If Petes lose this sponsorship, it means digging in fresh soil and that's no sinecure these days."

* * * * * *

He adds this bit of wishful thinking: "If the story is correct, it could be of invaluable aid to rival sister units in the player release of operators who went to form that star-studdied pack of boxla boys. But they could be expensive. Even with 4,000 fans for playoff gates, it takes money to make the mare go. Stories kept reaching here that Petes were likely to face a deficit despite the fact they gated twice as many as any other senior OLA club." Sure, it costs a lot to field a Canadian senior championship club. That's obvious. But we can assure the St. Kitts' scribe that Harry McGinness has made no decision yet whether or not to back the club next year.

* * * * * *

One Peanut In The Bag

Shamrocks' 22-game winning streak in Victoria was snapped last evening by the Peterborough Trailermen, who took a 13-12 win before 5,472 rabid fans. A 4-1 lead for the Thorpe team in the first quarter paid off as it apparently was a nip-and-tucker the rest of the route, the Vics having a slight scoring margin the last part. Petes' penalties hurt 'em, too, according to reports. Mosted hated guy in the locals' lineup was— and we expected this —brainy Russ Slater. He slowed his speedy rivals down to a walk while killing off penalties and was booed repeatedly to a fare-thee-well by the frantic fanatics. Moon Wootton nearly broke their hearts, also, with his special brand of Mann Cup netminding.

* * * * * *

Controlling most of the faceoffs was a big factor in Petes' win, one notes. Curly Mason and Bob Thorpe were getting those draws and the canny Trailermen were hanging onto the ball till good scoring chances appeared. While the Vics showed a fast, smart set of forwards with a sharp passing attack, they were a bit weak on defence in this opener and the champs took full advantage of every chink in Rocks' armor. Mason, Slater, Wipper and Powless all were poison to the home squad when rolling in toward goal, but the whole crew apparently clicked in first-rate fashion on a strange floor and after their long trip westward. Second of the best-of-seven set is Wednesday night.

Poole Leading Scorer In Big Four

TORONTO (CP)—Ray Poole, six-year veteran with New York Giants who went to Montreal Alouettes of the Big Four Football Union this season, tonight is the leading scorer in Eastern Canada football.

Statistics compiled by The Canadian Press show the 30-year-old end, ranked as one of the best placement kickers in the American professional game, is top scorer with one touchdown, four field goals and five converts for a 22-point total.

He is one point up on John Mancos from Kent State University of Kent, O., who leads the Senior Ontario Rugby Football Union with 21 points, on four touchdowns and a single. Mancos joined the newly-formed Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen this season.

Poole, a native of Gloucester, Mass., has played in Alouettes' four games and has hit the scoreboard every time out. He holds a five-point margin in the Big Four over Gene (Choo Choo) Roberts, Ottawa Rough Rider back, a consistent point-getter in Canadian football since he came to this country two years ago from New York Giants.

NO. 3 SCORER

Avatus Stone, kicking and running half from Chicago Cardinals now with the Rough Riders, is No. 3 Big Four scorer with 14 points. He as two touchdowns and four singles.

Joe Scudero, who jumped Detroit Lions this year for Toronto Argonauts, Canadian-born Bob Simpson of Rough Riders, Chuck Hunsinger, formerly of Chicago Bears and now with the Alouettes, and Ulysses Curtis of Argonauts are in a four-way tie for fourth place with 10 points each.

Jack Barry of Balmy Beach is No. 2 scorer in the ORFU with 17 points on three touchdowns and two converts. He scored three majors last Saturday as Toronto walloped Brantford Redskins 31-0.

Yankees Slightly Favored To Take 5th Straight Series

By BEN PHLEGAR, Associated Press Sports Writer

The record-breaking New York Yankees and Brooklyn Dodgers will meet in the world series starting two weeks from Wednesday with the Yanks slightly favored to make it five straight two ways—five over the Dodgers in five meetings and five in a row over the National League. Cagey Casey Stengel, who managed the Yankees to five consecutive pennants, says he thinks he has a good chance to continued success in the fall classic.

"This is a real good club with real good players," Casey said as he relaxed after Monday's flag-clinching 8-5 victory over the Cleveland Indians.

"But I don't think those fellows (the Dodgers) will be scared of the Yankees. They've been in the series before."

Both Yankees and Dodgers clinched with 12 games left to play. Brooklyn played 142 games to win its flag, the Yankees 140.

GET FIVE RUNS

Monday the Indians got five runs off Ford in the first three innings on five hits, four walks and a hit batter. But against the combined relief efforts of Tom Gorman, Bob Kuzava and Johnny Sain the Indians got a hit and run total of zero.

Meanwhile, the Yankee hitters solved Early Wynn with a vengeance in the fourth inning, scoring four runs, and then caught up and sealed the decision against Bill Wight in the sixth and seventh. Yogi Berra broke the tie in the seventh with a two-run homer. Billy Martin drove in four of the Yankees' runs with two doubles and a single.

SUFFER LETDOWN

Brooklyn continued to suffer from a pennant-winning letdown, losing its second in a row to Chicago Cubs who ran their winning streak to 10. Johnny Klippstein gave the Dodgers only three hits in the 3-1 victory. He stopped Duke Snider's hitting streak at 27 games, one short of the all-time Brooklyn record.

In other action Monday, Chicago White Sox beat Boston Red Sox 10-6 despite a three-run pinch hit home run by Ted Williams, Washington Senators whipped Detroit Tigers 6-1 and Philadelphia edged St. Louis Cardinals 6-5.

Williams' homer was his 12th since returning from the Marines.

Quebec League Opens Oct. 10

MONTREAL (CP)—The newest addition to the ranks of professional hockey, the Quebec Hockey League, will start its 70-game 1953-54 schedule Oct. 10, it was announced Monday night at a general meeting of team representatives.

Springfield Indians, only new entry in the eight-team circuit, which turned professional last year after a squabble with the governing Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, will open the campaign Oct. 10 in Ottawa.

Each team will play 35 games at home and 35 on the road. The league play-offs will be curtailed this season to have a winner ready to travel west to oppose the champions of the Western Hockey League in an East-West classic.

Eddie Shore, president of the Springfield club, announced that veteran centre Doug McMurdy will coach the Indians and play centre.

Other teams in the league are Quebec Aces, Montreal Royals, Shawinigan Falls Cataracts, Valleyfield Braves, Chicoutimi Saguenneens and Sherbrooke Saints.

New York Yankees Make Baseball History Clinch 5th Successive League Pennant

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP) — Manager Casey Stengel and his world champion New York Yankees made baseball history Monday, clinching their fifth successive American League pennant..

In becoming the first manager ever to win five straight flags, Stengel conquered a jinx that had defied three great managers before him—Charle Comiskey, John McGraw and Joe McCarthy. These three were the only ones ever to pilot a club to four straight championships.

Comiskey won four straight American association (then a major league) pennants with the 1885-6-7-8 St. Louis Browns but was beaten by Brooklyn in 1889. McGraw's New York Giants captured National league flags in 1921-2-3-4 but finished second to Pittsburgh in 1925. McCarthy's Yankees won the American league title in 1936-7-8-9 but wound up a close third to the Detroit Tigers in 1940.

STRONG BENCH

This Yankee team may not rate with the greatest of all time but it is doubtful if any other championship club ever boasted a stronger bench. So well manned is this Yankee machine that Hank Bauer, rated one of the best outfielders in the majors, is forced to alternate with Irv Noren in Stengel's two-platoon system.

Veteran pitchers Allie Reynolds, Vic Raschi and Eddie Lopat, who have been the mainstays of the four previous flag-winners, again lead the staff. A valuable fourth member, however, was added this year in Whitey Ford, the little lefthander.

On the regular squad there is Yogi Berra, easily the best catcher in the circuit, Phil Rizzuto, a bit slowed at 34 but still the top shortstop in the league, Gil McDougald, a dangerous batter and a dependable third baseman, and scrappy Billy Martin, a brilliant defensive second baseman and a good hitter.

VERSATILE OUTFIELD

The regular outfield of Mickey Mantle, Gene Woodling and either Bauer or Irv Noren is the best in the American league. All can hit, field, run and throw.

Last but not least is Stengel himself. A master manipulator, the wrinkled skipper is the most unorthodox and the most daring strategist in the game. He thinks nothing of going against the book by summoning a southpaw from the bullpen to pitch to a lefthanded batter or sending up a lefthanded hitter to pinch hit against a southpaw pitcher. And he usually gets away with it.

In a sense, this was the easiest of all five of Stengel's pennants. A spectacular 18-game winning streak, just one short of the American league record, only six weeks after the start of the season, all but wrecked the race then and there.

It was the earliest clinching for any of Stengel's teams since 1949 when the veteran pilot first took over the Yankee reins. None of his first four flags was clinched before the final Friday of the season.

The Yankees' next objective is the fifth straight world championship. McCarthy's Yankees won four. Can Stengel's Yankees make it five?

Gorman To Discuss Sale Of Quebec Club

OTTAWA (CP)—T. P. Gorman, owner of Ottawa Senators and the Ottawa Auditorium, said Monday he is to meet a group of Ottawa business men today to discuss sale of the Quebec Senior Hockey League club and the arena.

Gorman said the syndicate is headed by Alex Betcherman, prominent Ottawa business man.

Betcherman said his group is interested in buying Gorman's share of the Senators and the Auditorium but declined to comment on reports that Gorman seeks about $750,000.

Expect Furillo Batting Champ

NEW YORK (AP) — Brooklyn's Carl Furillo, on the ailing list and not expected to play again until the world series, looks a cinch to replace Stan Musial as National League baseball batting champion this season.

The St. Louis Cardinals' slugger, six-time National League champion, gained three points to .327 last week on 12 hits in 31 times at bat but is still in eighth place.

In the American League, Mickey Vernon increased his lead to nine points over runner-up Al Rosen of Cleveland. The Washington first baseman climbed eight points to .337 while Rosen moved up three to .329. Rosen's 40 home runs and 135 runs batted in are still tops, however.

Eddie Mathews of Milwaukee Braves heads the National League in home runs with 45 and Brooklyn's Roy Campanella has batted in the most runs, 139.

Lefty Eddie Lopat has compiled the best won-lost record in the American League with 15 wins and three defeats for an .833 average. Lew Burdette of Milwaukee has a 14-4 record for a .778 average, best in the National League.

Wings, Bisons To Open Semi-Finals

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The semi-finals playoffs for the International League's Governors' Cup get under way tonight at Rochester and Montreal—the home clubs favored to meet in the finals.

Pilot Harry Walker's Red Wings, who won the 1954 flag in dramatic style, take on Baltimore Orioles, fourth-place finishers.

The Royals, under the guidance of Wally Alston, are hosts to Buffalo Bisons. The Royals finished behind Rochester in the league standing and the Herd third. Their positions weren't decided until the last day.

Both playoffs will be best-of-seven affairs.

ALSO GOT $10,000

Besides winning the pennant, the Wings also got $10,000. They finished seven games ahead of Montreal in a late drive that saw them lose only two of 32 games.

Rochester, which has won 14 of 22 games from Baltimore in the regular campaign, will pin its first-game hopes on Floyd Wooldridge a righthander from Houston to the Texas League, who has won two games since joining the Wings last week. His record with Houston was 12-10.

Howard Fox, also a righthander, will start the mound chores for Baltimore. His record for the season is 15-10.

NEVER BEEN BEATEN

Alston plans to open tonight with Tom LaSorda, who's never been beaten by the Bisons. LaSorda, who ended the season with a 17-8 record, defeated the Herd twice this season and holds a 6-0 record against them.

Ken Johnson will probably be Buffal manager Jack Tighe's choice to open against the Royals. He has a 12-13 record for the season.

The Royals defeated the Bisons 13 times in the regular season, while dropping only seven games.

Keeps Bride Locked In Car

HAMILTON (CP)—A bridegroom of one week who kept his 26-year-old wife locked in their car for three days today was ordered sent to the Ontario Hospital for a mental examination.

Edgar Herbert, 27, of Riverside, was charged with vagrancy after a resident of nearby Westdale him flashing a light into the eyes of someone in his parked car.

In hospital, where her condition was described as "pathetic," was Herbert's wife.

Police said Herbert told them he was convinced the world was coming to an end.

They unfolded this story when Herbert was taken into custody Sunday night:

After a Westdale resident saw someone shining a light into a parked car, a woman got out of the vehicle and ran to a nearby home from where police were called.

By the time they arrived the woman had collapsed and had to be carried to the cruiser. She was described as attractive and well dressed.

Grandstand Show Expected To Be Best Yet

All is in readiness at the Exhibition for one of the finest grandstand performances to be seen in this city in a long time. George A. Hamid and Son, New York agents for all types of vaudeville, have brought to this city a line-up of acts which should satisfy even the most hard-to-please.

Many of the acts to be seen any night at the Exhibition have been featured on such television shows as The Big Top and Seal Test Varieties.

Featured with the show is the Ideal Review with a cast of 15 including 12 beautiful girls. The review is made up of four productions, all dancing numbers and complete with lighting and scenery. The girl arrived in Peterborough just after closing in Atlantic City where they were a component of the entertainment for the Miss America contest.

Some of the performers were interviewd Monday as they arrived at the fair grounds and began preparing riggings and equipment for their various acts. Others claimed that the setting-up could wait. It isn't everyday that we can enjoy the facilites of a city, they said, as the fresh vegetables and meat cooked on the portable stoves.

TRAPEZE ACT

A trapeze act will be seen with a charming couple, the Aerial Winters, daring death at every swing as they hover 100 feet above the wooden platform. When asked if they had ever miscalculated, their reply was, "obviously not— we're still here." Their one fear is the possibility of wind or rain which increases hazards on the outdoor riggings. Amil Winters was born into the trapeze profession coming from a family who not only participated, but owned a circus in Europe. He came to this country 12 years ago, married and trained his wife who now performs with him on the flying trapeze.

Another group of performers add both humor and music to the show. The Moffett Family, Slim, Texas Mary and Little Dolly appear first with guitars, banjos and accordions, singing both modern and old-time ballads, brought with them from their native Mississippi. Little Dolly, the blonde, blue-eyed daughter has been in the show since she was two and a half and although still in her early twenties she's an old hand at the game.

But sing and play isn't all the Moffett's do. They are the sole owners of 'Brookin' Bessie,' the only Ford in creation that can move around on two wheels as well, and possibly better than on four." She does everything but what she's supposed to do," they say, "but folks always get a laugh out of it and that's what we built her for."

SOUTH AMERICAN

South American talent is also included in this year's grandstand show. Aida and Theresa Rosselli are here with something different in balancing. A 20 foot pole is held vertically by Aida while Theresa swings from the other end attached by nothing more than a leather throng fastened precariously around her neck. "The finale is my own invention," say Aida, and by the look of it this girl has quite an imagination.

There is Dime Wilson, the ragged clown, who has never heard of the law of gravity. Among other things he sets chairs and tables end on end until they tower high above the platform then he climbs them, teeters about and finally rides them down in a seemingly impossible manner.

Free Tastings 450 Per Day At Wine Fair

DUBLIN — One of the most popular events of the summer here has been the recent Spanish Wine Fair, held in the Round Room of the Mansion House, where the first Republican Parliament met in 1919. No doubt the free tastings—at the rate of 450 people per day—contributed largely to the widespread interest in this function—but credit must also be given to the excellent organization of the Fair, and the attractiveness of the stands and exhibits. Even after the last tastings of the day were over, crowds continued to pour into the great hall, packing it so tight that movement along the lanes between the stands became almost impossible, writes Garrett FitzGerald in the Montreal Star.

The Fair was intended not alone to encourage Irish interest in sherry — which is already a very popular drink in this country—but also to awaken the Irish public to the attractions of Spanish table wines and brandy, which are virtually unknown in Ireland. Inquiries at the stands of both wine producers and importers revealed that these table wines and brandies cannot be bought in Ireland at present—none have been imported since before the war, when they arrived in small quantities to serve a small and irregular demand. The interest shown by potential consumers in these products—many of them clearly of a high quality—suggests that before long they will reappear in the Irish market on a much larger scale than ever before.

HABIT GROWS

The popularity of sherry in Ireland at the present time reflects the conservativeness of the Irish temperament. The cocktail habit, which has virtually eliminated sherry-drinking in some countries, has never gained a grip on the Irish drinking public. Cocktail parties occur, of course, especially among the remnants of the upper classes, and in certain Dublin upper-middle-class circles, and some individual cocktails, such as the Martini, have achieved a limited popularity, but sherry parties still predominate, and in most households where visitors are offered a drink before a meal, they choose sherry.

Sherry is, indeed, the only drink that can compete on more or less equal terms with the native products—Irish whiskey, and stout or porter. In its own field it has a monopoly of the Irish table wine market—a monopoly which this Wine Fair may threaten.

The popularity of this Spanish enterprise in Dublin's municipal centre underlines also the genuine ties of friendship that link these two countries. There undoubtedly exists in Spain and Ireland sentiments of mutual affection founded in the common interest against Great Britain during four centuries of eventful history, and in their common devotion to the Catholic religion. These feelings are as widespread as they are divorced from any real contact between the two countries—other than the export of sherry from Spain to Ireland! Indeed cynics might suggest that this friendly feeling has survived so long just because of this lack of contact! Very few Spaniards visit Ireland, although recent years have seen an increase in the number of Spanish students coming to Ireland, and not long ago a training vessel of the Spanish Navy made a courtesy call at Dublin. The number of Irish tourists to Spain is also small, compared the number travelling to France and Italy, but in recent years there has been a remarkable growth in this traffic.

Spanish links with Ireland are many, and some are very ancient. The early Milesian inhabitants of Ireland are said to have come from Spain, and the Gaelic epics of the Fenian cycle (dealing with events in the early centuries of the Christian era) have frequent references to Spain. There were several Spanish military expeditions to Ireland in the sixteenth century, and a relative of the Spanish King was once mooted as an indpendent King of Ireland to replace British rule. It was to Spain that many of the old Gaelic families fled when the English Plantations began in the late sixteenth and early seventeenth centuries, and these were reinforced by further large groups of emigrants when the last vestige of the Gaelic way of life disappeared with the Williamite victory of 1689. In Spain and in the Spanish colonies these men and their descendants came to play a prominent part in public life, as if to emphasize the tragedy of their loss to Ireland.

But the modern survivals of this sad emigration — Spanish grandees, Argentinian Presidents, or Mexican Ambassadors —mean very little to the descendants of those who remained at home. To the modern Irishman they are suitable subjects for occasional newspaper articles with an Irish slant—but they are too remote to focus his attention on Spain. The significance of Spain for modern Ireland lies elsewhere—in the Spanish Civil War.

Whereas most of the peoples of the western world saw in this terrible internecine struggle a forerunner of World War II, with the forces of totalitarianism ranged against those of democracy, to the Irish the issues involved were very different. For 'totalitarianism' read 'religion,' and for 'democracy' read 'atheism,. It is a matter of debate which version is the most oversimplified, — or the most inaccurate. There certainly appeared to be some justification in the short run for the more popular view, but seventeen years later when a different totalitarianism is the enemy, and when another peninsula has been almost annihilated by a similar international ideological war, the Irish interpretation of recent Spanish history is perhaps beginning to appear a little less absurd than it did at the time to liberal thinkers in many countries.

What happened of course, was that in Ireland the religious issue was paramount. Strong, irrational and ineradicable prejudice of Irish people in favour of democratic government, which in other circumstances would have put them in sympathy with the established government in Spain, had to take second place in face of the irrefutable evidence of (to put it at its mildest) the failure of this government to restrain many of its supporters from the wholesale massacre of priests, nuns and practising Catholics.

When the war was over these feelings might eventually have died away, — the persistence of a dictatorship, however beneficent in its origins, for seventeen years would normally arouse suspicion and dislike in Irish minds, but the outbreak of World War II some months after the Spanish War ended, introduced a new element into the situation.

The fact is that this War faced the average Irishman, — instinctively anti-British in outlook for sound historical reasons not to be discarded easily just because they had ceased to be relevant,—with an awkward moral problem. How was he to reconcile his sentiments with regard to Great Britain with that country's undeniable role of defender of civilisation against an anti-Christian barbarism almost as blatant as that of the Communists in Spain and Russia? Hitler and Mussolini could hardly arouse much enthusiasm in any Irishman's breast, however extreme his sentiments in regard to Great Britain.

In this situation General Franco was found to fill a necessary role. On the one hand he was anti-British,—and the British were anti-him! On the other hand he equally obviously had little else in common with Hitler and Mussolini, except their common fear of Communism, also shared by the Irish. So Franco found himself in the unexpected role of an Irish popular hero—in a small way.

If ever an Irish Government decides to look outside the Anglo-Saxon world for an alliance with a like-thinking nation, it will probably be towards Spain that it will turn,—but Irish isolation from Europe, and preoccupation with Britain and America, is unlikely to end for many a long day.

51 Million Indian Outcasts To Be Lifted By Law From Degradation, Oppression

LONDON — (OFNS) — The draft of a new law designed to rescue India's fifty-one million outcasts from the degradation and oppression to which the caste system condemns them is being circulated by the country's Government to the States for their observations.

According to published summaries it is drawn on liberal lines, any violation of it will be punished by a fine of two hundred rupees (a little more than £22) or imprisonment up to 6 months. But nothing could more effectually reveal the failure of the famous clause in India's Constitution which declared that untouchability was for ever abolished. This was the chief reason for the resignation, with a furious denunciation of the Government, of Dr. Ambedkar, the Law Minister, and cost noted of all outcastes, who drafted the Constitution.

ANSWER TO APPEAL

The proposed law is in answer to a direct appeal by Mr. L. M. Shrikani, Commissioner for the Scheduled Castes. He is well known as the champion of those whom he describes as "a very backward section of society . . . living in ignorance and fear and century-old tradition, an impoverished and difficult existence without any property worth the name."

In 1952, Mr. Shrikani travelled more than seven thousand miles investigating the outcasts' lives; his report, recently published, shows that he might have put the case far more strongly. Too often he found that untouchables may not use the tanks, wells and bathing places where they live; they are forbidden to ride on horses and camels; their women may not wear jewellery (in the improbable event of their possessing any) nor make sweets for marriages or other festivals. Not infrequently they are rounded up for forced labour.

BAD IN NORTHWEST

Three States, Assam, Manipur and Tripura, were found to be free of untouchability, possibly because of the strong admixture of Muslims in the population; and in West Bengal the outcastes do not suffer the worst privations. But conditions in the Northwest are very bad, particularly at Saurashtra —though it was the birthplace of Gandhi, who constituted himself the friend of the outcastes calling them Harijans, "Children of God" —and in Rajasthan.

Of the latter province, Mr. Shrinkani says that "very few" of the intelligensia favour any reform of the outcastes' condition, while others are violently against it.

The worst obstacle to reform is that the vast majority of untouchables live in rural district —and nobody is more obstinately rooted in ancient custom than the Asiatic peasant.

BISHOP NEWBIGGIN

Bishop Newbiggin, of the Church Missionary Society, in his book, "A South Indian Diary," gives a vivid account of what may result from any attempt to make things betted fo rthe outcastes. In one village, he says, he was "unforunately so ill-advised" as to try to induce the village elders to allow the outcastes to use the local well, instead of having to draw their water from the filthy pond adjoining their settlement (which was, of course, kept outside the village). The only result was that, as soon as the Bishop left, the villagers went out and beat up the untouchables.

The Government of India and some of the States have not been ungenerous in money for the outcastes' benefit. Between them they have given £2,900,000 for welfare work; and in addition the Government has awarded 3,065 scholarships to outcastes for post-matriculation studies. More "harijans" become doctors, lawyers, and professors than would have been possible a few years ago. But this, as Mr. Shrikani shows, is but a small measure of improvement amidst the mass of misery still remaining.

OUTCASTES RESENTMENT

He especially emphasises that the independence gained by India has intensified the outcastes' resentment against their lot. "The sore of untouchability which lay so far hidden, has erupted," he says, "and is now festering, causing all the pain and hardships attendant upon deliverance from age-long subservience. The assertion of equal rights in some villages has resulted in dire consequences for the Scheduled Caste people." Just, indeed, as Bishop Newbiggin showed.

There are some states in which regulations similar to the new draft law have been adopted; but the regulations are virtually a dead letter. The outcastes are too poor to afford to put the law in motion, and one of Mr. Shrik- must be given free legal defence. ani's contentions is that they

But what he particularly dwells on is that the law alone can never bring reform unless there is constant propaganda by unofficial organisations, which accordingly should be given all possible help, financially and otherwise. Only in this way can there be any hope for the fulfilment of the proud boast of the Constitution, that within ten years untouchability will have vanished from India.

ORILLIA (CP)—Orillia's ratepayers Monday defeated a by-law to issue $900,000 worth of debentures for the building of a fourth hydro-electric plant by the town's water, light and power commission. The by-law was defeated by 85 votes when just 40 per cent of the eligible voters turned out.

The unofficial count showed 996 opposed and 911 for.

Council Won't Assume Flood Damage Liability

KITCHENER (CP) — Kitchener council decided Monday night that the city will not assume liability for flood damage claims totalling more than $45,000 which were filed as a result of floodings in May and June.

The recommendation came from Ald. Harry Ainlay's works committee which held a special session on flood claims.

Eight Left Homeless As Fire Sweeps House

BROCKVILLE (CP)—Eight persons were left homeless when fire swept through a two-storey frame dwelling Monday night and caused $2,000 damage.

James Hawkins, his wife and three children, and three roomers were forced to flee the house when fire broke out in a downstairs closet.

Man Likes To Sing When He Gets Tight

Singing, said Michael Twomey, is what he likes to do when he gets tight. He doesn't like to fight. Magistrate E. A. Gee suggested in court today that Twomey join the Salvation Army and sing with them. The magistrate implied that Twomey's singing might benefit the Army, and the Army would certainly benefit Twomey. Twomey was fined $10 and costs and given a week to pay on a charge of being drunk.

Mrs. George Davis

The funeral service for Mrs. Alice Louisa Davis, 81, of 561 Walnut St., widow of the late George Davis, who died Friday at her home, following a short illness, was held Monday at the Comstock funeral home.

The Rev. Canon Walter Gilling, of St. Luke's Anglican Church officiated. The pallbearers were: Nelson, Thomas, William, Ernest Davis, Jack Hales and Herb Croft. They were all grandsons of Mrs. Davis. Burial was in Little Lake cemetery.

Careless Driver

Clayton McIlwain of Lakefield was fined $10 and $2.50 costs today when he was found guilty of careless driving. Magistrate E. A. Gee heard the case.

Lakefield police chief Price Morris testified that McIlwain's car had collided with a parked truck on Bridge St., Lakefield. About $230 damage was done to the truck.

McIlwain said the accident occurred as he was making a U-turn, and he was blinded by lights from an eastbound car on a knoll to the west of the accident site.

Chief Morris told court the knoll was at least 700 feet from where the truck had been parked.

Break Into Safe

GRAVENHURST (CP) — Thieves early Monday opened a safe in the brewers' warehouse and escaped with an undisclosed amount of money. Police said the robbers used an acetylene torch. They said it is possible the acetylene equipment is that stolen Friday night at Barrie.

SENATOR KENNEDY WEDS—Sen. John F. Kennedy smiles at his new bride outside of St. Mary's Church in Newport, R.I., following their marriage. Nearly a thousand persons wated outside to see the Senator and the former Jacqueline Lee Bouvier, Newport heiress. Kennedy, 36, was a former Congressman from Massachusetts before his election to the upper chamber. His wife is 24 years old.

Music Halls Decline In Great Britain

LONDON (Reuters) — London's music halls, fighting a losing battle against the appeal of movies and television, have suffered another casualty with announcement that the Shepherds Bush Empire will see its last variety turn this month.

"The Bush"—where such old-time favorites as Marie Lloyd, Vesta Tilley and George Robey basked in the limelight at the height of their fame—has been bought by the British Broadcasting Corporation for use as a television studio.

A slow decline in the music halls set in with the advent of the movies and showmen fear that television may spell the final blow. Not more than a dozen houses of the authentic variety now remain in all London, and not all of them are of the old-time drinking house genre.

At the top of the scale stands the Palladium, a large West End house catering to the bobby-sox breed of audience and packing them in for star - studded bills topped by American big - name stars.

Something new made its appearance in the years after the Second World War—nude shows in pseudo-French style—and old-timers fear this is killing off the family audiences.

Showbills featuring "nudes in 3-D—but you don't need the spectacles," or "they couldn't wear less" are seen increasingly around London these days.

Show men say that this brings out "a certain type of men," but the women and kids are being left home.

RELAXING IN QUEBEC—Field Marshal Sir John Harding, Chief of Imperial General Staff, gets a hearty laugh from a remark made by Governor-General Vincent Massey at Quebec. Sir John made a 14-day tour of Canada's military units and met Mr. Massey on the elevated lookout of Quebec Citadel.

CONNOR-THERMO "DOUBLE GUARANTEE"

The CONNOR-THERMO is a precision-built washing machine. It is engineered to give years and years of trouble-free performance. Every working part is made by CONNOR.

The company backs its product with a "double" guarantee. FIRST, there is a four-year guarantee against defects in manufacture—and SECONDLY, there is the 12-year guarantee that offers you a complete "Factory Reconditioning" of your CONNOR-THERMO—anytime within the first twelve years from the day you buy—at a nominal charge. Double protection for every CONNOR owner!

Hundreds and thousands of Canadian housewives are telling their friends about the exclusive, patented THERMO tub that saves money for them every washday—how it keeps water HOT throughout the whole wash—how the exclusive CONNOR DIRT-TRAP collects all dirt from soiled clothes and prevents it from flowing back through the clothing being washed. Every single one of the 41 "lifetime" CONNOR features make the THERMO your best washer investment.

STORMY RESCUE — One of the 33 crewmen from the storm-tossed 10,200-ton ore ship Maryland, which ran aground in Northern Lake Superior recently, is rescued with a breeches buoy set up by United States Coast Guardsmen. After several unsuccessful tries, a line was shot aboard the ship which was lying 50 yards off shore and rescue operations went on for two hours amid a freak squall that sent huge waves breaking over the vessel. The point of rescue was about three miles south of Marquette, Mich.

Third Artery Makes Hearts Strong Again Doctor Finds

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

NEW YORK (AP)—Sick human hearts are made well and strong again by giving them an extra artery, a Canadian surgeon said today.

Men crippled by heart attack, scarcely able to work, now are back at full-time work as oil-well drillers, machinists, railroad workers and physicians, Dr. Arthur M. Vineberg of Montreal told an International College of Surgeons meeting.

The third artery brings life-saving blood to hearts starving because of blockage of one or both of the coronary arteries which normally feed the heart.

Heart attacks come because the coronary arteries harden and narrow, or are blocked by clots.

The dramatic operation takes an artery running through the chest and thrusts one end into a tunnel opened inside the heart muscles. The fresh supply of blood brings a new lease on life.

Dr. Vineberg is a lecturer in surgery at McGill University medical school and is associated with three Montreal hospitals.

3 SUCCESSFUL CASES

The third artery has been given successfully to eight out of nine men subjects in the last three years, he said.

It can be done safely for any heart victim "who can walk 100 feet or more," he added.

It is not recommended for persons so ill that they have heart pains even when resting.

For the spare artery, Vineberg uses the internal mammary artery which nourishes tissues in the chest. One end of this artery is permanently closed off.

The free end is placed inside a tunnel created by separating heart muscle tissue. The muscles are not cut. They close back, holding the spare artery in place.

Tests on animals show that the spare artery begins to grow within a week, sending out new branches. These apparently join up with smaller arteries in the heart muscle, and the blood coursing in from the spare artery is carried away in normal fashion.

The animal studies show that the spare artery within three weeks to a month is supplying enough blood to keep the heart alive even if one of the coronary arteries becomes completely blocked, Dr. Vineberg said.

TAKE OVER JOB

Other blood vessels in the chest take over the job of serving the tissue formerly supplied by the mammary artery. This artery is apparently singularly free from hardening such as affects the coronary and other arteries.

Dr. Vineberg said the oil driller now can hike 10 miles through brush country carrying a full pack. A machinist, unable to work 2½ years ago, now can put in a 16-hour day when he wishes. A physician, victim of two heart attacks a year apart, now is back at his practice.

The operation is also being used now at other hospitals, Dr. Vineberg said.

13th Body In Tomb Puzzles Small Village

FRONSAC, France (Reuters)—The mystery of "the 13th body in the tomb", a beautiful young woman dressed in an off-the-shoulder red silk evening gown, engrossed this little village in southeast France today.

Her coffin was found in the family tomb of Francois Dorneau when he opened it for renovations. It should have contained only 12 coffins, but there were 13.

Townsfolk harked back to the mysterious disappearance of a young actress who appeared in a play here in 1943. They recalled a story that she had been tortured by German occupation troops.

Structure of the coffin indicates it was of wartime make, when materials were scarce. Photographs are being taken of the body.

QUEEN TO VISIT JAMAICA—Second stop on the Royal tour starting next November is Jamaica. The Queen and the Duke will visit Kingston, the harbor of which is shown here, with Jamaican hills in the background. From Kingston they go through the Panama Canal to New Zealand and Australia.

Queen And Duke To Visit Jamaica On November Trip

By CALVIN BOWEN

KINGSTON, Jamaica (Reuters) —The Queen's first glimpse of her ancient colony of Jamaica, when she arrives Nov. 25 by plane from London, will be of a curving blue bay lipped with creamy white sand and a green-blue backdrop of mountain reaching down to the water's edge.

She will be looking at Jamaica's second city, the tourist centre of Montego Bay, on the island's romantic north coast.

As her stratocruiser touches down on the island's second airport, the Queen will look out on a scene which has never failed to bring a sparkle to the eyes of the first - time visitor to Jamaica: Gleaming sunshine from an azure sky lighting nature's own green and gold decor, with shimmering blue water reaching as far as eye can see.

Two nights after leaving England and having spent the previous day in Bermuda, the Queen will step out of the plane into a semi-tropical climate. Although it will be November, this is a land of perpetual summer.

MET AT AIRPORT

At the airport to meet the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh will be the leading people of the island, headed by the governor, Sir Hugh Foot, one of the Commonwealth's youngest colonial governors. Sharing the reception honors with him will be the island's chief minister, Alexander Bustamante.

Demonstrating the progress being made toward Caribbean federation, the Queen will also be welcomed by representatives of other territories in the British West Indies, who will come here for the occasion on the invitation of the Jamaican legislature.

Among these may be burly Albert Gomes of Trinidad; dignified Grantley Adams of Barbados; "elder statesman" Albert Marryshow of Grenada, and the new leader of British Guiana, Dr. Cheddi Jagan.

Leaving the airport, the Queen will drive through the streets of Montego Bay and then over to Kingston, the capital.

The Queen will stop for an informal rest and picnic lunch at one of the beautiful beaches along the north shore.

Then she will come to the ancient capital of Spanish Town. Here she will see the statue of Rodney, the British admiral who saved the West Indies from the French and to whom the statue was erected by grateful colonists.

SPANISH TOWN

In Spanish Town, too, the Queen will see the facade of old King's House, the dignified residence of the early governors of the island where lavish balls and splendid parties gave a governor's wife, Lady Nugent, material for a best-selling diary 150 years ago.

In Kingston, the Queen will go to the new King's House, which will be her headquarters during her three-day stay.

A military parade at Up park camp, army headquarters in Jamaica, will open the second day of the visit: The day of formal receptions.

Then Her Majesty will witness a rally of 20,000 schoolchildren at Sabina Park, the island's leading athletic field. Later in the morning, she will go to the Kingston race course, to be welcomed by the mayor of the city and to see the King George VI park, now being created in memory of her father. Here, she will plant a tree as part of a tree-planting campaign to commemorate her visit.

Next the Queen will visit Headquarters House, seat of the local legislature, to receive a loyalty address from the legislators.

The Queen will go through the residential and commercial sections of this city of 300,000 population, gay with its decorations of flags, bunting and ceremonial arches.

In the afternoon, the Duke, in keeping with his interest in science and education, will hold an informal meeting with members of the staff of the University College of the West Indies.

2,000 AT RECEPTION

That evening, 100 of the political and official leaders of the island will dine with the Queen at King's House.

Afterwards, at the biggest reception ever to be given in Jamaica, 2,000 guests will gather to greet the Queen against the background of the illuminated gardens and lawns of King's House.

Jamaican dancers and singers will entertain, singing the folk and digging songs of the island.

Early next morning, the Duke will play a game of polo, taking his last land exercise before starting on the long sea voyage to New Zealand. The Queen will watch the game in which the governor, one of the island's leading players, will take part.

Afterwards a formal visit will be paid to the university where the Queen and Duke will be received by the principal, Dr. Walter Grave, members of the University College council and leading West Indians.

As the day ends, the Queen will go to Port Royal, Jamaica's most historically famous town.

Then the Queen will go by launch from the end of the parade ground to the waiting liner Gothic, which will take her and the Duke to New Zealand.

WINTER IN TROPICS — Although it will be late in November when the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh visit Jamaica as part of their round-the-world Commonwealth tour, weather in the tropics remains warm. Palm trees and native help, shown here carrying cocoanuts, are familiar sights in Kingston.

Diabetic Association Formed In Toronto

TORONTO (CP)—The Canadian Diabetic Association was formed here Monday night in a ceremony honoring two noted Canadians, the late Dr. Frederick Banting and his associate, Dr. Charles Best, co-discoverers of insulin.

The ceremonies were attended by some of the world's most eminent physiologists, lecturers, teachers and doctors, gathered in Toronto for today's opening of the Charles H. Best Institute for Diabetic Research.

Boost Drive To Raise Farm Production

By RICHARD KASISCHKE

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet government's drive to increase agricultural production and boost the supply of consumer goods took another step forward today with the announcement of the formation of six ministries in fields previously held by two.

The new ministries are those of foodstuff production, production of consumer goods, ministry of trade, ministry of foreign trade, ministry of state farms, and the ministry of agricultural procurement.

(Moscow radio said Monday the Soviet Union has launched a "grow more food" campaign. A report from the central committee of the Communist party said stockbreeding was lagging, productivity of cattle is low and rapped "bad management" and high production costs of some socialist farms. The report was prepared by Nikita S. Khruschev, new secretary of the central committee and No. 2 man in the Soviet hierarchy.)

The ministry of foodstuff production will be headed by Vassily P. Zotov who was formerly minister of food and delicatessen goods. The new ministry takes over a series of institutions dealing with fish, meat, milk and food production.

Calf Club Shown How To Prepare For Fair

NORWOOD (ENS).—The Norwood-Hereford Calf Club Friday evening held their last meeting before the Norwood Fair, at the farm of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Cornish, two miles east of Norwood.

The main part of the program was a series of demonstrations to the 45 members of the club and their parents. This was followed by some films shown by Bob Duncanson.

In a project called the Norwood Fair Hereford Calf Feeder Project, 45 calves were brought from the west and given to the boys to look after and exhibit them in the fair. The calves would be up for auction after the exhibition and every boy will receive a prize.

The washing process was demonstrated by Mr. Cornish and Mr. Gordon Hope of Westwood, with a pair of cows from Mr. Cornish's prize herd of Herefords. The second demonstration was that of braiding the calf's tail. How to curl the calf's hair was shown the boys by Mr. Cornish and Mr. H. J. Hawkey, president of the Peterborough Hereford Cow Association.

The boys and parents were also shown the proper way of exhibiting their calves when at the judges' stand. Mr. Cornish demonstrated how to clip their calves' tails.

Films shown included "Early Start," "Ten Little Farmers," "Day at the Fair," and a short film taken of Mr. Cornish's prize stock. Music on electric guitars was played by Betty and Billy Toms.

Mrs. Cornish served lunch to everybody, about 85 altogether.

Labor Will Resist Shackling–Bengough

VANCOUVER (CP)—Percy Bengough of Ottawa, leader of Canada's largest labor organization, said here Monday labor will resist attempts to shackle it with regulations similar to the United States Taft-Hartley Act.

Mr. Bengough, president of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, made his "get tough" statement to 450 delegates attending the convention of the Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employees of America.

"I am serving notice right now on the Canadian Bar Association that Canadian labor can seek its own legislation. We will have no part of the Taft-Hartley law."

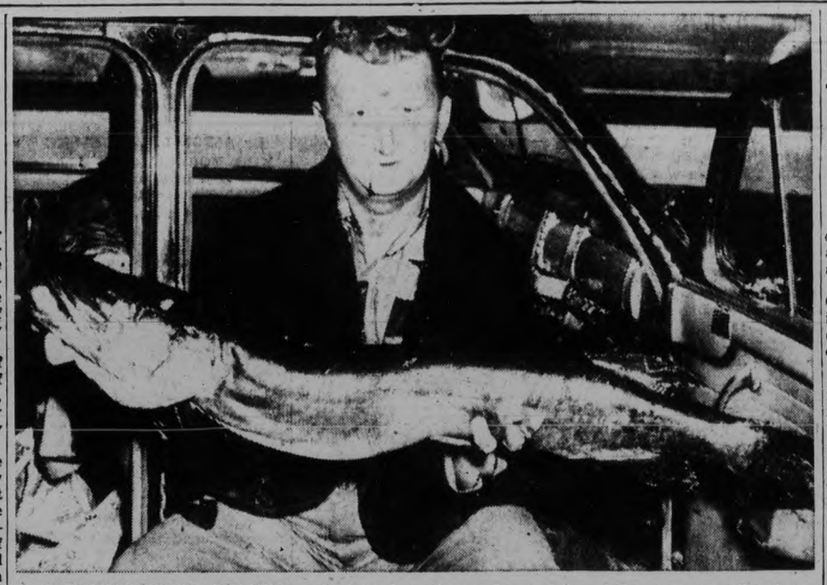
NEW DELHI (AP) — President Rajendra Prasad Monday signed a bill setting up the new state of Andhra. The 63,608 - square - mile area has a population of 20,507,801 and was formerly part of Madras. Andhra will formally become India's 29th state Oct. 1.

Pupils Flee Fire

STELLARTON, N.S. (CP)—Fire destroyed the Lourdes parish school here Monday and caused damage estimated unofficially at nearly $100,000. Nuns led more than 300 children to safety. There were no injuries.



TWENTY-FOUR POUNDS of finned fight was landed Saturday afternoon by Lawrence Johnson, of 978 Monaghan Rd. Mr. Johnson, fishing on the Otonabee River between the first and second bridges, landed the muskie and found it to measure 47 inches and weighed 24 pounds. He made experts who forecast good muskie catches this month look good.

Barrel Test Fails, Remains In River

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—Frank Candler still doesn't know whether his cushioned barrel was good enough to ride over Niagara Falls without smashing its cargo of eggs.

Candler set the barrel adrift several weeks ago in the upper Niagara river. Dennis Mooney found it Sunday—still in the river above the falls.

Candler offered $100 reward for the recovery of the barrel after it disappeared. Mooney, a 40-year-old carpenter who came out from Ireland in June, says the money will be a big help to himself and his five children back home.

Says UN Not Club Where All Must Agree

NEW YORK (Reuters) — Dag Hammarskjold, United Nations secretary-general, Monday night described as "totally unrealistic and self-defeating" the idea that the UN is "a club to which only the like-minded will be admitted."

Hammarskjold said in a speech, prepared for a dinner given in his honor by the American Association for the United Nations, that the UN charter is based on the "working hypothesis" that "all the great nations and groups of nations must belong to it if it is to succeed."

He said his position prevented him from making a public statement on the "specific issues and grave difficulties" which will come before the eighth general assembly opening today.

Fears Board Threat To Union

QUEBEC (CP)—Jean Marchand, secretary-general of the Canadian Catholic Confederation of Labor said today the Quebec labor relations board "threatens the very life" of Catholic labor unions.

In his annual report, read before annual convention of the C[illegible], Mr. Marchand said the board "continued this year to play a role which we have repeatedly denounced." "Its unjust, arbitrary and sometimes fantastic decisions can no longer be numbered.

"It is high time that we apply the necessary pressure to transform this organism which threatens the very life of our movement," he said.

Kentville Has Best Fire Prevention Plan

TORONTO (CP)—Kentville, N.S., was chosen Monday by the Canadian Association of Fire Chiefs in convention here as the town with the year's most dynamic fire prevention program in the country.

Fire chief B. R. Wade of Kentville was asked to report to the convention on the methods by which his department achieved its enviable record of no deaths or injuries by fire since 1945 and no citizens being forced from their homes by fire since 1949.

Chief Wade told the assembled fire chiefs that Kentville's record was the result of seven years' hard work. A yearly fire prevention inspection of homes was carried out in the 5,500-population town and a 10-mile radius where more than 20,000 persons live.

Frost Damages Tobacco Crops, Damage Heavy

BRANTFORD. (CP)—Frost Sunday night damaged tobacco crops, already hard hit by drought, hail and fire.

J. A. Leathong, secretary of the Ontario flue cured tobacco marketing board, said Monday the board estimates a loss of 200,000 pounds of leaf tobacco, about 160 kilns.

The area with heaviest loss is a few miles northwest of Delhi. Most of the tobacco lost was in low-lying areas.

Growers in Brant, Norfolk and Elgin counties are reported worrying about the threat of further frost damage. They have lost $2,000,000 worth of leaf tobacco in the last month and a heavy frost loss would make this year a disastrous one.

Union At Atomic Plant

OTTAWA (CP)—The Association of Atomic Energy Technicians and Draftsmen (AFL) has been certified as bargaining agent for 213 employees of the Chalk River atomic plant, the labor department announced Monday. The union is the eighth certified as bargaining agent for employees of Atomic Energy of Canada Ltd. The employees are technicians in the laboratories, plant and drawing offices.

Dr. Murray A. Cayley, prominent American author and lecturer, is scheduled to address the first fall meeting of the Sales and Ad Club being held a week from tonight at the Club Aragon. Dr. Cayley's subject will be, "Getting a Kick Out of Life."

SHOWS HORSES HERE

Gar Robinson of Cavan, who won 13 prizes at the CNE with horses he entered there, is showing the same horses—all Percherons—at the Peterborough Exhibition. Mr. Robinson won six firsts, five seconds, a third, and a senior and grand championship.

WARDEN'S PICNIC

Members of the Peterborough County Council will be guests on September 23 of Warden Ernest J. Leeson at the annual warden's at Havelock Park and then they picnic. They will meet at 3 p.m. will tour the Bethlehem Steel Co. mines. Dinner will be 6.30 p.m. at the Havelock Hall.

TWO AFTERNOON FIRES

Twelve minutes after firemen responded to a verandah fire on Bennett St. Monday afternoon, another alarm was put in from 692 Romaine St. where a flooded oil burner was reported. The call came at 5 p.m. from the home of Elwood Trotter. No damage was caused.

ATTEND CCL CONVENTION

Three Peterborough men are attending the 13th annual CCL convention being held this year in Montreal. They are Dick Hind of the Textile Workers Union of America; Joe Wirtz, Canadian coordinator of the IUE-CIO; and Fred Burrett, president of Local 230, Outboard Marine Workers Union.

RAISE $83

Jerry Fitzgerald's lacrosse stick and his autograph on a lacross ball were raffled off Monday at the weekly luncheon meeting of the Rotary club. They were won by Roy Bogle, works manager of the Canadian General Electric Co. The $83 raised from the raffle of the stick and the ball was the Rotary club's contribution to the Peterborough Lacrosse Club's fund to send the team out west to play in the Mann Cup playoffs.

CLOSE KENNER FUND

The Kenner Memorial Fund is now closed, Arthur Pitchford, secretary-treasurer of the fund, has informed the Board of Education. It was started to raise money for a painting of the late Dr. H. R. H. Kenner, onetime principal and teacher at PCVS, after whom Kenner Collegiate was named. With the extra money subscribed, the committee bought a $1,500 bond, the interest of which will be used for scholarships at the collegiate. W. Howard MacDonald was chairman of the committee.

I'm A Stranger Myself

One of the most common duties of a police officer is to give directions to strangers visiting town. Once out of his home territory, however, he can become just as confused as you or I .To illustrate this, a Peterborough policeman was driving home from Toronto Sunday night along Highway 401. Coming to the Bowmanville interchange, he turned off the highway, thinking he had reached its end. Several turns later, he thought he was heading in the right direction and continued along until finally, at 2:30 in the morning, he reached Oshawa's city limits.

City To Prepare Bylaw To Control Smoke

City Solicitor W. F. Huycke, QC, has been instructed by city council to draw up an anti-smoke nuisance bylaw.

Although previous attempts to have an enforceable bylaw have met with no success, it is intended to omit any reference to methods of creating smoke, such as furnace and boiler installations, and deal only with the amount of smoke emitted, regardless of the type of installation.

This step was taken by the finance committee of city council Monday night on the recommendation of City Engineer E. A. Chalmers, who, in a memo to council, deprecated the practicability of trying to control the types of installations in the city.

DOUBTS ENFORCEABLE

Ald. Syd Black, whose legal committee was previously handed the task of preparing a bylaw, still questioned whether or not the proposed bylaw would work.

"I don't know how you're going to enforce it," he said. "A lot of smoke nuisance is due to faulty furnaces and the city is one of the worst offenders. We all know about the old furnace at the fire hall."

Mayor Hugh Waddell said he agreed with Ald. Black up to a point, but he felt there should be "something on the books."

Ald. A. B. Burrows followed the mayor's suggestion and put the city engineer's recommendation in the form of a motion. Mayor Waddell seconded it.

Ald. T. D. Miller said he didn't know of any bylaw that is perfect on its inception. "The only thing we can do is to have something we can amend with experience," he said.

DIFFICULT TO PROSECUTE

The only other objection to the bylaw was raised by Ald. Gordon Farquharson, who said it might be difficult to prosecute the railways for infraction of the bylaw. The majority of the members were in agreement that the railways were among the worst offenders, several citing instances where engines had been cleaned out with steam, sending soot and bits of coal flying into the air.

Mr. Farquharson said the question of whether the city could prosecute the railways should be carefully looked into.

City Clerk E. A. Outram said there had been several prosecutions in Toronto, especially of the railways. These convictions had been made as a result of tests measuring density of smoke emitted.

"Even with the tests, you're going to have trouble registering a conviction," Ald. Farquharson warned.

However, council finally concurred with the mayor's conviction that the situation was too serious to be brushed aside and there had to be some bylaw on the books in order to find a workable method of control.

It was suggested that the fire inspectors be given the task of enforcing the bylaw or, alternatively, that the fire chief be authorized to delegate someone to do it. But it was decided to leave the matter for further discussion in committee.

Heavy Horses Come To Fair To Disprove Rumor

Occasional reports that heavy horses were nearing extinction in the Central Ontario counties just can't be true. The book of entries lists 95 of them according to chairman Jay Whittington of the heavy draft committee, as quoted at the Exhibition this morning by E. V. O'Toole. Then there are the light classes of which Burritt Mann is chairman.

Prospect this morning suggested that if all the entries materialize into exhibits the total will be 40 head more than the barns can accommodate. Space may become available if the beef cattle, arriving Thursday, are fewer than their entries indicate.

ALL SET

The exhibitors of dairy cattle who are all set for Wednesday's judging, except some final primping, are:

Holsteins: Stanley Wood, J. H. Jose & Sons, Newcastle; Davis Brothers, Earl Doris, Otonabee; Stewart Nelson, Otonabee, James T. Brown & Sons, Newcastle; Roy Ormiston, Brooklin; N. W. McConkey, Clarence Coons and Matchett Brothers.

Ayrshires: W. Clarence Mann 15 head, Earl Rosborugh 15, Clarence Coons 8 and Howard Northey Lindsay 8.

Jerseys: George Jarrell & Son, Cannifton; Garnet Kerr, Campbellford; Alfred Bagg & Son, Edgely; Rodger Hanbidge;

Carl Bradley, Bowmanville; Bamforth & Kelly; R. Stenger, Inniskillen.

Dual Purpose Shorthorns: Thomas McCamus, Cavan; Dorion Cassidy, Erinsville; Scott Gilmour, Tamworth; William Brisco, Bath; George Wiggins, Kemptville; William Chatten, Edmund Ruth and Herman Franks of Omemee; John Trotter & Son, Madoc; Joseph Sullivan, Otonabee; Harold Millen, Omemee.

Guernseys: Mrs. R. S. Robertson, Cobourg; Jack Fraser, Concord; Edwin Wilson, Garden Hill; N. W. McConkey. Another entry is that of Ringwood (Parker) Farms, Whitby, but their show cattle had not arrived this morning.

'Chance' Games To Be Missing

On the one hand, directors of the Exhibition are expecting some squawks from men about the blank spaces that used to be occupied by shifty characters operating games on the Midway.

On the other, they are certain there will be no complaints from customers gypped of "important dough" in such sums as $25, $50, $75 and up.

Men who know the "carney show" business have said there are no games of chance at such queer booths on midways. The run-down ball games, and other contraptions are "gimmicked" in favor "of the house," and you could win only if the operator decided to make it look good once in a while.

So, the "suckers" are going to be disappointed, especially flush young men who fall for the old come on: "Hey, bub, have you got a match?"; "Try your luck," and so on, when the element of luck hasn't a chance to raise its head.

There's a big bingo tent, but that's about all. No one's going to demand at the secretary's office return for money taken from boobs.

Child Starts Fire Verandah Burns

A back verandah at the home of Francis E. Dawe, 100 Bennett St., was destroyed by fire late Monday afternoon. A child playing with matches started the blaze that caused a loss of several hundred dollars.

The alarm was sounded at 4:48 p.m. but by the time two pumper trucks—one from the sub-station on Bellevue St. and the other from the main station—arrived, the verandah was a mass of flames. Fire gutted the inside of the built-on verandah and destroyed a quantity of Mr. Dawe's personal possessions, including work shoes and rubber boots. Children's toys were also burned.

The verandah will have to be rebuilt; so will a door and a window leading to the adjoining kitchen. One wall in the kitchen will have to be replastered, and the whole room repainted because of smoke stains.

Loss is covered by insurance.

The firemen used two booster tanks on the flames to put them out.

Exhibition Gossip

Civic Dinner To Welcome George Doucett

Ald. Syd Black and Reeve R. R. Stewart, of Otonabee, have arranged for a dinner at the McGillis Hotel Wednesday evening as a civic welcome to Ontario's Minister of Highways, Hon. George S. Doucett.

Approval of Warden E. J. Leeson and Mayor Hugh Waddell gave the joint municipal reception to the Minister immediate action, recognizing Hon. Mr. Doucett's visit to Peterborough. He is coming to open the Exhibition Wednesday, at 7.15 p.m., and will speak from the grandstand platform.

Committees in the various sections are composed of:

Dairy cattle—Clarence Mann, chairman, Lorne Reynolds, Harold Millen, N. W. McConkey, Clarence Coons, Edwin Wilson, Keith McIntyre, and John Edmison.

Beef cattle—Archie Clysdale, chairman, Lorne Pimmett, John DeNure, William Mood, Dave Kerr, L. Reynolds, Lou Shaw, Homer Hawkey.

Sheep and Swine — Frank Savigny, chairman; Clayton Sanderson, Milton Clark.

Poultry—R. Hope, chairman; D. Bell, P. Hartley, J. Turnbull, Fred Robson, Fred McIndoo, Morgan Brown.

Light horses—Burritt Mann, chairman; Frank Baldwin, N. Ballantyne, D. A. McGillis.

Heavy horses—Jay Whittington, chairman; Ken Moncrief, Len Smith, Roy Ferren, Walter Brown.

Chairman of the policing committee is Reeve Dick Stewart, of Otonabee, who has taken over the job Melville Johnston used to have. With him are Bob McAdam and Earl Huston.

HAY IN THE BACKGROUND

"Try and find" Melville Johnston. He hasn't said anything to the press about his position this week, but he is in at the rear of the art gallery.

That's the location of the hay show, also vegetables, including samples of the biggest tomato crop in ages.

To get to the hay show you have to discover the way through the exhibits of pictures. The hay show pays the most money of all classes in the Exhibition. It's a Peterborough specialty. Peterborough farmers were first in the provincial field with a Grassland Day, and from that came the suggestion to make an annual competition for hay in its several

That is the background, but not yet has the spacing arrangements given the bales a break.

They appear to be pushed farther into the background each year, not intentionally, but just as being overlooked in the shuffling.

The baled basis of livestock farming just doesn't get a break—but as an annex to the art department. That is at least an innovation.

Mr. Johnston wasn't saying anything Monday. He had first got past the stage expression and then over it.

Jack Morency has set up a hot-dog stand for the 38th year at the fair. "You'd think that would give you a little recognition," he remarked.

The officers this year are: Honorary president, Hugh Stewart; president, Norm McConkey; first vice-president, John Kitney; second vice-president, Don Milburn; treasurer, E. W. Armstrong; acting-secretary, Mrs. J. T. Tully; auditor, Edward Humpage; entry secretary, Frances Clarke.

Exhibition Grounds Busy At Six A.M. As Church Group Serves Hot Breakfast

Breakfast at the Exhibition this morning was served hot and on time shortly after six o'clock by the daybreak shift of the members of the Women's Auxiliary of St. James United Church.

"And we were quite busy," Mrs. R. Ritchie said. "It is surprising the number of people around the grounds at that hour."

Mrs. Henry Turner, 554 Douglas Ave., is the general convenor and president of the church society. Committee convenors are:

In charge of kitchen: Mrs. W. Godfrey, assisted by her son Elmer and his wife Saunders; assistant Mrs. George Church.

Pies: Mrs. E. Rutherford, assistant Mrs. Monks.

In charge of kitchen: Mrs W Godfrey, assisted by her son Elmer and his wife

Salads and vegetables: Mrs B. Seabrook and Mrs. Geo. Hewitt.

Refrehment booth: Mrs. Gordon Pearson and Mrs. Gerald Cuffe.

Sandwiches: Mrs. George Rowe.

Bread and milk: Mrs. Rose Moncrief.

And at the entrance: Mrs. Ritchie and Mrs. M. Stokes.

The Rev. Lloyd Shorten, minister of St. James, is himself an auxiliary helper, especially in any little emergencies that may be overlooked.

Organized Labor To Try Elect Pro-Labor Aldermen

This year, for the first time since the early '20s, organized labor in Peterborough are making a strong bid to elect a slate of pro-labor candidates in the city elections. Monday night the Peterborough and district Labor Council (CCL) decided to set up a nominating committee to pick a suitable slate of candidates. They will approach their rivals, the Peterborough Trades and Labor Council (TLC), to see if they can agree on nominations.

At present there is one trade unionist on city council. He is Alderan William Beggs, former president of Local 293, UPWA (CIO-CCL), bargaining agents at the Quaker Oats Co. Since January Mr. Beggs has been on the permanent staff of the Packinghouse Workers.

FIRST FULL TERM

Mr. Beggs was elected last December for his first full term of office. Other trade union candidates for council and the Board of Education were defeated.

This year, however, the CIO-CCL labor council hope to have the support of the AFL unions affiliated with the Trades and Labor Council. If a joint slate of candidates can be decided on it should swing a large bloc of trade union votes. However it would not commit the largest union in the city, the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America, who are bargaining agents for production workers at Canadian General Electric, Peterborough Lock, Raybestos and Hobbs' Glass.

The Peterborough Trades and Labor Council have not yet been approached on its intended move but it is believed that they will support it in principle. Deciding on a mutually satisfactory list of candidates may be a little more difficult.

Wheat Exports High In 1952

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada exported 385,900,000 bushels of wheat in the form of grain and flour during the 1952-53 crop year and entered the current crop year with a carry-over of 362,700,000 bushels, the bureau of statistics said today.

Last year's exports were second only to 407,600,000 bushels sent abroad in 1928-29.

The bureau also estimated Canada's wheat supplies in the current year which began Aug. 1 at 966,500,000 bushels, an increase of 61,400,000 bushels over last year, if the current production forecast is realized.

The supply figure includes the carry-over at Aug. 1 and the new crop forecast of 603,800,000 bushels on the basis of conditions at that time. Supplies of this kind would be the second only to the 1942-43 year, when the total reached 980,400,000 bushels. This year's supplies are about 51 per cent higher than the 10-year average of 638,000,000 bushels.

Exports of wheat as grain amounted to 329,000,000 bushels—exceeded only once before when 354,400,000 bushels were exported in 1928-29. Exports of flour in terms of wheat were 56,900,000 bushels compared with 51,100,000 the previous year, but were exceeded in each of the five crop years from 1943-44 to 1947-48.

Dairy Cattle Overflow Into Lean-To

In spite of the shift in accommodation for dairy cattle at the Exhibition, about 40 head had to be bedded down last night under a lean-to enclosed in a wall of canvas, providing most of the comfort of home. They will be judged on Wednesday.

The beef breeds are not due until Thursday, moving into the barns that are occupied today by the milkers. Judging of the Herefords, Shorthorns and Aberdeen-Angus is slated for Friday.

As Charlie Moore of Smith Township said Monday: "What would we have done if we had let them all come at the same time, beef and dairy, as has been our custom up to now!"

Therein is a glimpse of the extent of the cattle division of this Exhibition. President Norm McConkey made a rough estimate yesterday of approximately 450 head of dairy cattle, and the beef section in proportion.

If those figures indicate the final count, the total for Peterborough should be fairly close to the number of cattle entries at the big Western Ontario Exhibition at London this week.

NEW RECORD

Breeders of dairy cattle have surpassed their entry records of many years. It was expected that the Holstein people would lead out around 100 head, but the Jersey breeders have stepped up almost to that figure, to the surprise and satisfaction of the supervising committees. Guernseys and Ayrshires are also notable, and the Dual Purpose Shorthorn breeders have around 80 head. That is a comparatively new class, and has boomed in the last two years.

The enthusiasm of the milk-and-meat herd owners is reflected in their decision to hold a twilight auction sale Wednesday evening. Consigners were required to be exhibitors, and that accounts in part, at least, for the big entry of Dual Purpose Shorthorns.

This reference only to the cattle classes of the livstock is introduced ahead of others because the entries of the dairy breeds had to be on the ground early. And they were.

The horse stalls were empty last night, but the secretary's office reports indications of a big show. Sheep and swine were arriving Monday afternoon, and the poultry section will complete the livestock division of the fair.

Stores Close Friday Nights Until Bylaw

Not Known Yet If Charges To Be Laid By Police

It appears that no ladies' ready-to-wear stores in the city are going to open for business on Friday nights again until there is a bylaw permitting them to do so.

This information was contained in a letter to city council from Leonard Pulver, spokesman for the Women's Wear Associates of Peterborough.

Mr. Pulver said that those stores which had stayed open until 9:00 p.m. last Friday had shown "without any question of doubt that the public are willing and prepared to shop Friday nights."

Whether or not these stores will be prosecuted for having stayed open remains in question.

Mayor Hugh Waddell told Monday night's meeting of the finance committee of council that he had consulted with City Solicitor W. F. Huycke, QC, and had subsequently arranged with the police department to check on what stores were doing business last Friday night. But he hadn't received a report from the police department yet.

TWO PETITIONS

Meanwhile, City Clerk E. A. Outram revealed he had received two different forms of petition from a group of women's wear proprietors but he had also consulted with the city solicitor, and doubted if the petitions had been drawn up properly.

Not only was the wording unsatisfactory, he said, but it did not appear that the signatures had been properly witnessed.

"In drawing up any bylaw, the city solicitor has to stick to the wording of the petition," Mr. Outram pointed out. "If he does not, past cases have shown that the bylaw will be thrown out by the courts."

Mr. Pulver said in his letter that it was the wish of the petitioners to have a bylaw permitting them to stay open until 6.00 p.m. on Mondays, Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays, until 12:30 p.m. on Wednesdays and until 9:00 p.m. on Fridays.

BYLAW BROKEN

"Workers who work Friday evenings would be compensated so that they would not work more than 40 hours a week," Mr. Pulver said in his letter.

Asked by Ald. Miller, if any group of stores could have different hours than the rest, the city clerk explained that was how the store hours were arranged according to the bylaws.

"Have they broken the bylaw by staying open?" Ald. Norman Graham asked.

"If their doors were open, their lights on and goods on display, they were acting contrary to the intention of the bylaw," Mr. Outram said.

Ald. Graham then pressed the mayor to say whether or not he intended to prosecute any stores that had remained open for business last Friday night.

"If the city of Peterborough is going to have bylaws, they're going to be enforced," His Worship answered.

"That's a very good answer. I'm satisfied with that," said Ald. Graham who on Saturday had said he would run for mayor against any opposition if the bylaw was not enforced.

"I think it's up to the police commission to prosecute under the bylaws," Ald. Miller counselled. "We have done our part when we pass the bylaw."

Wonder If Reds Will Account For Missing PoWs

MUNSAN (CP)—The Communists could answer Wednesday Allied demands for an accounting of more than 3,000 United Nations military personnel, including three unidentified Canadians, believed still in Red cativity, but no one would speculate on the possibility.

The joint military armistice commission scheduled ameeting for Wednesday morning. It is first since the names of the missing men were turned over with the demand for a prompt accounting. The Reds may reply then.

A UN spokesman said, however, that there was no way of knowing whether a reply was forthcoming. The Communists, at the last commission meeting, said they would comment later.

In sharp contrast to previous displays of violence, 2,000 anti-Communist North Korean and Chinese prisoners were turned over to Indian custody in the Panmunjom neutral zone without incident.

DELIVERY SMOOTH

The delivery went off smoothly as the crack Indian troops—who for six days have checked disturbances by the prisoners—took extra precautions to avoid outbreaks.

They moved Allied and Communist observers farther away from compounds housing the PoWs and removed them from stations at some processing centres. The number of reporters allowed to watch the transfers was cut from 25 to five for each side.

The prisoners were part of 8,000 North Korean and 14,700 Chinese PoWs who refused repatriation.

Nine North Koreans who had a change of heart after delivery to the Indians were turned over to the Communists for return to North Korea.

The Communists gave the transfer the full propaganda treatment.

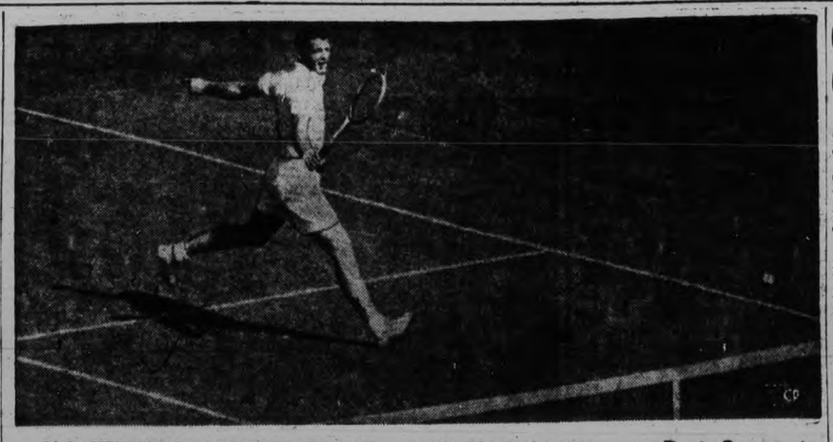
About 75 North Korean and Chinese officers plus a score or more Red correspondents applauded loudly throughout the 10-minute ceremony.

"You have come up from hell into the sunlight," one Communist officer shouted to the nine.

The top Communist delegate to the military armistice commission, Lt.-Gen. Lee Sang Cho, questioned the nine on their treatment in Allied captivity.

Eight told him they were beaten, but one acknowledged that "they treated us pretty good."

The transfer was watched by officers of the five-nation repatriation commission, which has jurisdiction over the reluctant prisoners.



U.S. SWEEPS DAVIS CUP—Tony Trabert, of the United States Davis Cup team, blisters a return across the net during his match with Henri Rochon, of Montreal, in the North American zone Davis Cup tennis final at Montreal. Trabert defeated Rochon 6-2, 6-3, 8-6. The Americans made a clean sweep of the series.

Clair Will Bench Curtis For Game

TORONTO (CP)—Coach Frank Clair of the Dominion champion Toronto Argonauts, indicated Monday night he will bench halfback Ulysses Curtis for Saturday's Big Four game at Hamilton with the Tiger-Cats.

Curtis, one of the fleetest backs in Canadian football, will be replaced by Jack Barry, recently brought up from the Argos' Balmy Beach farm club.

"I haven't been happy with Curtis' running or his all-round play," Clair said.

Plan More Doubleheaders As NHL Starts October 8

MONTREAL (CP)—The 1953-54 National Hockey League Season gets under way Oct. 8, earliest opening in history, with the Stanley Cup champions, Montreal Canadiens, playing hosts to Chicago Black Hawks and New York Rangers visiting Detroit Red Wings.

The schedule again calls for each of the six teams to play 70 games. It features a number of three-game series and an increase in the number of doubleheaders, games on successive nights. The season ends March 21.

Montreal, Detroit and Boston Bruins are all engaged in a three-game series on two occasions.

The opening game for Toronto fans will be played Oct. 10 when the Maple Leafs take on Chicago. The curtain goes up on the new season in Chicago and Boston Oct. 11, Rangers meeting the Hawks and Canadiens playing Bruins.

New York, traditionally the last team to open at home, lights up Madison Square Garden for hockey Oct. 22, Boston supplying the opposition.

More games are scheduled for weekend dates this season and fewer for week nights, with 126 games slated for Saturdays and Sundays.

Chicago will try something new by playing seven games on Friday nights. The Hawks previously played all except weekend games on Thursdays.

Sundays are the most popular in the U.S. cities. Boston plays 18 of its 35 home games on Sunday, New York 17 and Detroit 15.

Toronto and Montreal are Saturday night towns. The Leafs play 24 of their 35 home games on Saturday with the remainder scheduled for Wednesdays. Canadiens play 21 games on Saturday and 14 Thursday.

Toronto plays 25 doubleheaders during the schedule, Canadiens 24, Boston 23, Detroit and Chicago 22 and New York 20. Chicago plays four games in five nights on four different occasions with Canadiens, Rangers and Boston doing the same ironman stunt on three occasions. Toronto and Detroit do it twice.

Walker Cup Player Has Scare Of Life

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Handsome Harvie Ward had the scare of his life on the broad, open Oklahoma City Golf and Country Club course Monday while his Walker Cup teammates made hash of both the course and the opposition in the first round of the United States amateur golf championship.

Ward, winner of the British amateur championship last year, runner-up to Joe Carr for the same title this year and one of the prime favorites, suffered one letdown. Young Ernest (Pete) Arend Jr., of Deal, N.J., carried him to the 18th green.

Ward finally pulled out the match, one up, and joined 1949 champion Charley Coe of the home club; Ken Venturi of San Francisco and Bill Campbell of Huntington, W. Va., in the second round.

START GAMES LATER

BARRIE (CP) — Friday home games of Barrie Flyers, Ontario Hockey Association Junior A team, will start this season at 9:15 p.m. Previously they started at 8:30 p.m.

A similar plan is followed in Brockville, where Friday is "open night."

STOPS ARTHUR KING

BROOKLYN (AP) — Wallace (Bud) Smith, fifth-ranking lightweight contender from Cincinnati, came from behind Monday night to stop Arthur King, Canadian lightweight champion from Toronto, in five rounds of their main 10-rounder at the Eastern Parkway Arena.

The bout was stopped at the end of the fifth as King staggered to his corner. It was listed a fifth-round knockout according to New York rules. Smith weighed 138¼, King 137½.

Although he ranks below King, the No. 4 135-pound contender, Smith was a 9 to 5 favorite. The victory stretched Smith's unbeaten streak to six fights and the loss snapped King's winning string at six.

For a while it looked as if the odds were way out of line. Little Arthur easily outboxed the hard-hitting Cincinnati Negro through the first three rounds.

But in the fourth Smith started to come on with smashing blows to the body. Midway in the fifth, he caught the fading Canadian Negro with a stiff left hook to the jaw, which buckled Arthur's knees, and followed with another hook to the same spot.

Smith tore after his wobbly rival and rained a barrage of blows to the head and body. The bell just saved King.

As King staggered to his corner, Dr. Samuel Swetnick examined the fighter and signalled to referee Ray Miller that the fight was over.

Saskatchewan Slaughters Calgary Stampeders 34-2

EDMONTON (CP)—Two of the strongest throwing arms in the Western Interprovincial Football Union hurled passes like exploding popcorn Monday night as the Edmonton Eskimos climbed another game higher atop the league standings and Saskatchewan Roughriders trounced Calgary Stampeders by 32 points.

In Edmonton, Indian Jack Jacobs led a drive by Winnipeg Blue Bombers right down to the final gun before Bombers lost 9-7 to coach Darrell Royal's hard-charging split-T formation.

And in Calgary, before the horrified eyes of 13,000 Stampeder fans, Saskatchewan, led by old triple-threat Glenn Dobbs, came through with a staggering 34-2 win.

The victory for the Eskimos moved them four points in front of second-place Bombers. Riders eased into a third-place tie with Calgary, both trailing Winnipeg by two points.

PASSES IN ALL DIRECTIONS

Jacobs pitched passes in all directions in quarterbacking a club which was always behind. He completed 22 of 37 attempts and in the dying moments passed Winnipeg from its own 35-yard line to the Edmonton 26.

Dobbs, said by some to be a bit too old for the game at 32, reeled out the arm muscles which sent him and Riders to the Grey Cup two years ago. He completely bewildered Stamps with his aerial display, tossing five passes for touchdowns.

Norm Kwong, a former Calgarian with a yen for line-plunging, counted Edmonton's sole touchdown. Wilburn Snyder converted and added a field goal.

Bud Korchak, an outstanding soccer player in Winnipeg, booted two Bomber field goals and a rouge, conceded by Rollie Miles, Eskimos' fleet Negro back.

PLAN BACKFIRES

Another attempted field goal by Korchak in the last moments of the game backfired when the kick was blocked.

Dobbs' passes for touchdowns went to Bobby Marlow, Stan Williams, Herb Johnson, Mac Speedie and Bob McMillan. Del Wardien converted all five and counted a single on a kick. Dobbs also kicked for a single. Riders got their other two points from a safety touch.

Stampeders got their two points on a safety touch in the second quarter.

Next league action finds Edmonton at Regina and Calgary at Winnipeg. Both games are billed for Saturday night.

Daily Dusting

YEARS of medical research sponsored by the Ontario Mining Association may have found the answer to silicosis, the disease which attacks the lungs of miners exposed to silica dust. Curiously enough, the treatment consists of breathing very fine aluminum dust directly into the lungs; the aluminum renders the silica particles harmless. The treatment has been adopted in gold and other mining areas in Canada and throughout the world.

Aluminum, long used in hospital kitchens, today serves the medical profession in many ways—from aluminum foil for covering serious burns, to aluminum acetate for medical dressings, to aluminum blenders for the preparation of sterile biological products. Aluminum Company of Canada, Ltd. (Alcan)

Kootenays Tense As Doukhobor Threats Remain

By JOE MacSWEEN

KRESTOVA, B.C. (CP)—Claims of threats of revenge against former members of the radical Sons of Freedom Doukhobors were made here Monday night, following a week-end of home-burnings and a nude parade.

Sources who declined use of their names declared they had received messages threatening their lives if they did not fall in line with the policy of the radical Sons, of whom 148 were arrested last Wednesday.

It was comparatively quiet in the land of the Doukhobors. Some demonstrations were held but apart from five home-burnings and one nude parade here Sunday, the week-end passed without incident.

But former members of the Doukhobor religious sect reported they had received messages threatening dire consequences if they did not return to the ways of the fanatical creed.

These threats could not be verified, and the fact of the Doukhobors' pacifism did not add strength to the reports. However, the paradox of Doukhobor actions makes possible any move among the Sons, who inhabit this interior Kootenay district of British Columbia.

HARD TO RECONCILE

On the surface, it is difficult to reconcile the motives of a man who will toss a home-made bottle-bomb through the window of a neighbor, but is so tender hearted that he cannot eat an egg because it might deprive a chick of life.

Paradox is the theme that runs through the affairs of the Sons of Freedom, who make up about 2,500 of the 10,000 Doukhobors in British Columbia.

Bitter over the fate of 148 of their number who were arrested last Wednesday for contributing to juvenile delinquency and now are in jail near Vancouver, the Freedomites put five homes to the torch during the week-end and staged a nude parade Sunday.

On Monday, the whole Doukhobor country was quiet, while the Freedomites studied reports from the provincial capital of Victoria regarding their friends in jail.

ANOTHER SQUABBLE

Meanwhile, at Victoria another Doukhobor squabble—this time involving non-Doukhobors—appeared to be building up.

B.C.'s Social Credit government Monday passed a special warrant to provide $150,000 to deal with the Doukhobor problem.

If the government had waited one day longer, it could not have obtained the warrant, since the legislature would be sitting.

Arnold Webster, leader of the CCF Opposition in the legislature, said the government would have shown "greater respect for members" if they had dealt with the mattr as early as possible in the session which gets underway today.

"The whole summer was permitted to pass without concrete measures which would have gone a long way to keeping law abiding Doukhobors favorable to the government, instead of antagonizing them," said Mr. Webster.

Government action in dealing with the Doukhobor question is expected to be a prime target of opposition attack during the session.

Robbers Make Haul

TORONTO (CP) — Two youths armed with an automatic pistol Monday took $230 in cash from a drugstore and took another $90 from a milk driver on the scene.

One of the youths emptied the cash register while the other held drugstore owner Samuel Bernard at gunpoint. Bernard Currie, a dairy driver, handed over his cash when they threatened him.

Houde Suggests Greater Unity

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — A plea that Ontario and Quebec "get together more often" and stand together to save the country from "foreign ideas which don't fit in here" was made Monday by Montreal's mayor Camillien Houde.

In a luncheon address officially opening Western Fair Mayor Houde said Ontario and Quebec have ideas which are basically the same.

Main events of the day—aside from the fact it was Children's Day—were the junior farmer and junior institute events. Lloyd Holland of Clinton led the senior group with Clifford Haycock of Mount Elgin heading the junior group.

Attendance totalled 63,778 and president I. B. Whale said that with good weather the total attendance would top the 400,000 mark.

The "mutt" show drew dogs of all sizes and shapes and the winner was a toy terrier named "Toy," owned by Johnny Roberts, 5, of RR 10, London.

Baxter Praises Canada's Press

TORONTO (CP)—Beverley Baxter, Canadian-born Conservative member of the British House of Commons and well-known journalist, praised Canada's press Monday as something from which others could well learn.

The dignity and responsibility of the Canadian press right across rejoice in," he said in an address to the Canadian Club. "There are many things London journalism could teach Canadian journalism, but in dignity, in importance given to important events, and in the lack of pornography, many big-circulation newspapers could take a lesson from the papers here."

Mr. Baxter predicted Prime Minister Churchill soon will resign on doctors' advice and a general election will result in November or February with the Conservative party returning to power with an increased majority.

4 More Polio Deaths

EDMONTON (CP)—Alberta's official 1953 polio toll Monday stood at 32 deaths and 547 cases. This was an increase of four deaths and 24 cases since the last official figures were released Friday. An unofficial tally shows three additional deaths which have not yet been tabulated by the health department.

Truman, Stevenson Blast Eisenhower Foreign Policy

By JACK BELL

CHICAGO (AP)—Former U. S. president Truman seconded vigorously today Adlai E. Stevenson's blistering criticism of the Eisenhower administration foreign policies at a Democratic rally Monday night.

Stevenson, the party's 1952 presidential nominee, told cheering Democrats at a $100-a-plate dinner the Republican administration has made "hollow political gestures" abroad, poked its nose in the affairs of other nations, permitted "smears at home" and had cut defence and foreign aid while tossing "threatening words" at the Communists.

The former Illinois governor said the announcement of defence cuts "followed by threatening words in Asia, sounded to me as though the administration was saying to the Communists: 'One false move from you guys and we'll cut the national defence by another billion dollars.'"

Stevenson, who has been invited to tell President Eisenhower later about his conversations with the top diplomats of the free nations, brings the Democratic rally to a close tonight with a televised "non-partisan" report of his recent world tour.

APPLAUDS ATTACK

Truman, who previously had voiced some free-swinging criticisms of the "wrecking crew" he said was at work in Washington, applauded Stevenson's sharp attack on Eisenhower foreign policies.

Later he told reporters the Republicans can not do anything else but follow the international policies the Democrats had laid down.

"But I am worried about the way the Republicans are carrying out our policies," he said. "Of course, they have to continue the general line of foreign policy that started with Woodrow Wilson."

Asserting that the Democrats in Congress had "functioned with great intelligence, courage and restraint" since the Republicans took over, Stevenson told the audience in evening clothes at the swank fund raising dinner:

"The greatest beneficiary of the Democratic party in these last few months has been President Eisenhower. I only hope that he realizes it."

He said it is the job of the Democrats to help every way they can in the "fateful decisions" he said lie ahead in momentous negotiations in Asia and Europe.

WILL NEED RESOURCES

"We Democrats will have all the greater need of our resources of imagination, maturity and political courage in these years ahead," he said.

Truman was in campaign form as he told the diners the job of the Democrats is to "take the government of the United States away from big business and return it to all the people, where it belongs."

The former president said that "double talk" might have won the last election for the Republicans, but he said the Republican record on national defence, housing, career service firings, farm programs, labor law revision, national resources, social security, international trade and taxes was such that the Democrats could win control of Congress next year.

MARMORA—(ENS)—Teachers and scholars of St. Andrew's United Sunday School joined with the regular congregation at St. Andrew's on Sunday morning for the annual Rally Day Service. The form of service as issued by the the Board of Christian Education for the United Church was followed. Miss Nina Reynolds led in the reading of the Scripture lesson and also offered prayers. The appointed story on African Missions was read by Miss Marion Reynolds. Miss Jennie Reynolds presided at the organ. The Rev. K. J. Crawford, pastor of the church, also participated in the service.

Rail Worker Killed

PEMBROKE (CP)—Michael J. Curran, 43, of Chesterville was killed Monday apparently when struck by a Canadian Pacific Railway train just west of Pembroke, police said. Curran was a flagman working on the tracks.

Stress Some Dangers In Economy

EDMONTON (CP)—The annual report of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce finds Canada prosperous, but with reasons for concern.

The report, signed by D. L. Morrell, general manager, and presented to today's session of the chamber's annual meeting, found on the good side:

"Industrial production and gross national product this year will reach an all-time high, and so will capital expenditures. Personal income follows the same pattern. Payrolls are materially higher than a year ago. More houses are being built and retail trade is being sustained well above the record levels of 1952."

However, it added:

"There are more soft spots than have usually been encountered during periods of such general prosperity in the past."

The textile industry was experiencing difficulties, with low-cost imports a serious competitive problem.

RAISE TRADE DEFICIT

The resurgence of aggressive production in war-torn countries, expanded facilities in raw-material countries, persistent currency problems, and shifts to new sources of supply, were some of the factors which account for Canada's trade deficit during the first six months of this year.

"Canada continues to run a big trade deficit with the United States and to feel the effect of the demands of interested groups for protection against specific and indigenous Canadian products, despite President Eisenhower's repeated statements regarding the need for greater world trade.

"At the same time, Canada's surplus trade balance with the United Kingdom, the Commonwealth, and overseas foreign countries, has fallen sharply.

"Failure of the United Kingdom to sign the international wheat agreement has been one of the reasons for the serious problems in the marketing of our present huge wheat supplies."

The United Kingdom, in bringing about "a surprising economic recovery," had reduced imports from, and increased exports to, hard-currency countries.

"Further moves along these lines can be expected, and supplies of wheat, lumber and other products may be sought in countries which will accept an equal volume of British goods in return."

2 Face Murder Trial

MONTREAL (CP) — Frank Battaglie of Oakville, Ont., and James Rogers of Montreal Monday were ordered for trial Oct. 6 on a charge of murder in connection with the gangland slaying last spring of Charles Wagner. Wagner's body, a bullet in the back of the head, was found in a creek in suburban Laprairie weighted down with a rock.

Fire Razes Home South of Omemee

OMEMEE — (ENS) — Fire of undetermined origin completely destroyed the white frame home of Mr. and Mrs. William Marshall, three miles south of Omemee on Saturday about 3 p.m. Mr. and Mrs. Marshall and daughter Rosemary had left an hour earlier for a weekend visit with relatives at Orillia.

Neighbors seeing the blaze hurried to the scene but the fire had made such progress that practically nothing could be saved. A new refrigerator and a dining room suite recently purchased, were included in the loss.

Not until Sunday noon did the Marshall's learn of their misfortune; efforts to contact them having failed up to that time. They will temporarily make their home in Millbrook with Mr. Marshall's parents.

The farm was purchased about three years ago from T. A. McConnell of Omemee. In earlier years it was the home of the late Richard Poast and his family.

Vermette-O'Leary

In a setting of autumn flowers the wedding took place in St. Peter's Cathedral, Saturday morning when Anne Bernardine O'Leary, Reg. N., daughter of Mrs. Frances O'Leary and the late Mr. Maurice O'Leary of Peterborough, became the bride of Mr. Marc Vermette, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Albert Vermette of Montreal.

The Rev. J. F. Coughlin performed the ceremony and said the nuptial mass. Wedding music was played by Mrs. Marion Aman and Mr. Anthony De Noble sang Schubert's "Ave Maria" and "Panis Angelicus" during the mass and "On This Day" at the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Joseph M. O'Leary, the bride wore a gown of nylon tulle over taffeta and a satin embossed jacket made with long sleeves ending in points below the wrist, a Marie Antoinette collar and self-covered buttons to fasten. Her fingertip veil of nylon tulle was worn with a coronet of lily of the valley and she carried a cascade of white 'mums.

She was attended by Miss Leona Shearer of New York as maid of honor. Her floor length gown of apricot nylon net had a stole of the same material and matching headdress. She carried bronze 'mums. The groom's sister, Miss Anita Vernette, as bridesmaid, was attired in a blue ballerina nylon net over taffeta frock with jacket and headdress to match. She carried a cascade bouquet of pale pink 'mums. Joanne Towns, niece of the bride, as flower girl, was frocked in white nylon and carried a nosegay of yellow 'mums.

The groom was attended by Mr Camille Cauchon of Quebec City and Mr. Jack Pirie of Toronto was usher.

The reception was held at the home of the bride where her mother received wearing navy tissue faille and matching accessories and a corsage of red roses. She was assisted by the groom's mother who was attired in mauve crepe with contrasting accessories and wore a corsage of Talisman roses.

For travelling the bride chose a navy dressmaker suit and matching accessories and had an orchid corsage when going away. On return they will live in their new home at 822 Nicholls Avenue.

McLellan-Steele

The marriage of Mary Willena Steele, daughter of Mr. Robert J. Steele of Peterborough, and the late Mrs. Steele, to Robert Alexander McLellan of London, son of Mrs. McLellan of Iona Station and the late Richard N. McLellan, took place September 5th at London, Ontario, in the New St. James' Presbyterian Church. The Rev. Richard Stewart officiated.

Mrs. C. Reginald Firby was matron of honor and Mr. Firby attended the groom.

A reception followed at the Cobbleston Inn and later the couple left for a wedding trip to Northern Ontario. They will make their home in London.

Mr. McLellan is a graduate of the University of Western Ontario.

Clubs Sponsor Beauty Clinic

About 150 women attended a clinic on beauty care and good grooming held Monday evening at the YWCA under sponsorship of the '38 Club and the Business and Professional Women's Club.

The advice on beauty, stressing care of the skin and hair, was given by Miss Margaret Holland of Toronto. Mrs. Stanley McBride was her model throughout the evening and received a gift of beauty products in appreciation.

The special prize, a success course offered by the manufacturer of the products used, was won by Mrs. E. Boote. Other prizes wer won by Misses Helen Edmison, Dorothy Lodsley, May Stone, Joan DeVee, Mary Strickland, Bernice Hall, Doreen Thompson, Rubena Carter, Helen Snowden and Mrs. O. Hallihan and Mrs. H. T. Rehill.

A small box of favors was given everyone at the door. Miss Hazel Wilson and Mrs. Roma Brindle of the '38 Club and Miss Alice Hardwicke and Miss Rubena Carter of the Business Women's Club were in charge of the arrangements and taking tickets.

'Medical Needs 'n Africa" Missions Topic

Only one doctor for every 100,-00 people in many parts of Africa, is compared to an average of one doctor for every thousand people in Canada, was stated by Miss Grace Sargent in a topic on "Healing Ministry" from "Along African Trails", at the meeting of the Elizabeth Parker Auxiliary Monday night in Trinity Church parlour.

Miss Sargent further cited that, owing to the lack of knowledge of suitable foods, pure water supplies, cleanliness and sanitation of person and homes, as well as proper use of drugs, the life-expectancy in Africa is as low as 20 years as compared with 67 years in Canada.

During her review of African medical needs, Miss Sargent simulated interviews with missionaries at their stations. Mrs. Charles Taylor represented Miss Nancy Copithorne, a nurse at Camundongo and told that they had a small hospital 25 beds and most of their work was maternity cases. Surgical patients had to be taken to Chissamba which is 35 miles away. Miss M. Nelson represented Miss Edith Brown, a nurse at Chissamba and told that they had a 70 bed hospital and Dr. W. Strangway was their physician and surgeon. There had been 832 operations performed in the past year and the hospital served an area of about 4,000 square miles, as well as having 7 rural dispensaries in the area and 30 leprosy centres. Mrs. G. F. Fallen represented Miss Frances Botham, a laboratory technician at Dondi, and told that they had a 72 bed hospital and Dr. S. Gilchrist was their physician and surgeon. Some 460 operations had been performed during the year and they also had a creche for babies needing special care.

Miss Sargent went on to explain the many needs of the people around these mission stations, citing several individual instances which showed the tremendous task the doctors and nurses are attempting to accomplish and that their one cry is: "Oh, if there were only more of us."

Miss Margaret Wolstenholme presided for the business and devotional period in the absence of the president Mrs. F. W. Horton and Miss Helen Shaples acted as secretary in the absence of Miss Jean Armstrong.

As a pleasing addition to the meeting Miss Mignon Mayneord whistled a beautiful solo, My God and Father while I stray.

It was decided to hold the October meeting a week early because of thanksgiving falling on the regular date,

A delightful lunch was served by the groups in charge under leadership of Miss Wolstenholme and Miss Sargent.

Arranging Concert

A business meeting of the University Women's Club of Peterborough was held Monday evening at the YWCA with president Miss K. Macdougall presiding.

Mrs. Allan Heideman, chairman of the concert committee, gave a full report of activities to date in connection with the concert being sponsored by the club on October 19, at the Collegiate auditorium, featuring Glenn Gould, an outstanding young Canadian pianist. Tickets were distributed to members for sale. Those not present will receive their supply at the fall tea.

Resolutions on penal reforms for women contained in a letter from the Canadian Federation of University Women were voted on and a report of results forwarded to the Federation.

MR. AND MRS. GERALD JOSEPH DORIS of Otonabee, the bride formerly Miss Theresa Bernadette Fitzgerald, were married Saturday morning at Our Lady of Assumption Church. —(Choate Studio Photo)

Doris-Fitzgerald

The wedding took place at Our Lady of Assumption Roman Catholic Church, Otonabee, on Saturday morning, of Teresa Bernadette, daughter of Mrs. Fitzgerald and the late Mr. John Fitzgerald, to Gerald Joseph Doris, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Doris, all of Otonabee.

The Rev. W. C. McCarney performed the double ring ceremony and said the nuptial mass.

A profusion of pink and white gladioli decorated the altar. Wedding music was played by Mrs. George Carey and Miss Margaret Chretien sang "Ave Maria" and "Panis Angelicus."

The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. James Fitzgerald, of Toronto. She chose a gown of Chantilly lace and nylon net over satin which had a very bouffant skirt and scrolls of hand-made lace and embroidery. The closely fitting bodice was buttoned to the waist at the back and featured an off-the-shoulder shadow neckline and a yoke of sheer net, and the long lily point sleeves were snug at the wrists. Her fingertip veil of silk illusion was caught to a cap of lace and her bouquet was of American Beauty roses and white stephanotis.

Miss Catherine Fiztgerald was maid of honor for her sister with Miss Evelyn Doris, sister of the groom, and Miss Helen Fitzgerald, also a sister of the bride, as bridesmaids. Their gowns were identically made of old rose and periwinkle blue taffeta with low, round necklines and cap sleeves and very full ankle-length skirts. Their matching headdresses were of a leaf design and they carried nosegays of pink roses and shasta 'mums.

The groom was attended by Mr. Richard Crowley and ushers were Jack Fitzgerald and Vincent Doris.

A wedding dinner was served at the parish hall and a reception followed at the bride's home with guests present from Douro, Bailieboro, Edgar, Toronto, Calgary and Keene.

The bride's mother received in a navy two-piece ensemble and wore navy velvet accessories and a corsage of pink roses. The groom's mother was wearing coronation blue crepe with black accessories and her corsage was pink carnations.

When leaving later on a motor trip to Detroit and Cleveland, the bride had donned a pale blue silk shantung dress and had black and white check taffeta accessories. She was wearing a white gardenia corsage.

Mr. and Mrs. Doris will live at R.R. 8, Peterborough, on their return.

Speaker Depicts WI's Role In Rural Life

MILLBROOK (ENS)—The Women's Institute met on Saturday evening at the home of the president, Mrs. John Lunn. There was a good attendance and one new member, Mrs. Albert Farren joined.

Miss Mary L. Widdis, program convener gave a paper on "Community Activities and the Women's Institute." She stated that to be effective the Institute should concentrate on one project. She said it was necessary to see that it did not become a rich woman's club, that no woman was prevented from joining for financial reasons. Members of the institute should welcome new canadians and make them feel a part of the community. The Institute should have recreational activities for its members, and should endeavor to plan community get-togethers that would bring deeper understanding between rural and urban groups. She advised the inviting of a different women's organization as guests for a meeting sometimes rather than another W.I.

Mrs. Henry Blakely gave a talk on Public Relations. She thought good public relations the most important phase of all W.I. work. It was necessary not to pass judgement on people in the community without knowing all the facts. Good public relations were achieved she said by following the Golden Rule.

Mrs. Lunn and Mrs. Blakely reported on the A.C.W.W. convention held in Toronto in August.

Supper hostesses were Mrs. John Lunn, Mrs. William Hilton and Mrs. Gerald Larmer.

Shirley Roberts Bride Of Douglas Buck

The wedding of Shirley May Roberts to Andrew Douglas Buck, both of Peterborough, was solemnized on Saturday afternoon at All Saints' Anglican Church by the Rev. Maurice Poole, rector. The bride is daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Roberts and the groom the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Buck.

Baskets of pastel gladioli decorated the church for the ceremony. Wedding music was played by organist Miss Margaret Flowers and Mrs. Reg. Chandler sang the "Nuptial Benediction" during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was wearing a waltz-length gown of nylon and French imported lace over satin, the skirt being of accordion pleated nylon with a scalloped lace edging and the bodice strapless and topped with a lace jacket with roll collar and long sleeves pointed over the wrists. Her veil was fingertip length of tulle illusion and caught to a Juliet cap encrusted with pearls. She was carrying a cascade of ivy with stephanotis.

Attendants were her sisters, Mrs. George Potter of Richmond Hill, as matron of honor and Miss Ethel Roberts as bridesmaid. They were identically frocked in rose nylon over taffeta, the gowns made with full waltz-length skirts and the bodices with vee necklines at front and back, finished with double bertha collars. They wore matching nylon mittens and bandeaux of nylon and taffeta and carried cascades of white Shasta 'mums.

Mr. Ted Dawson was the groomsman and ushers were James Roberts, brother of the bride, and Douglas Burns.

The reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. Mrs. Roberts received in a rust wool dress and wore a dark green velvet hat, feather trimmed, and brown accessories and had a corsage of orange 'mums. The groom's mother was wearing a rose and taupe shot taffeta dress and her hat was taupe with rose ostrich tips and her accessories in taupe. She wore a corsage of cream Sweetheart roses and 'mums dyed chartreuse.

The bride and groom are motoring north on their honeymoon and on return they will live on Alexander Avenue.

Going away the bride wore a turquoise crepe dress and matching jacket trimmed with white daisies and rhinestones and black and white accessories and her corsage was of gardenias.

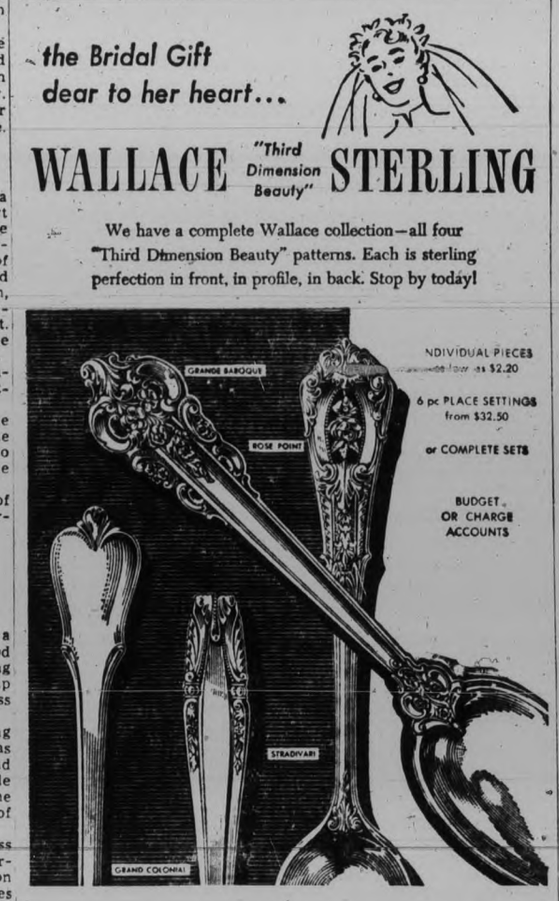
SIGNING THE MARRIAGE REGISTER of All Saints' Anglican Church is Mrs. Douglas Buck, the former Miss Shirley Roberts. The couple were married on Saturday afternoon. —(Roy Studio Photo)

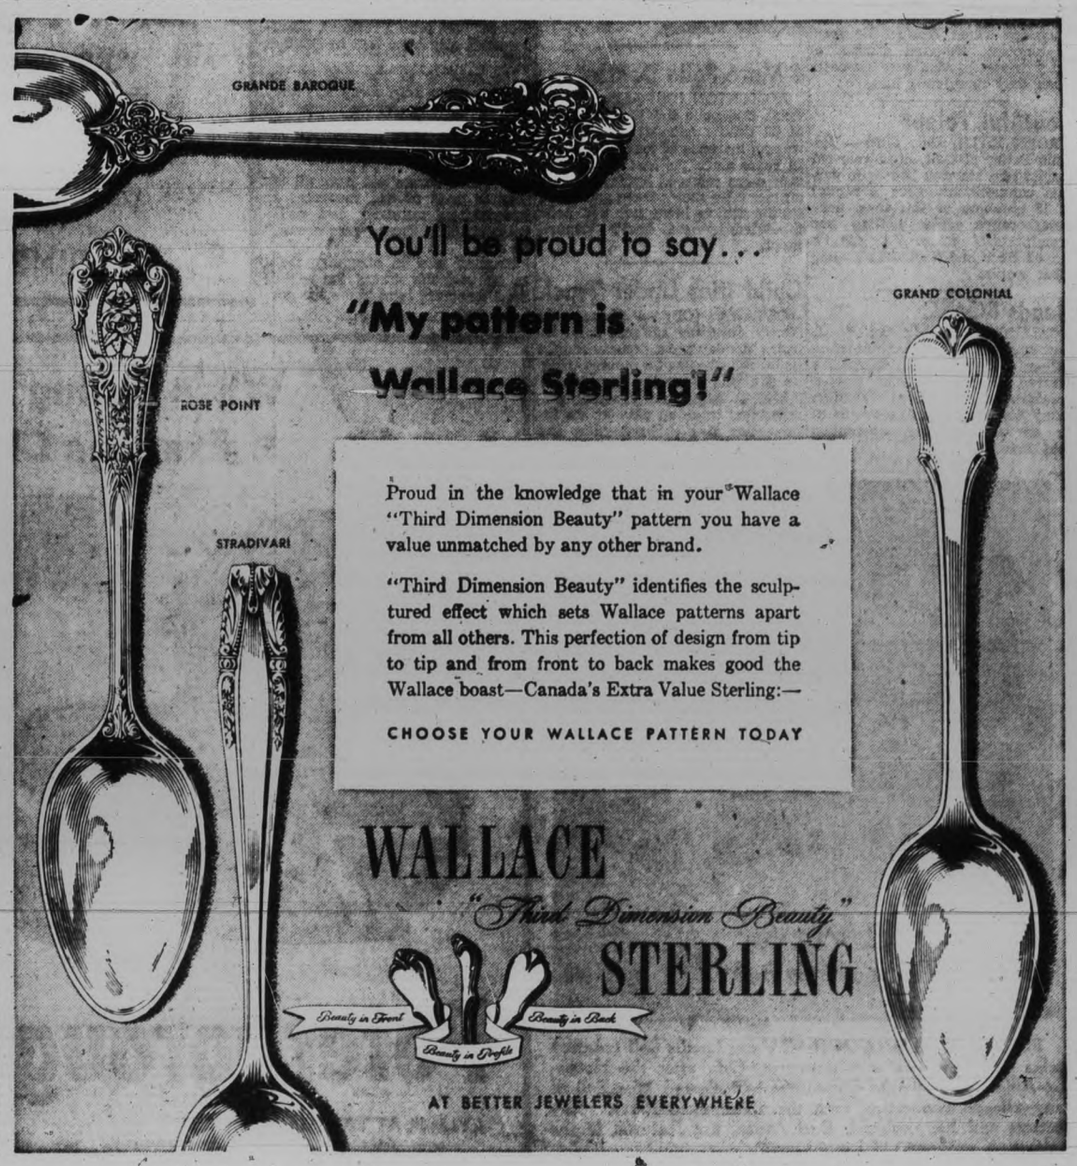
Sockum-Casey

OMEMEE (ENS)—At Millbrook United Church parsonage on Saturday Neva Melissa, daughter of Mrs. Wesley Casey of RR 2, Omemee, was united in marriage to Ross Ronald Smockum, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Smockum of Bethany, formerly of Omemee.

Miss Mafion Smockum of Omemee, sister of the groom, was bridesmaid, and the groomsman was Mr. Gordon Casey, brother of the bride.

On return from a trip to Northern Ontario, Mr. and Mrs. Smockum will live on the groom's farm in Cavan Township.





DOROTHY DIX:

Man Prepared To Marry Girl With Small Daughter

DEAR MISS DIX: Is a happy marriage possible in our case? I am engaged to a girl of 24, whom I have known for more than a year. I am three years older than she is. Soon after we met, and when she realized that I was becoming serious about her, she confided that she has a daughter, born out of wedlock. They both live with her parents. I have become acquainted with the whole family, like them all, and am very much attached to the little girl. My girl friend is afraid that a happy marriage isn't possible for us, but I don't see why not. I can't condemn her for one mistake, and I admire the courage with which she has faced the world and kept her daughter. Another girl might have given away her child and then acted out the role of a sweet, inexperienced creature.

S. C.

QUITE A MAN

ANSWER: You are a man to be greatly admired if you can accept a difficult situation like this, and continue to maintain your present convictions. Few men are capable of such forbearance. The future is entirely up to you. You've been given an honest appraisal of your girl's friend's position, and you must decide whether or not you can continue your present acceptance of it.

Everyone makes some mistakes! The difference in people is that some folks acknowledge their errors, while others adopt a holier-than-thou attitude and daily proclaim their perfection from the housetops. I'll take the former, thank you! Apparently you will, too. So, if you are sure you will never bring up the subject of the girl's past and can accept the child as you own, giving her a father's love and care, go ahead with the marriage and God bless you all!

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I married at 17, had a baby a year later, and a week after she was born left my husband because he was a drunkard. I divorced him, then remarried at 19. When I was going with my husband he was very good to my little girl, but since our marriage he won't have anything to do with her. He is so mean he'll even drink all the milk in the house she won't have any. The child is now 7, and not very robust.

MRS. C. H.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: You clearly must make a choice between your husband and child. It's unfair to the girl to keep her in the same house with a man who so obviously resents her. Either take her away yourself, or have her boarded in a home where she won't be subjected to so much tension. At the present rate, the child will become a nervous wreck. I feel you should go with the child.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: Recently, we had a small meeting of a church group. The people present were our minister, a young couple and myself. While I was preparing refreshments, the other lady engaged the minister in private conversation, while her husband busied himself straightening up. I felt hurt because I thought the lady could have saved her personal problems for a more private occasion. I was greatly upset, and let them know it.

K. G.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: You were certainly unduly upset over a trivial incident. Ministers are very busy people, and the lady, in taking these few moments to discuss a personal matter, was saving him the time and bother of making a private appointment. Don't be so quick to take umbrage; sometime you might be placed in the same position.

Raincoats Come Out Into Sun For Fall Wear

Raincoats have come out from under the cloud of dull bad weather necessities into the light of high fashion. A woman this season wears her raincoat proudly, knowing that its elegant design will carry her through sun or showers, every hour of the day and evening, with equal poise and smartness.

Miracle fibers, light insulated linings and improved weather-proofing techniques are largely responsible for the raincoat's new position as an all-purpose garment. Beautiful velvets, corduroys, menswear jerseys, tweeds and flannels in wools or in combination with nylon and orlon, along with treated rayon and acetate fabrics are making opportunities for skillful manipulation of fabric and dramatic top-of-the-season design.

Colors are so vivid and exciting, so ingeniously combined in contrasts to play up lines or linings, that they give a lift to any grey day. One sees reds, greens, bright orange shades, honey colors, deep blue and brown tones and silky blacks.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Three-Layer Cake With Orange Frosting

When your favorite boy friend and his parents are going on an all-day trip and your boy friend asks you to make your best cake to add to the joys of the picnic (and incidentally impress his mother with your baking prowess!) what can you do? You make the best cake you can muster—pronto!

This is the cake Marianne made. I was proud of it and would dearly love to have had one bite but we could not spoil its beauty. So I'll never know but the critics raves were encouraging — but could be prejudiced.

THREE-LAYER CAKE WITH ORANGE FROSTING

Sift cake flour and measure 3 cups and sift again with 3 teaspoons baking powder and ½ teaspoon salt. In your large mixing bowl cream 1 cup butter or shortening or margarine (which has been warmed to room temperature until it is light and fluffy with 1 teaspoon vanilla or orange extract. Very gradually begin to add 2 cups white sugar and beat and cream it until it is as light as whipped cream. Now add 4 eggs, unbeaten, 1 at a time, beating hard between each addition. Now the beating stops and stirring begins. Sift in about one-fourth of the flour mixture alternately with ⅓ of ¾ cup milk which should be room temperature. Repeat these last two steps, using same proportions, ending with flour. Prepare 3 8-inch layer cake tins by greasing them with unsalted shortening — don't use butter or margarine or bacon fat or cakes will stick. Dredge greased pans with flour and knock out excess flour. Divide batter evenly into the 3 pans, smoothing it over with the spatula. Vigorously knock pans on table to knock out any tunnels that may be lurking in the batter. Bake 25 to 30 minutes in oven of 375 deg. Fahr. or until cake shrinks slightly from sides of pan. Remove from oven and allow to cool for 5 minutes before turning out on cake racks. Cool thoroughly before frosting with

FLUFFY ORANGE FROSTING

In top of double boiler mix together thoroughly 2 unbeaten egg whites, ¾ cup white sugar, ⅓ cup light corn syrup, grated rind of 1 orange, 2 tablespoons orange juice, ¼ teaspoon cream of tartar and ¼ teaspoon salt. When well mixed place over fast boiling water, and beat with rotary or electric beater until frosting stands in peaks that do not collapse when beater is lifted from mixture. Remove from heat and from double boiler bottom and beat until slightly cool and of spreading consistency. It holds its shape all the time at this stage. Spread on top of bottom layer, put on second layer; spread with frosting; put on top layer; spread frosting on sides; then put final thick layer on top, swirling your knife to give fluffy piled appearance.

QUESTION: . . . please publish a recipe for plain molasses drop cookies using pastry flour? A small recipe about 2 or 3 cups flour.—A Reader.

ANSWER:

MOLASSES DROP COOKIES

(I like this recipe very well, and while it is not exactly a dropped cookie it is rolled between the palms and not on board with rilling pin.)

In mixing bowl mix together very well ¾ cup soft shortening, 1 cup brown sugar, 1 egg, ¼ cup light molasses. Sift together 2¼ cups sifted flour, 2 teaspoons soda, ¼ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon cloves, 1 teaspoon each cinnamon and ginger. Stir these sifted dry ingredients into the first mixture. Chill dough thoroughly. Roll into balls between floured palms—balls about the size of a walnut. Dip the tops in granulated sugar. Place sugared side up, 3 inches apart on greased baking sheet. Sprinkle each cookie with 2 or 3 drops of water to give a crackled surface. Bake for 10 or 12 minutes at [illegible]. Do not bake these cookies until hard—10 or 12 minutes are sufficient.

Mothers find PROM gives a lovelier, more natural-looking wave to children's hair

EASY AND FAST... NEEDS NO NEUTRALIZER!

FAIL-PROOF METHOD!
A. Apply lotion using any home permanent curlers. No straggly ends with Prom!
B. Simply water rinse for fresh, clean hair that dries to soft, natural loveliness.
C. Just let dry. No messy dabbing and pouring with separate neutralizer solution.

Prom's exclusive fail-proof method neutralizes the entire curl automatically, right to the very tips of the hair every time. No night-time homework with pin-curls. And Prom is easy to give because children don't have to sit still so long.

Curls right to the very tips of the hair

6—In Memoriam

LITTLE—In loving memory of Mary Elizabeth Jane Little, who passed away 1 year ago.
Another sweet flower has withered,
A gem from the casket set free.
A lamb in the fold of the shepherd,
Who said "Let them come unto me."
—Always remembered by Granny and Grandpa Rusk and family.

LITTLE—In lovely memory of our daughter Mary Elizabeth Jane Little Passed away one year ago today.
She was a flower too great for earth,
Sent here but for a while;
God marked her when, He gave her birth
And took her with a smile.
—Always remembered by Dad, Mon and Wayne.

MOORE—In loving memory Ethelbert Moore who passed Sept. 14, 1946.
Today we are thinking of someone,
Who was always kind and true
Someone we loved with all our hearts
My dear, that someone is you
Your heart, the truest in all the world
Your love the best of all
No one on earth can take your place
You are still dear to us all
—Sadly missed by his wife Gertrude and daughter Alice.

McGILL—In memory of a loving wife and mother, who passed away September 15, 1942.
Remembrance is a golden chain
Death tries to break, but all in vain,
To have, to love, and then to part
Is the greatest sorrow of one's heart
The years may wipe out many things,
But this they wipe out never,
The memory of those happy days,
When we were all together.
—Sadly missed by husband, Herman McGill and family.

SANDERSON—In loving memory of My father, Wellie Sanderson, who passed away 5 years ago today, Sept. 15, 1948.
Gone from us but leaving memories
Death can never take away;
Memories that will always linger
While upon this earth we stay.
—Ever remembered by daughter, Florence, son-in-law, Rollie and family.

WARD—In loving memory of Effie Doreen Ward, who passed away September 15, 1947.
Sweet memories will linger forever,
We cannot change them, it's true;
Years that may come cannot sever
Our loving remembrance of you.
—Lovingly remembered by her Father, mother and sister and brother.

7—Card of Thanks

FAIERS My heartfelt thanks go out to all of my friends, relatives neighbors, to Rev. Roblin of Park St. Baptist Church, to the Nisbet Funeral Home for their kind and thoughtful services, to the Outboard Marine and fellow employees of my husband John whom we all mourn. I am thankful for your floral tributes, cards, your prayers and for your understanding of my bereavement and great loss.—Mrs. Reta Faiers.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Fisher, Omemee, wish to express their most sincere thanks to all their friends who called, sent flowers and cards, or helped in any way to make their Golden Anniversary such a happy occasion.

The Homemakers Club of Curve Lake wish to thank the business men of Peterborough and Lakefield for kind donations towards the success of their recent Boat Regatta. —Mrs. Ben Taylor, President.

We wish to express our kind appreciation to our neighbours and friends for their many flowers and gifts which helped to make our Golden Jubilee an event to be long remembered.—Mr. and Mrs. W. C. McAuliffe.

Home and School Association News

QUEEN ELIZABETH SCHOOL

Queen Elizabeth Home and School Association met Monday evening, with Mrs. W. Weaver presiding. The secretary's report was read by Mrs. L. H. Edwards and Mrs. R. Clarke gave the treasurer's report. Sandra McConkey played a guitar selection.

New officers to fill vacant offices were: Mrs. T. Ellicott, vice-president, and Mrs. W. G. Mayhew, corresponding secretary.

Mrs. Weaver introduced the new principal, Mr. E. Drury, who in turn called upon the teachers, Miss McGee and Miss Bryant, to say a few words.

A social half-hour followed and refreshments were served.

✧ ✧ ✧

KING EDWARD SCHOOL

A capacity crowd was in attendance at the King Edward Home and School Association meeting Monday evening. Special guests were the students of grade 8 promotion class who were served cake and ice cream by ladies of the executive, following a rousing sing song led by the principal, Mr. J. Telford.

Two new members of the teaching staff, Miss. E. Doherty and Mr. W. Downs were introduced.

President Mrs. J. Dunkerley presided for the business period. It was announced a membership drive will be held the first week in October. Also that the regional conference will be held October 31st in Queen Mary auditorium. Mrs. A. Warner read the home and school Creed.

Attendance prize was won by Mr. Telford's class.

Speaker was Miss Phyllis Moore, superintendent of primary grades, whose talk was on "Primary reading." She was introduced by Mrs. C. Hobbs and thanked by Mrs. H. Barnard.

A social half hour with lunch being served by Mrs. A. Clark and committee was enjoyed.

✧ ✧ ✧

MAY'S SCHOOL

May's Home and School Association held their first fall meeting Monday evening in the Kindergarten room. President Mrs. P. Dyer welcomed a good attendance. The scripture selection was read by Mrs. P. Boswell.

The attendance prize was tied between Grade II and Grade III, thus the honor will be shared this month.

After a short business period, the guest speaker, Mrs. C. G. Collins, radio convener of Home and School Council, was introduced and gave an interesting talk on the work of Home and School Associations and how they should be conducted.

Guest soloist Mrs. H. J. Morley favored with two solos, "Bless This House" and "Smiling Through." She was accompanied by Mrs. N. Gilders.

Principal Mr. G. Ball introduced the teachers, there being only one new one, Miss Dorothea Ferrier, Grade I. He then enlightened parents on the unit system now being used in junior grades.

Mrs. R. Williams gave a vote of thanks to all those taking part in the meeting.

Mrs. Dyer introduced members of the new executive. A social half-hour was enjoyed, conducted by Mrs. O. Weise and associates.

QUEEN ALEXANDRA SCHOOL

Graduates of the Queen Alexandra School were honored at the first fall meeting of the Home and School Association on Monday evening when they were addressed by Mr. C. S. Browne, principal of PCVS.

Mr. Browne advised the young people to take advantage of every opportunity available to them, and he suggested deep appreciation on their part is due their parents for their sacrifices in educating them.

Jane Bamfort, top student of Grade 8 last year, was presented with the Board of Education cheque by Mrs. Paige Rowell, board member. Miss Beryl Hart of the teaching staff then presented the Home and School Association cheque to the second top student, Gerald Stewart.

A wish for success was extended the students by Association president Mrs. Arthur Black, who also sought parents' co-operation for the coming year's work.

Mr. K. McKee, principal, introduced the new teachers, Mr. Patterson and Miss Waldon, and also introduced the graduates, wishing them success in Collegiate life.

Teachers who have left the staff this year, Miss Helen Bonnycastle and Mr. Harvie Wilson, were tendered words of appreciation for their services by vice-president Mrs. Phyllis Kingdon who then presented gifts. Gifts were also presented to Mrs. Donald Milburn (nee Amy Curtis) in honor of her recent marriage, and to Miss May Stone, retiring public health nurse.

A fitting opening to the meeting was the religious period conducted by Mrs. J. W. Johnston whose theme was, "I Am Third." Her remarks and prayer were attuned to the graduates as well as to their parents. Mrs. H. Hamilton was pianist for the opening and closing anthems.

Miss Hart's Grade 5 class won the attendance prize.

Social convener Mrs. Paul Evans was assisted by mothers of the graduates in serving special refreshments to the children. A social hour followed.

Refuses Early Hearing

OTTAWA (CP)—Mr. Justice E. R. E. Chevrier today refused Cleveland Browns special permission for an early hearing of their injunction proceedings to regain the services of their football star, John Kissell.

4 Provinces Plan To Hold Annual Meet

By IRVING C. WHYNOT

MONCTON (CP)—An organization to probe the Atlantic provinces' economic position and suggest improvements will probably come out of Monday's meeting of political leaders from the four provinces.

The one-day meeting, arranged by the Maritime Provinces Board of Trade, was attended by three premiers, A. L. Macdonald of Nova Scotia, H. J. Flemming of New Brunswick and W. A. Matheson of Prince Edward Island. P. J. Lewis, minister without portfolio, represented Newfoundland's Premier Joseph Smallwood who said he was unable to attend owing to pressure of buniness.

There was general agreement that the four provinces had much to gain by co-operation. To further this end it was decided to hold annual meetings such as this one, the first of its kind.

The board of trade presented a brief which suggested some sort of government commission to investigate the economic situation. The provincial leaders said business itself should take the lead in such a move and suggested an organization along the lines of the successful New England council in the United States.

The board will consider this at its annual meeting in October and the provincial leaders will discuss it with their governments. If all agree each will name representatives to the board.

It appears almost certain that such an organization will be formed. About 50 business officials at the meeting favored the idea and the three premiers said it appeared to be the best solution.

Although the meeting was a milestone in Atlantic provinces' solidarity it is not the first step in that direction. The four provinces already finance the work of the Maritime transportation commission, a division of the trade board, which represents them on transportation matters.

All four provincial representatives expressed agreement that co-operation through such meetings was a good idea.

DOUKHOBORS ARRESTED — An RCMP constable assists one of the Sons of Freedom Doukhobor women from a truck at Perry's Siding, near Krestova, B.C., where 148 of the extremists were arrested. The Doukhobors were taken to Oakalla prison farm. Following the mass arrests an outbreak of violence and burning of homes took place.

Seamen's Strike Appears Step Nearer

MONTREAL (CP)—A paralyzing strike of 4,000 Canadian lake and sea-going members of the Seafarers' International Union appeared a step nearer with the announcement Monday that one section of the group favors a walkout to support the union's 40-hour-week demand.

The SIU announced that 500 members—first of the 4,000 to be heard from—have voted 83.7 per cent in favor of a strike and the union has fixed their walkout deadline for next Monday.

The 500 SIU members are employed aboard 26 ships of Colonial Steamships Limited, one of four companies involved in the dispute over the issue of immediate reduction of the seamen's work week from 56 to 40 hours.

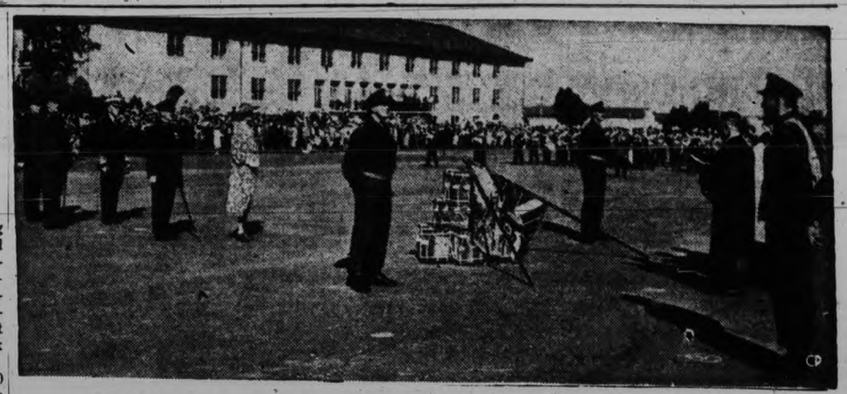
OTHER COMPANIES

The other companies are Canada Steamships Lines, Upper Lakes and St. Lawrence Transportation Company, and N. M. Paterson and Sons Limited.

Among them the four companies operate the bulk of Canada's inland shipping as well as a number of deep-sea vessels, all of which would be hit by a strike.

An SIU statement announcing the strike vote result among Colonial Steamships seamen said that Scott Misener, the company president, and Labor Minister Gregg had been notified and informed of the deadline for the walkout.

Mr. Misener, informed at Port Colborne of his employees' decision to strike, made no comment.



LADY RAMSAY PRESENTS COLORS —Lady Patricia Ramsay, honorary colonel of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, watches the blessing of colors she presented to the regiment at Calgary. Lady Ramsay made a special visit to Canada for the religious drumhead service. The regiment, formed during the First World War, was named after Lady Ramsay. Reading the service (at right) is Capt. R. H. Dobson, Protestant padre at Currie barracks, Calgary.

More Supervision Urged In Cemetery Business

TORONTO (CP)—The operation of cemeteries as business ventures was both defended and criticized Monday at the opening of hearings by the Ontario legislature's select committee on cemetery legislation.

The committee was set up last spring to inquire into complaints that land bought up for cemetery use was resold by high-pressure methods at tremendous profit.

Witnesses Monday explored the cemetery situation in Ontario, touching on pioneer burying grounds that have been abandoned as families moved away or died out, on church cemeteries that have become a charge on municipalities and a burden to the taxpayers, and on new-type cemeteries started as an investment with perpetual care guaranteed through a trust fund.

Increased provincial supervision of cemeteries was urged by several persons who presented briefs.

SUGGESTS AUTHORITY

Arthur Kelly, representing the Ontario Cemeteries' Association, urged appointment of a provincial cemetery supervisory authority under the direction of the minister of health.

Appearing for Memorial Gardens Association which manages 12 garden-type cemeteries in Ontario, Joseph Sedgwick proposed setting up a provincial cemetery board to inspect and supervise cemeteries. He said it might comprise representatives from the provincial departments of health, planning and municipal affairs, and might hire a staff headed by a director of cemeteries.

F. H. Cooke, secretary-treasurer of the Guelph cemetery commission, said that, without provincial protection, long-established cemeteries will be unable to carry on. He appealed for a ban on canvassing, advertising and sales of graves and plots for profit.

GAIN REVOLTING

"It is revolting that foreign operators have been permitted to enter the cemetery business for the sole purpose of private gain," he said. "Established cemeteries operated by municipal and church governing bodies with a heritage of maintenance without revenue and operating now under handicaps should override the avid exploiters who have invaded Ontario for the sole purpose of making quick and easy money and then getting out."

Mr. Sedgwick compared instalment buying of cemetery plots with the purchase of life insurance. Suggesting that a business should not be judged by the complaints of its competitors, he said the cost of plots in the cemeteries of his clients is not greatly out of line with that in the older cemeteries.

American Executive Says U.S. Must Buy More Than She Sells

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

EDMONTON (CP)—The United States must buy more from other countries, including Canada, Herman W. Steinkraus, member of the senior council of the Chamber of Commerce of the U.S., said today.

Mr. Steinkraus, a past president of the American chamber and president of Bridgeport Brass Company of Bridgeport, Conn., made his statement while bringing the American chamber's greetings to the annual meeting of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce.

He said for years it was believed that a favorable trade balance resulted when a country exported more than it imported, "but recent problems of world trade show us how wrong we were."

"We now are beginning to see that any imbalance of trade is unfavorable to both debtors and creditors in the long run. . . .

"The day will come when the U.S. must be a net importer, for there lies the crux of the dollar-shortage problem. . . .

"Our trade problems with Canada will be far nearer being being solved when we import more from Canada."

Mr. Steinkraus urged business men to enlist themselves in the job of dispelling "misinformation which breeds misunderstanding."

Referring to the long-delayed St. Lawrence power and seaway project, which requires co-operation between Canada and the U.S., he commented:

"The project's magnitude can only be matched by the mountains of misinformation in regard to it. If all the facts had been brought to light earlier, the whole matter might have been decided positively many years ago.

"Similar situations now are arising regarding oil and gas shipments from western Canada to the U.S. Northwest.

"Most U.S. business men don't really know Canada."

He suggested American firms with interests in Canada hold at least one board of directors' and officers' meeting each year in Canada.

Lack of knowledge, however, wasn't confined to the U.S.

"In Europe last fall I heard over and over that the reason the U.S. was being so generous with equipment, food and supplies to other countries was that we feared a depression and simply must get rid of the stuff!"

And, if some Texans still believe Texas is larger than Canada, it had also been found that some Canadians "believe the U.S. wants to take over Canada as the 49th state."

Mr. Steinkraus said a study of Canadian-American relations by the joint committee of the Canadian and American chambers will be published shortly and will recommend a 12-point program, including exchange of speaker, literature, films, students.

Mr. Steinkraus' address and other greetings launched the three-day annual meeting of the Canadian chamber, attended by some 500 delegates from coast to coast, who have already spent a day in pre-convention committee meetings.

Harry O. Patriquin, president of the Edmonton chamber, included a "pep" talk on Edmonton in his greetings.

Edmonton, he said, is increasing its population by more than 1,000 a month, and has a total population of 183,000 compared with 118,000 when oil was discovered near here in 1947.

More freight moves from the Edmonton airport than from any other airport in the world.

Harry F. Smith, president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce of Canada, gave as items in the junior chamber's creed:

"Faith in God gives meaning and purpose to human life; the brotherhood of man transcends the sovereignty of nations; economic justice can best be won by free men through free enterprise; government should be of laws rather than men; earth's great treasure lies in human personality; and, service to humanity is the best work of life."

Bethany Man Wins Top CNE Horse Prize

BETHANY — (ENS) — Clarence Neals, Bethany, took first prize for the best agricultural general purpose horse at Toronto Exhibition last week with his entry "Jean's Son," a two-year-old percheron gelding raised by himself. Following the exhibition it was sold to C. Cox of Brampton for a high price.

Mr. Neals has long been an owner and exhibitor of good horses at local fairs, the CNE and Royal Winter Fair. Eighteen years ago saw his first entry at the CNE and his collection of prize medals and ribbons has been added to each year. Jean Surprise, the dam of Jean's Son, has taken several first prizes as a general purpose mare and won the silver medal first as a two-year-old and was awarded the senior and grand championship in Toronto in 1947 when she was 16. Another of the same strain "Buddy's Don" captured the first prize as a foal in 1947, again in the yearling class in 1948 and in 1949 as a two-year-old.

Launch Campaig For Underprivile

OTTAWA (CP)—The Unitarian Service Committee of Canada today launches the largest campaign of its history to help underprivileged people in India, Korea and Greece.

The campaign, seeking $125,000, has been endorsed by Prime Minister St. Laurent.

For the first time, the USC is extending aid to India where three main projects are planned. They include a community centre at Delhi, a rehabilitation scheme for a refugee village near Madras and three health vans for districts where no medical facilities exist.

However, the main emphasis of the program is being placed on the largest child-feeding program ever undertaken by the USC—the "Barley for Korea" campaign. This will provide hot gruel made from Canadian barley for thousands of South Korean children.

Failure To Raise Wages Disturbs Civil Servants

QUEBEC (CP)—National president A. H. Helm of the Amalgamated Civil Servants of Canada said today the federal government has created "distrust" in the minds of civil servants by not raising wages to the level of those paid in private industry.

Mr. Helm, a postal employee from Kitchener, said in his presidential report prepared for the organization's 14th biennial convention that the raises had been "promised."

He quoted Prime Minister St. Laurent as saying in the House of Commons May 12 that the government was considering making "readjustments as would be required to create the feeling that all were being treated with equal fairness."

He again quoted the prime minister as saying during last summer's election campaign: "The Liberal party believes that promises should be made only when they can be kept. . . ."

SOMETHING DOESN'T FIT

Then, he added:

"The record of the government in its promises to civil servants on the salary-increase issues does not jibe with the last statement in view of the treatment received, and has created in our minds a certain distrust toward our employer which can only be annulled if the prime minister will live up to his promise of considering making salary adjustments with a view of creating a feeling that all are being treated with equal fairness."

Mr. Helm quoted statistics of the federal department of labor showing that June 1, the average civil service wages were $53.30 a week, compared with a national average weekly wage of $57.67—a lag of $4.37. He said the lag could be more now, adding:

FIND IT DISCONCERTING

"It was disappointing to learn on May 7 that the government did not see fit to comply with our request for a general salary increase, and certainly disconcerting in view of the fact that we had been assured that the government would aim to adjust civil servants' wages and salaries in line with those paid by good employers in industry."

Some 40 delegates representing about 10,000 members across Canada are attending the convention which ends Friday.

Mr. Helm described a government move to use such private industry methods as time-studies, clockings and stenographic line-counts.

He said post office employees appeared to be "mainly affected" by the move, adding:

"I would say that if civil servants are to be brought under the methods employed by industry to get the most out of them, then they are certainly entitled to comparative rates of pay."

BETTER TO HEAR YOU WITH—The Shetland pony social register raised their eyebrows when Trixie announced that she had given birth to a youngster with long ears. Reason for all the wondering glances was the knowledge that the little colt's daddy was a mule. The long-legged, long-eared newcomer is shown at his mommy's side on an Omaha, Neb., farm.

Telling Britain About U.S., Growth Of Arts

Among other changes—and, of course, hopeful changes, as most changes in American life have been in the past 30 years—is the growth of the arts, writes Prof. D. W. Brogan in "London Calling."

BIBLE BELT OBOES

Mencken, who was the great critic of the sterility of American culture life, used to quote, as a smile, "as rare as an oboe in the Bible belt." Well, there are lots of oboes in the Bible belt now; there are very good amateur orchestras and some very good professional orchestras —in Alabama, all over the South, all over the Middle West. A good deal of money is spent on them. In fact, last year more money was spent on symphony orchestras than on baseball: a statistic which is true but highly implausible.

In the same way the standard of painting, the standard of visual arts, has immensely improved. I do not think American architecture has immensely improved, though some good things have been done. But there is certainly far more interest in the visual arts—far more amateur painters, and far more interest in the fashions of art than there is in Britain. The results are mainly deplorable, but in many cases they are out for doing things for themselves, painting for themselves.

WHEN YOUTH ENDS

Lastly, I think in American life there has been an acceptance of seriousness which was missing in 1925. The Second World War, above all, has done that. The young men and young women do not expect so much of life so easily as they used to. It is still true that American life promises and in fact gives to young people a kind of happiness, an amount of happiness, that no European society does. But despite the cultivation of youth, people do realize now that youth comes to an end. They know that life is harder, more serious, more threatening than they used to think.

If I were asked to sum up my whole impression of the change in American life, it is one of maturity. Partly of course, that is statistical. The Americans are older than they uesd to be. The new birthrate in America may upset that, but Americans are getting older and older. They are not quite as old as the French or the English or the Germans, but it is no longer true that most Americans are under 30. Most Americans are just under 40.

MORE HUMANE

One last thing— American life has become much more humane. People are less aggressive, less boastful, less proud, less confident than they were in 1925. Then America thought it was expected from the wars of the world which were teh fault of the rest of the world. Then, Americans could be extremely irritating in their complacency and their conviction of righteousness, in their belief that they got to their present situation of wealth and power by their own virtues. They know better now. They are, if anything, too pessimistic, too upset by the terrible responsibility that has fallen upon them. They have grown up suddenly, quickly, with a great deal of pain and a great deal of distress.

The American people are now part of the whole human race. They know it, and they suffer from it more than we do who are used to being part of the human race. They are generous, humane, uphappy, depressed— unnecessarily depressed — and anxiously looking for a lead inside their own tradition to make them worthy of their responsibilty. They do not like the r responsibility —who would? But they do, at last, accept it, as they did not do in 1925, when all they cared was that they were the one chosen people. The rest of the world was going wrong: they were going right. They know better now. They want to be leaders, they must be leaders, but they are also far more willing to be taught, helped, instructed, and led than I could have believed when I first went there nearly 30 years ago.

ARCTIC TEA TIME—Although some Eskimos are adopting the customs of the white man, even to taking jobs on the "outside," life for most of the 8,600 Eskimos in the Northwest Territories and Quebec is essentially what it was for their ancestors. Here is an aging Eskimo couple at home in their canvas tent. Although Adamee (right), 80, is blind, he hears the sound of the old kudlik burning seal oil under the kettle his wife has boiling. They live at Lake Harbour, Eastern Arctic.

Retain Eskimo Way Of Life Because Civilization Wise By Previous Mistakes

By DONALD HAWORTH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Tootoo the Eskimo has made good in the white man's world.

For six months he had a job on a building project at Churchill, Man., on Hudson bay. He worked well and after the job ended the defence department took him on as a casual laborer there.

He became a foreman. He built his own house. He combined his native skill with the white man's urge to make an extra dollar, bought a boat and hunted seal in his spare time.

Now six more Eskimos are to be taken on to the job.

NEW LIFE

For them and for Tootoo it is a new mode of life. But they are only seven, and there are more than 8,600 Eskimos in the Northwest Territories and Quebec. For most, life is essentially what it was for their ancestors.

In the summer they follow the river fish and the caribou and in winter many return by dog sleigh to the sea's edge and go out to hunt seal. Some 80 per cent live the winter in snow houses, but the old hide house is going out; canvas tents are easier to move about.

Their culture is changing gradually, more by modification than by displacement. They have accepted the white man's Christianity, cornflakes and cowboy songs. But animistic rituals persist, such as the group consumption of a seal's liver honoring the worthiness of his life and the gallantry of his death.

The cornflakes are eaten with a caribou's stomach full of half-digested moss. The cowboy songs, broadcast by Eskimo request from Aklavik on the delta of the Mackenzie river, are varied in the family by celebrations with drums and singing.

PROFITED BY MISTAKES

The Eskimo way of life has been preserved partly because civilization came to them wise with its previous mistakes among primitive peoples.

The first administrative posts were established only 30 years ago and the first mission fewer than 50.

The federal government's policy now is to preserve Eskimo life while recognizing that the white man searching for mineral wealth and establishing northern air services is in the north to stay.

Mission education has been supplemented. In some places school camps have been established where Eskimos leave their children for six months, and next year a vocational training school will be opened at Aklavik to teach manual skills.

As a result of the medical care of recent years, in particular the fight against tuberculosis, the Eskimo population has started to increase.

GAME CONSERVATION

It is too early yet to estimate the possible danger of destroying the old life by depleting the country's game resources, but already instruction is being given in conservation. Government reindeer herds have been built up in the Mackenzie delta to 12,000 head, from which herds of between 1,000 and 1,500 will be supplied to families who show promise of becoming good herdsmen.

The Eskimo is encouraged to persist with his old arts by a non-profit-making marketing organization. In the long winter ahead Eskimos are expected to earn between $40,000 and $50,000 for their works of art.

Only those prevented by illness from returning to the old life are actively encouraged to take work with white men's projects in the north. Such a man is 46-year-old Aneroluk from Coppermine on the coast opposite Victoria island who, after 10 years in hospital, is working as a government clerk in Ottawa. He hopes to go back north trained by means of a scholarship as a radio operator.

But there are still Eskimos like Tootoo and his six companions who choose to leave the old life and take jobs with the new projects. The government insists any job they get must be permanent.

Claims New Record

REGGIO EMILIA, Italy (Reuters) An Italian model aircraftsman claimed a new world endurance record for rubber band-powered model helicopters Sunday with a flight of seven minutes 41 seconds. His claim has been forwarded to the International Union of Aeromodellers.

Fortune Hunt Stymies 500 In Family

CARDIFF, Wales (Reuters)—Some 500 Welsh members of one family today were stymied in their four-year-old quest for a legendary $560,000,000 fortune left by an ancestor who once owned the land on which part of downtown New York was built.

They maintain they were all descendants of Robert Edwards, who emigrated from Wales to New York in 1770. And they are all members of an association they formed to help them lay claim to his fabulous riches.

But after years of probing through musty records and country churchyards in an attempt to document their claim, they fired the three leading officials of their association during the week-end. They said the officials weren't working fast enough.

The three ousted officials denied the charge and retaliated by refusing to hand over to the rest of the clan the dossier of information they hold.

No one knows what the next step will be. But all claimants are still determined to press their case for slices of New York's Wall street and Broadway, where Robert Edwards originally farmed, and of valuable land in industrial south Wales which the pioneer Welsh-American also owned.

Each member of the existing "Edwards Millions association" pays 21 cents a week into a fund which finances research work. Since the body was formed in 1949, the claimants have spent $15,960 in their hitherto fruitless quest.

Must Give Country Benefit In Security Risk—RCMP

DETROIT (CP)—If there is a security risk involved in hiring an employee, it "must be resolved in favor of the country rather than the individual," commissioner L.H. Nicholson of the RCMP said Monday.

In an address prepared for the annual conference of the International Association of Chiefs of Police, the head of Canada's federal law enforcement agency enunciated Canadian policy on "police responsibility in internal security."

He emphasized, however, a sharp difference between dictatorship police and democratic police, who were "not blind servants of the state but are answerable only to the law and to their fellow citizens."

He interpreted the RCMP security job:

". . . We operate as an intelligence collecting agency and endeavor to keep as well posted as possible on the activities of subversive elements within our boundaries, notably the Communist party of Canada, which in our country calls itself the Labor-Progressive party. . . .

"Another job we do in our capacity of a security service relates to the screening or investigation of citizens who undertake or continue duties which bring them in touch with the secrets and the defensive plans of the country. . . .

"The policy of our government in relation to the employment of individuals for work putting them in touch with the country's secrets is well known. . . It is simply that persons with a Communist history or connection must not be entrusted with government secrets nor given employment which will put them in contact with such secrets or plans. . . .

"If there is a risk, it must be resolved in favor of the country rather than the individual."

Good Roads, Cars Push Up Land Value

OTTAWA (CP) — Good roads, good cars and an exodus of industry from the big cities have combined to push up the value of farm lands in Ontario, a Toronto real estate executive said Monday.

C. R. Purcell, addressing the first convention of the eastern Ontario conference of the Ontario Association of Real Estate Boards, said Toronto business men now are buying farm homes as much as 60 miles from the city. He said they do not seem to mind commuting that distance.

28 KILLED IN ALBANY PLANE CRASH

Gold Strike Expected To Spread

Municipal Leaders Fear Tie-Up Will Be Catastrophe

MONTREAL (CP)— William Mahoney of Toronto, assistant Canadian director of the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL) said today the gold miners' strike at Timmins may soon spread as walkouts are planned at two of the biggest producers in the area—McIntyre and Hollinger gold mines.

A strike at Hollinger and McIntyre, and possibly at a third Timmins mine, Coniaurum, is "very close," he said.

Mr. Mahoney, a member of the executive committee of the Canadian Congress of Labor in convention here, said it had not been decided when the strike trigger will be pulled. It could be within a week or longer.

If the walkouts take place, it would mean, with existing strikes at Timmins and Noranda that a "big chunk" of the Canadian gold mining industry would be knocked out, Mr. Mahoney said.

2,500 ALREADY OUT

Some 2,500 men already are on strike for higher wages and shorter hours in the area. The union leader said another 2,200 might be affected if the strike spreads.

"We are living with the situation from day to day," Mr. Mahoney said in an interview. "But the local management at Hollinger and McIntyre has been informed that the men have voted to strike if their demands for higher wages and shorter hours are not met."

Four mines in the Timmins area, Delnite, Preston East Dome, Hallnor, and Broulan Reef, have already been shut down.

The miners have been unable to achieve any success in their drive for higher wages and social benefits.

SHARP CRITICISM

The congress, in voting Tuesday to establish a national strike committee to devote its full strength to aid the miners, levelled its sharpest criticism at J. Y. Murdoch, head of the strikebound mine at Noranda.

Delegates charged that he spearheaded the resistance of a group of mine operators against the miners' demands. Mr. Mahoney

Say Aircraft Hits Radio Station Tower

Passengers, Crew Killed Outright, Several Explosions

ALBANY, N.Y. —(AP)— An American Airlines Convair plane crashed and burned near here today and all 28 occupants, including the pilot, co-pilot and stewardess, were killed outright.

The plane, Flight 723, was bound from Boston to Chicago.

The crash occurred in a slightly wooded area near the Albany-Schenectady highway, about 10 miles west of Albany. The cause was not determined immediately.

Edward Bergeron, operator of a gasoline station near the scene said he counted 11 bodies strewn near the burning wreck. He said he saw more bodies inside.

STRUCK TOWER

The plane struck the central tower of radio station WPTR.

The crash occurred at 9:45 a.m. EDT. The plane was scheduled to land at Albany airport, about 3½ miles from the accident scene.

The airport reported it had been unable to establish contact with the plane prior to the crash.

Firemen extinguished the blaze.

The two-engine Convair just missed a trailer camp. It had been circling the Albany airport for 15 minutes waiting for clearance from the airport control tower. The delay was due to ground fog cloaking the runway.

John W. Hodd, 23, a former navy pilot who lived nearby, said he heard the engine cut out, and then roar as if the pilot had "gunned it."

Hodd ran to the door of the plane and tried to open it, but was driven back by the flames.

The plane came down at a 45-degree angle, landed in a small lot surrounded by trees and exploded immediately. Two or three small explosions occurred shortly afterward.

About a dozen passengers were thrown clear of the flaming wreckage. Many of the bodies were scorched. The other bodies were found inside the wreckage. All were horribly burned, some beyond recognition.

The air line office at Chicago listed the following as members of the crew:

Capt. James W. Stentz, Highland Park, Ill.

First Officer William J. Schanken, Chicago.

Stewardess Janice Thornquist, Duluth, Minn.

The airline said this was the first fatal crash involving a commerical airline in the Albany area in the 25-year history of the Albany airport.

Missing Envoy's Wife, Children Vanish At Geneva

GENEVA (AP)—Police said today the American-born wife and three children of the missing British diplomat Donald MacLean have disappeared. They have not been seen since Friday. Britain has called officially for a Europe-wide search for the family of the man who is believed to have slipped behind the Iron Curtain. In London, William Ridsdale, foreign office press officer, said it was a "matter of speculation as to whether Mrs. MacLean had left to join her husband, who vanished in May, 1951."

Mrs. MacLean, 37, a native of Chicago, and the three MacLean children—two boys, nine and seven, and a two-year-old daughter—had been living here with her mother, Mrs. Melinda Dunbar, for some months.

LEFT FOR OUTING

Geneva police chief Charles Knecht said Mrs. MacLean and the children left home Friday by car for a three-day outing with friends near Montreaux and had not returned. Mrs. Dunbar did not report the family missing until they failed to return after the weekend.

Immediate consultations between British authorities and the Geneva police ruled out the possibility Mrs. MacLean was involved in an auto accident.

Britain at once called upon the police of Italy, Austria, West Germany and France, countries adjoining Switzerland, to search for the missing family.

VANISHED IN 1951

MacLean and Guy Burgess, another British diplomat, crossed from England to France in 1951, ostensibly on a holiday, and vanished. It has been widely assumed they either slipped behind the Iron Curtain or were kidnapped by Communist agents and taken there.

Both MacLean and Burgess were foreign office experts on U.S. affairs. MacLean sat on the U.S.-British-Canadian wartime committee that handled political aspects of the atom bomb.

The two British agents sent to Geneva to investigate Mrs. MacLean's disappearance have been working on the MacLean-Burgess case since the men vanished.

Ridsdale told reporters:

"There is absolutely no evidence to suggest Mrs. MacLean's disappearance was involuntary. She was entirely a free agent. She did not need to inform us of her movements although she did let us know a year ago when she decided to leave this country to live with her mother in Switzerland."

DOESN'T KNOW NAMES

He said Mrs. Dunbar was not clear as to the names of the friends Mrs. MacLean said she was going to visit.

British authorities in Switzerland, he said, had not been specially ordered to keep their eyes on Mrs. MacLean.

"The foreign office has no knowledge of her correspondence in the time she has been living in Switzerland," he said.

These other points were empasized: There has been no trace so far of her automobile; Mrs. Dunbar could not immediately recall the precise registration number of the car; the foreign office was not aware of where Mrs. MacLean got the money on which to live—although "Mrs. Dunbar was by no means devoid of means."

Oshawa Gens May Not Play This Season

OSHAWA (CP)—Officials of the Oshawa Generals said today they are still trying to decide whether the hockey team will operate during the 1953-54 season. Oshawa's only arena, home of the Junior A team in the Ontario Hockey Association, was destroyed in a $350,000 fire.

Meanwhile the Oshawa Truckmen, OHA Senior B team which also used the 3,500-seat arena for home games, has decided to operate from the Bowmanville arena nine miles east of here. The Truckmen lost $4,000 worth of equipment in the blaze.

Oshawa's figure-skating club will also operate at Bowmanville. The club lost its public-address equipment, furnishings of its lounge in the arena building and all its carnival costumes.

$350,000 LOSS

The city fire department today placed total loss in the blaze at $350,000 and said only part was covered by insurance. No decision has yet been made on whether the arena, owned by Albert Hambly of Oshawa and other members of his family, will be rebuilt.

The Generals lost 55 sets of hockey equipment, including boots and skates of some 25 youngsters from various parts of the province who were attending tryouts here arranged by the Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League. The boys were sent back to their homes Tuesday night.

The management of the Bowmanville arena has scheduled a meeting tonight to plan its use for the season. An official said the group may decide to put in ice by Oct. 1, a month earlier than usual, to take care of the Oshawa clubs.

Coronation Medals Sent

OTTAWA (CP) — Distribution of the medal commemorating the Coronation of Queen Elizabeth last June has been started by the state secretary's department, it was announced today.

Several thousand Canadians will receive the medal but beyond those listed in the table of precedence for Canada and a few others the names of recipients are not being announced. The total number of decorations has not been announced but it is understood about 10,000 will be distributed.

The recipients include all those listed in the official "Table of Precedence for Canada"—the governor-General, prime minister and his cabinet, lieutenant-governors of the provinces, archbishops, bishops, heads of the Presbyterian and Methodist churches, Privy Council members, commons and Senate speakers, provincial premiers, judges of the courts including the Supreme Court, Senators, members of Parliament, provincial legislatures and legislative councils and the chiefs of staff of the armed forces.

Medals also will go to members of the Northwest Territories council.

Nominations for the medal also were made by religious, educational and national organizations, by representatives of men and women veterans of armed services.

Paddle Useful To Hitch-Hiker

BRANTFORD (CP) — Edward Gauthier of Detroit walked into the police station Tuesday night with a canoe paddle over his shoulder and asked for a night's lodging. Police first suspected something was wrong because Gauthier hadn't any canoe.

"Why the paddle?" an officer asked.

"I'm taking it home," said Gauthier, who added that he had carried it more than 400 miles in a hitch-hiking trip across Ontario from Quebec.

He said his canoe broke up on a northern Quebec river and he decided to lug the paddle back to Detroit.

Few motorists could resist stopping to ask him where his canoe was.

"I picked up rides that way," he said.

Plan Crackdown On Liquor Law Abuses – Frost

TORONTO (CP)—Premier Frost today warned Ontario hotel and tavern owners of a crackdown on liquor law abuses, and called on private citizens to help in reporting violations.

The premier said beer parlors are "not above the law, nor are other liquor licenses, and violations of the law will lead to the suspension and cancellation of licences and other action."

The warning, he aded, "refers not only to the enforcement of liquor regulations as such but also refers to the general moral atmosphere surrounding licensed premises."

The premier's statement made no direct reference to Toronto's Jarvis street, described in newspaper reports as a night-time "three-ring circus of drunkenness and prostitution."

But two aldermen, William Dennison and Edgar Roxborough, asked board of control today for immediate action to clean up the area.

Judge W. T. Robb, chairman of the provincial liquor licence board, added this waring:

"We are prepared to be very strict when we find proprietors are not abiding by the regulations."

Referring to suspension of a Toronto hotel's licence last month for double serving, Mr. Frost described it as "the forerunner of similar action not only in Toronto but in other parts of the province."

Reuther Says Surplus Food Weapon To Help Beat Reds

MONTREAL (CP)—CIO President Walter Reuther has proposed that Canada and the United States wage an international war against poverty to break the back of aggressive communism. He suggested Tuesday night that the two countries ship part of their combined 2,729,000,000-bushel wheat surplus to impoverished countries, either as a gift or through long-term credit, as one weapon in the fight. The Communists, he said, made their gains by promising to feed the hungry, "to take the wrinkles out of the empty belly." Canada and the U.S. were concerned about their huge wheat stockpile, but that wheat surplus, said Mr. Reuther, can be made more powerful than the H-bomb, more powerful than all the guns of the world, "if we have the sense to go to work in the world community in which we live."

SUGGESTS OTHER FRONTS

Speaking before the Canadian Congress of Labor convention banquet, Mr. Reuther suggested, too, that the free world fight the Reds on the political, social and economic fronts by providing more technical aid to under-developed countries.

Military strength was essential, but that was a negative way of fighting.

"In this struggle to achieve economic security and material well-

Pearson Forced To Referee Hot Dispute On Red China

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—Andrei Y. Vishinsky of Russia was expected to make a determined effort today to get the UN General Assembly to reconsider its decision barring so-called neutrals from the Korean peace conference. The United States was ready to make just as determined a bid to persuade the UN to reaffirm the action it took last month to limit the parley to the countries which fought under the UN banner and those willing to line up on the Communist side.

Western diplomats believed they had as good a chance to defeat Russia on the Korean question as they had Tuesday, when they won a one-sided victory on the question of seating Red China in the UN.

Canada's L. B. Pearson found himself an unwilling referee Tuesday for an involved procedural argument between Vishinsky and

Flying Saucer Research Viewed

TORONTO (CP)—Project Y, Canada's super-secret research into the realm of flying saucers, is to be viewed at close range today by top-ranking United States military scientists.

The group of 25 Americans arrived here by air Tuesday, headed by Lt.-Gen. Donald L. Putt, commander of the air research and development command of the U.S. Air Force.

The group, along with Canadian air research experts, will visit the suburban Malton plant of Avro Canada Limited to inspect a wooden mock-up of a jet-propelled flying saucer.

Avro engineers have applied the gyroscopic principle of motion in developing an interceptor of the future which would be able to take off vertically, thus dispensing with conventional airfields, and attain speeds of more than 1,500 miles an hour.

Flames Trap Father Trying To Save Three

HARMON, N. Y. (AP)—Flames trapped a father trying to rescue three children from a fire near this village today, and all four died in the blazing frame dwelling.

Dead were: Herbert Eels 29; his son Bruce Wayne, 8 months, and Rexford Arthur, 2, and his nephew Leo Irving Downer, 10.

Mrs. Eels, her niece Doreen Isabel Downer, 12, and Arthur Leon Hubbard, 63, escaped.

Harmon is about 23 miles east of Ogdensburg.

Railway Union Heads Meet

MONTREAL (CP)—The heads of Canada's railway unions met here today to decide what they will demand from the railways in their 1954 contract.

The general conference committee of railway unions will later this year negotiate with four railways terms of a new contract to replace the existing one expiring in December.

The committee, meeting under the chairmanship of Frank H. Hall, president of the Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks, is made up of 15 AFL unions representing 144,000 railway workers employed in non-operating jobs in sheds, stations and offices throughout Canada.

The firemen and engineers, conductors and trainmen have separate contracts.

The committee hopes to be able to get the operating and non-operating unions to act jointly in future negotiations.

Railways onerned in the talks are Canadian Paift, Canadian National, the Toronto, Hamilton and Buffalo, and the Ontario Northland.

Divers Seeking $350,000 In Lake

PORT DOVER (CP)—Two Buffalo divers are scheduled to probe the waters of Lake Erie near here during the next few weeks in search of nearly $350,000 in gold coin and dust believed to have been aboard the packet Atlantic which sank off Long Point in 1850.

Roland B. Smith and Jack C. Holzer have already tested their equipment for the 200-foot plunge to the lake bottom. Last-minute adjustments on their diving bell are expected to be complete by the middle of October.

Holzer said the Atlantic was a side-wheeler. Carrying 300 passengers, $300,000 in gold dust and $38,000 in gold coin, the ship is said to have foundered after colliding with a schooner. All 300 passengers were lost.

Graydon's Condition Reported Only Fair

TORONTO (CP)—Hospital authorities said today that Gordon Graydon, 56-year-old foreign affairs expert for the Progressive Consevative party, is in "only fair condition" with a stomach ailment.

Mr. Graydon, who represents Peel riding in the House of Commons, underwent a stomach operation last month.

Doctors declined to give the nature of his illness.

Dairy Won't Permit Milk To Be Delivered

TORONTO (CP)—Some 125 milk drivers of Silverwood's Dairy reported for work today although the Ontario milk control board abolished Wednesday milk deliveries in the city.

An official of the dairy said the men, representing half the dairy's drivers, were not permitted to start out on their calls and they soon went home. There was no trouble.

The Silverwood's workers, members of the Retail Wholesale Union (CIO), were not included in the recent four-day strike of 1,700 AFL employees of 13 other Toronto dairies. They stopped deliveries during the strike, however.

The Retail Wholesale Union said Silverwood's had no right to recognize the five-day delivery week while the union negotiating committee was still before a conciliation board.

A company spokesman said Silverwood's will obey the law. "We were informed by the milk control board that if we deliver milk Wednesday our licence will be in jeopardy."

Churchill Gov't Now Facing First Major Labor Crisis

LONDON (Reuters) — Demands for higher wages by more than 5,000,000 British workers are threatening Prime Minister Churchill's government with its first major labor crisis since it took office two years ago.

Compared with the labor party's six-year reign after the Second World War, the Conservative government has been relatively free of labor trouble despite its policy of keeping wages as low as possible to prevent prices soaring.

But labor is getting restless. Union leaders claim the cost-of-living is crippling the country's lower-paid workers. The price of butter has risen 20 cents a pound over the last two years, cheese 24 cents, meat eight cents and flour six cents.

Against this background of rising prices, workers in engineering, shipbuilding, rail and road transport, mines, electrical enterprises and building have either presented claims for more pay or are preparing their demands.

The state-run railway executive Tuesday rejected demands for a 15 per cent increase by 620,000 railroad workers. The rail unions now will negotiate at a higher level.

Leaders of the mineworkers meet today to draw up wage demands for 400,000 lower-paid workers. About 4,500 electrical workers in key industries have been on strike for two weeks to support demands by 40,000 electricians.

Dock workers have reported a wage dispute to the labor ministry for mediation following rejection of wage demands by 77,000 men. Claims by 150,000 bus drivers and conductors are already under consideration.

Though labor is opposed to using its strength for political purposes, widespread industrial unrest this winter could bring about early general elections. It is widely rumored in labor circles that Churchill has already decided on a spring election in a bid to increase his slender parliamentary majority.

RCMP Escort On Job

Canadian Delegation Takes 4 Chaperones

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's delegation to the United Nations General Assembly took along four trusty chaperones when it moved into its New York headquarters.

They were not named in the official list of delegates to the assembly. And chances are slim that anyone outside the delegation recognized them for what they are: RCMP plainclothesmen.

But day and night at least one will be on duty until the delegation comes home. Their job will be to keep a close eye on the delegation's quarters in the Beekman Towers Hotel and, when necessary, to accompany members on important errands.

This is an example of the quiet methods the government uses to safeguard the nation's security and its interests.

It was learned here that such an escort group has accompanied each of the preceding delegations to earlier assembly sessions. This was described as "routine."

Canadian diplomatic missions abroad are set up on a permanent basis, as are the security measures covering them. But in the case of the delegation to the general assembly, a temporary assignment, other provisions must be made. This is where the RCMP men enter the picture.

Their role is strictly protective. Reliable sources said there is no question of their "watching" members of the Canadian delegation.

In this respect, the Canadian government draws a sharp distinction between Canadians serving on its own delegations to various UN agencies and Canadians hired by the UN itself.

In the former case, the government view is that a posting to a UN delegation is the same as any other diplomatic assignment.

External Affairs Minister Pearson has said about Canadians hired by the UN that they are not the responsibility of the Canadian government.

"We don't recommend Canadians for employment," he said. "We never have been asked to screen anyone about his employment by the UN."

Eight Homes Burned In Protest

Doukhobors Evidence New Restlessness As Trial Date Near

KRESTOVA, B.C. (CP) — Sons of Freedom Doukhobors, deployed over more than 200 miles in the beautiful Kootenays, have once more served notice by fire that they will not abide by laws compelling their children to go to school.

Thirteen homes have been destroyed, eight early Tuesday, since 148 Freedomites were arrested last Wednesday and taken to prison on charges of contributing to juvenile delinquency by parading in the nude. Those arrested are staging a hunger strike in prison.

Persons in constant touch with Doukhobors say further protest in the Sons of Freedom manner will be seen this week. Those taken to Vancouver's Oakalla prison in the mass arrest face the courts Thursday.

8 HOMES BURNED

Eight homes went up in smoke at Gilpin a few miles from Grand Forks near the Washington state border, before dawn Tuesday, following the pattern of similar fires in this Krestova district Saturday and Sunday ornings. the outbreaks occurred in points nearly 160 miles apart.

In the meantime, the children spotlighted by the trouble, offspring of the Oakalla prisoners, are being cared for by welfare officials and Doukhobor women at a sanitarium in New Denver, some 70 miles from here.

Numbering slightly more than 100, they are reported contented, but authorities discourage visits by reporters.

John Veregin, an orthodox spokesman, said in a telephone conversation Tuesday night he hopes the Freedomite children will benefit from their care outside the sect influence while their parents are away.

ADVISED TO ABSTAIN

He also advised all orthodox Doukhobors to take no part in the Freedomite demonstrations. Earlier, reliable sources said the Sons had gained large numbers of recruits from the orthodox group since the arrests

Another source, not a Doukhobor, said re-education of the young folk is the only answer to the riddle of the Freedomites. Definitely a long term project, he estimated it would take three generations for them to accept the Canadian way of life.

An oddity of the situation is the fact that news of some burnings and other demonstrations—such as the parade of naked men and women here Sunday—spreads through the countryside with amazing speed.

Even the children at New Denver, apparently out of all touch with the Freedomites, knew of Saturday morning's fires without being told by the authorities.

"We have announced," he said, "That the strikes will inevitably spread if the men do not get what they're asking for."

FEAR CATASTROPHE

TIMMINS (CP)—Municipal leaders throughout the rich Porcupine gold-mining area said today that extended gold strikes would be "a catastrophe to the 50,000 people in the district."

Mayor Wilf Spooner of Timmins said further strikes "will be just too bad for this community." Walkouts could "strip Timmins, Schumacher and South Porcupine of population" in the same way Kirkland Lake had its population cut from 26,000 to 15,000 during a three-month strike in 1941.

Dr. James B. Clinton, president of the Porcupine Chamber of Commerce, urged federal and provincial authorities to arrange negotiations "to forestall this disaster."

MAKE DESKS AND TABLES

As well as keeping the city public schools and the two collegiates in repair the Board of Education's maintenance staff did some small-scale manufacturing. They made all the pupils' and teachers' desks in the two new schools, and they also completed new art tables for Kenner Collegiate.

Cairo Enforces Tougher Policy

CAIRO (Reuters) — Security measures were tightened today in Cairo with the start of a new "get tough" policy against opponents of the Mohammed Naguib government.

Two armored cars stood at each end of the road outside the British and U.S. embassies.

Soldiers armed with sub-machine guns guarded key government buildings.

The new security moves followed Tuesday night's announcement that Egypt is in store for some sensational treason trials. A special military court has been set up to try so-called "traitors."

Maj. Saleh Salem, minister of national guidance, said the government has gained possession of an important document "showing a close alliance between foreign imperialists and reactionary traitors in Egypt."

He did not reveal the names of the countries, persons or groups supposedly involved.

Battle To Keep Ship Afloat In Atlantic

HALIFAX (CP)—A United States Coast Guard cutter is reported to have put a work crew aboard the sinking Spanish freighter, Marte, Tuesday and the battle to keep the ship afloat was apparently being won in the stormy North Atlantic.

The 3,774-ton Marte, loaded with grain, reported early in the day she was sinking about 560 miles southeast of St. John's, Nfld., but her master later said his ship was in no immediate danger as the seas moderated.

A split plate, about 15 feet aft the bow, was allowing water to pour into the freighter's No. 1 hold.

being, in the struggle between the forces of freedom and tyranny, the world is going to judge Canada and the U.S. not in terms of material wealth but by their sense of moral and social responsibility, by the way in which we are able to translate technical progress into human progress."

In his speech and at a press conference later, Mr. Reuther called for continued solidarity between the unions of Canada and the U.S.

SUCCEED IN DRIVE

He predicted the CIO will succeed in its drive for a guaranteed annual wage for union members, to replace the "antiquated" method of paying workers by the hour. Canadian workers would get the guaranteed wage, along with Americans.

And he suggested that nothing should stand in the way of organic unity among the central labor bodies, providing unity is in the best interests of the workers.

Other CCL developments:

1. The 756-delegate convention agreed to create a national strike committee to support gold miners on strike in northern Ontario and Quebec. Charles Millard, chief of the Canadian steel workers, left for Pittsburgh to confer with David McDonald, international steelworkers director, on American aid for the miners.

2. CCL President A. R. Mosher, at the banquet, charged that the mine operators are not only anti-public, but anti-social, anti-Canadian, anti-democratic and anti-Christian.

3. Turning to other matters, the convention agreed to make new demands on the federal cabinet for low-cost, low-rent housing. It will seek co-operation in this bid from the Trades and Labor Congress and the Canadian and Catholic Confederation of Labor.

4. It called on labor councils and provincial federations to establish joint meetings with similar bodies of the TLC and CCCL "to work out co-operative activities on all phases of union work."

U.S. Dollar At Discount

MONTREAL (CP)—The U.S. dollar was at a discount of 1 17-32 per cent in terms of Canadian funds at noon today. Tuesday's noon rate was 98 15-32 cents. Pound sterling $2.75 11-16, against $2.75⅝.

Whole Plane Mass Of Flames Eyewitnesses Say

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Two persons who live in house trailers close to the scene of the American Airlines plane crash that took 28 lives today gave these accounts:

Mrs. Althea Craig, 26, said:

"I was in the back bedroom and I could hear the plane coming in low. I picked up the curtain and I heard the plane hit the ground. I think it might have hit the top of the trees first. I looked out and the whole thing was in flames.

"I dropped the baby (Preston, 10 months old) and yelled for Bob, my husband, who was sleeping in the front of the trailer. Then I grabbed the baby and ran out. I ran away from the scene. The outside of the trailer was scorched by the heat from the flames of the burning plane.

"WE WERE LUCKY"

Robert Pratt, 50, a retired mechanic, said:

"Just as I was getting out of bed I heard this plane come over. The motor sounded kind of funny. It was so low I said to myself, 'I never heard one come in as low as that.'

"Just as I was getting dressed the sound kept coming closer. I came out in my shorts. I didn't see it hit, but seconds after it hit I saw flames all over the place.

"There was not too much of an explosion, just a big crash. The whole thing burst into a mountain of flame. The whole plane was burning."

Most Groups Continue Gain On Exchange

TORONTO (CP)—All groups except golds continued to gain in early afternoon trading on today's stock market. Western oils led the rise with an increase of more than two points on the exchange's 1 p. m. index. Golds fell slightly to a three-year low.

Western oils, which had been bearing the brunt of the recent decline, showed most issues rising. Pacific Petroleum led with a 40-cent gain.

Industrials were strong with papers, hard hit Tuesday, showing gains ranging to $1. Utilities, constructions, foods, financial houses, manufacturers and steels were mixed with all changes less than $1.

Base metals were generally up pennies, although Labrador gained 25 cents.

In uraniums, gains outnumbered losses three to one. Almost all variations were in pennies. Gunnar was an exception, gaining 20 cents in heavy trading.

Golds, the only losers on the exchange's index, traded briskly for small gains. Some of the seniors lost up to $1, but most juniors gained pennies and all holding companies were up.

Pearson Referees

State Secretary Dulles of the United States at the opening of the new assembly.

The assembly decided against seating Red China this year, but not until after it had witnessed two hours of sparring between the two big powers in which tempers became a little short at times.

WOMAN HEADS ASSEMBLY

When this issue was finally disposed of, the delegates got around to electing Mme. Vijaya Lakshmi Pandit of India the new president, succeeding Pearson. Mme. Pandit was chosen by a vote of 37 to 22 over Thailand's Prince Wan Waithaykon.

Customarily at the beginning of new sessions of the assembly, the outgoing president is in the chair only long enough to see a successor elected.

Pearson was calling for the vote on a new president when Vishinsky interrupted with a point of order.

He said it was intolerable that the government of Red China was not represented. He offered a resolution to give the Communist Chinese a seat and oust Nationalist China.

After Vishinsky sat down, Pearson remarked that he would have preferred to have had such a question brought up after a new president was chosen. As such, he said, he wasn't sure whether it was proper for him to deal with a point of order.

DEBATE WENT ON

The debate went on, however. Dulles took the floor to propose that the Russian resolution be shelved, at least for this year. Britain's Sir Gladwyn Jebb and Nationalist China's T. F. Tsiang expressed their support for Dulles' resolution suggesting that no consideration be given to seating Red China at this session.

Vishinsky made a second speech, opposing the Dulles resolution. Then Dulles came forward to ask that his resolution be voted upon first. Vishinsky objected. Pearson ruled that under the rules the question of priority was a proper one. The assembly then voted to take up the Dulles proposal first and it approved the U.S. resolution 44 to 10 with two abstentions.

Dulles then rose again to say that since the U.S. resolution had been passed, it was no longer necessary to vote on the Soviet proposal. Vishinsky got up to insist that his resolution be taken up anyway.

FOLLOWS PROCEDURE

Pearson, remarking that he still wasn't sure he had a right to make a ruling, nevertheless decided that past procedure should be followed and the Russian resolution should be voted upon even though a contrary proposal had already been approved.

1,150 Babies Given Coronation Spoon

OTTAWA (CP) — About 1,150 babies born in Canada Coronation Day, June 2, have received a silver spoon to commemorate the event from Governor-General Massey, a government house official said today.

The official said the job of sending out the souvenirs has not been completed yet. Names and addresses, obtained from family allowance records, still are coming in but the number is not expected to be great.

The small silver spoons are a personal gift from Mr. Massey to commemorate Queen Elizabeth's Coronation.

Lindsay's Mayor New Harness Racing Director

LINDSAY — (ENS) — The Ontario Racing Commission has announced the appointment of Mayor Charles Lamb of Lindsay as a member of the commission and harness racing director to fill the vacancy created last spring by the death of B. L. McLean, also of Lindsay.

The appointment was confirmed this morning by the office of Magistrate S. Tupper Bigelow, chairman of the commission in Toronto.

Approval of Premier L. M. Frost, was also given.

The new commissioner is well versed in the harness racing business having formerly owned and driven many of his own horses on Ontario tracks after he came to Lindsay from his home town of Manchester. He had had an official starter's licence for many years and still officiates in that capacity and as judge at many fall fairs.

A veteran of Lindsay municipal politics for a quarter of a century, Mayor Lamb has held the town's highest post for 12 of the last 13 years since first being elected.

Previous to that, he served for four years in County Council as Reeve, and Deputy Reeve, and before that was an Alderman. He established a livery business in Lindsay some years ago. and operated a large horse and buggy business, before switching to motor coaches when the automobile age arrived. He had the first bus franchise from Lindsay to Orillia and Bobcaygeon in the early days.

The mayor is a member of the United Church, the Rotary Club and the Shrine. He is a governor of Ross Memorial hospital, a member of the Waterworks Commission, the Board of Health, the Parks Board, and the Hydro Electric Commission. He still operates a taxi business in the town and is town auctioneer. His first meeting in his official capacity is scheduled for Saturday next. He is not sure of the full extent of his duties, but is 'proud and honored," to have the office entrusted to him, and promised to carry on in the tradition of his predecessor, B. L. McLean.

Britain Will Back U.S. On China

LONDON (Reuters)—The government today instructed Selwyn Lloyd, minister of state, to support the United States in opposing Chinese Communist and North Korean proposals for including India, Indonesia, Burma and Pakistan in the Korean political conference.

Lloyd is flying to New York tonight to lead the British delegation at the eighth general assembly of the United Nations, which opened Tuesday.

Prime Minister Churchill presided over a cabinet meeting today which gave final instructions to Lloyd on problems which will be discussed in the general assembly.

Peiping and Pyongyang have both objected to United Nations proposals for a Korean political conference limited to the two warring sides.

Britain's view is that in wanting the conference to be enlarged on a round-table basis, the Communists are making a propaganda move.

Phony Grave Plot Sales Callous Racket-Charge

TORONTO (CP)—Salesmen who have victimized thousands of Toronto citizens by selling them phony grave plots at exorbitant prices were branded "callous and unethical" at a hearing Tuesday before the legislature's select committee on cemetery legislation.

Ald. William Dennison, appearing for the city of Toronto before the committee, said he knew of one woman who signed a contract to buy on a $5 down and $5 monthly basis a four-grave plot for $367.25. He said the same plot in an older cemetery would have cost only $80.

Ald. Dennison said the plot was in a farmer's field, but the salesman didn't mention that. However he emphasized that the price would go up when half the plots were sold and she could make a healthy profit by reselling.

"It was a very callous and unethical approach," said Ald. Dennison. "Then when the woman wanted to get out of her contract, she got a rather mean letter saying she would have to honor the contract and the money would have to be paid.

SUGGEST FUND

Controller Ford Brand, solicitor Palmer Kent and Dr. L. A. Pequegnat, the medical officer of health, all accompanying Ald. Dennison, urged the committee to recommend to the provincial government that at least 50 per cent of the purchase price of cemetery lots be placed in a provincially-administered fund for perpetual care.

They also asked that plot salesmen's commissions be limited to 10 per cent and that the government rule no plots may be sold until the Ontario minister of health approved the site and the price of the plots.

Ald. Dennison said commercial cemeteries could sell plots at prices amounting to $110,000 an acre in metropolitan Toronto.

FINANCIAL RACKET

Edwin Kay, appearing on behalf of the Canadian Society of Landscape Architects and Town Planners, said promotion of modern cemeteries had become "something of a financial racket" because of lack of controlling legislation.

Some thought should be given, he said, to the turning of abandoned cemeteries and those which have been filled into park areas.

"It would create a more beautiful and peaceful atmosphere by the removal of all tombstones and monuments, some of which are grotesque, and would replace them with beautiful trees and flowers."

Good Weather, Goodwill Needed For Fair's Success

"All we need to make this 1953 Exhibition a complete success is sunny weather and the goodwill of the people of the city and district," Honorary Director Charles E. Moore of Smith said this morning.

"I have often thought we have hardly tapped our possibilities as we see the evidence today of what can be done. Our exhibits at Peterborough have hardly ever been equalled, and that goes all down the line.

The livestock entries are far more than we expected, farm produce is right up to the mark, the exhibits of our Women's Institutes are most commendable, the art department shows more progress than ever.

"I'd like to compliment the Canadian General Electric Company on their grand display in the manufacturers building. If we had more of our industries supporting the Exhibition on that scale it would be a big advantage to the board, and a very special attraction. Some of them have co-operated in a generous manner, and the merchants deserve credit for their support. I've never seen the manufacturers' building looking so bright and colorful as it is this week."

CAN ONLY PLAN

Mr. Moore said the directors could only plan the show. It was the people of the farms and city who would determine its financial success and its future.

Mr. Moore's long association with the Exhibition as a director was recognized by his promotion to the honorary company, including Col. F. E. Birdsall, G. A. Gillespie and Ross L. Dobbin.

Judging of dairy cattle began today at 10 a.m. The men engaged to pick the winners are: Holsteins—Fred Stubbs of Bloomfield; Ayrshires—William Ness, Aurora; Jerseys—Fred Redelmir, Richmond Hill; Dual Purpose Shorthorns—J. G. Gibson. Caledonia; Guernseys—Harold Brown, Cornwall RR 2.

JUNIOR FARMERS

Thursday is Junior Farmers Day beginning with registration at 9 o'clock. More than 110 girls are listed by Miss Jean Noble, district home economist; about ten more than the expected enrolment of boys from the central Ontario counties.

The girls carry on their work in the market hall, the boys at the Exhibition park. They meet at dinner provided by Canada Packers Limited at Club Aragon at 6 p.m., when the day's winners will be announced.

Formal opening of the show will be at 7:15 p.m. this evening by the Hon. George H. Doucett, Minister of Highways and acting Minister of Agriculture.

Missing Envoy's

Mrs. MacLean and the children are reported to have left Geneva Friday afternoon, Sept. 11, with sufficient luggage for the weekend only and said they would return early Sunday, Sept. 13. When they failed to show up and no message the anxious Mrs. Dunbar notified Swiss police, the British consul-general and the foreign office in London.

Knecht issued an urgent warning to all Swiss frontier posts, police stations, hotels and garages to keep a close lookout for Mrs. MacLean and her children, and gave detailed descriptions.

Since the publicity over her husband's disappearance, Mrs. MacLean and the children had lived much of the time in seclusion in France and Switzerland.

In London, her brother-in-law Alan MacLean said he had been informed of her disappearance but added, "I don't know where they are."

Control of the many thousands of cars crossing the encircling French-Swiss frontier is comparatively lax.

Say Big Ring In Canada Smuggles Aliens

MONTREAL (CP)—The Montreal Star said Tuesday aliens from all parts of Europe, including Communist underground workers from behind the Iron Curtain, are being smuggled into the United States from Canada.

In a newspage story the Star said about 20 Europeans are being smuggled each week across the border from Montreal alone.

One minor member of the smuggling syndicate was quoted as saying he had helped to send 1,800 persons across the border during the last 2½ years. Only 60 of them had been picked up by U.S. immigration authorities.

INTERESTED IN FEE

The ring, with headquarters in New York, and branches in London, Paris and Canadian cities, would smuggle an alien, no matter what his political background, into the United States for a sizable fee.

The Star said the Canadian members of the syndicate, located in Montreal, Halifax, Windsor, Ont., and Hamilton, are multi-lingual and operate like a regular immigration service, demanding photographs and full background information from candidates.

In Halifax, RCMP officials scoffed at the reports.

"I don't know who dreamed up this one but I'd be inclined to discount it," said one police official.

Cobourg Arena Contract Let

COBOURG (ENS) — Contract for rebuilding of the Cobourg Recreational Centre, which was destroyed by fire last month, has been awarded to the Richard and B. A. Ryan Construction Company of Montreal.

This firm has been engaged for some time on construction work at the ordnance depot here. The tender of the Richard and B. A. Ryan firm was the lowest received by the recreational centre board but the amount of the tender was not revealed.

Providing the weather is favorable the company expects construction to be sufficiently advanced by that time to permit skating by Christmas.

Swimmers' Pictures Shown At Meeting

Recreation Director, Alex Sinclair entertained recreation committee members at their meeting Tuesday night with more than 100 color pictures of the ornamental swimmers and Florida jungles. The pictures were taken on their recent trip in which they won the swimming championship.

A number sufficient for a quorum was not obtained until late in the evening with the result there was little official action. The summer's program was discussed however and received approval from the members present.

When a quorum was established it was passed that Mr. Sinclair receive $25 extraordinary expenses to cover the debts he incurred tipping on the ornamental swimmers' trip. The luggage consisted of some 42 pieces and had to be transferred by bell-hops or redcaps frequently.

A Community Theatre group organized last week was granted the use of Ashburnham Hall one night a week. The group is open to all and includes not only acting but various other phases of theatre production such as lighting, scenery production, props and management.

Discussion arose concerning the liability of the commission in regard to accidents suffered by children on the playgrounds. It was decided to seek further knowledge before taking any action.

The recorded attendance at city playgrounds was 86,268 this year as compared with 72,000 last year.

Displays Attract Crowds In Manufacturers' Building

Everything from a garbage disposal unit to information about cancer were on display in the manufacturers' building at the Peterborough Exhibition, which opened Tuesday.

The wares of a large proportion of the city's industries and businesses were shown in a string array that attracted a large number of the exhibition's visitors.

Displayed in greatest numbers were new models of refrigerators, stoves, washing machines, television sets and radios with clocks installed in them.

The Canadian General Electric Company had the biggest booth in the building, which practically stretched the whole length of the west wall. They had on display every item of interest to the householder, with TV sets, refrigerators and stoves most numerous.

HELP IN BUILDING

To those who are thinking or planning of building a house in the near future, the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation had a fine display of nine different types of homes. They varied from the ultra-modern ranch style type to the two-storey brick houses. Latest types of hot water, oil, coal and forced air-conditioning furnaces were also on display.

For those building their own homes or a cottage, the Beaver Lumber Company had an excellent booth showing different types of log siding, shingles, window panes and paint.

The latest developments in hydro installations in the Peterborough and Millbrook rural area was clearly pictured and explained in a booth set up by the Ontario Department of Hydro. A map showed the operating and distribution stations in the two areas. They were the Lily Lake station, Auburn station, Otonabee River station, Best station and Omemee station.

The National Employment Office set up a booth to give helpful advice to high school students about what type of jobs were available in the city.

Two other interesting booths were those of the Peterborough Cancer Society and the Canadian National Institute for the Blind.

MADE BY BLIND

The Institute for the Blind booth was run by all blind people. They had knitted wear, leather work, aprons, wicker baskets, brooms, mats and purses on display, made by blind people in Peterborough.

The Cancer Society's booth was one of the most striking in the building. There was a miniature lighthouse with a revolving light, symbolic of what scientists are doing in cancer research today. It also showed what part of every dollar is given for research and the definite signs and symptoms of cancer.

Other interesting booths were the Cavanagh electrical appliance display, the Sanitary Fuel and Ice booth, the Kool-Vent awning booth and the Rehill Company's booth.

J.H. HUGHES (LEFT) representative of the George A. Hamid, booking agency, New York City, assuring Clarence Bacon, chairman of the Exhibition grandstand entertainments committee, "we promised Peterborough a good show and we're going to deliver it; especially if the weather is with us."

Mr. Hughes was recalling the day he was in Peterborough when the U.S. banks closed at the onset of the depression. "I wrote a cheque that morning to pay some bills, including my hotel account, but in the disturbing events of the day I soon found that it wasn't worth anything, as least immediately. I mentioned it to the late Rollie Glover at his office. His answer was: "We'll soon fix that". And he wrote a cheque for $100 on his own bank. That was the day Franklin D. Roosevelt rallied the faith of the people in his radio statement to the effect that the only thing we had to fear was the sense of fear itself. I think that is worth remembering all the time. His new bank law quickly restored the financial stability of the United States, and from there on he succeeded gradually in lifting the depression."

Mr. Hughes used to book the attractions for Peterborough Fair in those years.

Arthur J. Armour Widely Mourned In Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD — (ENS) — Funeral services were held here this week for Arthur James Armour, a prominent resident of this community.

Mr. Armour was a charter member and a past president of the Campbellford Rotary Club and served on the Board of Education for about twenty years. He was a member of St. John's United Church, and a member of the Board of Stewards. A member of Golden Rule Lodge A.F. and A.M. and of Ionic Chapter R.A.M., he served as treasurer of the chapter for many years.

He was a life-long resident of the community, except for a period of three years when he worked as a newspaperman in Medicine Hat, Alberta. In the insurance business for several year, about 30 years ago he purchased the shoe business of the late B. I. Gibson. In 1930, when the Wallace Block was burned, Mr. Armour established a brokerage office, which he maintained until his health prohibited his active participation in business.

He was a quiet home-loving man despite his many activities in the community.

Mr. Armour was born in Percy township in 1890, the son of the late Robert Samuel Armour and Margaret Johnston. He attended local schools and in 1922 married Gertrude May Horton of Brockville and came to Campbellford.

Surviving are Mrs. Armour, one daughter, Elinore (Mrs. Stuart K. Haig) of Sarnia; two grandchildren, Robert and Heather Haig; two brothers, John A. of Peterborough and Wilfred of Niagara Falls; and three sisters, Mrs. J. V. Denike (Ellinor) of Toronto, Mrs. W. Scott Fife (Markuerite) of Hastings and Mrs. J. A. M. Hay (Bessie) of Chatham. Dr. Stanley Armour, a brother, was killed overseas. Another brother, George, and a sister, Mrs. R. Skinkle (Bertha) predeceased him.

The funeral service was held from his late residence and was conducted by Dr. D. M. Smith of St. John's United Church. Burial was in Trent Valley cemetery.

The service was under Masonic auspices and was largely attended. An impressive number of floral tributes were testimony of the esteem in which the late Mr. Armour was held.

W. Bro. Eugene King, R.W. Bro. F.F. Long and W.Bro. M. E. Petherick officiated in the Masonic services at the grave.

The honorary pallbearers were: Messrs E. C. Roberts, J. C. Birmingham, A. J. Meyers, and J. P. Archer. Pallbearers were C. H. Davidson, R. A. Connor, Arthur McConnell, A. G. Watson, Dr. W. W. Baker and W. A. Kingston. Bearers of the many flowers were: A. L. Malcolm, James Nelson, Jack Clark, Austin Putnam, Ronald Hazell, W. Badgley, Fred T. Rutherford, Fred Bennett, Jack Free, R. J. Locke, W. S. Wiggins and W. H. Brady.

Finds Little Theatre Rising In Popularity

HALIFAX (CP)—Richard MacDonald of Ottawa, director of the Dominion Drama Festival, says the Little Theatre movement in Canada is rising in popularity.

He said on arrival here from Newfoundland Tuesday that amateur groups throughout the land are "doing a fine job." Some of the most active groups were in Nova Scotia. The Halifax Theatre Arts Guild had increased its membership from 200 to 1,000 in the past few years.

Presbyterians Plan Rally For Young People

Fall meeting of the Peterborough presybtery of the Presbyterian Church was held Tuesday in Cobourg. Eleven ministers and seven representative elders were present.

Annual meetings of all congregations in the presbytery are to be asked to name at least one delegate to the Presbyterian Congress which will precede the general assembly of the church in St. Andrew's Church in Toronto next June.

The presbytery received with regret the resignation of Keith Wilcox as student minister on the Buckhorn field. Mr. Wilcox has received an appointment close to Toronto.

It was decided that the Rev. Norman Caswell, inducted Friday as new minister at Colborne, will succeed the Rev. Walter Patterson of Millbrook as budget convener of the presbytery. Plans were also made to hold a young people's rally September 23 at Norwood.

It is expected that a considerable number of those present at the Norwood rally will attend the provicial young peoples' rally in Guelph on Thanksgiving weekend.

MISSIONARIES

It was announced at the meeting that the presbytery had arranged an itinerary of overseas missionaries to visit all congregations before Christmas.

Presbytery approved a change in the national laws of the church, permitting records of presbyteries and synods to be kept in loose leaf form and permanently bound yearly. An effort would be made to have the Presbyterian Record, the church's national publication, placed in every Presbyterian home.

Report Violent Demonstration In Compounds

PANMUNJOM (AP)—Anti - Communist North Korean and Chinese prisoners demonstrated violently against Communist observers at their compounds in the demilitarized zone.

Prisoners in all five stockades hurled stones and screamed, "Kill them, kill the Communists," as Red observer teams drove off for their headquarters at Kaesong, a spokesman for the Indian command said. Indian troops guard the prisoners.

It was the first outbreak since the Indians took added precautions to guard against violence two days ago. At that time they stretched canvas across the barbed wire fences in front of the compounds and moved the observers farther back from the stockades.

CHANGE MINDS

The Indian spokesman also said four more North Koreans have changed their mnds and asked to be returned to their homes. This makes 13 North Koreans and one Chinese who have made the switch.

The UN command Wednesday delivered to Indian custody about 2,000 North Koreans who refused repatriation and said 2,000 Chinese would be handed over Thursday.

Wednesday's delivery raised to 9,600 the number of anti-Communist PoWs turned over to the Indians About 14,000 are awaiting delivery

Ratify Agreements

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and Western Germany Tuesday exchanged instruments of ratification on four agreements covering nearly $1,300,000,000 in German debts. The most important of the agreements concerns the settlement of claims by the United States on Germany for post-war economic assistance. This calls for payment of $1,000,000,000 over a 35-year period.

Driver Impaired Pays Fine Of $70

After pleas of guilty on charges of impaired driving and having liquor, fines totalling $70 were levied against Hugh McLean, 44, of Port Elgin in Magistrate W. R. Philp's court today.

Although McLean had not been involved in an accident Tuesday he was stopped by police after several calls were received, complaining about the manner in which he was driving. He was found with a part bottle of liquor and was fined $17.50 on that count and $52.50 on the driving charge.

Guilty of Espionage

KAVALLA, Greece (Reuters)—Two Bulgarians, Stoyan Karamanof and Nicholas Keosochof, have been found guilty of espionage by a military court here. Karamanof was sentenced to death and Keosochof given life imprisonment after they had confessed to spying for Bulgaria. Both entered Greek territory a month ago and asked for political asylum.

Wagner Beats Impelliteri For Nomination

By WATSON SIMS

NEW YORK (AP) — The New Deal wing of the Democratic party in New York administered a resounding defeat to the conservative branch in scoring a near clean sweep of city primary elections Tuesday.

Manhattan borough president Robert F. Wagner Jr. rolled up almost a 2-to-1 margin over incumbent Vincent R. Impellitteri for the nomination for mayor.

Wagner's candidates also won nomination in the two contests for other city-wide offices and in three of four contested races for nomination as borough president.

Complete unofficial returns from the city's 4,392 election districts gave Wagner 350,474 votes, and Impellitteri 181,295.

The election represented a major triumph for such well-known Democrats as Representative Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., Sen. Herbert H. Lehman and Averell Harriman, former mutual security director.

CURBS COMEBACK

The outcome appeared to curb an attempted political comeback by former Democratic national chairman James A. Farley.

The voter turnout was surprisingly light, although control of both the city and state Democratic machinery was at stake. The total Democratic vote ran well below the record 800,000 cast in 1937.

The victory apparently cemented control of the city and state party leadership in the hands of the Manhattan (Tammany Hall) and Bronx borough chieftains.

Impellitteri won as an independent in 1950 after being snubbed when the party considered a candidate to complete the unexpired term of resigned Mayor William O'Dwyer.

SPLIT ON CANDIDATE

This year, however, the five boroughs which make up the city split in choosing a candidate .The conservative wing, including leaders of Brooklyn, Queens and Staten Island, backed Impellitteri.

In the Nov. 3 general election, Wagner, who is the son of the late author of the New Deal Labor Relations Act, must face three other candidates who were nominated without opposition today.

They are:

Harold Riegelman, the Republican designee.

Rudolph Halley, the Liberal party choice.

MATTANCHERRY, India (CP)—Two persons were killed and 15 injured when police opened fire Tuesday to disperse a crowd gathered round their headquarters to protest against the arrest of four labor leaders. All the injured were police.

Call For Tenders For Foundation Work

LINDSAY (ENS)—The Water Commissioners decided yesterday to call for tenders for the foundation work on the new 500,000 gallon elevated tank to be built next spring in the east end of the town.

A letter from the architects, W. B. Redfern Co. of Toronto, said approval of the Department of Health for the tank would be necessary before the municipal board would give its go-ahead on the job. Miss M. Thompson, secretary reported water consumption at the Rotary swimming pool this year at 172,340 cubic feet of water or 863,670 gallons costing $168.60 Last year the water for the pool cost $119.38.

Arrest May Solve Theft Of Tent, Chairs

COBOURG (ENS). — Investigating the theft of two army chairs, a wooden mallet and 100 feet of tent skirting from the dog show here during the weekend, Chief H. Pearse visited Lloydtown yesterday and arrested Arthur Gray, 48, on a charge of theft. Chief Pearse was accompanied by Provincial Constable Lyle Erskine of Cobourg.

The local ordnance depot, which is commanded by Colonel W. R. Peace, lent some tents, army chairs, and other equipment to the dog show committee because the recreational centre, where it was originally intended to hold the dog show, had been destroyed by fire. After some of the equipment was reported missing, Chief Pearse made an investibation and arrested Gray, who appeared on a remand until Friday.

Mrs. T. H. Jackson

The funeral service for Mrs. T. Hardie Jackson, of Lansdowne St. West, who died Sunday, was held Tuesday at the Comstock funeral home.

The Rev. C. G. Boyd, of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church and the Rev. G. D. Smith, of St. Giles' Presbyterian Church officiated. The pallbearers were: John Buckley, Jack Pruner, John Clifford, Gordon White, Allan Pilley, and Dr. Jack Leslie. Burial was in Little Lake cemetery.

8 Families Flee

TORONTO (CP)—Fire broke out in an east-end apartment building early today and eight families were forced out in their night clothes. J. White, in whose apartment the fire began, was revived by firemen after being overcome by smoke. A cigarette was blamed for the $3,500 blaze.

Granted Divorce

RENO (AP)—Ella Mae Morse, night club songstress, divorced Dr. Marvin L. Gerber of washington, D. C. She charged extreme mental cruelty. Miss Morse's maiden name was restored. Custody of their three children and property rights were settled in an undisclosed agreement.

Reds Ignore UN Demand For Accounting

By ROBERT TUCKMAN

PANMUNJOM (AP)—A United Nations demand for an accounting of 3,404 men—including three Canadians—believed to be in Red captivity went unanswered by the Communists today and the Allies said they would press for a reply soon.

The Communists failed at a meeting of the joint military armistice commission to mention the Sept. 9 demand that the Reds return or account for the missing men.

Maj-Gen. Blackshear M. Bryan, senior Allied member of the commission, told reporters after the meeting he would ask the Reds about it "before too long."

He added that the Communists probably needed more time to check the list which contained the names of UN fighting men the Communists were believed to have captured, but who failed to return in last month's exchange of prisoners.

ANNOUNCE WITHDRAWAL

The commission also announced withdrawal from the 2½-mile-wide zone of salvage teams which had recovered equipment from the network of bunkers and fortifications on what was once the front line.

The five - country repatriation commission turned over to the Communists at Panmunjom one Chinese prisoner who refused repatriation in the prisoner exchange, but who later asked to be sent to Red China.

He was the first balky Chinese captive to have a change of heart.

Nine North Koreans who changed their minds were delivered to the Communists Tuesday.

The Chinese captive told Red officers "agents from Formosa" worked in Allied prisoner camps in South Korea and that he had been tattooed with anti-Red slogans while American guards looked on.

He also claimed that scores of Chinese prisoners were killed last February and March because they refused to be tattooed and asked to be sent back to Red China

The delivery by the UN of anti-Communist prisoners to the demilitarized zone continued through the day. No incidents were reported.

The Communists have said they would deliver 300 South Koreans and more than 20 non-Koreans who refused repatriation to the demilitarized zone Sunday.

Doctors Say Thinkers More Likely To Suffer With Headaches Than Many Dunces

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

NEW YORK (AP)—Thinkers are more likely to get recurrent headaches than dunces, some headaches experts agreed Tuesday.

The aches don't come from wear and tear or pain or surprise over thinking up thoughts, that is, not from the actual process of thinking.

Rather they come from what the thinker does. He reads more, uses his eyes more, often works with neck muscles under strain, said Dr. Francis L. Lederer, otolaryngologist of the University of Illinois.

The thinker has more time to build up all kinds of tensions, less chance to work them out by exercise, he said. The non-thinker is usually "too busy with routine work, has no time for headaches."

"Thinkers take in more wavelengths" from events and thoughts around them, have more chance for unconscious anxieties, added Dr. Arnold P. Friedman, director of the headache clinic at Montefiore Hospital here.

Headaches were discussed by medical experts at a round-table before the International College of Surgeons.

Eight to 12,000,000 Americans suffer from recurrent headaches, Dr. Friedman estimated. He says he doesn't feel there is any specific personality type marking sufferers from migraine headaches, often called the worst headaches, or from tension or other forms of headache.

HAIR DO'S AND DONT'S
By Carol Douglas famous beauty consultant

Hair styles, like clothes styles, change with the season. Swinging to one of this season's refreshing new fashions in hairdo's will brighten your whole personality.

DO start with a new home permanent—it makes a new hairdo so easy to set and to keep looking lovely.

And for your next permanent, use Toni Spin Curlers. They're twice as easy, twice as fast—and a permanent investment. Get a complete set including midget Spin Curlers for wispy neckline hair. Only $1.29.

DON'T expect every hair style to suit you perfectly. You can widen a thin face with soft curls at the sides, lower a high forehead with bangs in your hairdo.

DO take care of your hair, whatever style you choose. Brush daily, shampoo weekly. And for the beauty of soft water shampooing—even in hardest water—use Toni Creme Shampoo. It floods your hair with healthful lanolin lather. 4-oz jar, $1.00, 2-oz tube, 65¢.

DO keep your hair gleaming with highlights. Just 20 seconds with Toni Creme Rinse—the new invisible hair dressing—and your hair will be rich and lustrous...easy to comb and set...tamed and tangle-free from one shampoo to the next. 4-oz bottle, only 59¢.

TONI—world leader in hair research—guarantees these products for good hair care.

Fair Days

Yesterday thousands of children had a preview of the Peterborough Exhibition. Now and right down to the week-end, the big show is open and in full tilt for all comers, grandstand show, midway, competitions, hot dog booths, side shows, and displays of the products and produce of the city and far corners of the county. The Fair is an invitation to fun and education, and one which, we expect, will be cordially accepted by everybody who has an interest in the community and its ways, and a love of life.

* * *

Grandstand shows, the barking and hustling and purposeful air of much ado are only part of a Fall Fair. And so, too, are the exhibits of manufactured goods and booth displays resembling shop windows without the windows, although these are important in a Fair the size of the one Peterborough annually stages; in fact, it is called an Exhibition, not a Fair, to make this point clear. Traditionally, however, the show is primarily of the produce of home and farm: the long prize lists for the Peterborough Exhibition demonstrate the cardinal place of field and barn and home in this district show.

* * *

One cheats oneself of half the enjoyment of the Exhibition, and cheats tradition as well, who does not inspect the jams and cakes, the flowers and seeds, the squash and cucumbers, the swine and hens, the cattle and horses, which are the rightful denizens of Fall Fairs from one end of the Kingdom of Canada to the other. There is enough variety in the Peterborough Exhibition to entertain all shades of opinion and interest, but let us not overlook the main point, that it is an exhibition. So, go and see what is exhibited.

Free American Trade?

The annual meeting of the International Bank and the International Monetary Fund was held earlier this month in Washington in something of a vacuum. There was a shortage of senior finance ministers, including Mr. Butler, the British Chancellor of the Exchequer, who had to stay at home and look after the Government in the absence of Sir Winston and Mr. Eden.

Further, the meeting was held at a time when it was impossible for the American Administration to make any commitments concerning its international economic policy in the future. This year's legislative program is closed, and Congress has dispersed until next January; next year's Budget is only in its embryonic stage, and the important seventeen-man Legislative-Executive Commission on American foreign policy, by whose recommendations President Eisenhower has indicated he will be closely guided, has only just been set to work. It will not report until next March. Consequently, as one observer has said, this gathering of Finance Ministers and their experts from all over the non-Soviet world (Japan and Germany have become members of both organisations during the past year) resembled more a shareholders' meeting than a council of action.

One annually important piece of business has been transacted: the presentation of the report of the International Monetary Fund. In general terms, the Fund's report sees the western world making real though uneven progress towards a world of convertible currencies and a high rate of multilateral trade, provided there is no American recession or a return to inflation in the countries trading with the United States.

The Report strongly encourages the United States to modify its restrictive trade policies. "If there were substantial modifications in U.S. commercial policy such as tariff reductions" it says, "the simplification of tariff classifications and Customs procedures, liberalization of agricultural quotas and of shipping policy, repeal of 'Buy American' legislation and the modification of other practices that at present discourage efforts to expand beyond modest limits the markets in the United States for certain imports—the payments position of the non-dollar world would be substantially strengthened, and the prospect of reducing or eventually eliminating restrictions on imports from the United States would be greatly improved."

This point has been repeatedly made by international economic organizations, and Canada has been particularly anxious that American restrictions on trade be eased. The directness of the International Monetary Fund opinion is notable, because it is highly orthodox in its economic theories and carefully conservative in its estimates. That the weight of this organization should be put on the side which Canada advocates is an encouragement, and provides some hope that the Eisenhower administration will see the light which so many others are blinking at it.

Hospital Admissions

The Windsor Star says that some doctors are tempted to have patients admitted to hospital, even though it is not necessary, because it is more convenient to give treatment there than in the home. It also comments on doctors making repeated calls on a patient in a hospital when so many would not be made if they had to go out to the homes.

An encouragement to this sort of practice — which the New Brunswick Medical Society has officially recognized as a danger to hospital and medical care plans—is the forms of medical insurance which tens of thousands of persons now carry, as individuals, or through their shop, office or factory hospital insurance plans. Most of these provide compensation only if the person is in hospital. So the doctors please their insured patients suffering minor ills by sending them to hospital and ease their own work by obviating calls at the home.

The N.B. Medical Society is forming a committee to "police" the profession and warn subscribers to medical care plans that misuse of them works to their own disadvantage (higher costs). It seems to us that the terms of compensation provided by the medical care plans might be amended, to include more generally than they do, sick beds at home. This would be as direct a way of curbing unnecessary use of hospitals and unnecessary calls by doctors on their patients, as would the profession policing itself.

The matter is not unimportant. Hospitals cost a great deal of money to build, maintain and operate, more than a patient pays for his stay and services there, whether he is paying out of his bank account or out of his medical insurance. The rest of the cost is met by municipal, provincial and federal taxes. Taxpayers thus rob their own pocketbooks by over-use of hospitals.

Taffy Robbed

One of Her Majesty's Welsh Guards bandsmen, playing at the CNE, removed his sword, scabbard and belt in the music library of the Exhibition bandshell. Someone got in and stole the equipment. As the Kingston- Whig-Standard remarks: "As a result of the theft, the bandsman faces possible court martial for having lost part of his equipment. He may also be ordered to replace it, and doing so would take nearly a year's pay. Another result will be the loss of prestige Canadians will suffer in the opinion of men who have travelled thousands of miles to entertain with their skill and artistry."

We fear another result, remembering the nursery rhyme:

Taffy was a Welshman,
Taffy was a thief,
Taffy came to our house
And stole a piece of beef.
I went to Taffy's house . . .

Well, this time Taffy came to our house, to give not to take. And what do we—or a daffy souvenir-hunter—do? We steal from Taffy. Better get the fateful sword and scabbard back to him quickly, or Canadians will be belted with the rhyme.

Minister's Ride

Tonight the Honourable George Doucett opens the Peterborough Exhibition. He is doing so in his acting capacity of Minister of Agriculture. We hope that in his permanent capacity as Minister of Highways he travels to Peterborough from Toronto by way of Number 7 Highway, and that the jolts which the paving (ha, ha) from Reaboro to Fowler's Corners gives him will remind the Minister of Highways that his department was scheduled to resurface that road this month. There are still no signs of any equipment, workmen or asphalt. Winter is approaching and we are told by an expert in his colleague's department, the Department of Lands and Forests, that colonies of bears are planning to use the pot holes as hibernating quarters. If the Minister of Highways is going to prevent the Minister of Lands and Forests from getting the better of the Highways Department, he should either have the paving done right away or, as acting Minister of Agriculture, seed the highway down to clover.

NOTES AND COMMENT

The Red grip on Germany slips, we read. Owing, no doubt, to Germany's grip on Red slips.

The CN and CP railways have been advertising bargain fares between Toronto and Peterborough in this family journal. How smart they are to recognize the attraction of the Peterborough Exhibition and to offer Torontonians cheap fares down to it! Like the CNE in reverse. Ah, no; the dates are wrong; the bargains are for next week, after our Fair, and between Peterborough and Toronto, not vice versa.

PARIS LETTER

Burning Baths, Cheaper Beef

By NORA BELOFF

A SUDDEN September heatwave finds Paris in mourning for its favourite and oldest swimming pool. Admittedly, there is an element of nonsense about such a place going up in flames; but that is, in fact, what happened. A cigarette butt carelessly dropped somewhere near the Concorde just after dawn, a smell of burnt matting, a wild spurt of fire, a vast pall of smoke hanging, like a balloon, in the middle of the city; and it was all over: the Deligny Baths, celebrating this year its 150th anniversary, had disappeared.

✧ ✧ ✧

SOMEONE should write the history of this venerable institution, tracing its progress (if you can call it that) from its great and dirty past— when it was just an enclosed portion of the River Seine, extravagantly adorned to serve as playground for royalty and high-life— down to its hygenic conclusion, a lunch-time paradise for thousands of clerks and secretaries who hastened from sweltering offices and Ministries to plunge into the azure-blue water, thrice filtered through forty-tons of sand, and purified each day by four hundred litres of disinfectant.

✧ ✧ ✧

BRAVELY, the management has stuck up a notice on charred remains promising reconstruction. The baths of Deligny shall rise again! But meanwhile, Deligny clients must outlive the heatwave, day-dreaming of dips deferred.

✧ ✧ ✧

NEXT to the burned baths, the topic of the the day is cheaper beefsteak. The Government and the butchers have jointly and solemnly promised the public that all except the very choicest bits of meat will be ten per cent. cheaper. From personal experience I can report that a kilo of stewing-beef can be had in our road for fifty francs less than before. Nevertheless, the mass of shoppers remains grimly incredulous: "You mark my word" is the general comment— "it won't last . . . ." The kind of thing English people say when the weather is fine.

✧ ✧ ✧

OFFICIALLY, this is supposed to be the beginning of better times: the Government has a big plan to coax down prices of two-hundred-and-fifty "utility" articles, starting with food and going through soaps, oils, shoes, clothes, hardware— the main articles in a working man's budget, barring drink, tobacco, fares and fuel all of which have recently risen in price. The object is to make life easier —and so forestall the next round of strikes.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE GOVERNMENT set an example by abolishing the sales tax on key commodities. For the rest it seems to be relying on persuasion— and the butchers' example — to induce other trades to compress their profits and modify their prices.

✧ ✧ ✧

SOON PARLIAMENT will reconvene its summer recess, and people here are wondering how long it will be before Joseph Laniel, the current Prime Minister, will do the way of his eighteen post-war predecessors. A cartoon on the cover of the popular weekly "Aux Ecoutes" pictures him sitting in pink pants at the bedside of the Fourth Republic — the symbolic Marianne in her traditional Phrygian bonnet, but with more than traditional decollete. The Premier is studying the latest Kinsey report and muttering to himself; "I really must try to understand her."

✧ ✧ ✧

IT HAS BEEN entertaining to watch how Dr. Kinsey has thrust himself on the French national consciousness— almost to the point of carving himself a niche in the French language — despite the almost unanimous hostility of the French people to his voluminous works. The French objections should not, of course, be confused with the kind of disapproval the doctor's works have run into in certain Anglo-Saxon circles. The French have never been sticklers for propriety—witness the kinds of jokes and the sections of female anatomy applauded on the Paris stage.

✧ ✧ ✧

WHAT shocks and unnerves the French about the latest report is its coldly clinical approach. If this is the American "brave new world," the French want none of it. "It may be that American disciples are hailing Dr. Kinsey as 'The Columbus of Sex,'" says one French critic: "We can only hope that he —at least— knows where he is going."

✧ ✧ ✧

DO THE FRENCH and Americans really despise and dislike one another as much as some public pronouncements and Press columnists would have us think? Among American tourists the answer is probably Yes. Keenly appreciative of the beauties of the capital, they nearly always prefer Paris to Parisians. There is no doubt that the French fawn on the rich foreigner less than their continental neighbours— although this does not discourage them from asking for more.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE KETTLE boiled over with one young tourist who, after being forcibly divested of his beloved camera at the entrance of the Science Museum, was asked to tip the offender for the service of looking after it.

Nevertheless, there are thousands of Americans who have liked Paris enough to make it their home. Today they are forming themselves into a lively and popular colony which easily holds its own in the vigorously intellectual cafe society of the Boulevard Saint Germain.

✧ ✧ ✧

AMERICAN artists and scholars seem to mix with their French opposite numbers on more or less equal terms. Indeed, most of them are poor enough to qualify as honorary Europeans. This year we have had several exhibitions of paintings, drawings and sculptures by young Americans in Paris, and they have been sympathetically received by "avant-garde" Paris critics. The Colony has also published its own little periodical, "The Paris Review," a lively, artistic quarterly, brought out by arrangement with the French literary monthly "La table ronde." It is sold by itinerant salesmen to English-speaking clients at the left-bank cafes in much the same way as a certain type of postcard is sold to the more prosperous foreign visitors on the more elegant side of the Seine.

RISKY

The old soldier had been telling hair-raising tales, and finished up by saying: "Many a time I have faced the enemy unflinchingly; but what is life without risks?"

"You're right," replied a timid little man who had been listening. "Many times when the weather forecast was doubtful I have ventured out without my raincoat."

"... AND HOW'RE THINGS WITH YOU?"

Canada, Major Power

(OTTAWA JOURNAL)

THE objective Royal Institute of International Affairs in London has issued an information paper on Canada called "Springs of Canadian Power" (Oxford University Press, Toronto) with a cool assessment of the future of this nation.

Through these careful phrases shine the greatness that is to be if this country is governed with wisdom, blessed with peace and remains strong in confidence. By the end of the century she should be a major power, this expectation based on "the probable consequences in the material sphere of the industrial developments now taking place, and also on the increasing part she has played in world affairs during the last 25 years."

Of course we do not need an institute in London to spell out our assets—the iron ore, the oil, the aluminum, the water power, the innumerable other gems in the Canadian treasure house. But we do need to be reminded that wealth means responsibility and that Canada has stepped on to the broad highway of international affairs.

Certainly we have done our part in the United Nations, NATO and other good causes. But we should never delude ourselves that we have done more than our share, gloat over our contributions made as a middle power recently a small power. It could be said that greatness is being thrust upon us by virtue of our geographical position, our resources and our ability to get along with strong friends.

We need not think we will be worthy of this greatness or wield the influence we should in world affairs unless we have unity at home and stand for humanity away from home. Canada cannot afford to be purse proud, must not be petty, must have thought for the good of the man in Sarawak as well as the man in Newfoundland. It may not always be easy, but it is essential.

Unions Should Be Legal Entities

(KINGSTON WHIG-STANDARD)

MEMBERS of the Canadian Bar Association, at a section meeting of the association in Quebec, approved a resolution that legislation be passed in all provinces declaring unions to be legal entities. The original resolution aroused controversy at the meeting, and after lengthy debate some clauses were eliminatel and others amended. The most important clause, however, remained unchanged, and it recommends legislation that would provide that unions may sue and be sued as entities.

Legislation of this nature has long been advocated by this and other newspapers and by other organizations and individuals. For an equal length of time, spokesmen for organized labour have rejected the proposal and criticized those who proposed it. The proposal still arouses resentment among union leaders, and their reaction is understandable. Unions at present may wield great power without being fully responsible for its use. It is true that unions are required to observe certain laws and regulations, and that they are required to submit to the rulings of labour boards and courts. It is also true, however, that a union is not a legal entity at law.

Employers of union labour, on the other hand, are legal entities at law. They, too, are required to observe certain laws and regulations, and to submit to the rulings of labour boards and courts. But they may also be sued, by any person or organization with grounds for a lawsuit excepting a labour union. They may also bring suit—with the exception that they cannot sue a union. That is, obviously an inequitable situation, in which one party to a contract is exempt from full responsibility at law while the other party is not.

Purely as a matter of justice, unions should be entities at law the same as employers. It should be apparent, however, that there would be no great demand for legislation providing for this if unions had acted in the past as though they were in fact responsible entities. That the unions have not done so is a matter of record. If, for instance, an employer or anyone acting on instructions from an employer caused damage to property the employer could be sued, but when illegal picketing resulted in damage to property of an employer in the past, unions could not be sued. This inequitable situation must be corrected, and the members of the Bar Association who voted in favour of corrective legislation are to be commended for their clear-sighted decision.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Again, the kingdom of heaven is like unto treasure hid in a field; the which when a man hath found, he hideth, and for joy thereof goeth and selleth all that he hath, and buyeth that field.

Again, the kingdom of heaven is like unto a merchant man, seeking goodly pearls: who, when he had found one pearl of great price, went and sold all that he had, and bought it. (Matt. 13: 44-46.)

✧ ✧ ✧

Now faith is the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen . . . .

By faith Abraham, when he was called to go out into a place which he should after receive for an inheritance, obeyed; and he went out, not knowing whither he went.

By faith he sojourned in the land of promise, as in a strange country, dwelling in tabernacles with Isaac and Jacob, the heirs with him of the same promise: for he looked for a city which hath foundations, whose builder and maker is God. (Heb. 11:1, 8-10.)

✧ ✧ ✧

And there appeared another wonder in heaven; and behold a great red dragon, having seven heads and ten horns. Seven crowns upon his heads . . and there was cast out, that old serpent, called the Devil, and Satan, which deceiveth the whole world: he was cast out into the earth, and his angels were cast out with him.

And I heard a loud voice saying in heaven, Now is come salvation, and strength, and the kingdom of our God, and the power of his Christ for the accuser of our brethern is cast down, which accused them before our God day and night. (Rev. 12: 3, 7, 9, 10.)

Letter To The Editor

DANGEROUS PARKING AT SCHOOL CORNERS

Sir: Have just recently settled in your city and must say I like it very much.

The people are friendly, the streets are pleasing tree lined avenues. The air is most refreshing after living in a larger industrial metropolis, the woods and lakes are but a stone's throw away, and all in all as they say we are sold on Peterborough. But, there is one thing that not only annoys but puzzles me and that is why in heaven's name, some motorists will insist on parking their vehicles as close to the corner as possible, particularly in school areas where a host of youngsters have one or more dangerous hazards added to their list by — If you will excuse the expression— those numbskulls who are guilty of such thoughtless practice.

It seems to me that no parking should be allowed for at least 50 feet from any school area corner, and a speed limit of 15 miles per hour be imposed to protect our future citizens from death or disaster.

Several cities in the U. S. A. have adopted bylaws such as I suggest above, and I for one sincerely feel that there is a lot of wisdom in it.

One fellow's opinion with which any thinking person will agree I trust,

Sincerely,
P. R. C. SHORT.

Jailed By Communists For More Than Two Years

Innocent Records Twisted In Red Questioning Of Oatis

By WILLIAM N. OATIS

(Copyright 1953 by The Associated Press)

I walked the floor furiously and called myself a fool.

It was Tuesday, April 24, 1951, and I was in a Prague office of the Czechoslovak Communist secret police, who had arrested me the day before.

On the desk lay several little black books they had found. These were books I had kept in line with my work as an Associated Press correspondent. One had names and telephone numbers of friends in Prague — foreign diplomats and Czechoslovak citizens. Others contained notes of information I had obtained from some of these people—news and background.

I had kept the books almost by force of habit. In the United States and Britain, where I had worked before going to Prague 10 months before, it may have been a good habit. In Czechoslovakia, it certainly was not.

ONE MAN ALONE

Because now, two police interpreters—one with curly black hair and one with hardly any hair at all—sat in that office in a big quiet building on narrow Bartholomew Street and asked me questions about those books—those notes, and those names. That was why I berated myself.

The police called me a spy. I regarded myself rather as a legitimate journalist. But I knew they objected to my gathering news from other than official sources. If I was on the spot for doing that, the people who gave me such news were on the spot, too.

I owed it to my news sources to protect them. That was a principle of journalism. Reporters in America had gone to jail rather than testify against their informants. But as I compared my lot with theirs, I was dismayed. They had means to defend themselves; legal advice, public opinion and civil-rights guarantees.

I had none of those. I was one man alone against a powerful and ruthless force. I knew the secret police could hold a prisoner for years without charge, without a trial and incommunicado. They could hold him till they got what they wanted out of him. What they wanted out of me, to begin with, was information on my newsgathering.

"GIVE US THE NAMES"

"We want to know the names of Czechoslovak citizens who gave you unofficial news," said one policeman.

"I can't tell you that," I said.

But I felt utterly helpless. That Tuesday I was questioned till long after midnight.

The interrogation went on all day Wednesday, too.

That night, the man picked up my address book and said, "Which of these people gave you unofficial news?"

"I can't tell you."

"Why not?"

"Journalistic ethics."

"If you don't tell us which ones," the man threatened, "we will arrest them all."

TWO CHOICES, BOTH BAD

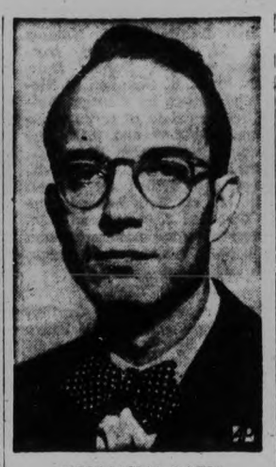
On the face of it, it looked this way: If I gave in, there was a chance some people would get hurt. If I did not, there was the certainty that more people would be.

I said, "All right, I'll tell you."

I gave the interpreter a list of names and, with each name, the class of data I had got from that person—such things as "Prague rumors" and "Brno rumors."

"Will this get them into trouble?" I asked.

"Why should it?" he said. "Why it's nothing—'Prague rumors,' 'Brno rumors'."



WILLIAM N. OATIS

Another interpreter also sought to soothe my anxiety.

"Do you think we are stupid? Do you think we would arrest all those people? Do you think we want to make enemies? There are many people we do not arrest. We just call them in and say, 'Look, don't be stupid'."

THE FIRST CONFESSION

I let myself be lulled by these words—as I also let myself be lulled by that same man's sly suggestion that, once I had given the police what they wanted, they would expel me from the country.

That night, I signed my first confession.

In my notes was a list of places in and near Prague reported to be the actual or projected sites of military installations.

I had got this list from Lt.-Col. George L. Atwood, U.S. military attache, when I had gone to him to check a report from another diplomat along the same line.

When the police learned all this, they laid a typewritten sheet before me to sign. It read:

"I. I gathered military information on the territory of the Czechoslovak republic.

"2. I committed espionage on the territory of the Czechoslovak republic."

SHORT LAW COURSE

I refused to sign the paper till I had been made familiar with the law on espionage. I wanted to be sure that gathering information in itself, constituted espionage. And I wanted to know what penalty my signature would lay me open to.

The bald-headed interpreter pulled a Czech legal pamphlet from a file and read me a few paragraphs in English.

Whether he garbled the citations or whether I misunderstood him, I got the idea that the collection of ANY military information in Czechoslovakia is a type of espionage punishable by three months to three years in prison. (Actually, the law deals with SECRET military information.)

I had been made to feel that to deny facts, however damaging, would only make my situation worse. So I signed the paper.

I was still wearing my own clothes, eating meals from the police headquarters canteen and sleeping on a cot in an office, under guard. I was encouraged, to believe, against all logic, that I might go on that way—if I only kept talking.

BLINDFOLDED

"You don't have to worry about Pankrac," one man told me, naming the Prague prison.

On Thursday, I helped the police read my notes, and was allowed to take a tub bath. On Friday, I must have turned stubborn again. That night, a policeman brought me stinking old house-slippers and shapeless blue burlap pajamas. When I had put on this prison uniform I was led around the corner to a cell.

At about 4 a.m. Saturday, a uniformed guard banged on my cell door. He blindfolded me with black cloth-covered goggles and led me into an immense blackness. Suddenly out of that blackness, from what seemed an enormous distance, I heard a loud and menacing shout.

It was none the less sinister for being in the Czech language, of which I understood hardly a word. At once, just as loud and menacing, came the interpretation:

"You are now facing the state power of the Czechoslovak republic."

THEY SHOUTED QUESTIONS

I knew the voices. They were voices of Communist secret policemen that had arrested me five days earlier and questioned me from early morning till late at night on each succeeding day.

Now, boasting of their authority, they started in again, three or four of them talking by turns.

The chief interrogator shouted questions about the list of military sites.

"Where did you get that?" he demanded.

"From Col. Atwood."

"What did you want it for?"

"Just for my own information. I didn't intend to use it in a story."

There were perhaps two hours like that. Then I was allowed to take off my blindfold.

The office had a table and chairs and was not nearly so large as I had imagined. Soft morning light came through the second-floor windows.

Two plainsclothes detectives got me some breakfast.

JAN'S NOTE AGAIN

I was asked about a man named Vladimir Komarek, alias Josef Kulhanek. I had seen the name Komarek for the first time on a police document a few days before. I had heard about the man from my Czech employees. But I had never met him. All I knew was that he was a Czech refugee from Paris who was in and out of his homeland from time to time on mysterious missions.

But three of my employees were acquainted with him, and they were under arrest. And the police said Komarek was a foreign agent, and that another acquaintance of his had shot and killed one of their men some two months before.

I insisted I had never even seen Komarek. So they asked me about another man—Jan Stransky, a former employee of the United Press in Prague.

Stransky, on a Sunday pass from a labor camp where he was serving time for plotting to flee the country, had visited my office, saying he was hunting for Russell Jones, the UP chief in Prague. He said he was going to get out of camp in a few months, and hoped he could get his job back. I agreed to take a note from him and give it to Jones when I saw the latter. Next day I saw Jones at a "world student congress," and gave it to him. He read it and tore it up, throwing away the pieces.

Now the police asked:

"Do you know what was in that letter?"

"No," I said "I didn't read it."

QUESTIONED FOR 24 HOURS

They handed me the letter, pasted together. Stransky had advised Jones that he suspected another United Press employee, a Czech, of being a police spy. He had given the grounds for his suspicion—incidents the police had questioned him about before putting him in the camp.

"Is that espionage?" an interrogator said.

"Yes," I replied.

I should have said, "I don't know."

Instead, I gave the answer the police expected; they were interpreting the law for me, and I felt I must accept their interpretation. They had impressed me that it goes hard for the prisoner failing to admit an obvious fact.

There followed question after question, hour after hour. I had been under interrogation 24 hours. I was dead tired, fighting sleep, swaying on my feet, and they would not let me sit down.

"YOU'LL BE SORRY"

I said, "I'm not going to answer any more questions."

"Why not?"

"I'm sleepy. I'm not going to answer any more questions tonight. I want to go to bed."

"You'll be sorry you said that."

They whisked me downstairs, handcuffed my wrists together in front of me and led me out to a small Skoda sedan. Two policemen were in front. Two others were in back, and I sat between them, blindfolded and bent forward with my head between my knees. I thought, "Here I go to Pankrac Prison."

FLYING "T" FORMATION — Ancient Model "Ts," completely restored, take to the air at Cape May, N.J., for transport to Cleveland, Ohio, where they will be entered in the 7th annual revival of the Glidden auto tours—tours started originally in 1904 to "demonstrate the reliability of the automobile." Owned by former Navy pilot Ralph Cox, Jr., 38, organizer of United States Overseas Airlines, they are, from left, a 1912 "Gentleman's Roadster," a 1909 touring car, and a 1910 Torpedo. The ancient flivvers will wheeze along from Cleveland to Dearborn, Mich., with 341 other antique cars this week.

Short Terms, Hard Labor Good Zoot Suit Punishment

TORONTO (CP)—Short sentences with hard labor were suggested Tuesday as more effective punishment for the "zoot suit type" of criminal than long terms or strapping.

The recommendation came from Prof. Stewart K. Jaffray of the University of Toronto. He told the Ontario legislature's select committee on reform institutions that long prison terms usually do not reform youthful criminals.

Don J. McMaster, executive secretary of the Ontario Civil Service Association, blamed unrest among jail staffs on the fact there is salary inequality between institutions operated by the province and those run by municipalities. He said another reason is that the five-day week is not general.

ATTRACT POOR TYPES

"We are attracting a very poor type of individual into the service at Guelph," he said. "This is a strain on the older men because the new men have to be watched while they are watching the prisoners."

Chairman W. J. Stewart of Toronto said he had learned at North Bay that all that is necessary to send a mentally ill person to jail is for someone to swear out an information before a justice of the peace. He said a warrant then is issued and the person is jailed on a vagrancy charge.

Anti-Red Prisoners Opening Campaign

INDIAN VILLAGE, Korea (AP) Anti-Communist Korean prisoners in Indian custody today opened a campaign to convert the Communist agents who will try to talk them into returning to Red rule.

For 90 days starting about Sept. 25 the Communist representatives will try to change the minds of Korean and Chinese prisoners who refuse to go home.

But today the Koreans hoisted over their stockade banners reading:

"Red explainers, now is the time for you to turn out as anti-Communists if you want freedom."

Toronto Opens Medical Building

TORONTO (CP)—The Charles H. Best Institute, a $1,000,000 building providing facilities for expansion of medical research, was officially opened here Tuesday.

The building is located near Queen's Park in midtown Toronto, beside the structure named in honor of the man with whom Dr. Best discovered insulin, the late Sir Frederick Banting.

The opening was conducted by Sir Henry Dale of Britain, past president of the Royal Society, and winner of the Nobel Prize in medical science.

The institute will provide for expansion of the work of the University of Toronto's Banting and Best department of medical research. Dr. Best will be its director.

PRIMITIVE BELIEF

Accept Resignation Of Police Chief

KITCHENER (CP) — Waterloo township council Tuesday night accepted the resignations of police chief H. J. Schedewitz and of the township police stenographer, Mrs. Fred Weber, who also served as justice of the peace. Both resignations are effective Sept. 30.

Neither the chief nor Mrs. Weber appeared before the council.

The council gave the chief one month's salary, plus three weeks' pay for vacation and one week's pay for overtime.

It is reported the council asked for the chief's resignation several weeks ago when two constables were dismissed.

Tiny Congregation Backs Truro Minister's Broadcasts To Hemisphere

By JOHN MURPHY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TRURO, N.S. (CP)—The People's Church, a fundamentalist sect formed here as a small gospel group six years ago by a dissenting Presbyterian minister, now supports an expanding radio ministry.

When started in 1947 by Rev. Perry F. Rockwood, now 34, the church broadcast to a local audience over a 250-watt station.

This month Mr. Rockwood started using three new short-wave frequencies of a 100,000-watt station from Quito, Ecuador. Earlier he signed a contract for broadcast of his messages over nine United States stations. Toronto's 50,000-watt CFRB also is signed.

The People's Church was founded after Mr. Rockwood was brought before the Halifax-Lunenburg Presbytery for following a "divisive" course in his teachings. He resigned from St. James Presbyterian Church and 17 members of the congregation left with him.

Meetings were held in a vareity of buildings but the group soon managed to construct a church now valued at $100,000.

His congregation in Truro, a town of 14,000, numbers only 76 yet it now supports the far-flung radio ministry and 20 missionaries. A large new church is being constructed.

Three hundred children attend Sunday school at the church, brought there and returned by bus. His Sunday services draw an average of 500 worshippers.

Mr. Rockwood, his wife and three children live a spartan existence with 18 other members of the church staff in a 22-room missionary house at the rear of the church. They eat at a common table and each draws $25 a month out of which to buy clothing, pay dental and medical bills and other expenses.

The church provides food and heat. The other adults help in radio broadcast preparation, printing literature and operating the book room which retails religious books and tracts. A job printing plant has been set up within the church and each month Mr. Rockwood edits and publishes the "People's Pulpit." It has a circulation of 10,000.

Mr. Rockwood says his chief aim is "saving souls" and he believes the Christian life is a warfare. "One reason the broadcasts have gone ahead is that they are definitely helping so many to know the Saviour."

Since the church was established in Truro, Mr. Rockwood has overcome many obstacles. On complaints of citizens the town council made several attempts to stop him preaching on street corners and passed a by-law to prevent him using loud speakers on the church to carry his sermons to listeners outside. This method now has been abandoned in favor of the radio.

The missionary budget for the church this year is $22,000. The seventh conference will be held early in October and has a goal of $25,000 to provide still more field workers.

A native of Pictou county, cradle of Scottish Presbyterianism in Nova Scotia, Mr. Rockwood is a graduate of Acadia University, a Baptist-sponsored institution at Wolfville, N.S., and Knox Presbyterian College at Toronto. He began his ministry at the coal-mining centre of Thorburn, N.S., after working at the New Glasgow Evening News during vacation periods while at College.

RADIO PREACHER — Rev. Perry F. Rockwood, 34, has built a world-wide radio crusade from a small beginning six years ago in Truro, N.S. He founded the Peoples Church there after being brought to trial by the Halifax-Lunenburg Presbytery for following a "divisive" course in his teachings. He resigned from St. James' Presbyterian Church and now has a radio program used by stations in Ecuador, the United States and Canada.

Petes Warned By Thorpe To Keep Clear Of Sin Bin As Mann Series Continues

By DON GRANT, Examiner Staff Reporter

VICTORIA. — With strict orders to stay out of the penalty box, the Peterborough Trailermen will enter the second game of the Mann Cup series tonight against the Victoria Shamrocks at the Memorial Arena. Coach Bob Thorpe pointed out that the Trailermen nearly lost the first game Monday night to highsticking and slashing penalties, the 'Rocks scoring five goals with the Trailermen a man short. While issuing the order for fewer penalties, Thorpe told the team to continue to play the rugged and hard-checking eastern game.

The Rocks most successful play, devised by Whitey Severson and Archie Browning, was their power play, used whenever the Trailermen were one man short. It worked twice to perfection, Larry Booth scoring both times, and those goals put the Rocks back in the game after the Trailermen had taken a 5-1 lead.

On the power play the Rocks station their extra player on the goal crease, right next to the goal post. That player is either Severson, Browning or Booth. Meanwhile the other Rocks keep the short-handed Trailermen busy well out in front, whipping short passes back and forth, often faking attempts for a goal rush. Invariably they managed to break the box to put the crease player in excellent scoring position.

Thorpe realized that the only way to eliminate that play was to have fewer penalties, none at all if possible.

FEW BRUISES

The Trailermen survived the first game with only small bruises, the worst being Thorpe's knee caused when he was crashed to the floor by Bill Bamford. The only other casualty is Dootch Vitarelli who suffered a five-stitch cut when hit by Gary Robinson during a practice session.

The players spent Tuesday playing golf, fishing for salmon at a northern bay near Victoria or just sight-seeing in the city, a number went to see the colorful opening of the British Columbia legislature by Lieutenant-Governor Clarence Wallace whom they met Monday night, when he officially opened the Mann Cup series.

Today they settled down to a quiet day, staying close to the hotel. They followed the pattern set down for the game days, just relaxing in the rooms and lobby or attending a show. Before game-time they rested for two hours in the rooms after an early supper of steak, vegetables and ice cream.

Most of the players pored over the Victoria papers, the Colonist and the Times, and the Vancouver Sun, which carried pictures and stories on the first game. All three papers stressed the Rocks' stage-fright, the face-off abilities of Mason and Thorpe, and the goal-tending of Wootton.

The Colonist described Monday night's first quarter as the worst the Shamrocks has ever played, using adjectives such as "horrible" and "unbelievable." It gave Wootton credit for preventing a successful uphill battle by the Rocks.

HAVE EVERYTHING

Colonist sports editor Jim Tang described the Trailermen as having everything that a "club needs to be good." He emphasized their speed, ruggedness, the close-knit defence and the goaltending.

Yet at the same time Tang pointed out the Trailermen still had trouble with the Rocks who "were not at the peak they reached in the western final."

Tang blamed the Rocks' loss on their nervous first quarter, a weak defensive display and "their old inability to get the ball from the faceoffs."

The Evening Times headed their game story with "stage-fright hits nervous Rocks, caused by playing against fabled Petes." Sports writer Denny Boyd described the Rocks as "a juvenile club" in the first quarter, comparing them to famed opera singers who hit clinkers on opening nights.

Times sports editor, Bill Walker, worked on the David and Goliath theme, only having the Goliaths winning.

Walker also praised Wootton, referring to him as a "third defenceman" and commented at length on Moon roaming "far and wide, seldom giving marksmen a clear target." Walker charged Mason with unnecessary rough play, claiming that he hit Browning two telling blows and clipped Bob Monaghan in the face.

Vancouver Sun's Jack Richards also blamed the Rocks' inexperience in Mann Cup play and their resulting nervousness for their loss. He praised Wootton, telling Vancouver fans that "even the most partisan Victorian fan applauded the outstanding work of Wootton."

BLITZES BOMBERS — John Henry Johnson, a tower of strength in the Calgary Stampeders' 24-13 victory over Winnipeg Blue Bombers, crashes through the Winnipeg line and leaps into the air to score the final touchdown of the game at Calgary. Bud Grant (78) moves in too late to stop Johnson's advance.

Thodos Leads Western Football Scorers

WINNIPEG (CP)—Pete Thodos, veteran from Vancouver, has taken the lead in individual scoring in the Western Interprovincial Football Union.

Statistics compiled by The Canadian Press show the little halfback with five touchdowns and four converts for a total of 29 points in six games, four better than Buddy Korchak of Winnipeg and Herbie Johnson of Saskatchewan Roughriders.

Korchak, all-star flying wing last year and product of Winnipeg minor ranks, has the best variety in his scoring punch, with one touchdown, three field goals, two sinfles and nine converts. His field goal and convert totals are tops in the loop to date.

Johnson, an import back from Notre Dame and the semi-pro Seattle Ramblers, manufactured his 25 points on five majors.

MORE IMPORTS

Three imports follow with 20 points, four touchdowns, apiece. They are Billy Vessels, Edmonton; and Riders' two high-class ends, Mac Speedie and Stan Williams.

Import Neill Armstrong, offensive end and defensive back with Winnipeg, and Calgary's hard-plunging fullback John Henry Johnson. Each has 15 points on three touchdowns.

Far down the scoring list are last year's top two, end Bob Shaw of Calgary and half Tom Casey of Winnipeg. Shaw, who plays only on offence, topped the scoring in 1952 with a record 110 points, but has only one convert to his credit this season. Casey who scored 16 touchdowns last year, has crossed the goal line only once.

East City Evens Up City Bantam Finals

East City defeated Dodgers 4-3 to even their best-of-five PMBA bantam finals at a game each. They play again tonight at six in Riverside Park.

The winners got three runs in the first and added the winner in the sixth, while Dodgers counted two in the fourth and another in the sixth. They had two errors to one. Foley allowed five hits in five and one-third innings, fanning seven and walking three. Anthony took over and gave one hit in one and two-third frames, whiffing a pair and giving no walks. Tetlock got two hits in three tries, one a triple.

Wade hurled three-hit ball, struck out 10 and walked three, but the walks, the few miscues and odd timely hit figuring in the winners' runs. Wade also had two wild pitches. Griffin banged out two hits in three, a double and triple, as Kimball got two for three. Teams:

East City: Fitzgerald, lf; Dinsdale, 2b; Dorrington, ss; Tetlock, 1b; Lustic, c; Crowder, cf; Paul, 3b; Driscoll, rf; Foley, p; Anthony, p.

Dodgers: R. Rowe, 3b; Whitehill, cf; Griffin, 1b; Kimball, rf; Wade, p; Patterson, ss; Riel, lf; W. Rowe, lf; McArthur, c; Casey, c; Gilders, 2b; Hayden, 2b.

Lindsay Combines Lead Final Series

LINDSAY— (ENS) — Lindsay Combines went two games up in their final series with Carruthers and need only one more win to clinch the Lindsay softball championship after their 9-0 win over the Druggists at Victoria Park last night.

Jack Kean went to the mound for the winners for the second straight night and held Carruthers to two hits after allowing only four in a 14-3 pasting on Monday night. Both the losers hits were collected by Jack Graham. Kean's mates collected 11 safeties off Dunc Daynes, in running up the one-sided total. Art Plumpton led the winners at the plate, smacking a homer and two singles. Don Richmond had two singles, as did Ralph Wakelin, and Jack Richards poled a long triple in the fourth.

Combines jumped into a three-run lead in the first and added two runs in the second, third and fourth. Carruthers committed four errors afield while the winners were guilty of only one miscue.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Sad news yesterday out of Oshawa reporting the complete destruction by fire of the fine big hockey arena there. With a whole lot of equipment belonging to various clubs destroyed, too. The fire ruined Boston Bruins' training camp for prospects, and puts the junior "A" and "B" teams, and the senior "B" Truckmen, out of OHA action at least for the time being. Another hefty headache for OHA vice-prexy Frank Buckland here, who was drafting the junior "A" schedule, worrying about the junior "B" grouping up this way, and hoping to work an interlocking senior "B" schedule betwixt this group and one in Toronto. It's really tough all around.

* * * * * *

Only a short time ago, the Cobourg arena burned down, but folks there hope to have the new one rebuilt on insurance money by Jan. 1. Whitby has only started to build a new one. Recent word was that two junior "B" clubs of this district, Belleville and the local IOOF squad, wouldn't operate this year. Stouffville Clippers, too, prefer a Toronto senior "B" setup, if possible. With groups undecided and now a scarcity of arenas in Central Ontario, it'll take some work to line up the hockey semester in these parts to be ready for play in slightly more than a month. It's possible that someone here will take over the junior "B" entry for the winter. What Oshawa will do we can't say.

* * * * * *

Those Future Seniors

While the Petes' Trailermen are stealing the local lacrosse thunder now in Mann Cup finals, three of our minor gutted-stick crews are presently gunning for OLA titles. Showing that the game is being built from the ground up here, Walt Firth and Ed Woodcock take the bantam Petes into "A" finals Saturday in Port Dalhousie. Local midgets, handled by Bill Post and Mac VanAllen, await an "A" finalist in the series betwixt St. Kitts and Parkdale. And our peewees— run by junior players Bob Curtis and Bobby Allan—enter the provincial playoff tournament in Burlington on Sept. 26. A knockdown affair, winner taking it all. That's a mighty fine showing for these PMLA teams to date.

* * * * * *

In view of Peterborough lacrosse activity at present, it's interesting to know that the game is pretty popular among large eastern USA colleges, including Army and Navy. Only they play a 10-man field brand over there, using heavy pads, longer sticks and on a field approximately the size of a football gridiron. A recent article in a Yankee magazine describes it as a rough he-man's game, though not as tough as the lacrosse frays staged away back by American Indians. We wonder why they don't go in for the faster boxla style as in Canada. Ontario teams from time to time have performed in Buffalo and Rochester, but the field game is played further south of the border.

* * * * * *

Refs Lax On The Crease?

Petes' Trailermen apparently came through the first cup final fray okay physically, though Bob Thorpe's knee may give him trouble yet. However, the coach is concerned over the crease rule as interpreted by the refs in the opener and is insisting they enforce this regulation to prevent Victoria forwards going over the protective line around the Wootton citadel. Bob has also ordered his men to stay out of the penalty box, even though they check hard in the eastern style. Penalties nearly beat 'em in the initial playoff, and coastal officials have always frowned on the stiff checking and slashing which OLA referees allow throughout the season. Second of the best-of-seven set is tonight, and third one on Friday.

Two races of two heats each opened the Ex. five-day harness meet at Morrow Park yesterday aft and eve. A Picton pacer, Donald Dale, took both ends of the first race, one for non-winners of $250. The 2.19 event for a purse of $300 saw Peter Direct L., from Ohsweken in Western Ontario, romp home twice ahead of the field of seven. Times were quite good in this nightcap, second heat being clocked in 2.14 flat. A slight drizzle for a space didn't hurt the track any. The Turf Club's invitation race for $500 goes tonight, while tomorrow afternoon it's the 2.24 and the .20 classes, with one at night for non-winners of $2,000. Three races again Friday and on getaway day Saturday, final one being the free-for-all.

Torrid Sets Record In Reading Futurity

READING, Pa. (AP)—Torrid, a two-year-old pacer, set a world record for three miles in three heats on a half-mile track Tuesday in streaking to victory in the $11,397 Reading futurity.

The bay, driven in the Reading Fair grand circuit harness racing event by Buck Minnear, went the distance in 2:03, 2:03, and 2:06 2-5, for a total time of six minutes, 12 2-5 seconds, a record for two-year-olds. The previous record was set in 1929 by Cold Cash who paced the same distance at Malone, N.Y., in 6:19¼.

Torrid, owned by Sherwood Farms of Irvington, N.J., is trained by a woman, Hilda Heydt of Dayton, O.

Local Ladies Capture Open Tourney

With entries from Cannington, Oshawa, Campbellford and Peterborough the local ladies' lawn bowling club closed out the 1953 season yesterday, that is as far as open tournaments are concerned.

Commencing at 10:30 o'clock in fair weather and finishing around six p.m. in rather uncertain weather, Mrs. R. Dyer's local trio came first, Mrs. F. Dawe second, and Mrs. H. Beatty the third three-game winner.

The attendance was not large, but considering the time of the season it was not too bad.

The committee in charge was Mrs. J. Knights, Mrs. H. Wilson, Mrs. N. Killingbeck, and Mrs. L. Bearne.

Tonight: It's mixed rinks. Draw off the board.

WINNERS

First — Peterborough: Mrs. R. Gamble, Mrs. H. Darling, Mrs. R. Dyer, skip.

Second—Peterborough: Mrs. E. Williamson, Mrs. H. Wilson Mrs. F. Dawe, skip.

Third—Peterborough: Mrs. H. Davis, Mrs. R.McVeety Mrs. H. Beatty, skip.

Fourth—Peterborough: Mrs. J. Cullen, Mrs. J. Arnold, Mrs. W. Hepburn, skip.

Fifth—Peterborough: Mrs. J. Martin, Mrs. G. Gimblett, Mrs. H. R. Martin skip.

Sixth—Campbellford: Mrs. N Smith, Mrs. F. Scott, Mrs. F. Rutherford, skip.

Detroit Wings In Training

SAULT STE. MARIE (CP)—Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League completed their second day of training for the coming season here Tuesday and coach Tommy Ivan said he and general manager Jack Adams are well-pleased with the 93 candidates.

"There was almost no weight to be melted off even the bigger men," said Ivan of the players who are trying for jobs with the Wings or their Edmonton and Sherbrooke, Que., farm teams.

First two days of training were confined to light skating, but Ivan said the boys are to start actual practice today. Terry Sawchuk, winner of the Vezina Trophy as the goaltender with the best goals-against average last year, is expected to have a tough fight on his hands to keep his job. Glen Hall, the Edmonton netminder, who appeared in a few games for the Red Wings last year, is considered by onlookers to be a definite threat to Sawchuk's position.

Uniform Scoring Plan Adopted For Boxing

MILWAUKEE (AP)—A uniform scoring system, to go into effect Jan. 1, was adopted Tuesday by the National Boxing Association.

The plan, to be effective in all states affiliated with the NBA, is called the "10 must." It now is used in Minnesota.

Here is how it works:

The winner of a round receives 10 points on the cards kept by the judges and referee. The loser also receives points depending upon the kind of a showing he makes, up to a maximum of nine points.

For example, if one fighter has a decisive edge in a round he gets 10 points but his opponent might only be credited with eight, or less. Conceivably, a fighter badly outclassed in a particular round would receive no points at all.

Total points determine the winner of the fight unless it ends in a knockout.

Reds Beat Giants In 4-3 Victory, Brooks Edge Cards

By BEN PHLEGAR, Associated Press Sports Writer

The 1953 major league baseball season looks as if it's going to be one of those rare years in which the 16 managers who started in April are going to finish in September. Since they have survived this long it's unlikely that any of the skippers will be fired or quit with only a week and a half to go. Post-season changes are another matter. In only 10 other seasons dating back through 1901—the year the American League was organized—have one set of managers gone through the entire year. The last time it happened was 1947. Before that it was 1942.

Even this year didn't escape without strong rumors. In June the odds were strong that Rogers Hornsby, a familiar figure in mid-season changes, wouldn't be around Cincinnati much longer. Hornsby is still there although he hasn't been rehired for 1954.

ROOKIE CLICKS

A cellar-dwelling outfit early in the season, the Redlegs picked up abruptly toward late June and the rumors of a sudden managerial switch died away.

They beat the Giants 4-3 Tuesday night. Four singles and a walk produced four Cincinnati runs in the second inning. Rookie Fred Baczewski scattered eight New York hits for his 10th victory against three losses.

In other National League games Tuesday and Tuesday night Philadelphia Phillies broke Chicago Cubs' 10-game winning streak with a 4-2 decision, Brooklyn edged St. Louis Cards 4-3 on Duke Snider's two-run pinch-hit homer in the ninth and Pittsburgh defeated Milwaukee 7-5.

With the pennant pressure off, Cleveland Indians shaded New York Yankees 1-0 as Bob Lemon won his 20th game. Chicago White Sox whipped Boston 6-0 in the only other American League contest.

Robin Roberts won his 22nd game in stopping the Cubs. He struck out five and walked none.

SNIDER CONNECTS

Snider's home run, his 39th, gave Brooklyn its first victory since clinching the National League flag Saturday. Stan Musial had put St. Louis ahead 3-2 with his 26th home run in the eighth inning. Rookie Bob Milliken, regarded as a possible world series starter, had to quit after five innings with a sore finger. Clem Labine was the winner.

Pittsburgh scored three times in the eighth inning and held off a ninth-inning Milwaukee rally to register its 47th victory, five more than the Pirates won all last season. Frank Thomas and Preston Ward hit back-to-back home runs for the Pirates in the sixth.

Bob Keegan gave the Red Sox only three hits in winning his fifth game. Ted Williams got two singles and Jim Piersall the other. The victory left the White Sox a game behind the second-place Indians.

Monarch Coach Adds 3 Players

TORONTO (CP)—Jack Dorney, coach of Long Branch Monarchs, who lost the first game of the best-of-five Canadian junior lacrosse finals 16-14 to New Westminster Salmonacs Monday, announced Tuesday that he will strengthen his roster with three players from other teams.

Dorney said that in the second game of the series, scheduled for tonight at the suburban Mimico Lacrosse bowl, he will use Joe Caruso and Bill McLaughlin of Brampton Excelsiors, last year's Canadian champions who were eliminated by the Monarchs this year. Denny McIntosh of Oakville Green Gaels will be the third new player to don a Long Branch sweater tonight.

New Westminster, who cannot use players other than those making the trip from British Columbia, will use the same type of play that won them the opener, coach Truck MacDonald said.

Yesterday's Stars

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Pitching—Bob Lemon, Cleveland Indians, won his 20th game of the season, 1-0 over New York Yankees.

Batting—Duke Snider, Brooklyn Dodgers, hit a two-run home run as a pinch hitter in the ninth inning, giving the Dodgers a 4-3 victory over St. Louis Cardinals.

Buffalo Hands Montreal 3-2 Setback

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

An upset and a true-to-form result marked the start of the International League semi-final playoffs.

At Montreal, Buffalo Bisons handed the pre-game favorites, the Royals, a 3-2 setback in the opener of the best-of-seven series Monday night. Meanwhile the pennant-winning Rochester Red Wings came from behind to defeat Baltimore Orioles 4-2 in the first game of their best-of-seven series.

Ken Johnson, who had beaten the Royals only once in four starts during the regular season, held Montreal to three hits in Buffalo's victory. He fanned 11 men, including two pinch-hitters. Montreal's southpaw ace, Tom LaSorda was knocked out of the box in the seventh inning as the Herd bunched four of its eight hits in that frame for two runs.

WRAP UP VICTORY

Back-to-back home runs by Lou Ortiz and Les Fusselman in the eighth inning wrapped up the victory for Rochester. The Wings trailed 2-1 when Wally Moon opened the eighth with a triple. Then Ortiz poled a 345-foot homer and Fusselman delivered another to the same spot.

Ellis (Cot) Deal, second of three Rochester hurlers, was the winner, although he needed help in the ninth from lefty Bob Hoch. Right-hander Howie Fox held the Wings to one run until he tired in the seventh and gave way to Kent Peterson.

DOUKHOBORS PROTEST—Smouldering cornerposts are all that remain of one of the five homes burned during a weekend of violence by the Sons of Freedom Doukhobors at Krestova, B.C. The home-burning and a nude parade were staged in protest against the arrest of 148 men and women members of the sect by the RCMP. The jailed Doukhobors were charged with contributing to juvenile edlinquency when they staged a nude parade in front of a school at Perry Siding following a government order that all B.C. children must attend school.

Dual Check Showing Land Reform In India

BOMBAY — Speedy land reform, more than any other factor, is supposed to have won the Communist revolution in China.

Slow and inadequate land reform, as recent events have shown, might yet lose the democratic revolution in India.

Legislation abolishing landlordism has been passed in most Indian states writes Gordon Graham in The Christian Sciene Monitor. The Indian Government has the intention to give the land to the people, and the people, for the most part, know this.

But is the pace too slow? Will land hunger forment an incurable discontent before land redistribution can assuage it? These are still open questions in India.

A Communist leader said in Bombay recently that there was no basic difference between the aims of Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru's Congress Party and those of the Communist Party of India. The differences are of pace and method. He added that the Congress would lose because it is not fast enough and not radical enough.

WILLING TO LEARN

Studying the success of the 1949-50 armed revolt in Telengana, Hyderabad, where the Communists seized and held, with the people's help, an area almost the size of Massachusetts, one see what this Communist leader meant.

Here the landlords were eliminated the quick way. They were murdered. Here land was redistributed the radical way. It was parceled out to those who assisted in the murders.

And today, watching the painfully slow progress of the Community Projects scheme, assisted by the Technical Co-operation Administration and the Ford Foundation, which is India's democratic effort to achieve agricultural betterment, one sees again what the Communist leader meant.

The people listen. They are willing to learn. They are willing to work. But most of them have no incentive, because most of them have no land. As a result, the impetus of the Community Projects comes too much from above, too little from below.

MAJORITY LANDLESS

Two out of three of India's peasants are landless laborers. This is not alone the result of landlordism. In some parts of India—for example, in Bombay State—scarcely anyone has a holding of more than 25 acres, and the average is well below 10 acres. But the proportion of landless is still enormous.

This bares the real tragedy of India's land problem. There are too many persons for each one ever to have a piece of land of his own of a size big enough to allow economical farming. Even as things are, fragmentation of land by division of family inheritances has reduced productivity dangerously.

An American worker in India had a letter from an acquaintance in the United States telling him how to solve India's land problem. "Roll it out into 300-acre lots. Bulldozers, tractors, and mechanized scientific farming will treble the land's output, and solve India's food economy."

WHAT IS INDIA DOING?

But the letter didn't say what to do with Ram Behari who owns two acres which he got from his father who got it from his father. Ram Behari is not going to give them up. He is not going to see it absorbed into a vast, impersonal co-operative. And there is no Siberia to which Ram Behari and his brother-millions can be shipped in cattle-wagons; and if there was, no one in India would want to send him.

The more one studies India's land problem, the bigger grow the letters, spelling "complex" and "urgent," and the two words are enemies, screaming impotently at each other.

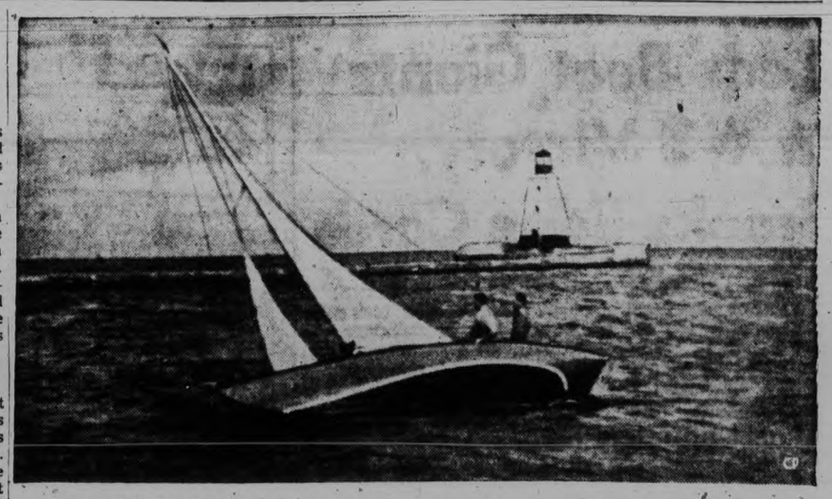
How is India tackling the problem?

In the legislatures of most of India's 29 States, Zamindari Abolition Bills have been passed which say, "all rights, titles and interest of a landlord in the land held under him by an occupancy tenant shall be extinguished." The peasant will pay his rent direct to the government.

Details vary from state to state to fit the different systems of land tenure. In all states, certain minimum holdings are allowed—Kashmir, 23 acres; in Delhi, 40 acres; in Pepsu, 150 acres; in Uttar Pradesh, 30 acres. The aim everywhere is to strike a balance between holdings which are too big for justice and holdings too small for economy. Absentee landlordism is not allowed—the man who owns the land has to farm it.

Two main barriers slow the progress of the government's policy. One is compensation. All the states except Kashmir have agreed to compensate dispossessed landlords. Rates vary from $1.68 an acre in Madras State to $8 in Madhya Pradesh. The zamindars (landlords) demand payment in a single instalment. The government cannot afford this and wants to pay fractionally by negotiable bonds.

The second barrier is the method of redistribution.



TRIP ENDS IN DEATH—A pleasure trip in the rough waters of Toronto's eastern gap ended in death for James Robertson (right), 26, of Winnipeg, who was drowned a few minutes after this dramatic photo was taken. The sloop sank and Robertson's companion, Edward Jull, 39, (left) swam safely 150 yards to shore. Robertson was unable to swim the distance. Ironically, the mast of the sloop remained above water after the vessel sank and the men could have clung to it in safety.

School Debentures Cost Havelock $3,300

HAVELOCK—(ENS) —Havelock council, in two meetings this month dealt with the cost of high school debentures and a citizens' petition on poor driveways.

Havelock's share of unmatured debentures amounts to $39,884.74. Payments for the current year amount to: principal $1,421.23; interest $1,858.77, for a total of $3,300.94.

At the second meeting— the special one—it was decided to discuss with the Department of Highways the advisability of raising Concession St. This decision followed complaints about poor drainage.

Chief of Police R. W. Hall reported 23 occurrences and complaints during August; one article recovered after being reported stolen, one building permit issued, and one dog license sold. Three fires were reported, two motor vehicle accidents, and four charges were laid under the criminal code.

Accounts possed included $6,608 for road work, $600 to Peterborough county for road work.

In the special meeting, acting as court of revision, council struck from the list $193.54 in unpaid taxes, corrected an assessment error. Main accounts passed were $111 for labor on walks, and $336.50 for gravel.

Washington, D.C., has more telephones per capita than any other city in the world; San Francisco second, and Stockholm, Sweden, third.

Jet Transport Flies To Hamilton In 7 Mins.

TORONTO (CP)—An RCAF jet Comet transport flew from Toronto to Hamilton Monday in seven minutes and then took eight minutes from there to Buffalo. The aircraft averaged about 590 miles an hour on the trip.

The Comet was carrying newspaper men on a special flight in conjunction with Saturday's Air Force Day show at the Trenton air base. In 65 minutes the plane covered 520 miles at an average speed of 480 miles an hour.

Believe '53 Wheat Harvest Second Largest On Record

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's western wheat crop still faces severe frost and rust hazards, but government grain experts are convinced the 1953 harvest will be the second largest on record.

The bureau of statistics Tuesday scaled down its Aug. 1 estimate of wheat production by 9,525,000 bushels and placed its Sept. 1 forecast at 594,268,000 bushels. The bureau estimated the crop at 603,793,000 bushels last month.

The new forecast indicates that smaller production this year is not likely to ease the serious grain storage problem, caused by big wheat crops in 1951 and 1952. The problem has been further accentuated by lack of export sales piling up grain on western farms, in country elevators and at terminals.

Stocks of Canadian wheat July 31 were estimated at 362,700,000 bushels. An estimated 92,000,000 bushels were still on farms and 137,200,000 bushels in the country elevators.

The bureau's new estimate of wheat production was based on conditions as they existed Sept. 1. Frost and rust this month could reduce the estimate further, particularly in Alberta where crops are maturing late. However, grain officials here do not believe the reduction will be a major one because of generally satisfactory harvesting operations in Saskatchewan and Manitoba.

The bureau's Sept. 1 forecast of wheat output was below the August estimate due to lower expected production in Alberta and Manitoba. Indicated production in Saskatchewan remains unchanged from the August prediction.

The decline in the Prairie provinces is partly offset by an increased production forecast for Ontario. The new estimate for all wheat production in Ontario is 27,412,000 bushels, against 25,986,000 bushels Aug. 1.

Continued expansion of soybean acreage in Ontario will result in another record crop. This year's production now is placed at 4,800,000 bushels, compared with a 4,100,000 bushel harvest in 1952.

Production of mixed grains, grown chiefly in eastern Canada, is placed at 62,300,000 bushels, compared with 63,200,000 last year.

Sugar beet production is now forecast at about 844,000 tons, compared with 1,023,000 tons last year.

Mayor Requests Frost Intervene

TIMMINS (CP) — The Timmins mayor and council Tuesday night asked Premier Frost to convene a meeting between the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL) and the managements of four strikebound gold mines in this area.

The municipal officials said the municipal future of some 50,000 persons in the Porcupine area is in jeopardy because of the strike which has made upwards of 1,000 miners idle.

Civic officials are reported alarmed by a steady exodus of miners and their families since the strike started July 11. Even employees of working mines are said to be leaving for fear the strike will spread.

Port Dover Town

PORT DOVER (CP)—Port Dover becomes a town on Jan. 1, according to word received from the Ontario municipal board. The council will include a mayor for the first time, and also a reeve, deputy-reeve and six councillors, who will replace the current six-man council.

Fiji Islanders Prepare To Welcome Their Queen

By J. K. STONE

SUVA, Fiji Island (Reuters)—Pageantry full of dignity and rich color, and ceremonial in which every word, and almost every movement has its own significance, will set the keynote for the two-day visit of the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh to Fiji.

Dec. 17, 1953 has already been set down as the greatest day in Fiji's history since Oct. 10, 1874 when the Fijian chiefs and Queen Victoria's emissary signed the deed of cession, under which these islands entered the British Empire.

The visit is the first to Fiji by a reigning British monarch.

The Queen's first view of Suva, the Fiji capital, as the liner Gothic glides through the reef pass leading to Suva harbor is bound to be dramatic—whatever the weather.

Mornings of mid-December are either brilliantly sunny, with the sweeping, reef - sheltered bay a glittering sheet of tropical blue and gold, or dark with rain and the hagged, jungle-covered mountains to the west looming fantastically through trailing curtains of mist.

Suva, a modern, cosmopolitan seaport will be waiting tensely. Its 30,000 people comprising Britons, Fijians, Indians, Chinese and Polynesians, with Indians in the majority, will be augmented by thousands from other parts of the island, or Viti Levu, and from the outer islands.

Inside the coral barrier reef and its flurry of white breakers, a fleet of Fijian canoes will meet the Gothic. These graceful, seemingly fragile craft represent the last descendants of the giant canoes for which the Fijians were famous throughout the south seas in pre-European days.

With the Fijian fleet will go the modern pleasure craft of the Royal Suva Yacht Club.

As the liner drops anchor, coastal batteries manned almost exclusively by Fijian soldiers will fire a 21-gun salute.

The governor, Sir Ronald Garvey, and Lady Garvey will go aboard to meet the Queen and her husband.

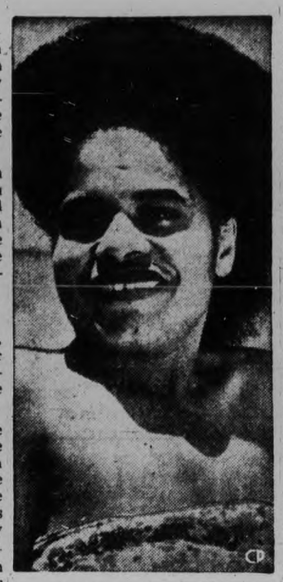
After that, the statliest ceremonies of a proud people will be performed mainly by statuesque, bushy-haired Fijians, wearing only pre-European style garments of Masi (patterned barkcloth), with vivid touches of freshly-gathered colored leaves.

In contrast, some of the high chiefs and Fijians officials, will wear well-tailored lightweight suits with trim sulus (kilts) in the place of trousers.

Aboard the Gothic the first Fijian ceremony will be "Thavtuikelekele"—the traditional formal invitation to the Queen to come ashore.

At the King's wharf, the Queen will receive heaped masses of the softest, finest and rarest of Fijian woven mats and of barkcloth made and selected especially for her.

Ashore, the Royal couple will drive through the heart of Suva to Albert Park, and then on to government house.



WOMEN TO WELCOME QUEEN—An unusual feature of the welcoming ceremonies when the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh visit the Fiji islands next December will be the entry of women into the celebrations. Usually these are left to men, but because the visiting "paramount chief" is a woman, the women will be admitted to the ceremonial. Here is a smiling Fiji girl, bushy hair combed straight up from the scalp in the latest fashion—Fiji-style.

Because the sovereign is a woman, Fijian women will have an unusually prominent place in the ceremonies.

As with men, the women will wear garments of white-and-black patterned bark cloth, and garlands or necklets of brilliant flowers and leaves.

Fijian singing and dancing will link an ancient culture with expressions of loyalty to the throne.

At many points during the Queen's visit she is expected to receive Tambua—a whale's tooth—the formal offering of which implies the highest honor any Fijian can bestow.

The Yanggona (kava) ceremony is an elaborate ritual, unchanged from time immemorial, for the presentation of the greatly valued roots of the Yanggona shrub, the preparation of the drink in a vast wooden bowl, and the offering of it in beautiful cups of polished coconut shell.

If the Queen and her husband take their part in the Yanggona ceremony, they will probably agree that taste for it must be acquired, and that "soapy water" is a reasonably accurate description of the impression given by the first taste.

During her visit, the Queen will be presented with a ring of Fiji gold with a Fijion grey pearl set in diamonds and sapphires.

As plans for the visit are completed, the capital is preparing for an "invasion" which will tax its food and housing resources as never before and double Suva's normal population of 30,000.

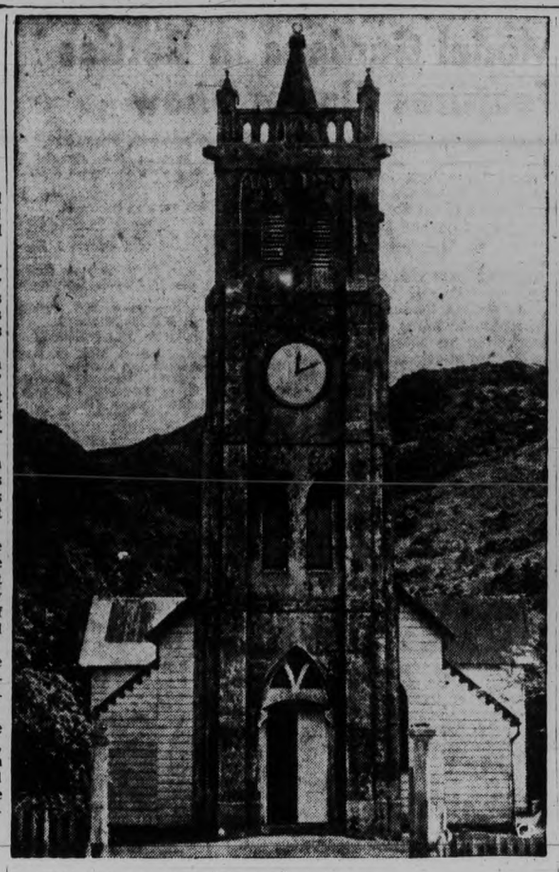
The "invasion" will come from within Fiji, for the "house full" sign is already displayed against possible overseas visitors, apart from the press, radio and newsreel men.

A hurricane in 1952 left Suva with only four hotels. None is large and each closed its bookings months ago for the Royal visit period, Dec. 17-19.

Fijians have a particular love for their sovereign. Even in the remotest village in the remotest island in the group, nearly every house gives a permanent place of honor to pictures of the Royal family.

In many, there is a complete gallery beginning with Queen Victoria and ending with Queen Elizabeth II.

The liner Gothic will sail on the morning of Dec. 19 for Nukualofa, in Tonga, where Queen Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh will spend about six hours as the guests of Queen Salote on the following day.



FIJIANS PLAN ROYAL WELCOME — Conscious that Fiji will be the first Commonwealth call the Queen will make south of the equator on her coming tour, the Fijians have planned a welcome that will set New Zealand and Australia on their mettle. Fijians will flock to Suva for the celebrations in December from most of the 200 islands of the group. Architecture of the tropics is illustrated by this Roman Catholic church at Suva.

Favors Conscription To Beat Communism

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Mayor Camillien Houde of Montreal told the Canadian Club of London Tuesday that if conscription was ever needed to fight communism he would "wage a very long fight to help conscription in Quebec."

"When the chips are down and if it's a matter of principle to save what we have, then I think you can count on Quebec," he said in reply to questions at a luncheon meeting. "And furthermore," he added "if I'm still alive I think you can count on me too."

Speaking on inter-provincial relations between Ontario and Quebec, mayor Houde said: "I think that what will bring us together for good is a common fight against communism."

Farm Product Prices Show July Decrease

OTTAWA (CP)—Prices for farm products slipped in July, with substantially lower prices for livestock and fractional declines in grain more than offsetting increases for potatoes, dairy products, poultry and eggs.

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics today reported that its July index of farm prices of agricultural products, based on 1935-39 equals 100, dropped to 24.9 from 249.9 in June. The Ontario index was 265.2.

Millbrook To Pay 2.25% Of Assessment

MILLBROOK (ENS)—September meeting of Cavan Township Council heard a report on the findings of the arbitration board in regard to the 1953 assessment for Durham County High School Board.

Percentages each community will pay are as follows: Port Hope, 30.25; Bowmanville, 24; Darlington, 16; Clarke, 10.75; Hope, 10.25; Newcastle, 2.75; South Cavan, 3.75; Millbrook, 2.25.

This will mean for Millbrook an increase of about $70 in payments. For Port Hope and Bowmanville, the increase will be more substantial. The new assessment is expected to come into effect in 1954.

Tariff Problem Crops Up Again For U.K.

By ARCH MacKENZIE

LONDON (CP)—Prime Minister Gladstone observed in 1860 that Englishmen without exception were free traders, but not free traders without exception.

The observation still holds good. Britain enters international trade talks Thursday at Geneva, mindful of her need for free world trade. But she is equally aware of the strong domestic political sentiment in favor of maintaining imperial trade preferences traditionally granted Commonwealth countries.

Thus, special significance is being attached here to the single concession she is expected to seek at the Geneva conference on the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade. Reports suggest she will ask permission to impose or increase tariffs on a range of vegetables and soft fruits in a move to shelter her domestic agriculture.

She will also ask that existing Commonwealth preferences on these commodities be allowed to remain unchanged.

ACADEMIC MATTER

The matter has been described as an academic one by a board of trade spokesman. It is incidental that the commodities concerned are outside those governed by Britain's GATT schedule, or that few, if any, of the commodities are supplied by Commonwealth countries.

Under the broad GATT principles of 1947, the Commonwealth agreed to ban new imperial preferences and expansion of existing ones. Technically, therefore, Britain should apply any tariff increases or additions to Commonwealth countries, too.

Yet to legislate changes in existing preferences, mostly dating from the 1932 Ottawa trade conference, would probably go against the grain in Conservative Party circles.

Will Not Return Polish Interpreter

MUNSAN (AP)—The United Nations command told the Communists today that Polish interpreter Jan Hajdukiewicz would not be returned and branded as "completely false" Red charges that he was kidnapped.

Hajdukiewicz, 28, a civilian interpreter, bolted from a neutral nations inspection team and was given political asylum last Wednesday at Kangnung air base in South Korea.

The Polish delegation at Panmunjom protested and charged that Hajdukiewicz was kidnapped. They demanded his immediate return.

Bomb Explodes At Barber Shop

DETROIT (CP)—A barber shop which advertised bargain hair-cut prices was wrecked and four nearby shops were damaged when a dynamite bomb exploded early Tuesday in the doorway of the shop. No one was injured.

The shop was one of four operated by Julian Skowron and offered hair cuts for 85 cents. The union rate in the Detroit area is $1.50.

Detective William McCord said Skowron has had a long history of labor trouble. In 1941 Skowron organized local No. 1, Independent Barbers Union of Michigan. Since then he has been charging rates lower than those set by the AFL Barbers' Union. His shops have been picketed on several occasions by the later union.

Skowron said he plans to continue his lower prices.

Lakefield Youngster Gashes Head In Fall

Brenda Payne, two-and-a-half-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Orville Payne of Lakefield, fell Friday evening at her home and struck her head on the corner of a cement block.

The resulting gash, just above her left eye, required eight stitches to close. She was attended by Dr. Lloyd Bailey, and further treated at St. Joseph's Hospital.

Arrangements Ready Soon For Alberta Gas

By JOHN E. BIRD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government hopes arrangements will be reached soon to pipe Alberta natural gas to Ontario and thus eliminate plans to bring Texas gas into the province.

Movement of the western gas to eastern Canadian markets will involve the federal government and the provinces of Alberta and Ontario. Initial talks are scheduled to open today at Niagara Falls, Ont., at a meeting of provincial mines ministers attended by Mines Minister Prudham, Premier Frost of Ontario and Premier Manning of Alberta, who also is provincial mines minister.

The Niagara Falls meeting is being held following a U.S. Federal Power Commission order granting the Tennessee Gas Transmission Company of Houston, Texas, a permit to move some 22,000,000 cubic feet of gas annually to the Canadian border. The plan is for the Consumers' Gas Co. of Toronto to move the gas from the border by pipeline for sale in the Toronto area.

PREFER ALBERTA PLAN

The federal government has taken the position that the natural gas needs of eastern Canada should be filled by Alberta through an all-Canadian pipeline. The Ontario government also favors this idea because the gas will be available to more of Ontario than the Toronto area.

The federal position at the Niagara Falls meeting will be that "there is sufficient gas in Alberta to serve the Ontario market without importing American gas," a mines department official said.

Hearings on applications for licences to export Alberta gas still are continuing before the Alberta petroleum and natural gas conservation board, and are not expected to end for at least two weeks.

YANKS BETTER IN '54?

NEW YORK (AP)—Casey Stengel served notice to the rest of the American League Tuesday that the Yankees are going to be "better than ever next year."

Now that he has his record-breaking fifth straight pennant, the grizzled New York manager is going after No. 6 with a vengeance.

"In 1954 we could have the best team we ever did have," said Casey happily. "It will be a pleasure for me to be back managing it, too.

"Sure, at one stage of my career here I did think of quitting. It was at the end of the 1951 season. But now, after five straight my interest is at its peak."

Then Casey, who has one more year to go on his two-year contract, discussed his 1954 team. The present club clinched the pennant earlier than any of his other four flag winners.

"This team is still improving," said the 62-year-old manager. "My infield will be stronger. Phil Rizzuto showed he hasn't slipped. Gerry Coleman's return (from the Marines) gives me the second shortstop I didn't have this season.

"Gil McDougald and Andy Carey at third, Billy Martin, McDougald and Coleman at second, all give me stronger protection than I had this spring.

"There's nothing wrong with our outfielders, either."

Then he discussed the one possible weak spot in his preview of '54.

"Our pitching for next year will be a little aged."

He was referring to Ed Lopat, Allie Reynolds and Johnny Sain (all three will be 36 next year) and Vic Raschi (who will be 35).

WOMAN ON JUMPING TEAM

TORONTO (CP) — Blonde, 18-year-old Shirley Thomas from Ottawa, will be the first woman rider ever to represent Canada in international equestrian jumping competition.

Donald Umphrey, acting chairman of the international equestrian competitions committee of the Canadian Horse Show Association, said Monday Miss Thomas has been chosen as one member of Canada's jumping team for 1953. The girl, astride her Palamino jumper Revlon's Princess Midas, won the Perpetual Challenge Trophy Saturday at the Canadian National Exhibition horse show here.

LACH INKS CONTRACT

MONTREAL (CP)—Elmer Lach, one of the National Hockey League's veterans, signed a contract Tuesday to play with Montreal Canadiens for his 14th year, club headquarters announced. Lach who started his NHL career with the Canadiens in 1940-41, holds the all-time NHL record for regular season scoring with 210 goals and 388 assists for 598 points.

CANADIENS BUY LUND

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League announced Tuesday purchase of Joe Lund of Cleveland Barons of the American Hockey League.

Lund, a native of Helsinki, Finland, came to Canada as a youngster, and has played with St. Louis, Indianapolis, Buffalo and Providence.

SMYSLOV KEEPS LEAD

ZURICH, Switzerland (CP)—Vassily Smyslov of Russia and Samuel Reshevsky of the United States played to a draw in the 10th round of the 15-round world chess challengers' championship tournament Tuesday. The Russian player continues in the lead with 6½ points. Reshevsky, with six points, held second place.

Union Discusses Bylaws

QUEBEC (CP)—A general meeting of the 400 delegates to the annual convention of the Canadian Catholic Confederation of Labor today was to resume discussion of a new strike-fund bylaw.

The delegates, representing more than 100,000 workers in Quebec province, Tuesday gave committee approval to the bylaws but rejected a plan to discourage "scabbing."

Delegates approved a schedule of strike pay of $10 weekly for unmarried workers and $20 weekly for married workers.

REJECT PROPOSAL

But they rejected a proposal to make every striker declare himself in writing indebted to his union for the amount received in strike pay.

The proposal was supported by Rodolphe Hamel and Rene Gosselin, leaders of the asbestos strike of 1949 and the Louiseville textile strike respectively.

Hamel said the plan would "help convince" workers to remain on strike until an official settlement is reached.

Other delegates said the plan was not acceptable. One called it a form of "blackmail."

Missionary Describes 35 Years In China

SPRINGVILLE (ENS). — The WMS entertained members from Bensfort, Bailieboro, Centreville, Fraserville, Mount Pleasant, and Fairmount.

Guest speaker was Miss G. Clark, who has recently returned from China after serving 35 years as a missionary in that country. Miss Clark told of her work there and pleaded with the audience to pray earnestly for all Chinese Christians.

The speaker was introduced by Mrs. Gordon McIntosh. Mrs. Lloyd Whittington moved the vote of thanks.

Mrs. Wood of Bensfort and Mrs. McBain and Mrs. E. McCarrol entertained with musical numbers. A social hour was enjoyed.

Havelock News

Mrs. Robert Hanlon has returned from Civic Hospital where she underwent an operation.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Lloyd and Jean, of Belleville, were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Barton. Sunday guests at the Barton home were Mr. and Mrs. William Hinds, of Wellman's Corners and Mr. Charles and Miss Pearl Barton, of Havelock.

Former Cripple Now Champ Brings Honor to Vancouver

VANCOUVER (CP)—Vancouver, a Cinderella city which now and then comes up with an unsung youngster who attains world fame in sport, played host Tuesday to her latest man of the hour.

First it was Percy Williams, who raced his way into immortality and the record books at the 1932 Olympic Games.

It happened again a year later when Jimmy McLarnin became welterweight boxing champion of the world.

Tuesday Doug Hepburn, the former cripple who lifted 1,030¼ pounds and the world weightlifting title to his rock-hard shoulders, came home to become No. 3.

And he came home with lush offers from big sport business in the United States.

A bar bell company in New York is hot after Canada's Samson to endorse their products, but Doug is undecided.

NOT TOO INTERESTED

"I am not particularly interested in money," he said. And he means it. He has had a long-time standing offer to train as a wrestler at $500 a month plus expenses during the training period.

But how much he is considering this new offer—which he declined to amplify—is another thing.

"I have to live and I eat heavy," he said. "We shall see."

For the boy who was born with a deformed right foot and shrunken right leg, there will be no resting on his laurels.

"Listen," he says. "I got a pep talk in New York where I stopped in for a couple of days on my way home. The Weider (bar-bell) people told me about this kid down in Tennessee—just 20—who just the other week totalled 1,050 pounds in three lifts. And he's 20—get it—just 20! Man, I can't take it easy too long with that guy around."

Model Gardens In Bottles Features Flower Show

Driftwood fashioned into table decorations, and miniature gardens in glass jars, are specialities in the children's class at the flower show of the Exhibition displayed by boys and girls tutored by Mrs. O. V. Lupton, Clonsilla Ave.

Some of these young artists are pupils at Prince of Wales School. Nature shaped the scraps of wood into irregular forms challenging imagination to recognize their possibilities of decoration use. The wood has been hardened by weather and water, can be smoothed and polished, and enhanced in combination with bits of vines or flowers with attractive effect. It is a free art, appealing to abstraction of design, and is apparently a stimulus to one phase of education.

SPECIAL SECTION

The tiny gardens in glass containers are grouped in a section of the prize list bearing the name terrarium. This notation suggest the project "Disused fish—tank or glass jar such as an empty gum jar may be used. Sand or moss may be used as planting medium for small plants, stones or other ornaments of decorative effect."

Several of the jars are domestic sealers for preserved fruit. Another type traces to the old fashioned grocery store, with its square jars and round top in which gum and candy was kept. Several containers of other shape are so small, about three inches high, one wonders how the children could suceed in placing anything in them.

As for the flower show itself, William C. Wilks remarked Tuesday: "It's just what August made it." And this recent August may be remembered for its succession of weeks of dry, hot weather. Conspicuously absent is the quantity of gladioli blooms which in favorable weather monopolized length of bench display. Anyway, the middle of September is rather late for "glads."

LATER BLOOMS

The later bloom such as dahlias, zinnias, asters, marigolds, and so on, are in splendid size and color.

George W. Downer, Morrow St. dahlia grower for years, is again prominent with these dominating flowers. September is the month of the aster, and their collection in the show is pervaded with their wholesome fragrance.

Commercial florists have contributed attractive displays emphasizing landscaping of home grounds with shrubs and plants that time and care develop into value and beauty.

People interested in roses will probably find the table of named varieties shown by Joseph G. Schraven of Bowmanville. A comparitively new floribunda, named Fashion, with yellow petals broadly fringed with orange, is worth noting either for planting this fall or next spring. Orange Triumph appears to be more red than orange, is a prolific bloomer, and hardy. Golden Rapture is beautiful yellow rose. Pride of the collection Tuesday was the deep red Crimson Glory. Other varieties were included in the display.

The freshest roses in the show, appearing healthy and well cared for was the basket than won first prize for Mrs. A. Heideman of Chemong Park. The judge was A. E. Hicks of Lindsay, whose comment was that considering the four or five weeks of drought with which summer ended, the flowers and plants are surprisingly good.

Rev. V. E. R. Zufelt, United Church minister at Omemee, was frequent winner throughout the list, and especially in annuals and perennials. Horticulture is his hobby.

Results of the judging were:

Stranahan, Carr Eliminated In Second Round Of Tourney

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — A paunchy chicken-and-egg man from Florida and a Mississippi college boy Tuesday eliminated Frank Stranahan and British amateur champion Joe Carr in the second round of the United States amateur golf tournament.

Les Handt, 39-year-old combination poultry farmer and financier, put the skids under Stranahan, two-time British amateur champion, 4 and 3, clinching the match with a 15-foot downhill putt for a birdie deuce on the short 15th hole.

Edward Merrins of Meridian, Miss., 21-year-old Louisiana State University student, ousted Carr, the pride of Dublin, 2 up, when a bold gamble by the Irishman on the last hole failed.

Merrins three times took the lead from the British champion—the last time at the 15th—and held on to win on the final green.

Congressman Jack Westland from Everett, Wash., the defending champion, and seven of his Walker Cup teammates pushed through to the third round.

The 48-year-old Westland shot steady par golf to eliminate Randy Carey, a 19-year-old left-handed collegian from Denver, 3 and 2.

Tagaileen Wins Championship

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—The mare Tagaileen owned by Dr. J. Boivaird of London won the grand championship of the thoroughbred and registered Canadian hunter classes at the Western Fair horse show Tuesday.

Reserve grand championships in both cases were won by the mare Lydia Chase, owned by Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Rundle, RR 5, St. Thomas.

McDonald Motor Sales of Glencoe with progeny-of-dam won the grand championship in the standard bred class for stallions.

In registered hackney ponies, J. H. Fulcher, St. Marys, took the grand champion and reserve awards for mares with Cassillis Easter Charm and Black Melody. Whitegate Boy, owned by W. A. Burke, Port Stanley, was grand champion stallion.

In the Jersey cattle championship competition Cora's Basil Lad owned by O. W. Sinclair and Son of Cainsville was awarded the grand champion bull award. Bell City Butters Boy Middy owned by N. Butcher and Son of St. George and Princeton took the female grand championship.

More Tourists

STOCKHOLM (CP) — A record tourist influx to Sweden is being experienced this year with an average increase of about 17 per cent. Tourist traffic increased from the United States and many other countries, but British visitors were slightly fewer.

Oshawa Pair Realize Big Ambition

LONDON (CP)—Barry Authors and Howard Swinson of Oshawa, Ont., are going to realize their big ambition this fall after all.

They are booked to appear at the London Palladium, mecca of Britain's variety entertainment world, for a one-week spell starting Sept. 28.

Authors and Swinson, 20 and 22, will appear on the same program as American singer Frankie Laine, jukebox favorite currently packing in the 'teen-agers.

The Oshawa pair are mime impersonators who base their act on takeoffs performed to recorded music. They have had a big success in Britain since landing last fall, but had to pass up their hearts' desire, a Palladium performance, when the first chance came. They were too busy.

Playful Sea Otters Thriving Under Protection of Laws

WASHINGTON — The sea otter playful swimmer with a valuable fur coat and extraordinary table manners, may regain influence in lands it helped develop.

Luxurious sea otter fur attracted first Russian and then British, French and American hunters of the 18th and 19th centuries to Alaska. It prompted Spaniards to speed the development of California. As many as 50,000 otters were slaughtered in a single year, and the kind was nearly exterminated.

Rigidly protected since 1910, sea otters are increasing and may number 8,000 in American coastal waters of the Aleutian Islands, Alaska, and California. Other colonies live in Siberian coastal waters.

INCREASE IS SLOW

Wildlife experts are considering taking a few specimens each year to study the effect of controlled hunting. The colony at Amchitka Island in the Aleutians seems to be getting crowded, with a population of 2,500.

The shy, wary sea otters have only one pup at a time. So far, no one has been able to rear or even keep them in captivity.

They are 75-pound, four-foot animals with thick round tails and grizzled, bewhiskered faces. Clumsy on land, where they seldom go except to sleep and to bear their young, otters are graceful in the ocean, somersaulting and diving to great depths with the aid of flipperlike webbed hind limbs.

LIKE KELP BEDS

Sea otters frequent kelp beds where they find shelter from storms and killer whales. They have been observed floating on their backs, playfully tossing and catching bits of kelp in their paws or affectionately cradling their young.

Their food consists of sea urchins and mollusks. To crack the shells of this fare, an otter brings a stone up from the sea bottom, lies backward in the water, places the stone on its chest and then, grasping the shellfish in its two paws, hammers the intended meal against the rock. The animal's own chest is its dining table.

Sea otter fur is dense, durable, medium length and glossy black or brown, often flecked with silver grey. It was long prized alike by European noblemen and Chinese mandarins, who used it chiefly for coat collars and trim for capes and robes.

Furriers believe otter pelts may be too heavy for today's fur coats. The fur has been too long off American markets to have any established value here, but in the old days a single pelt sold for as much as $2,500.

Have 60 More Days To Accept Licence

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. power commission Tuesday gave New York state 60 more days in which to accept a licence for construction of the American half of the $600,000,000 St. Lawrence river power project.

Originally, the state's power authority would have been required to accept the licence no later than Sept. 15.

The additional time was requested by Charles M. Goetz, counsel for the authority. He made the request in view of the possibility that an unsuccessful applicant for the St. Lawrence project licence, Public Power and Water Co., Trenton, N.J., a private firm, would seek a court order for a rehearing of the case.

All Of Canada Must Share In Prosperity

EDMONTON (CP) — If Canada is to be truly prosperous, all parts of the country must share equitably in the prosperity, Lewis W. Simms of Saint John, N.B., said Tuesday in an address prepared for the Canadian Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Simms, the chamber's president, said his theme during his year of office had been "the overcoming of sectional difficulties, and the importance of Canadian solidarity."

Into the picture of "sectional discrepancies" had come freight rates as they apply to the Maritime provinces and he commented:

BROAD VIEWPOINT

"One cautious observer remarked that . . . now that I was national president of the chamber I would, of course, have to resign as chairman of the Maritime provinces transportation commission.

"I replied that if in the long history of the Maritimes transportation commission, he or any one else could find a single instance where it adopted any policy which could not be demonstrated as truly national in its implications as it was sectional, then there would be some validity to his suggestion."

Takes Slap At Restrictions

SEATTLE (CP)—Harold E. Fellows, president of the U. S. National Association of Radio and Television Broadcasters, took a slap at the International Boxing Association Tuesday for coverage restrictions it placed on the forthcoming Marciano-LaStarza championship fight.

He described the action as "arbitrary and capricious" and said it "overlooks the interests of the public itself."

"I do not believe broadcasters of the nation will abide much longer such discriminatory acts," he said.

James Norris, IBA president, Monday issued a statement forbidding broadcasts of blow-by-blow accounts of the bout Sept. 24. Norris did permit, however, the use of such accounts by newspapers and wire services, which serve many radio stations.

Fellows said he had "no doubt" Norris, as the promoter, had certain rights regarding coverage of the fight, but it did not seem right that he should "abrogate the contracts existing between such wire services and stations" by forbidding broadcast of the wire services' coverage.

Churchill To Take Vacation In France

LONDON (CP)—Prime Minister Churchill probably will fly to the south of France for a short vacation late this week, a government spokesman announced today.

The British leader had been invited to stay at the villa of Lord Beaverbrook, Canadian-born newspaper magnate who is his long-time friend.

Churchill's office is expected to announce details of his plans Wednesday after the British cabinet meets.

B.C. Legislature Opens Session

VICTORIA (CP) — Lieutenant-Governor Clarence Wallace Tuesday opened the first session of British Columbia's 24th legislature.

The speech from the throne revealed a new Social Credit government bill which will establish the principle of "equal pay for equal work."

The measures outlined included:

A new liquor law based on the findings of the Stevens commission.

Amendments to increase the sales tax exemption on meals. The government pledged during the last assembly to lift the exemption from 50 cents to $1.

Reduction of automobile licence fees.

New laws to aid in solving the Doukhobor problem, including legalization of the "bread and salt" marriage ceremony.

Polio-Stricken Family

TERRANOVA (CP)—Polio has stricken three members of a family here, causing death to two of them.

A 16-year-old son died in a Toronto hospital Monday and a nine-year-old daughter died in the same hospital 12 days ago. Another son is in satisfactory condition at the Toronto Isolation Hospital.

Terranova is in the Shelbourne district about 50 miles northwest of Toronto.

Gore's Landing Holds Anniversary Service

GORE'S LANDING (ENS) — Annual anniversary services of Gore's Landing United Church were held Sunday. Guest preacher for both occasions was the Rev. Robert Kitchen, of Orono United Church, formerly a missionary in China.

Mr. Kitchen spoke briefly to the many children present. His sermon was entitled, "The Challenge of Life," taking his text from Deuteronomy.

The sermon by Mr. Kitchen in the evening was entitled "God's Handwriting" from the text in Psalm 90. Mr. Kitchen chose his subject from summer reflections during a recent vacation when he explored the beauties of Canada.

Report Steel Union Will Call Strikes

TORONTO (CP)—The Globe and Mail says today in a Montreal dispatch the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL) is preparing to call strikes at the two largest mines in the Timmins area, McIntyre and Hollinger, possibly this week.

The story by Wilfred List, the paper's labor reporter, says the steel union has sent extra staff members to the Timmins district to guide the strikes that have already shut down four other gold mines, Broulan Reef, Preston East Dome, Hallnor and Delnite.

The paper also quotes Leo Behie, Timmins district supervisor of the union, as saying in Timmins that strike action is planned. However, Mr. Behie would not say the mines will be struck by the end of the week.

JUST A SHORT CIRCUIT

City firemen had one alarm Tuesday. They went to the apartment of H. R. Armstrong, 192 Hunter St., after a vacuum cleaner had a short circuit and began to smoke. There was no fire damage.

PRESBYTERY MEETS HERE

Quarterly meeting of the Peterborough Presbytery of the Presbyterian Church will be held at St. Paul's Church here December 8. Fall meeting was held Tuesday in Cobourg.

POLICE AT EXHIBITION

A force of six police officers, headed by Deputy-Chief John Naples will be on duty at all times during the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition. Other officers, outside the fair grounds, will direct traffic in the area.

15 CASES OF POLIO TO DATE

Dr. J. P. Wells, Medical Officer of Health reported two more cases of polio today. They are a 15-month-old boy and three-year-old boy. At present both are in the isolation wing of the Civic Hospital. This brings the total of polio cases for the year in the city and district to 15.

PUMPER ON PREVENTION DUTY

For the first time in several years, the fire department has placed a truck on the Exhibition grounds as a safety measure. The vehicle, a pumper truck, is not for "display" purposes, Captain Albert Mason pointed out, but to save time in case of a blaze on the grounds.

RESIGNS FROM BOARD

City council has accepted with regret the resignation from the Public Library Board of the Rev. Edgar C. Moore, former rector of St. George's Anglican Church who, since his retirement, has moved to Young's Point. Mr. Moore has been one of city council's three appointees to the board since 1944.

TWO BIKES WON

Three draws were made in front of the Exhibition grandstand on Tuesday afternoon on admission tickets for prizes donated by D. A. McGillis. The girl's bicycle was won by Joan Berry of 554 Alymer St., the boy's bike by Ronald White, 655 Stormant Ave., and the ladies' prize, a mixmaster, by Mrs. Walter Dodd, 302 Braidwood Ave.

LINING UP at every ride, city and district children kept midway rides and games busy all afternoon at the children's day at the Peterborough exhibition and managed to see all the exhibits as well. —(Examiner Staff Photos)

7,584 Children Invade Exhibition For Annual Bout

Imagine 7,584 children all going to the same place, all staying the same length of time and all going home together. Throw in pink candy floss, free hats, hot dogs and a merry-go-round and other rides and you'll have some idea of Children's Day at the Peterborough Exhibition Tuesday.

Kids will be kids and they showed it during the afternoon. They poked fingers at the caged poultry exhibits, patted the prize bulls on the head and listened in awe to the pitchmen.

Children sniffed flowers in the horticultural building, tested out new cars on display, parted with nickels and dimes for the rides, and stood on tiptoe to look into horse stalls.

Crowding into the grandstand during the afternoon the children watched pony judging and sulky races.

LOTS TO EAT

Before and after that, they stood in line for all sorts of delicious food: hot dogs, candy floss, ice cream, pop corn, peanuts, soft drinks and chocolate bars.

On top of this, reduced prices prompted most of the youngsters to go on the rides.

There were rides that shook them, bounced them, spun them and turned them; all of which, of course, they enjoyed immensely.

They were disappointed when they lost a game of bingo and jubilant when they won plaster dolls while throwing darts at balloons.

They came singly and in groups. The smaller ones came with their mothers, and under their mothers' benevolent eyes, enjoyed themselves on the merry-go-rounds and kiddies' rides.

Everybody got a free cardboard Indian bonnet and a chance to win a bicycle.

At the gate, children were admitted free and on the rides, were charged only 10 cents. All Peterborough public and separate schools were released for the afternoon.

And, according to an exhibition official, not very many kiddies were lost during the afternoon and those that were, were soon found again.

Put Gas Tanks Underground Council Orders

Two oil companies have been given until the end of March to place their storage tanks in the city underground.

City council passed a bylaw two years ago requiring that oil storage tanks be located underground as a fire safety measure. The bylaw applied to the entire city except a small area east of the Trent canal where there was a negligible fire hazard to other properties.

Oil companies were given until December 31, 1952, to remove any surface storage tanks within the city. All the companies complied with the exception of the Cities Service Oil Co. and the Canadian Oil Companies. Subsequently, Ald. T. D. Miller and City Clerk E. A. Outram were appointed a committee to investigate.

The Cities Service Oil Co. informed council that enforcement of the bylaw would put the company out of business in Peterborough. It would entail installation of two 15,000-gallon tanks at a cost of approximately $8,000.

The company said they would hesitate to spend the money on land which was now under a short-term lease. An alternative site would involve an expenditure of about $20,000.

The Canadian Oil Companies said their present property was not large enough for underground installation. They wanted to locate on a much larger property on a railway siding on the city's outskirts. They wouldn't be able to make an immediate decision on the change of site and asked the city to postpone enforcement of the bylaw in their case for six months.

The finance committee of city council has given both companies until the end of March to remove their surface tanks.

Wet Stage Cancels Show At Grandstand

A sparse grandstand crowd, limited probably by rain and chill weather, was disappointed Tuesday night when the grandstand show was cancelled. Cause was the wet, slippery stage which could not be dried in time.

The single harness race — two heats of the 2.1 class —was run off, and several numbers were played by the Citizens' Band. The stage show started, then the master of ceremonies made the announcement that rain checks would be given to the crowd.

The Moffatt Family played and sang several western songs, then Dimes Wilson did his comical table balancing act, before the show was officially cancelled.

Chemicals needed to dry stage would be available for tonight's show, if they are required, the emcee said.

The rainfall, which was merely a light shower in most of the city, affected the south end more than anywhere else. Counting an overnight rain, which fell sometime before 6 a.m. today, a total of .07 inches of rain fell Tuesday.

Break Windows Of Schools 'Summer Sport'

Vandals have been responsible for a large number of broken windows at city schools in the last year, and particularly in the summer months. The two schools where the heaviest damage has been reported are Armour Heights in Ashburnham and Prince of Wales on Monaghan Rd.

"The replacement of broken glass can no longer be classed as a minor repair," Charles Huffman, chairman of the property committee has informed the Board of Education. "A great deal of it is occasioned by deliberate vandalism which is particularly marked in the Prince of Wales area."

Mr. Huffman described the stone throwing as fast becoming "one of the favorite outdoor sports" in those areas.

Now that the holidays are over the destruction has tapered off. But before the Board maintenance men went on holidays at the beginning of September they had to put in 53 panes of glass at Prince of Wales. Another 19 panes were broken at Armour Heights.

Two boys were caught in the act of breaking windows at Armour Heights and were disciplined by Juvenile Court.

Mr. Huffman also praised the maintenance staff for the volume of work they accomplished during the summer months. Here is a summary of the larger projects that have either been completed or are under way:

CENTRAL SCHOOL

Outside of both buildings painted; new eavestroughing; metal roof painted; girls' washroom renovated.

KING EDWARD

Chimney increased 10 feet in length to correct a downdraft.

KING GEORGE SCHOOL

New inlet water valve installed and cupboards and sink installed as requested by the Home and School Association.

PRINCE OF WALES

Schoolyard at rear of annex cleared and graded; blackboard lights installed in the basement room which was also painted and now used as classroom; and partitions and seats in both washrooms in the old building repainted.

QUEEN MARY

Part of the yard, in the angle between the new and old sections of the building, was paved; all classrooms in the old section of the building painted; and a roof baffle built on the roof over the main entrance to protect people coming in from being showered with rain water.

QUEEN ALEXANDRA

Girls' washroom renovated, partitions and doors installed; furniture in the teachers' room recovered and new furniture added; curtains replaced and cupboard built in; sink and cupboards installed in the room adjoining the kindergarten; new chalkboard placed across the front of the principal's room; temporary roof repairs (a new roof will be needed next year); and the entrance to the school painted.

PARKHILL

A new chalkboard installed in one of the older rooms.

CONFEDERATION

Strip of paving laid south of the school to cover an area that has always been wet and muddy in the spring and fall.

GROVE

Temporary sewer connections replaced by direction connection to school; fresh stone laid adjoining the girls' and boys' entrances; and one of the basement rooms fitted as a classroom.

PCVS

Painting of auditorium completed; new doorway built in the basement to make the former girls' lunch room available as a storage room for cadet equipment; boys' washroom painted and plaster repaired; fifty lockers were purchased and installed; work started on replacing eavestroughing on the older part of the building; repointing and repairs to brick and stone work on outside of the building; guards for gymnasium lights and a trophy case have been ordered but not yet received.

SOUTH CENTRAL

Preparation of the new Junior Machine Shop done by the maintenance department. Because of the weight of the machinery on the floor, steel trusses were put in to reinforce the existing beams.

DR. EDWIN M. ROBERTSON, head of the department of obstetrics and gynaecology of the Kingston General Hospital, who is to speak Saturday at the campaign conference of the Canadian Cancer Society, Ontario division, being held this week-end at Club Whitesands. Dr. Robertson is Scottish and came to this country in 1939 as professor of obstetrics and gynaecology at Queen's University. He is now consulting gynaecologist for the Ontario Cancer Foundation Kingston division.

Cancer Society To Hold Conference Here

The fourth annual Campaign Conference of Ontario Division of the Canadian Cancer Society is being held this weekend at Club Whitesands, Lake Catchacoma. Mrs. Maurice Holt, president of the Peterborough Unit of the Society, will be hostess, with Frank Foster, chairman of the campaign last spring the official delegate, from the unit.

President of Ontario Division E. S. Welch of Toronto, who will preside for the conference, has been assisted in arranging a program by executive secreary Maurice Grimes.

Delegates will be from Toronto, Brantford, Chatham, Port Erie, Hamilton, Welland, Richmond Hill, Woodstock, Kingston, Gananoque, Ottawa, Fort William, Aurora, Port Arthur, Niagara Falls, Sarnia, Guelph, Dunnville, St. Thomas, Oshawa, Stratford, Timmins, Windsor, Brampton and Peterborough units.

Accommodation for only 66 has limited the number of interested people who can attend with the official delegates, and more than 30 applications had to be refused.

REGISTER IN CITY

Registrations will be taken at the office of the Peterborough Unit, 440 Water Street, Friday morning, and at one o'clock all will assemble at the Kawartha Golf and Country Club for luncheon. Mayor Hugh Waddell will then welcome the out-of-towners to the city and the Kawartha district and James Fraser of the Chamber of Commerce will tell them some interesting facts about both.

Speaker for dinner at Club Whitesands Friday evening will be James G. Wharry of Peterborough. Saturday evening the after-dinner speaker will be Dr. Edwin M. Robertson of Kingston General Hospital, a consulting gynaecologist for the Ontario Cancer Foundation, Kingston Division.

Business sessions of the conference will deal mainly with ways of cutting down overhead costs of the annual campaign for funds to further cancer research and to educate the public, which is the principal role of the Cancer Society. A new type of receipt book, eliminating the previous "official receipt" is awaiting approval.

Mark St. Church Seeks $100,000 Sunday School

A building fund campaign to raise $100,000 was outlined to the congregation of Mark Street United Church at a special dinner Tuesday night in the Empress Hotel.

Purpose of the money-raising campaign is to pay for added buildings to the church. Just how extensive the building is will depend on the amount of money that comes in; but one of the most-needed additions is a new Sunday School. Because of crowding the church at present has to have three sessions of Sunday School.

Three hundred members of the congregation attended the dinner and heard Edward DeNure, general chairman, tell of the church's needs and the organization that has been set up.

CANVASS 500 HOMES

The congregation of 500 families will be canvassed in house-to-house visits by 12 teams. Each team has a captain and four other canvassers; each canvasser will make nine calls.

The whole 12 teams are divided into three divisions, headed by Division Leaders Max Pomeroy, Stuart Laing and Austin Elliott. They will interview not only church members but also indi-

The whole 2 teams are divided still church-goers, and also groups that use the church for meetings and other activities.

This Friday, on the eve of the campaign, there will be a dinner at the church for the team members and last-minute instructions will be given. And the intensive 12-day campaign to get $100,000 in pledges (so much a week for 150 weeks) will begin Saturday.

On Wednesday night, Sept. 30, a Victory Dinner will be held at the church and the results of the united efforts of the congregation will be made known.

The Rev. Dr. N. D. Patterson is minister of Mark Street United Church. Besides Mr. DeNure, Dr. Patterson's chief campaign officials are Milton Clysdale, campaign committee chairman; Grant Caldwell, special gifts chairman; Keith Brown, initial gifts and training chairman; Ernest Lillico, publications chairman; Mrs. Albert Roberts, arrangements chairman; and Mrs. Max Pomeroy, hostess chairman.

Following are the 12 team captains: George Barns, Norman White, Edward Butler, Jack Graham, Hanlan Payne, Donald Forbes, J. Leonard Ireland, Evans Hatherley, Murray Irwin, George Burns, Lloyd Pepper and Norman Hewitt.

Look Out Behind

Two drivers were very shocked Tuesday night when their cars collided on Romaine St. They were Roy Hutchinson, 32, of 763 Romaine and Mrs. George Scholey, 34, of 764 Romaine. Both were backing from their driveways on opposite sides of the street when they came together in a rear-on cash. Damage was estimated at $40 by investigating Constable J. P. Gillis.

Adopted Child Should Be Told Before School

Adopted children should be told that their foster parents are not their real mother and father before they reach the school age, explained Miss Rachael Young, superintendent of the Children's Aid Society, Monday to members of the board, at their monthly meeting.

For if they are not told by their foster parents that they are adopted, they often find out from the children at school, and untold harm is done.

Usually, explained Miss Young, the parents promise when they first adopt a child to tell him that they are his foster parents. But when the time comes to send him to school they are often afraid to tell him. They fear that the child won't love them as much as he would his real parents. That's not the case.

- 1,006 VISITS

In her reports for June, July and August, Miss Young said that there were 1,006 visits made and 326 office interviews. During the three summer months 103 families, in which there were 395 children received service. Another 179 children in foster homes and the Children's Home received aid as well. Forty-eight unmarried parents also received services during the three-month period.

There were 28 families referred to the Society during June, July and August. One-quarter of them were by personal applications, and the others were referred by the Medical Officer of Health, relatives, friends, police and other societies.

During June there were 22 children taken into the care of the society. Two families in which there were seven, were evicted. A family of six was taken into care when they were found without supervision and without food and proper clothing. Two children, one an infant and one six-years old, were found alone and were also taken into the care of the society. Five children born out of wedlock were also taken into the care of the society. Three were made permanent wards, one temporary and one was returned to his parent.

20 RETURNED

Twenty children were returned to their parents and four to relatives. Eleven of these children had been in the care of the society for more than a year and some of them two years. At present there are 11 wards attending Collegiate and practically all the dental work has been completed.

Four children were placed for adoption by the society, three remaining in the homes in which they had been boarding. The other child placed was six years of age. There were four adoptions completed, three being wards of the society.

Contract Awarded For School

Brick, Limestone High School West Of Old Building

Contract for the new St. Peter's High School, to be built west of the present one, has been awarded to M. Sullivan and Son of Arnprior. This firm is constructing the new federal building.

Bishop Gerald Berry, who made the announcement today, said that work would start almost immediately. It is expected the school will be open for classes by September, 1954.

It will serve nine parishes in the district—five in the city, and Ennismore, Lakefield, Douro and Otonabee in the county.

TERMS NOT ANNOUNCED

Terms of the contract have not been announced, as several alterations in price have yet to be made. Exact price of the new school should be known within a week. Cost at the time of tendering was estimated at about $250,000.

The new school will be a senior high school, accommodating students in Grades 11, 12 and 13. The present St. Peter's High School will continue as a junior high school.

The school will be built just west of the present high school, at the northwest corner of Brock and Downie Sts.

A central heating plant, to be installed in present school, will serve both buildings. Cost of it is included in the contract just awarded.

EIGHT CLASSROOMS

Eight full classrooms, two for commercial classes, a library, laboratories for physics and chemistry, and a recreation room comprise the school. The recreation room, with space to seat 180 pupils, will serve as an assembly hall.

There will be no gymnasium. Students from the senior high school will use the gym in the recently opened St. Peter's Elementary School for Boys, just across the street.

Designed by E. J. Turcotte, Montreal architect, who also drew plans for St. Joseph's Hospital annex and the Church of St. John the Baptist on Wilson Ave., the school will be built of buff brick and Indiana limestone. Its design and style will be similar to those of the elementary school.

FALL PLANTING
TO ALL HOMEOWNERS:
Fall is considered by most recognized authorities as the BEST time to plant most varieties of Nursery Stock. However, it is true that a very few varieties seem to do better when planted in the spring.
I have planted Nursery Stock throughout this district for the past 20 years. During that time losses were LESS among Fall Plantings than Spring Plantings.
Several of my larger plantings, namely, Quaker Oats Company Park, Nashua Paper Co. Grounds and Evergreens at De Laval Office were planted in late fall and losses were "NIL". Among the better private homes planted, the grounds of Mr. Haig Kelly were planted through November and losses were negligible. These plantings alone are ample proof that FALL IS A GOOD TIME TO PLANT in Peterborough.
There are a number of nursery salesmen around taking orders for spring delivery. In many cases they tell you Fall isn't the right time and that Spring is best.
Well, in most cases Spring is best for THEM. The main reason for this is that most Imported Stock arrives in Spring. It is then much easier to make up orders from B and B Stock out of the cases than digging from the field (if they have it in the field to dig).
All homeowners who contemplate having a Foundation Planting of Evergreens, PLANT THIS FALL and ENJOY THEM THROUGH THE WINTER. Best of luck.
Sincerely yours,
W. M. GERMAN

Experts See Clouds Coming Along Economic Horizon

By FORBES RHUDE

EDMONTON (CP)—"Cloudy, not necessarily stormy, but some possibility of squalls." This forecast for the Canadian business scene was prepared for the annual meeting of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce today by J. T. Bryden, Toronto, general manager of the North American Assurance Company Or, to express it in colors: "The longer-term outlook for Canada is an extremely rosy one, but I think the nearby outlook is tinged with blue." J. Douglas Gibson, supervisor of the Bank of Nova Scotia's economics department, put it this way: "At the end of this year, we shall probably find it to have been the best year in the Canadian record. Next year should be a pretty good one, but probably not as good as this."

MORE PESSIMISTIC

A paper prepared by Alexander Forst of Vancouver contained somewhat more pessimistic passages. He expressed a retailer's view, especially in household appliances, radios, furniture and dry-goods.

Mr. Forst said "there are danger signals ahead" though he expressed belief the fall turnover would carry the retailer through the rest of 1952 satisfactorily.

"It is our opinion, however," he added, "much as we regret its pessimistic inference, that many retail concerns will succumb within the next 12-month period.

"Following the war, a large number of people entered the retail business field, many of them, it is to be feared, unsuited by temperament, ability or training, and it is from their ranks that business casualties may be expected."

Referring to increased buying on credit, Mr. Forst stated:

"During the last few months there has been a distinct tendency to soft-pedal on the granting of easy credit. There is, surely, no percentage to be gained by loading down the consumer under heavy obligations, since to do so must eliminate him from the buying category for a long time.

"Further, should anything unforseen of an unfortunate nature chance to happen, heavy repossessions would undoubtedly bring disaster to a large number of retailers."

PANEL DISCUSSION

The views of the speakers were presented to panel discussion on "the business outlook," perhaps the biggest question mark overlying the current meeting.

The views were expressed while delegates still mulled over the propositions advanced Tuesday by Dr. Andrew Stewart, president of the University of Alberta.

Dr. Stewart indicated a belief that government action to forestall depressions, when they threatened, was necessary to the survival of the private enterprise system.

He urged scrutiny, however, of anything that departed from competitive business procedures, "if the consumer's freedom is to be maintained."

Mr. Bryden's prepared speech said he had the feeling "that we collectively have been trying to do too much too fast, and thereby causing stresses and strains which are gradually weakening the structure of the boom and which will lead to a period of pause and readjustment in which we will have an opportunity to consolidate the real gains we have made."

NOT SEVERE DECLINE

Mr. Gibson's prepared speech said some decline in United States activity is quite likely in 1954, though not a severe one.

Any downturn, however, would probably mean that commodity prices would decline further and, "because of the fact that grain supplies are now so large on this continent, its effect on Canada might be considerable."

An American downturn would also affect demand for Canadian exports. "My guess would be that our exports in 1954 will not be larger than in 1953, and may be somewhat lower. However, our export position and some of our domestic industries might, in such circumstances, be aided by a decline in the exchange rate. . . Fortunately, the Canadian economy has a stronger growth element in it than that of the United States."

SAVINGS HIGHER

Mr. Gibson said savings deposits in chartered banks have risen surprisingly despite increased consumer credit.

"If we could count on the people who are increasing their savings to enter the market for consumer durable goods as the commitments of credit buyers increased, or if, by some strange chance, the people buying on credit should also be those who are increasing their bank accounts, we might regard the very rapid increase in consumer credit without much concern.

"But it scarcely seems probable that there are very many people going into debt and also building up their savings."

Believes Tomb To Show Shakespeare Was Fraud

By SONIA YOUNG

CHISLEHURST, England (Reuters)—A Broadway drama critic is waiting here for permission to open an old marble tomb, which he believes will yield conclusive evidence that the immortal William Shakespeare was nothing but a ham actor and a complete literary fraud.

Calvin Hoffman of New York says he expects to find with the coffin in the tomb—which has been sealed for 300 years—a lead box containing 36 manuscripts.

Hoffman thinks the manuscripts will prove that the famous plays that established Shakespeare as a literary giant actually were written by Christopher Marlowe, an English Elizabethan dramatist, after Marlowe was supposed to have been murdered.

Hoffman, who writes about Broadway for a chain of U.S. newspapers, has spent 15 years tracking down clues in Britain, France and Denmark.

HUNCHES AT FIRST

"At first it was just hunches," the critic says. "Now there is enough evidence to make me think that I shall disclose a major historical secret."

The tomb is that of Sir Thomas Walsingham, Marlowe's patron and benefactor, who Hoffman believes engineered the whole scheme.

Hoffman said he has been trying for months to get permission from the local church authorities to open the tomb. He says he expects it to be granted soon.

Hoffman contends that Marlowe, reported to have been killed in a brawl in 1593, actually faked his death and fled the country after being condemned to die at the stake for heresy.

Records show that Walsingham's servants were accused of the murder, but Walsingham got them pardons and hired them again.

"I think he helped Marlowe to flee under cover of the murder," Hoffman said. "I found out that Marlowe was known to have been in Douai in northern France three months after his alleged murder. I believe he also went to Italy, and this accounts for the Italian atmosphere of some of Shakespeare's plays."

USED FALSE NAME

The critic thinks Marlowe continued to write, sending his plays to Walsingham, who had them copied and produced under a false name.

Hoffman claims Walsingham paid Shakespeare to father Marlowe's works when Shakespeare was "just a third-rate actor."

"The money would account for Shakespeare—about whose playwriting or acting nothing was heard until after the supposed death of Marlowe—being able to buy his famous 'new place' at Stratford-on-Avon only three years after coming into prominence," Hoffman said.

Robbery Conviction Quashed, Said 'Silly'

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario court of appeal Tuesday quashed an armed robbery conviction against Clarence Shurtliff of Oshawa. Mr. Justice R. E. Laidlaw described the case as "delirious and silly, so silly it's like a play."

Evidence was that Shurtliff, in a drunken condition, bought a candy bar in a restaurant and carried on a quiet conversation with the woman at the till. Both the woman and her little daughter thought they heard the man say "this is a holdup." The little girl called the police.

On conviction, Shurtliff was given a year's suspended sentence.

Predicts New Treaties In Sea Lamprey Fight

MILWAUKEE (AP) — William G. Herrington, special assistant to the U.S. undersecretary of state, said Tuesday the damage being done by sea lampreys may bring about new treaties between the United States and Canada to aid Great Lakes fisheries.

Herrington told the annual meeting of the Association of Game, Fish and Conservation Commissioners that control programs must be applied to all lamprey spawning streams tributary to the Great Lakes. This, he said, calls for the co-operation of Canada.

Recent treaty negotiations have reached no definite conclusion, but Canada has undertaken an extensive Great Lakes research program on lamprey control and general fishery research.

Ontario Disabilities Kept At Low Rate

TORONTO (CP)—Less than four per cent of all Ontario work accidents involving compensation result in permanent disabilities. Labor Minister Daley said Tuesday.

Figures under compensation laws in other governments of north America ranged from six to 30 per cent.

Mr. Daley spoke at the opening of new offices of the Ontario workmen's compensation board here.

Identify Dead Pilot

CHATHAM, N.B. (CP) — The RCAF pilot killed Tuesday when a Chatham-based jet plane crashed on Quebec's Gaspe peninsula was identified Tuesday night as F/O. Stewart Ira Banks, 24, an instructor from Conway Station, P.E.I. Banks' body was found strapped to the seat 500 feet from the wreckage.

Theft of Jewels From Castle Recalls Kingdom of Prussia

WASHINGTON — Prussia, a kingdom that is no more, came back to the news recently when thieves escaped with the royal Hohenzollern jewels of Germany.

In their loot inestimable in historic value were diamond studded snuffboxes of Frederick the Great; gold plate given Kaiser Wilhelm II by his mother; coronation robes of German emperors, and the baton of the Hohenzollern marshals. Strangely, the Prussian crown itself was left behind.

Twenty generations of Hohenzollerns built and ruled Prussia over a span of 500 years. They consolidated the German kingdoms, intrigued against Hapsburgs, Bourbons, Banapartes, and Russian tsars, marched armies across Europe, and made the name "Prussia" synonymous with militarism.

BYGONE GLORY

Today Prussia does not exist as a geographic or political entity. Blood-and-iron heart of the pre-World War I German Empire. it became a "Land" of the Weimar Republic after 1918 and was merged into the Third Reich by the Nazis after 1933. It finally was broken up entirely following World War II.

The Hohenzollern family fell with the Kaiser's abdication in 1918. The various remaining branches became only private citizens in a changed world.

Hohenzollern Castle, their ancestral home, stands like a storybook fortress at the summit of a 2800-foot-high mountain near the town of Hechingen in southern Germany, 50 miles from the Swiss border. Soaring towers and turreted seven-sided walls rise from precipitous rock.

A "Zollern" castle has stood on that spot since the ninth century, although the present structure, built by Kaiser Friedrich William IV, dates from the 1850's. The two lowest of five stories were specially designed for defense, yet modern-day thieves succeeded in scaling the walls and cutting the inch-thick iron bars with pincers.

HIDDEN IN SALT MINE

Germany's crown jewels have passed through a stormy decade. The German High Command of World War II, facing defeat, buried the treasurers in a salt mine 2000 feet underground. Beside them were the coffins of Frederick the Great, Frederick William of Prussia, and Marshall Von Hindenburg, draped with the regimental banner of the old Prussian armies and flanked by masterpieces of French art.

Had it not been for the alertness of an American GI, the secret hiding place might have gone undiscovered. A sapper removing dynamite from the mine noticed the concealed concrete wall, six feet thick, protecting the deposit.

NAZI "COLLECTORS"

Nazis took many a crown jewel collection themselves. American troops recovered Hungary's royal crown and gems from a hiding place near Salzburg, Austria. The Hapsburg crown jewels were hidden in Nurnberg; General Mark Clark returend them to Austria after the war. Part of the famed Rothschild Collection, which disappeared during Nazi occupation of France, turned up in a bank vault in Frankfurt only in 1951.

One of the most famous jewel thefts in modern history, however was perpetrated by Americans. Three U. S. Army officers, one a woman, stole the Hessian family jewels from Kronberg Castle near Frankfurt in 1945. They were caught and convicted, but only part of the gem collection has been recovered.

Simpsons-Sears Plans Store In Sarnia

TORONTO (CP) — Simpsons-Sears Limited will build a large retail store in Sarnia, E. G. Burton, president of the company, said day.

He said 10 acres has been purchased as a site on Exmouth street near Colborne street. It is expected the store will open early in the fall of 1954. It will have a gross area of 60,000 square feet and provide parking for 900 cars.

Gets New Appointment

OTTAWA (CP)—Lt.-Col. Freeman Waugh, 43, of Kingston will soon return from England to take up a new appointment in New Brunswick, the army announced Tuesday.

Formerly attached to the Canadian Army liaison establishment in the United Kingdom, Lt.-Col. Waugh will assume new duties as assistant adjutant and quartermaster of Camp Gagetown.

Car's Plunge Fatal

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (Reuters)—Patrick Roger Locke, 37, assistant manager of an automobile agency, was killed Monday night when his car crashed over a 150-foot precipice after colliding with a post, police reported. Locke, a Canadian, was a member of the RAF in Britain before coming here.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Corn-Egg Scramble Offered On Special-Purpose Menu

Oh, what a beautiful market! The pavements blanketed with tomatoes and peaches, and bordered with cabbages and eggplants and overflowing with beans; even flower arrangements of gladioli. Enough to drive a good provider into ecstasies and to spending all of her substance on riotous eating.

But go slowly there, my friend. Buy wisely. You cannot eat all of the Fall harvest at one sitting or in one week either, so let's see what to buy that we can use up economically without any waste. You have to have enough of a family to eat it up or enough space in the refrigerator to store it. (In case you don't understand, I'm talking to myself.)

To use the bountiful vegetables to the best advantage while they are at their peak, here is a main course menu:

The Corn-Egg Scramble contains cheese so between the eggs and the cheese you have an adequate serving of protein and meat can be left out.

Corn-Egg Scramble
Piquante Turnip
Potato Pancakes or Breaded Eggplant or Crumbled Boiled Tomatoes
Green Limas

CORN-EGG SCRAMBLE

These amounts will serve 6 or 8—it all depends on how hungry you are.

In a large bowl beat 8 eggs until very well mixed then add 2 cups fresh raw corn cut from the cob (or in winter 1 15-oz. tin cream-tyle corn), 1 teaspoon salt, good shake of pepper. Melt 2 tablespoons butter or margarine in pan that is not too hot and pour in corn-egg mixture. Stir until it just begins to set then add 1 cup cubed process cheese. Turn off heat and cover. The cheese should melt somewhat and be hot through and eggs should be set but not hard. Garnish with tomato wedges or parsley.

PIQUANTE TURNIP

Cut 1 mild medium-sized turnip into ¼-inch cubes after paring it. Cook it, covered tightly, in 3 tablespoons butter or margarine, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon sugar and 5 tablespoons boiling water for about 15 minutes. Then add 3 medium onions chopped very finely, ¼ cup finel chopped parsley, and cook until onions are transparent and tender. Add 1 tablespoon lemon juice about 1 minute before this is finished. You may win some new converts to turnip-eating with this.

POTATO PANCAKES

Grate 3 cups raw potatoes into ⅔ cup milk. Let them soak for five minutes then drain off this milk and add 2 eggs, well beaten, and 3 tablespoons flour. Season with salt and pepper and mix well with 1½ tablespoons grated onion. Drop by spoonsfuls into frying-pan containing 1½ to 2 tablespoons butter. Flatten them out with back of egg-turner. Brown on both sides. These are good if they are not throughly tender, for the waxiness gives them an interesting texture and flavor.

BREADED EGGPLANT

Pare eggplant and slice ¼-inch thick. Dip in beaten egg, then in fine cracker or breadcrumbs. Saute in fat in hot frying-pan until tender, and brown on both sides. Sprinkle with salt and pepper while cooking.

The eggplant is an alternative to the Potato Pancake, for I would not suggest that you use two fried foods on the same vegetable plate, interesting as their crunchy texture is.

RCCS Planning Celebration For Anniversary

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — The Royal Canadian Corps of Signals plans to commemorate its 50 colorful years of development by a three-day celebration starting five weeks from today.

Focal point of the celebrations will be Vimy barracks at Kingston, an army statement said.

Beginning Oct. 22 there will be parties, shindigs and banquets, performances by active and reserve army signals bands and demonstrations by the RCCS dispatch riders' team.

The celebrations will culminate two days later in a full-scale parade, inspection and march-past in which seven reserve army signals unit detachments and their bands will take part.

The army has issued invitations to all active and reserve army signals officers in Canada and expects "staggering" returns.

The anniversary celebrations coincide with the annual meeting of the Canadian Signals Association. Governor-General Massey will be guest speaker at the association's annual dinner at Vimy barracks, Oct. 23.

CHEER IN ANNIVERSARY

And signalmen, whether they are at Vimy, in cantonments across Canada, in the stony hills of Korea, at remote stations in Canada's Northwest, or on the plains of Germany, will cheer in their 50th anniversary.

Establishment of what is now the RCCS was the result of a "prolonged campaign" by a young staff officer, the late Capt. Bruce Carruther of Kingston, the army says.

On Oct. 24, 1903, a unit of 18 officers and 60 men was designated the "signalling corps (militia)" and Canada had the first such in the British Empire.

The group was renamed the Canadian Signal Corps in 1913. It expanded rapidly during the First World War and by the time the armistice was signed had seven units in France.

The late King George V granted the title "royal" to the corps in 1921 and a depot was established at Camp Borden, Ont. The corps did not move to its present permanent home at Kingston until 1937.

FURTHER EXPANSION

The complex communications needs of the Second World War brought a further need for expansion. Each of Canada's five fighting divisions was supplied with a signal unit of some 1,000 men. There were four other units in operation and signalmen served in North Africa, Hong Kong and Australia.

The corps is represented in Korea by two signal troops and in Germany by three. In Canada the corps operates the army component of the national defence communications system and the Northwest Territories and Yukon radio system. It does research on communications at the Canadian signals research and development establishment at Ottawa and operates a signals school at Kingston.

Special Planning Of Cities Could Cut Fire Risks

TORONTO (CP)—Canada's civil defence co-ordinator says it may be possible to reduce fire risks by imaginative planning of communities.

Maj.-Gen. F. F. Worthington said Tuesday at the 80th convention of the International Association of Fire Chiefs that new ideas in construction also may help.

He suggested the inert gases such as helium and neon may prove useful as weapons against large fires, that a means may be found to provide fire-resistant buildings and dwellings acceptable to the public and that a system of building dispersal to reduce fire hazards may be introduced. In the past, he said, new ideas often have been opposed because they sounded fantastic.

Regarding progress in civil defence preparation, Gen. Worthington said the measures are moving forward slowly but steadily. Standardization of fire hose couplings is proceeding in several provinces and 50 pumper trucks have been provided for training of auxiliary firemen, he said.

WRONG IDEA

Many persons in Canada believed that in the event of atomic attack on North America, Canadian cities and defence plants would be passed up in favor of "juicier" targets in the United States. But any such idea was entirely wrong.

"Our air defences are getting better every day, making it more difficult for an enemy to reach the United States. And any airman knows before he starts out that he has several targets. In Germany we seldom reached primary targets."

Addressing the opening session of the convention, association president George McAlpine of Oklahoma City said housewives should be taught how to prevent fires in homes. He said such a step might save many lives, particularly of children.

Kyle Laughlin, director of the fire division of the United States civil defence administration, said keeping a city clean is likely to give it an advantage in case of atomic attack. Tests had shown that accumulations of rubbish could be set on fire by atomic bomb radiation, even though they were some distance from the heart of the blast.

Shipping and fishing industries use half the world's rope production, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

Bringing Up Baby

Hints Collected by Mrs. Dan Gerber (Mother of 5)

Instinct at work! When baby reaches the stage of wanting to put everything into his mouth, it's partly curiosity, partly nature going through "warming up" exercises in hand-to-mouth co-ordination. It's not necessary to sterilize all toys, a good soap and water scrubbing every once in a while is sufficient.

* * *

Good appetite-builders to encourage nature to do her best: A peaceful, relaxed atmosphere at mealtime. Plentiful choice of foods that baby enjoys so much he learns to look forward to meals. (Texture, color, flavor are all important to baby.)

* * *

Enjoyable texture is one of the outstanding things about Gerber's Strained Foods. They're creamy-smooth, the way babies prefer them. Attractive true-to-nature colors and flavors, too. As you'd expect of people who make baby foods and nothing else, Gerber's use extra care in processing to help keep in the good wholesome food values, too! Have you given your baby a chance to try Gerber's Strained Fruits, Vegetables, Meat-Soups, Desserts, for instance?

* * *

Not so long ago, babies were given little but cereal in the way of solid food during the first months. Now more and more doctors are adding more and more variety earlier! So let your doctor be your guide . . . he knows most about your baby's particular needs.

* * *

Mother, send for this special offer! Something mighty handy! Three of these attractive Refrigerator Can Covers to snap on the opened can of Gerber's before popping it in the 'frig . . . send only 10 cents plus 3 labels from Gerber's Strained Foods or Junior Foods or one boxtop from a package of Gerber's Cereals to Mrs. Dan Gerber, Dept. N-35, Gerber-Ogilvie Baby Foods, Ltd., Niagara Falls, Canada.

Pains, distress of "those days" halted or strikingly relieved in 3 out of 4 cases in test by doctors!

How Lydia Pinkham's works

It has a "calming" and soothing effect on the uterus . . . quieting the contractions (see the chart) that so often cause menstrual pain, cramps, other distress.

• Here's wonderful news for women and girls who — each month — suffer the tortures of "bad days" of functionally-caused menstrual cramps and pain — headaches, backaches, and those "no-good," dragged-out feelings.

It's news about a medicine well-known for relieving such suffering!

Here is the exciting news. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound — gave complete or striking relief of such distress in an average of 3 out of 4 of the cases in doctors' tests!

Yes! Lydia Pinkham's is scientifically modern in action!

Thousands benefited!

This news will not surprise the thousands of women and girls who know the relief Lydia Pinkham's can bring.

And it should encourage you to see if your experience doesn't match theirs . . . to see if you, too, don't avoid the nervousness, tension, weakness, irritability—and pain—so often associated with "those days"!

Try Lydia Pinkham's Compound . . . or new, improved Tablets (with added iron).

Both are grand, too — for those "hot flashes" and other distresses common to "change of life"!

Tough Tweeds Come Back Appear In Evening Wear

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — Rough, tough and elegant—that's the tweed picture for smart women this winter.

The knobble weaves and hunting tweeds great-grandmama reserved for country week-ends and coach travel have been given the glamor treatment. They've moved from the manor house and shooting lodge to the drawing rooms of Mayfair and the night clubs of Paris.

In fact, the dress that will catch the attention at the balls this winter is the evening gown of knobble tweed frosted with brilliants, its cosy folds hugging the figure sleekly.

FOR COATS, SUITS

Tweeds for evening wear are, however, still sufficiently novel to come into the high price brackets.

It's the coats and suits shown in the recent collections of London's "Big Ten" of haute couture that will influence the winter trends for not-so wealthy women.

Advance styles, now showing in fashionable stores, indicate that coats similar to the black-and-white steps-and-stairs check designed by Hardy Amies will be selling for eight guineas and up.

Amies, who designed clothes for the Queen's Canadian tour and is making part of her wardrobe for the coming Australian trip, favors the heavy-shoulder look, whittling down to a narrow hem.

An arresting plum-and-blue check is chosen by Michael for a severely-tailored suit in an up-to-date version of the Chinese T'ang dynasty line. In previous collections this designer frequently anticipated Paris innovations.

This suit has, in fact, so many of the latest Paris fashion points it is likely to stay in the couture class. Its figure-moulding curves are reminiscent of Christian Dior's "princess line" and the high and wide neckline, long shoulders and three-quarter sleeves with deep fur cuff can all be seen in the Paris collections.

BARREL-SHAPE COATS

John Cavanagh, who recently added the Duchess of Kent to his customers, uses fleck and knobble tweeds in fitted suits and barrel-shaped overcoats that will be popular in many shops this winter.

Cavanagh's suits have tailored simplicity, allied to chic.

"Top storey," a barrel coat by Cavanagh in black-and-reed tweed, has buttoned tabs low on the shoulders giving that heavier-on-top line favored by many designers. This epaulette idea is seen in a fleck tweed suit with deep-stitched "V" cutting horizontally across the rounded shoulder, suggesting a second rever buttoned as low as the armpit.

The severity of whittled skirts in most of the Cavanagh suits focuses attention on the jackets. It's in the cut of the peplum, a touch at the shoulders, revers or waist, that Cavanagh indicates the favored lines of the winter styles.

WINTER TWEED — A cosy, rough tweed coat by John Cavanagh of London gives a typical winter line with its "heavy" top, barrel shape and dark black and red weave. Tweeds are moving from the manor house and the shooting lodge to the drawing-rooms of Mayfair and the night clubs of Paris.

Suggitt-McInnis Eden Rites

Eden United Church, decorated with pink, white, and blue flowers formed the setting for the wedding Saturday which united in marriage Glowena Roberta only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. N. Melburn McInnis of Woodville and William Raymond Suggitt, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Suggitt of Lindsay. The Rev. Dr. H. W. Pointen of Woodville officiated.

Miss Ruth Jewel was at the organ, playing softly throughout the ceremony. Before the bride entered the church Miss Lois Tamlin sang "The Voice that Breathed O'er Eden" and during the signing of the register she sang "I'll Walk Beside You."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a strapless gown of Chantilly lace and nylon net over satin with lace jacket fastened from neck to waist by tiny covered buttons and the long sleeves forming lily points over the hands. Her fingertip veil of silk illusion and lace was caught to a beaded lace tiara and she carried a cascade bouquet of pink Delight roses and stephanotis.

She was attended by her cousin, Miss Doreena Patton of Peterborough who wore a floor length strapless gown of powder blue lace and net over taffeta with sleeveless lace jacket. The full net skirt had a lace insert similar to the bride's gown. Her headdress of net was caught at the sides with tiny flowers and she wore matching net mittens. Little Miss Marie Messner of Toronto, the groom's niece, as flower girl wore a floor length gown of pink lace and net over taffeta fashioned on the same lines as the maid of honour's with matching net headdress and mittens. Both carried bouquets of pink sweetheart roses and white poms.

Mr. Mervyn Suggitt was groomsman for his brother, and the ushers were Allan Graham of Fenelon Falls and Bert Gardiner of Millbrook.

The reception was held at the home of the bride's parents who on that day were celebrating their 30th wedding anniversary. The bride's mother received in copper toned dress with green accessories and a corsage of Talisman roses. She was assisted by the groom's mother who wore a powder blue nylon dress with navy and white accessories and a corsage of pink Sweetheart roses.

For travelling the bride chose a rust wool suit with green velvet hat and accessories, brown furs and a corsage of Talisman roses.

Following a motor trip to the United States, Mr. and Mrs. Suggitt will live in Lindsay.

Home and School Association News

CONFEDERATION SCHOOL

First fall meeting of the Confederation Home and School Association was held Tuesday evening with president Mrs. Harvey Sutton presiding. Mrs. W. Turner was at the piano for the anthems. Bible reading and prayer was led by Mrs. A. Watkins, religious convener.

Mrs. Sutton welcomed the parents to a new season of Home and School meetings and expressed a wish for a successful year. Mrs. I. Campbell's room won the attendance prize.

Principal Mr. J. Nicholls introduced two new teachers, Mrs. C. McIntyre and Mr. G. Hagerman.

Mrs. C. Renaud, school piano teacher, spoke briefly and some of her first year pupils played piano solos. They were Bernard Saunders, Brian Knox, Bryon Gaudy, Wayne Chamberlain, David Abraham, Sandra Pilling, Donnie Young, George Campbell, Byron Anderson, Phyllis Orvis, Lauralee Clark, Judy Easton, Wayne Olmstead, Jean Cole, Heather Powell, Shirley Carroll, Sandra Ashwin, and Donna Smith.

Mr. Nicholls explained the unit system, health services and gave an interesting demonstration on reading aimed at teaching parents to show more patience with small children learning to read.

Mrs. G. Kiff explained the membership cards to parents and read a poem, "Do You Just Belong".

Mrs. W. Darby and her committee served refreshments at the close.

CENTRAL SCHOOL

The first meeting of the new school year of Central Home and School Association was held in the auditorium of the Public Library, Monday evening, with a capacity crowd in attendance. Mrs. J. Callaghan presided, and welcomed especially the guests of honor, the graduating Grade 8 classes, and the new teachers, Mrs. William Dawson and Miss S. Bigelow. A short business meeting ended with the report on the Federation of Home and School's Leadership Training Camp, given by Mrs. L. Roper who had attended the camp this past summer.

Mr. V. Cunningham introduced the guest speaker, Mr. C. E. Potts of the Peterborough Teachers' College. Mr. Potts' message was directed toward "Young Canadians" in the audience, but his humorous comparisons of school life in the past to that of the present were enjoyed by all. He stressed realizing more fully the liberties and advantages, and accepting responsibility in being an active part of the affairs of "The Golden Hinge" — of Canada—the link between the past ideas and the new.

Mr. Potts then suggested to the students that they take away with them an understanding of his mnemonic pie— 'p' for personality, 'I' for intelligence and 'e' for effort. "On these three thing, I think, your success in life depends," he concluded.

Appreciation of Mr. Potts' address was voiced by Mrs. Roper.

Mr. D. Crawford, principal, next introduced Mr. Lloyd Grose, who showed the group his series of colored Coronation slides. These were fully enjoyed.

Mrs. V. Kelsey convened the lunch served at conclusion of the program.

Attendance prizes won this month were in Miss Brock's and Mr. Cunningham's rooms.

Omemee WMS. First Fall Meeting

OMEMEE (ENS)—At the first meeting of the fall term, members of Trinity United Church W.M.S. were welcomed by the president Mrs. T. A. McConnell.

Stewardship secretary, Miss C. Connell, reminded the members of their missionary for prayer, Miss Gladys B. Thornber of Central India, and read an extract on "The Stewardship of Now." Thank-you messages were received from Mr. and Mrs. S. Fisher, Mrs. Golden, the Lang family and Mrs. J. B. Hough. Mrs. V. Lang gave a report on a day spent at "Whitby School for Leaders."

The program which was in charge of Mrs. A. N. Weir and her group, was based on the first chapter of the study book.

Something of the work of the church in India was learned from the joint secretary for East Asia of the International Missionary Council and the World Council of Churches.

Mrs. E. Fisher read scripture passages related to the theme. Mrs. McConnell led in prayer, and a duet—"Not one word of His good promise failed", was sung by Mrs. L. Casey and Mrs. W. D. Weir, accompanied by Mrs. I. Connell.

McKenzie-Jaquith Wedding

The marriage of Miss Betty Lauraine Jaquith to Flying Officer William Andrew McKenzie of the RCAF took place Saturday afternoon at the Knox United Church with the Rev. H. G. Douglas officiating. The bride is daughter of Mr. and Mrs. K. E. Jaquith and the groom the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. I. McKenzie, all of Peterborough.

The church was decorated with white gladioli and ferns. Wedding music was played by organist Mr. W. R. Potter.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was in a ballarina gown of white lace over satin, fashioned with bouffant skirt and strapless bodice topped with a short jacket with long sleeves. Her fingertip veil of embroidered nylon net was caught to a halo encrusted with pearls and rhinestones and she was carrying a muff of white roses.

Bridesmaids were Miss Betty Taylor of Cobourg and Miss Lois Stackhouse of Norwood and they were both frocked in pink nylon net over pink satin. The gowns were made in ballerina length with strapless bodices and they wore stoles of pink net over their shoulders and half hats of the pink satin. Each carried a nosegay of white 'mums centred with pink roses.

Groomsman was Robert Gardner and the ushers were William Gardner and the groom's brother, James McKenzie.

The reception was held in the YWCA Green Room. The bride's mother received, dressed in navy with a navy velvet hat trimmed with a veil and wearing a corsage of pink roses. The groom's mother also dressed in navy and she was wearing a corsage of white roses. Guest were present from Kingston, Harrowsmih, Bobcaygeon, Buckhorn, Cobourg, Norwood and Peterborough.

When leaving later on the wedding trip to Montreal, the bride had donned a dark navy dress and matching jacket and all navy accessores and she wore a corsage of white 'mums.

The couple will live in Toronto.

Music Teachers Open Season With Dinner Party

Peterborough branch of the Ontario Registered Music Teachers' Association opened the '53-'54 season with a dinner on Tuesday evening at the YWCA.

Following community singing, with Mrs. R. Y. Kenny at the piano, President Mr. Donald Kennedy introduced the winners of the Glidden Memorial awards for highest marks in grades 8 and 9 piano examinations this year at the Royal Conservatory of Music, and each entertained with several selections.

Betty Evans, grade 9 winner, a pupil of St. Cecelia's Convent, played a Prelude in Fugue by Bach, and Rigaudon and To A Wild Rose by McDowall. George Jenkinson, grade 8 winner, a pupil of Christopher Gledhill, played "Adgio in D Major" by Galuppi, A Prelude by Gliere and the Chopin Nocturne in E Flat Major.

Their awards were then presented by Miss Marguerite Rome.

Mr. Gledhill then played his own composition, "Fiddle Tune" for which he won an award for the best composition by a Canadian composer for the 12 to 14 age group which was presented at the Canadian Federation of Music Teachers' convention at Toronto in July.

Highlights of this CFMTA convention were then reported by Mr. Gledhill who was the official delegate to same.

A vote of thanks to all those who took part during the evening was moved by Mrs. Ross Williamson.

Home And Arts Exhibits Worth Extra Time To See

Women visitors, and men too—to the Peterborough Exhibition this week, would be well advised to allow a little extra time for their visit to the Home and Arts Building. (It is the second building on the left going down the main street of the grounds and in it are displayed the arts and crafts work of children, women and men of this city and district.)

Chairman of the department, Mrs. Gordon K. Fraser, was loud in praise of the committees which have worked together with her to make this part of the show so interesting and attractive. They have been extra watchfull this year to eliminate the entry of work that is not new or not done during the past year, and the only fly in their ointment is that several pieces escaped their notice until after they were judged—in fact they were recognized by the judge who had been here two years ago. However, some changes were made in the prize-giving to offset this, and it is hoped this act will be sufficient warning to those who may be tempted to disobey the rules of the prize list another time.

Judge Mrs. Dickenson especially mentioned the quality of the work in the entries of the blind people of this district. It is the first time the blind have been in competition here though they have previously displayed their work and offered it for sale.

"The quality of the food entries is the best I have ever seen" the judge went on, pointing to the apple pies, a big special this year, and the cakes, then to the bread and rolls which she said were better than she usually found in a busy round of fall fair judging from year to year.

A new feature, which both Mrs. Fraser and Mrs. Dickenson praised highly, is the Women's Institute display of outstanding handwork by farm women. Eleven branches of the Institute, Selwyn, Keene, Lakefield, Norwood, Westwood, Buckhorn, Trent River, South Smith, Warsaw and Nephton, are represented. The competition was titled "When a girl marries" and the entries are embroidered towels, pillow cases, tea towels, holders and satin cushions.

Among the general handicrafts including pottery, hammered brass trays, etc., there is an interesting hand-made silver pendant, and a hand-woven plaid scarf displays the careful skill of the weaver.

Peterborough Handcraft Guild has a bigger and better exhibit this year and three times a day there are members demonstrating weaving, leathercraft, metalcraft and ceramics on the tools of the trades also displayed.

For the art competition, children of the schools were especially directed not to copy but to do original work. The result is some really exceptional work by young artists and a new set-up for displaying the pictures this year make it easy to see them all. One other new project is three-dimentional art, done by grade 3 and 4 classes, showing a modern living room.

In the general art section there are more pictures than ever before and the quality is better than ever too, say the judges. Miss Maralin Munro's watercolor of "People on a bus" was judged the "best in she show".

On children's day, Tuesday, parents were being dragged by their offspring to see if some of their work from the summer playgrounds was included in the display by the Peterborough Recreation Commission.

Of course there are also the interesting entries in the Home Craft division of needlework, crochet, knitting, embroidery, quilts, children'es wear and other needlework.

All of the exhibits are worthwhile seeing, and it is the hope of directors that they will inspire many other skilled people to prepare entries for next year.

DOROTHY DIX:

Wife Works, Husband Gives No Credit

DEAR MISS DIX: I have been married 16 years and have a 10-year-old son. I have worked hard ever since I married, yet my husband never has an appreciative word for me. We own a farm, and I can take my place any day with men doing outside work. Besides the work of my house and the farm, I have an outside job which pays for all our clothes and extras. My husband gives me nothing. He's almost 20 years older than I am, and I know I haven't loved him for years.

MINNIE A.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: One decision that can never be made by an outsider is whether or not a woman should leave her husband, whether she would be happier away from him or maintaining the status quo. Many factors must be weighed before an answer is reached.

Loneliness can often be such a devastating experience that women will endure any amount of marital incompatibility to escape it. If you are personally unequipped to face the world on your own, separation is not advisable. If, however, you have learned through your work to get along easily with people, and feel that your economic future is assured, you may be happier away.

A VERSALTILE WIFE

It's doubtful if your husband will let you go easily. After all, he has a fine housekeeper, a farm hand, and an income—all in one woman. You are a valuable asset and if he had any sense, he'd realize the fact and treat you accordingly. The fundamental trouble is that you've given too much, asked very little in return, and have accepted the role into which your husband cast you with too much complacancy. It never pays to do too much for some people.

Why not take some of your hard-earned cash, go on a vacation, and see if your husband comes to some realization of how important you are around the house? He may revise his treatment of you a bit.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: My husband is in service, stationed in Florida. I was with him until a month ago, then came home intending to stay. I didn't realize how much I would miss him. I'm pregnant, and it seems that every day I miss him more. He thinks I'm better off home. He's a wonderful husband and his whole concern is for me. We've just been married four months.

MRS. H. P.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: You would undoubtedly be better off with your husband, in your present emotional state. You'll meet other young brides and prospective mothers at your husband's base, and you will certainly be more content.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: For several months I dated a boy who is six years older than I am. Now he is engaged to another girl. However, in the evening he frequently walks past my house with another boy, and stops to talk to me. My mother says this is wrong since he is engaged. Should I tell him to stop walking past my house?

PHOEBE M.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: You can scarcely tell a young man to stay off a public street. I think you and your mother are making rather too much over an incident that involves nothing more than a friendly greeting. If you want to cut his casual conversation short, just say "Hello," then excuse yourself to do something in the house.

Man's first piece of furniture is said to have been a chest, hollowed from a log and covered with a slab of rock.

MarmoraPriestLeaves Village For Brockville

MARMORA — (ENS)— The Rev. J. A. O'Neil of Sacred Heart Church, Marmora, was presented with a purse of money Sunday night at the conclusion of benediction. Father O'Neill is leaving Marmora for the parish of St. Francis Xavier, Brockville.

Pastor of the Sacred Heart Church for the past five years, Father O'Neill has in that time become one of the village's most respected citizens. Succeeding him at Marmora is the Rev. W. P. Healey, who came from Camden parish.

A group consisting of Charles Lajoie, Charles Nicholson, H. A. McNally, Michael Forestell, and James L. Shannon made the presentation to Father O'Neill.

The Rev. T. G. Scanlan, who has lived in Marmora as priest in charge of mission of Ormsby and Millbridge, has moved to Trenton, where he will continue to oversee his mission.

Charge Manhandling Of PoW Troopship

HONG KONG (Reuters)—Eighty-six former British prisoners-of-war in Korea who had asked for protective custody in Hong Kong or had missed the troopship Dunera last week by overstaying shore leave, embarked today on the troopship Empire Orwell for England.

An undisclosed number of those awaiting transport here claimed they had been manhandled after leaving Korea in the Dunera.

Contrary to popular belief, diamonds will wear out. Diamond used in fine glass engravings wear out in several weeks.

MRS. SAMUEL CURRIE

The funeral was held from the Kaye funeral home Tuesday afternoon of the late Mrs. Samuel Currie, formerly Jennie Somerville, who died Sunday, in Hamilton.

The Rev. Maurice Poole, of All Saints' Anglican Church, officiated.

Pallbearers were Jack and James Wyer, Jack Worrall, Patrick Coursey, Harry Tarkington and Harold Clark.

Burial was in Little Lake cemetery.

MRS. GEORGE E. BURNHAM

MILLBROOK (ENS)—Last surviving member of one of Millbrooke's oldest families, Mrs. George E. Burnham, the former Jennie Nattress, died at her home Monday. She had been ill four years.

Private funeral service was held today at the MacPherson funeral home, Millbrook, and burial was in Gardiner's cemetery.

Born in Cavan township, Mrs. Burnham was a daughter of the late Thomas John Nattress and Sarah Jane Milburn. She moved from the township to Millbrook in her early teens, and lived there until her death.

Educated at the Fallis Line School, she was a member of St. Andrew's United Church, and was active in its WA and WMS. Her husband, who died not long ago, was treasurer of the church for 50 years and long a leading citizen in Millbrook and the United counties.

Surviving her are three children, Jean at home, Ernest of Peterborough, and Mrs. J. Thorndyke (Mary) of Brandon, Man.

The Rev. A. M. Butler of St. Andrew's officiated at the service. Pallbearers were all nephews: Harold, Lyle and Edward Nattress of Millbrook, Vincent Nattress, C. R. Howe, and E. S. McConnell, all of Toronto.

JOHN SMITH

The death occurred suddenly today of John Smith, at his home, 336 Mark St., in his 71st year.

Mr. Smith was born in Manchester, Eng., and came to Peterborough from there 43 years ago. He was a caretaker at PCVS for 28 years until his retirement two years ago.

He was a member of Mark Street United Church. He received his education in England.

He is survived by his wife, the former Nellie Goodwin, a daughter, Mrs. George Mapes (Enid) of Hartsmere, Ont., and a son, Donald, of Peterborough.

The funeral will be held Friday at 2:00 p.m. from the Kaye funeral home. Dr. N. D. Patterson, of Mark Street United Church, will officiate, assisted by the Rev. E. W. Rowland, of George Street United Church. Burial will be in Little Lake cemetery.

ALFRED J. (QUAKER) CRAIG

Alfred John (Quaker) Craig, 52, of 308 McGill St., died suddenly Tuesday, while at work at National Grocers.

Mr. Craig, was born in Peterborough, son of the former Ellen Noyes and the late Bertram Craig. He has been an employee of National Grocers for nearly 32 years. He was an adherent of Mark Street United Church.

Surviving are his wife, the former Gladys Scobell, his mother, two sons: Raymond and Sidney Craig, both of Peterborough, two sisters: Mrs. Stanley Davey, Mrs. Rita O'Brien, both of Toronto, two brothers: Bertram Craig of Toronto and Donald of Peterborough, and three grandchildren. One son, Calvin Kenneth Craig, predeceased him 15 years ago.

The funeral service will be held Thursday at the Comstock funeral home at 3:30 p.m. The Rev. E. W. Rowland will officiate. Burial will be in Little Lake cemetery.

Decline In Grants Affects Exports

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator Homer Capehart (Rep. Ind.) said today one big reason why U. S. exports have been dropping for a year or more is the decline in U. S. grants to foreign countries for economic aid.

Capehart, chairman of the Senate banking committee, said it hopes through a study now under way to find ways to expand world trade and thus take up the export slack.

Envoy To Italy

LONDON (AP)—Britain today named Sir Ashley Clarke ambassador to Italy. Clark, deputy undersecretary of state in charge of administration at the foreign office, succeeds Sir Victor Mallet who is retiring soon, a government statement said.

Former PoWs Say Red PropagandaFlop

SOUTHAMPTON, England (AP) Nearly 550 former British prisoners of war from Korea arrived home today and most agreed Communist propaganda is a flop.

The PoWs—a majority of them had spent nearly three years in Chinese or North Korean prison camps—reached here in the troopship Asturias.

The war office, wary about the effects of reported Communist indoctrination in Korean camps, warned that about one out of every five of the men might be Communist sympathizers.

"It's a lot of hooey," indignantly delared Pte. George White, 21, a years a prisoner. He added:

"They used to give us lectures for about the first six months after we were captured but very few took any notice, about 36 out of 600 in the camp, and they soon dropped them.

"It was the same old party line they tried to plug into us. You know the sort of thing, we were fighting the war for American capitalists and stuff like that. But we used to ignore them and just talk right through."

Most of the men said that the few who did show any interest in communism didn't seem to get any better treatment because of that.

Reports reaching London of clashes on the troopship between pro and anti-Communists were generally discounted by the returning PoWs.

There was a bit of trouble at first, they agreed, but only about as far as Singapore and most of trouble came after a few glasses of beer.

"There is nothing that a few pints of beer at the pub round the corner won't cure," agreed one man.

The war offie had said there'll be no "brain-washing" when the men arrived home.

H. & S. News

Mr. McGregor explained that in the southern part of the area there was overcrowding. He said it was necessary that a new high school be built in Port Hope, and an addition to the one in Bowmanville. Some of the municipalities, among them Millbrook, had so far not agreed to this building program. The cost for the former would be $1,050,000 and for the latter $800,000. This, he said, seemed like a great deal of money, but with the government grants of $612,000 and $448,000 it would actually mean that the balance raised by taxation would amount to about 1½ mills. He strongly advised the local municipality to give its consent. It would not be too far in the future when Millbrook would require a new high school, especially in view of the crowded conditions now existing in the public school. The southern part of the area would be much more ready to agree to help them then if they agreed to the building projects in the south now.

Ed. Nattress of the public school board introduced the other members, Mrs. W. W. Kennedy, Dr. Hobbs and Fred Lowery. D. R. Fowler, chairman, and Homer Ouellette were unable to be present. Mr. Nattress stated that the chief problem confronting the public school was that of overcrowding. My next year it would be imperative that another teacher and room should be added. This year 5½-year-olds had had to be refused to come to school.

The Rev. Margaret Butler, convener of the committee to look into the formation of a kindergarten, reported that, failing to get a kindergarten under school management, she knew of parents of 16 children, and probably there were more who would be interested in having a private kindergarten formed.

Dr. J. W. Wright, Reeve of Millbrook, spoke briefly, as did Councillors Ivan Gray and Weldon Coulter.

Others who were introduced and were asked to say a few words were Mr. George A. Young, new high school principal, and Mrs. Florence Cheshire new member of the teaching staff, Mr. Percy Hamilton, public school principal, Alex. Gilbert, W. H. Carleton, public school inspector, Miss Parkes, health nurse, Miss Clarke, secretary of public school board, and Russell Smith, maintenance man.

Mrs. M. E. Hobbs, vice-president of the association, reviewed two addresses she had heard given by Mrs. Marjoribanks, head of the Women's Division of the United Nations Organization of Toronto.

Helen Ingham played a piano solo, Mrs. Lawrence Winslow sang a solo accompanied at the piano by Miss Augusta Clarry.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Wilfred Elson, social convener, Miss Ellen Kent, Mrs. Loohuizen, Mrs. Fred Lowery, Mrs. Stan. Olan, and Mrs. Vertil Kennedy.

Two Old Opponents, DeValera, Churchill Lunch Together, All Sweetness And Light

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Eamon de Valera of the Irish Republic, who has fought the British longer than most people can remember, lunched today with an old antagonist — Prime Minister Churchill.

It was all sweetness and light as far as anyone knows when the two old political warriors got together at 10 Downing street.

Churchill invited the visiting de Valera to the private luncheon. Others there included the British treasury chief, Richard Butler, Acting Foreign Minister Lord Salisbury and Irish Foreign Minister Frank Aiken.

Both Churchill, 78, and de Valera 70, are ailing. Churchill is just now getting around after a prolonged rest on doctors' orders. De Valera has been suffering from eye trouble.

De Valea's demands that the British get out of Northern Ireland have long been opposed by the empire-loving Churchill. He is paying a brief visit here now to Irish organizations.

Brodie Twin Faces New Operation

By ROBERT GOLDENSTEIN

CHICAGO (AP)—They put three candles on Rodney Dee Brodie's birthday cake today—two for his two years of age and "one to grow on."

That one-to-grow-on candle is a reach his next birthday safe and sund.

He may need a little of that luck in the year ahead.

Rodney's chances of having another birthday seemed agonizingly slim on his first birthday a year ago. He and his Siamese twin brother, Roger, were joined extensively at the tops of their heads. A separation operation was on tap and no twin ever before had survived such surgery.

Rodney came through the Dec. 17, 1952, history-making operation which cost Roger his life. He is gaining strength steadily in response to special exercise and treatments. Doctors at the University of Illinois medical centre give the brown-eyed boy a good chance to live a nearly normal life.

REASONABLY BRIGHT

The doctors have described Rodney as reasonably bright, good natured and in fairly good general health. But they have said it is too early to determine whether he is completely normal mentally.

Whether the brain surgery has caused damage to vital centres or the ordeal of repeated operations has left scars on the subconscious are questions that cannot yet be answered. So far doctors say they have found no evidence of mental impairment.

But there is one big surgical problem still to lick that has sent Rodney's doctors into frequent huddles in the last six months. That is supplying a hard roof substitute for his missing skull top.

No decision has yet been made on whether to use bone, metal or plastic and no definite date has been set for the surgery, expected this fall or winter.

They have been preparing for this step since a skin cover was placed over the boy's naked brain March 11 in the 20th operation of the series.

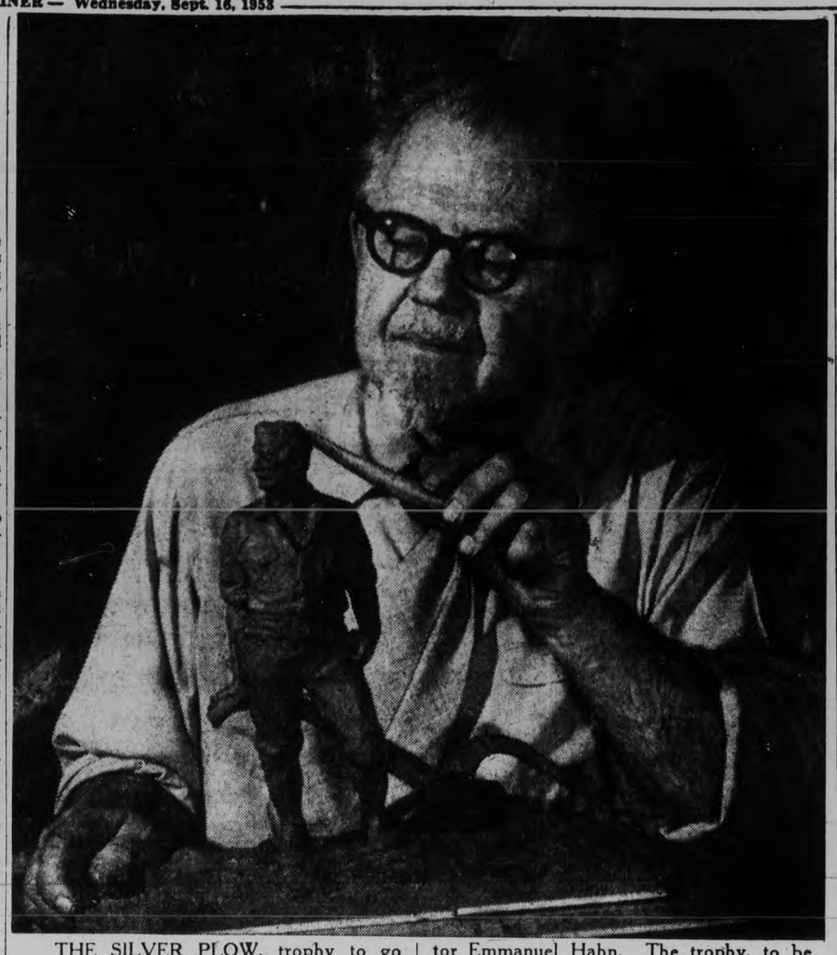
Rodney's own skull, shaped like an open stove pipe, extends upward only to an inch and a half above his ears. Surgeons will have to build the skull sides higher and then complete a roof-like cover.

Bone transplanted from other areas of Rodney's body would be ideal for the job, but the area to be covered is far too vast for the amount of bone available.

Surgeons say bone from a bone bank will sometimes slough off and pull loose, and that metal or plastic are foreign substances which can cause irritation.

The hard roof will have to be inserted under the transplanted skin that covers the brain and will come in direct contact with this vital tissue.

But like any two-year-old who knows he's going to have a birthday, Rodney zipped through the hospital pediatrics ward on his four-wheel walker today, jabbering and proud.



THE SILVER PLOW, trophy to go to the winner of the international plowing match at Cobourg, is shown in its clay form under the hands of its creator, sculptor Emmanuel Hahn. The trophy, to be donated by the Imperial Oil Co., will be presented to the winner on October 9, final day of the match. Second annual match will be held in Ireland.

Centre Of Big Buffalo Hunt Is Forgotten Pioneer Town

TAIL CREEK, Alta. (CP)—One of the forgotten pioneer towns of western Canada is Tail Creek, Alta., a rendezvous of the 1870s for that restless band of hunters, Indians and Metis to whom the Prairies and rolling foothills meant only one thing—buffalo.

Tail Creek now is nothing more than about 40 graves, most of them unmarked. At one time it was a flourishing centre for 2,000 people who built about 400 log cabins on the slopes of a shallow valley.

Through the town wound a small creek which drains nearby Buffalo lake into the Prairie canyons of the Red Deer river. Buffalo lake, about 90 miles south of Edmonton, is appropriately named. The winding creek that drains it resembles, on the map, the tail of the animal; hence the name Tail Creek.

BIGGER THAN WINNIPEG

Tail Creek's winter population was considerably larger than St. Boniface, 750 strong in 1870, and Winnipeg which had 250 residents. Smaller still in population were Edmonton, St. Albert and Lac Ste. Anne, from which the majority of the white buffalo hunters came.

Every autumn, as the great herds roamed the Prairie, hunters poured into the settlement, settled down for a cold and bleak winter, and proceeded to gather the spring's meat supply.

The hides, a by-product of this operation, reached civilization via the Hudson's Bay Company fort at Edmonton.

The groups from Edmonton travelled in units of from three to six carts, each with its captain and officers. When the hunters reached Tail Creek, they made for the cabins they had built during previous hunts.

ROUGH BUT COSY

The log structures were of one pattern—low log walls, roofs of poles covered with earth and straw, animal-skin windows, hand-hewn doors, hewn log floors, and mud-brick fireplaces. Walls were plastered with mud and straw on the inside, and the crude shelters, as revealed in historical reports, were comfortably warm in even the wildest blizzards.

Tail Creek was headquarters for a four-man mounted police force as late as 1876. They were there to protect the Indians and Metis from the notorious whisky-traders from the south.

The RNWMP barracks included two dwellings, a stable and a stockade. The police themselves didn't think much of their place as a fort; their reports say it was overlooked by hills and would have been a sitting duck to hostile Indians.

Sam Steele, who later commanded Strathcona's Horse in the South African War and headed the second Canadian contingent in the First World War, was sergeant-major of "A" division of the RNWMP in 1875. He was knighted in 1917.

NOTED HUNTER

Steele went to Fort Tail in 1875 when word was received that whisky runners were on their way north to trade with the buffalo hunters. He reported that the chief hunter was Abraham Salois from St. Albert, now a thriving town about 10 miles from Edmonton. Salois, Steele said, had an enviable reputation among the Tail Creek population, having killed 37 buffalo in one "run" in the winter of 1873-1874.

To pass the time at the old log town, dancing and gambling were the favored activities. There was an outsize cabin for meetings and dances. Night after night the meeting-house rocked to the stamp of the hunters' feet, the wailing of fiddles and the whoops of enthusiastic Indians.

But as suddenly as Tail Creek had grown up, it vanished. With the passing of the buffalo the town fell into disuse. A large fire in 1878 swept through the district, leaving nothing but the cemetery and one cabin.

The cabin was taken to the nearby town of Stettler, where it was set up as a memorial to the Tail Creek hunters, "prairie city" of 1875, and winter "resort" to some of Edmonton's early residents.

Profitable Project

OWEN SOUND, Ont. (CP)—Local board of education purchased a flock of 25 pullets for a poultry project at the collegiate here and their care was assigned to science students. Now the board has been advised that 100 dozen eggs were sold for an average of 40 cents a dozen and at the end of the project one of the boys bought the whole flock for $40.

Elect Borrie CCC President

EDMONTON (CP)—W. J. Borrie, of Vancouver, today was elected president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, succeeding L. W. Simms of Saint John, N.B.

J. Gerald Godsoe, Toronto, was elected first national vice-president, G. S. Thorvaldson, Winnipeg, second national vice-president; R. M. Fowler, Montreal, chairman of the executive council; W. S. Kirkpatrick, Montreal, and Thomas Oakley, Toronto, vice-chairmen; C. L. Walker, Montreal, honorary treasurer; and A. C. Ashforth, Toronto, associate honorary treasurer.

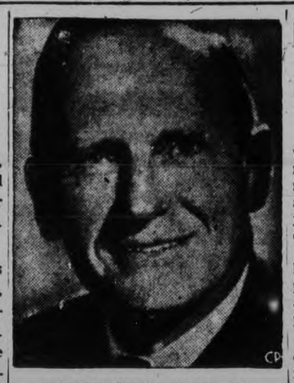
Provincial vice-presidents include John J. Stuart, Windsor, Ont.

Provincial directors include R. J. Prettie, Port Arthur and E. R. Rowzee, Sarnia.

Mr. Borrie, the new president, is president of Pemberton Securities, Ltd., Vancouver.

Traffic Jams

LONDON (CP) — Twenty-nine Parisians reached London airport in a record 51 minutes by jetliner. But they also spent 31 minutes on the road to Orly airport near Paris, and another 55 minutes from London airport to the city.



INVESTMENT BROKER — Wilfred John Borrie, president of Pemberton Securities, Ltd., Vancouver, is active in the Canadian Chamber of Commerce and is attending the national meeting at Edmonton. In 1951 he was president of the Investment Dealers of Canada.

Suspended Sentence

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Milo K. Ruse, former president of the First National Bank of Point Marion in southwestern Pennsylvania, received a three-year suspended sentence and was placed on probation for three years Tuesday for embezzling $150,000 in bank funds. Ruse pleaded no defence to U. S. government charges he invested bank funds and pocketed the profit. He replaced all the bank's money.

Uranium Royalty Payments Expected In Saskatchewan

REGINA (CP)—The Saskatchewan government soon will begin receiving uranium royalty payments which could ultimately amount to more than $1,000,000 yearly in additional provincial revenues.

How the payments will be made, however, is a secret. The present policy of atomic energy control authorities is not to make uranium production figures public.

Royalty payments are calculated on the basis of profits and if such figures were made public, some sources say production clues might be given. The subject is expected to come under study by the Saskatchewan government during the next few months.

Meanwhile, with uranium now coming from one major uranium mine in northern Saskatchewan, the amount of royalty payments which will have to be made is mounting.

So far, only the federal government-owned Eldorado Mining and Refining Ltd. has gone into production but other mines are expected to follow. Gunnar's uranium property may rival Eldorado, although it is expected to be some time before it begins producing.

With more extensive production expected, some sources say royalty revenues may add upwards of $1,000,000 to provincial coffers.

The province now receives a sizable royalty from the extensive underground mining operation on the Saskatchewan-Manitoba border near Flin Flon.

Various methods have been suggested to deal with the secrecy factor involved in payment of the royalties. One of these calls for a flat rate to be paid and a settling-up to be made every five or 10 years. This, however, might be too long a period to take care of change in ownership and transient companies.

Another suggestion would have all provincial royalty figures from various fields lumped together.

For new companies going into mining production a three-per-cent provincial royalty is paid on profits between $10,000 and $100,000. On profits between $100,000 and $500,000 the royalty rate is seven per cent.

On profits greater than $1,000,000 the royalty is on the same basis as companies operating before Jan. 1, 1947. That rate is five per cent of market value of the mineral content of the ore sold, or, in place of this, 12½ per cent of net profit.

Second Choice

OSLO (CP) — Official figures show that 2,958 Norwegians emigrated in 1952—1,535 men and 1,423 women. More than 67 per cent went to settle in the United States, and 31 per cent chose Canada.

South Africa Bill To Curb Union's Indian Population

By JOHN WORRALL

CAPE TOWN —(OFNS) —The new immigration bill being introduced by South Africa's Minister of the Interior, Dr. T .E. Donges, which will soon be before the South African Parliament, is frankly designed to limit the growth from outside of the Union's Indian community. One of the main provisions is aimed at preventing South African Indians from going to India to get married and bringing their wives back to South Africa—a custom which has been practised since the Smuts-Gandhi agreement. Dr. Donges announced before the general election that this practice would be stopped, and his announcement raised a storm of protest from the Indian community at the time.

The new law is to be backdated to February 10, 1953, but Dr. Donges has conceded that all Indians married on that date will be allowed to bring their wives in up to February 1956.

It is this concession which has allowed the nine hundred and fifty women and children from India now held up in Durban to be reprieved. For months they have lived in fear of being sent back to India. All are families of South African Indian Muslims who married in India while on holiday there. All the women were ordered to pay deposits to the Government when they arrived, in case they had to be deported. Now they will be allowed to join their husbands in Natal and the Cape Province—husbands whom in many cases they have not seen for years.

REFUSE CHILD

Another provision of the Bill is that if a South African Indian couple goes to India on holiday and have a child there, that child will not be able to return with them. But Dr. Donges is empowered to give his dispensation in such cases. Another provision is that a foreign-born Indian woman who has lived in the Union will not be allowed to return home if she pays a visit to India of more than three years' duration.

A memorandum issued this week by the Cape Town office of the Indian Diplomatic Representative in South Africa said that the proposal to stop foreign-born wives and children of Indians entering the Union breached an international agreement freely entered into by South Africa. It deprived the Indian community in the country of a natural and fundamental right. The memorandum showed that fewer than three-hundred Indian-born wives a year had been admitted. The memorandum pointed out that, in fact, South Africa had shown a net loss of its Indian population to India, as more were repatriated than were allowed in.

A prominent Indian told me today that many of the wives who had been admitted were married almost as children. Some had been parted from their South African-born husbands for many years, while their husbands were making enough money to bring them over. The practice began at a time when there was a shortage of Indian women in Natal, and many Indians sent their sons to India on wife-hunting quests.

56,000 Acres Forest Burned

TORONTO (CP)—More than 56,000 acres of Ontario forests have been burned over since April 1, the department of lands and forests said Tuesday.

A department spokesman said it was too early yet to determine the value and kinds of timber destroyed.

"We're still too busy putting out fires," he said.

Since April 1 there have been 1,269 forest fires reported in the province, burning an average of 44 acres each. This year there was a higher concentration of fires during August and early September in the central and southern part of the province than for some years.

Eleven fires were being extinguished Tuesday. Six were burning in the North Bay area, three near Pembroke and one each near Tweed and Geraldton.

Gets Far East Post

LONDON (Reuters) — Canadian-born Lt.-Gen. Sir Charles F. Loewen has been appointed commander-in-chief of Britain's Far East land forces, the war office announced Tuesday night. He succeeds Gen. Sir Charles F. Keightley. Gen. Loewen entered the British Army in 1918 from the Royal Military College, Kingston, Ont. He was born in 1900 at Vancouver.

Railway Unions Have Decided Not To Seek Pay Increases

Find MacLean Car At Lausanne, No Sign Of Family

LAUSANNE, Switzerland —(AP)— The black Chevrolet sedan in which missing British diplomat Donald MacLean's wife disappeared last Friday from Geneva was found today in a Lausanne garage. The garageman said it was brought in early Friday night by a woman with three children answering to the missing family's description and that the group rushed across the street to the railway station.

He said the woman told him she would come back for the car in about a week.

BELIEVED FLED

The disappearance of Chicago-born Mrs. Melinda MacLean, 37, and her three small children was revealed Wednesday. Her husband and another member of the British foreign office staff, Guy Burgess, are generally believed in the West to have fled behind the Iron Curtain after they crossed from England to France in May, 1951, and dropped from sight.

Mrs. MacLean and her children had been living in Geneva with Mrs. MacLean's mother, Mrs. Melinda Dunbar.

Mrs. Dunbar told police her daughter left with the children Friday to spend the week-end with friends in Montreux. When they did not return on Monday, Mrs. Dunbar notified police.

The Lausanne garageman, Marcel Micheli, said Mrs. MacLean and the children arrived at his establishment about 6:50 p. m. Friday and that she told him she was in a great hurry to catch a train.

The only train leaving Lausanne immediately after was the 6:58, arriving at Zurich at 11:06 p. m. with stops en route at Fribor Bern and Olten.

First In 20 Years General Raise Not Being Asked

MONTREAL (CP)—Unions representing some 150,000 men in non-operating trades of four Canadian railways will not seek general pay increases this year, it was announced today. Frank Hall, Canadian vice-president of the Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks, made the announcement at the conclusion of a two-day meeting of railway unions. He said it is the first time in at least 20 years that a general wage increase will not be sought in the annual contract.

Mr. Hall said the non-operating trades will, however, make some new demands on the railways, Canadian Pacific, Canadian National, Toronto, Hamilton and Buffalo, and Ontario Northland.

BEFORE DECEMBER 1

Notice of the demands will be served on the railways some time before Dec. 1, when the current contract expires.

Mr. Hall said representatives of the running trades unions had told him they could not join the non-operating trades in making a joint presentation to the railways because their contracts expire at different dates.

The representatives of the running trades did not indicate whether they will seek a general pay increase in their new contracts.

Among other things, the non-operating trades will seek:

1. Pay for statutory holidays. Workers now are paid overtime if they work on statutory holidays. They get no pay if they do not work.
2. Longer vacations with pay. Vacations with pay now vary from five to 10 days, depending on length of service.
3. Cumulative sick pay allowance.
4. Overtime pay for Sunday work.

Willing To Try Arbitration On 4 Disputes

TIMMINS (CP) — The United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL) said today it is willing to send disputes at four small gold mines here to arbitration but could "promise nothing" in connection with threatened walkouts at the rich McIntyre and Hollinger mines.

Leo Behie, regional supervisor, denied reports that the union was willing to postpone strike plans at the two big mines pending arbitration at Broulan Reef, Hallnor, Preston East Dome and Delnite mines.

"I will make no promises regarding strikes at the McIntyre and Hollinger mines," Mr. Behie said.

Strikes at Hollinger and McIntyre would add another 2,700 to the 1,000 workers already idle in stoppages at the smaller mines.

TO STUDY PROPOSAL

The union said Wednesday it was willing to study a proposal by Timmins town council, which wired Premier Frost urging him to arrange a meeting between union of- strike-bound mines.

The council plan called for final and binding arbitration between union officials and operators of the four strike-bound mines.

The council plan called for final and binding arbitration between the disputants. Mr. Behie said the union is willing to adhere to any settlement reached by a "reputable arbitrator."

The council called for a settlement as civic leaders throughout the Porcupine gold mining area warned that "economic catastrophe" would follow continuation or extension of the nine-week walkouts.

Real Pacific Council Needed In Far East

LONDON (Reuters)—The Times says today that the problems of the Far East demanded the creation of a "real Pacific council."

It contended that ANZUS, the mutual Pacific security pact embracing Australia, New Zealand and the United States, was not adequate for the needs of the situation.

"This country has—or ought to have—no quarrel with the United States, Australia and New Zealand for having joined together in a long-term security pact originally designed to counter the long-term threat from a rearmed and vigorous Japan," it said.

The real objection to ANZUS, the Times continues, "is not that it offends London's dignity but that by its existence it may block the introduction of any wider collective security arrangement in the Far East designed to meet urgent problems of today and tomorrow rather than hypothetical situations in the remoter future.

Britain Cuts Bank Rate By ½ Per Cent

LONDON (Reuters)—The Bank of England today reduced the bank rate from four to 3½ per cent. The change is regarded here as largely a formality which will have no effect on the government's "tight money" policy to discourage borrowing.

The effect is to unify the bank rate, the minimum rate at which the bank discounts approved bills of exchange (hitherto four per cent), and the "special rate" at which it lends money to the money market against treasury bills (hitherto 3½ per cent).

A spread between the two rates was introduced in November, 1951, as part of a program to tighten credit. Unification is expected to allow more freedom in day-to-day operations on the market and will facilitate a flexible use of the bank rate.

EFFECTIVE RATE

The "special rate" is the effective one. Loans to the money market are made against treasury bills. As the special rate is unchanged, it means no direct change in policy.

When the treasury launched a disinflation program in November, 1951, after a Conservative election victory, the bank rate was raised from two to 2½ per cent. The special rate was then reduced from 2½ to two per cent and became the effective rate.

In the budget of March, 1952, the bank rate was raised to 3½ per cent.

A Bank of England spokesman said today's change was to insure that the bank rate did not get out of touch with market rates.

The spokesman said that, though Britain's position was better than when money rates were raised previously, today's adjustment did not imply the country was yet out of "rough water" or that it could relax its economy efforts.

Cabinet Faces 2 Decisions

OTTAWA (CP)—The cabinet in its third post-election meeting today faces decisions on two politically-ticklish transportation problems. Prime Minister St. Laurent has announced that the cabinet will review the bid by eight provinces—all except Quebec and Ontario—to have a freight-rate increase granted Canadian railways last March nullified. He also has said the cabinet will consider the application of Canadian Pacific Airlines to break the monopoly on east-west air cargo held by Trans-Canada Air Lines.

It is understood the cabinet has decided tentatively to reject the provinces' plea against the $38,500,000-a-year-freight rate boost. But such a decision might be a difficult political step.

SOME RELUCTANCE

The government probably would find some reluctance among its supporters outside Quebec and Ontario to go along with rejection of the provinces' bid. Strong opposition to past rate increases has come from both the West and the Maritimes.

The question uppermost in the mind of the government may be: Can the plea of the provincial governments be rejected without further alienating the West?

If the cabinet agrees to nullify the increase, the problem becomes one of the financial position of the CNR and the CPR and whether such a step would seem a victory for the CCF Government of Saskatchewan and the Social Credit Governments of British Columbia and Alberta and perhaps the Conservative Government of New Brunswick.

The matter of CPA's request to carry air cargo between Vancouver and Montreal fringes on another political question — monopoly by Crown companies.

Opposition groups have in the past charged that a monopoly such as Trans-Canada Air Lines is detrimental to the public good. The government has argued that too much competition may be equally detrimental both to the public and the companies concerned.

Rail Strike Threatened If Douk Dynamiting Lasts

NELSON, B.C. (CP)—An attempt is being made to tie up all rail traffic in British Columbia if the menace of Sons of Freedom Doukhobor track blastings is not removed soon, it was learned late Wednesday.

An authentic source, who declined use of his name, said the running trades of all railways throughout the province are being urged for a "withdrawal from work" to back up demands of trainmen in the Kootenay division of the Canadian Pacific Railway for safer working conditions.

The request came at a recent meeting of the railroad brotherhoods here, and now is in the hands of lodges of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen and the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen throughout B. C., the source said.

In the last three years there have been more than 20 blastings and eight attempts. Bridges were damaged as well as the railroad itself.

NO COMMENT

William Towhey, chairman of the joint running trades at Nelson, who has been leading the fight of the railwaymen against the Doukhobor terrorists, would neither confirm nor deny the report.

He did say, however, that the blasts were an "extremely serious hazard" to the passengers and railroad men on the winding line through the Kootenay country.

600 Milkmen Go On Strike

TORONTO (CP) — Six hundred milkmen, not involved in the milk walkout last week, were on strike at the big Silverwood Dairies today. The trouble arose from the milk board ban on Wednesday deliveries.

Half of the company's 250 drivers, members of the CIO Retail-Wholesale Union, showed up for their regular 5:30 a.m. shift Wednesday. When the company refused to send them out on their routes they called it a lockout and demanded they be paid for the day.

An official union statement said the company has refused to comply and the employees "will not work until they have been paid."

Company officials said they would not attempt to deliver milk to their regular customers in the face of the employees' refusal to work. The company branded the walkout an illegal strike.

Chief labor conciliator Louis Fine wired both sides Wednesday night, asking them to meet with him Friday in an attempt to renew bargaining meetings.

Frost Suggests Groundwork Committee Used

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—A new approach to federal-provincial conferences was proposed here Wednesday by Premier Frost of Ontario.

In his address to the banquet of the 10th annual mines ministers' convention, Mr. Frost suggested establishment of an economic committee comprising federal and provincial representatives to lay the groundwork for subsequent high-level talks.

The premier said most federal-provincial conferences were overburdened with business, resulting in many items being dropped from the agenda and placing extra strain on important business which had to be dealt with.

Mines ministers already had technical committees to obtain data on topics likely to come up for convention discussion, and a "groundwork" committee was already functioning in Toronto between representatives of provincial and municipal governments.

Other problems to be considered in advance of full-scale conferences might be economic stability, income and employment, capital investments, public borrowings, housing and conversation.

PO Workers Seek New Deal

CALGARY (CP)—A demand that Canadian postal employees be granted the same rights and privileges given workers in industry was made Wednesday by Daniel Cross of Kingston at the National Canadian Postal Employees convention.

In his report to the more than 200 delegates, Mr. Cross said:

"We definitely want to come under the terms of the Industrial Relations and Disputes Investigation Act."

Reporting that a suggestion for higher salaries had been met by the government with the statement it would cost an additional $16,000,000 a year, Mr. Cross said:

"So what. If the post office is to be operated for profit and not for service then make it a paying proposition. Increase postage rates and stop subsidizing newspaper and magazine publishers and the TCA."

Churchill Leaving For Riviera Holiday

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill left by plane today for a French Riviera holiday, leaving his doctor behind—a clear indication the 78-year-old statesman is fighting fit again.

Churchill, looking better than for some time but without his usual cigar, was rushed to London airport in a limousine which arrived five minutes late.

The car drove straight onto the runway where the prime minister boarded the waiting airliner, a regularly-scheduled British European Airways passenger plane for Nice. It left 20 minutes late.

Lady Churchill, who accompanied her husband to the airport, remained behind. In Churchill's party of eight were his daughter, Mary, and her husband, Captain Christopher Soames, a Conservative member of Parliament.

Police Launch Search For Two Canoeists

BLIND RIVER (CP) — Police launched a search over land and water today for two United States canoeists four days overdue on a trip through northern Ontario.

Missing are John Rhodes and Dick Bauer, both of Detroit. They were scheduled to arrive at Iron Bridge, about 12 miles west of this Manitoulin island town, last Sunday.

They set out from Biscotasing, 70 miles northwest of Sudbury, and have not been heard from since.

Begin Investigation Of Plane Wreckage

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—Federal investigators start poring over the twisted ruins of an American Airlines Convair today to find out what caused it to clip two radio towers and slam to earth Wednesday morning, killing all 28 persons aboard.

The twin-engined craft burst into flames. It crashed within a few feet of a trailer park.

Joseph Fluett, regional chief investigator for the Civil Aeronautics Board, called a meeting this morning to organize "an investigation of structural parts and the scene itself" that will take about two weeks. Airline officials and state police also are investigating.

Some witnesses reported the plane seemed to encounter engine trouble as it circled Albany airport after its landing had been delayed by a heavy ground fog.

Just before the crash the fog had begun to clear and the ceiling over the airport was 500 feet. minutes later the big 40-passenger Convair struck two in a row of three 365-foot towers at Albany station WPTR's transmitter.

Fire At Rocket Range

ADELAIDE (Reuters) — Detectives today investigated a mystery fire which destroyed two buildings at Australia's top secret rocket testing range at Woomera. An Adelaide newspaper, The Advertiser, said the fire was believed to be the work of an arsonist.

Far East Gets Atomic Guns

WASHINGTON (Reuters) — The United States will strengthen its Far East defences with atomic artillery, it was authoritatively learned in defence quarters Wednesday.

This followed a defence department announcement Tuesday that a six-gun battalion of the new 280-millimetre atomic cannon would soon go to Europe to support the North Atlantic treaty armies under Gen. Alfred Gruenther.

An informed source told Reuters: "We are sending the atomic artillery to Europe where there is only a cold war. It would surely not be sensible if we did not have such weapons available in the hot-war area of the Far East."

Since the outbreak of the Korean war the United States has given the Far East a priority over Europe for delivery of the most up-to-date weapons. Such weapons, officials said, logically could be expected to include atomic artillery.

Thieves Get Jewels

PICKERING (CP) — Thieves Wednesday night took $37,000 in jewels from the home of Arthur Gottlieb, millionaire film producer and president of Audio Pictures, Ltd., Mimico, police said today. Mr. Gottlieb, 52, is the husband of Gladys Glad, former Ziegfeld follies beauty, whom he married in 1948.

70 Lives Lost In RCAF Mishaps In '53

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Flying mishaps in the RCAF in Canada during the first eight months of this year have destroyed at least 28 aircraft valued at approximately $6,350,000 and killed 70 persons.

These figures were compiled by The Canadian Press after a check of air crashes as reported in Canadian newspapers since last Jan. 1.

While not considered complete, they include nine F-86 Sabre jets worth approximately $3,150,000, two CF-100s, two Mitchells, two Beechcraft Expediters, three Mustangs, five Harvards, four Lancasters and one Dakota.

Full information on the number of crashes is described as "classified" by the defence department on the ground that such data is not available from other countries, even to Canadian defence officials.

RESTRICTED TO CANADA

The figures do not include RCAF crashes overseas or non-fatal accidents on air stations where other aircraft may have been quietly written off without publicity. An unofficial estimate of overseas places the figure at less than a dozen.

Informed sources said the figures, although possibly underestimated, do not necessarily indicate an abnormally high accident rate. Against them must be measured the number of service hours flown during the period—more than 400,000. Comparisons with other countries or with previous periods of RCAF history are not available.

For example, the air force has safely transported upwards of 250 Sabre jets overseas for service in Europe under the North Atlantic Treaty Organization—a major undertaking with considerable hazards. Also, each of these jets involved many hours of flying training time.

RELATIVELY LOW

Some observers feel, too, that in putting into service for the first time Canada's own CF-100s, the loss of two aircraft at this stage should be considered relatively low in comparison with similar ventures by other countries.

Questioned recently regarding the crash rate, air force officials admitted the number of accidents had increased considerably, but said the number has not increased in relation to the flying time. They said the number of crashes is "in no way out of proportion" to the corresponding increase in flying time.

The $6,350,000 write-off total is based on informed but unofficial estimates rating a Sabre as worth $350,000; CF-100 $500,000; Mitchells and Lancasters $200,000; Beech-Mustang $75,000 and Harvard $65,000.

Since all planes are in varying stages of development, obsolescence or re-equipment, accurate estimates are difficult.

BIG CRASHES

The survey showed the following accidents as taking the biggest toll of life since Jan. 1:

Jan. 28—Dakota, en route from Vancouver to Cariboo, disappeared with seven men aboard. Wreckage found later. Icing conditions blamed.

Jan. 29 — Mitchell bomber, en route Saskatoon to Vancouver, disappeared with five men aboard. Wreckage found Sept. 14. Icing conditions blamed.

Feb. 1—Lancaster with nine aboard disappeared on flight between Goose Bay, Labrador, and Torbay, Nfld. Bodies recovered later. Plane had reported failure of two engines.

Feb. 5—Pilot and three students from Stevenson Field, Winnipeg, killed when Beechcraft crashed on night training flight near Gunton, Man.

April 20—Lancaster returning to base at Greenwood, N.S., crashed in field near Centreville, N.S., killing six of seven crew members.

May 16 — Mitchell bomber crashed at Valois, Que., killing all eight men aboard. Reason for crash unknown.

May 26—Lancaster crashed on Iron Mountain, Oregon, killing all 10 aboard, while taking part in coast exercises and en route to San Diego with Canadian destroyers. Weather conditions blamed for plane straying off course.

Aug. 11—CF-100 crashed into two houses at Ville Jacques Cartier, Que., killing nine, including seven civilians.

These crashes accounted for 58 of the 70 deaths. Apart from the CF-100 crash at Ville Jacques Cartier, only five of the deaths occurred in jet planes.

Sowing Ill Will

Says Opposition To India Flouted Will Of Asia

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru of India said today that United States opposition to Indian participation in the Korean political conference had "flouted the will of Asia."

"Some powers have not realized that the countries of Asia, however weak, do not propose to be ignored, by-passed or sat on," he said in a review of foreign affairs to the House of the People (lower House).

Nehru was frankly gloomy about the prospects of an early settlement insuring world peace. He said most of the world obviously wanted peace "yet I must confess that recent events have made me slightly doubtful of any permanent settlement in the near future."

Nehru said India had been put in "an embarrassing position" by proposals that she should attend the Korean political conference. He said she did not want the additional burdens such participation would impose, but felt she should help toward a peaceful settlement if she could.

(The United States opposed the proposal in the United Nations, insisting that the post-war conference be confined to participants in the war, and perhaps Russia. Before a vote was taken India withdrew her name from consideration as a conference member. The Communists have since proposed that she and other Asian nations be included.)

Nehru said that opposition to India at the political conference came almost entirely from "American countries."

He said the question of the admission of Communist China was the basic issue bedevilling the UN.

Slaying Upsets Plans

Informer Refuses To Name Gunmen In Brink's Holdup

BOSTON (AP) — An informer agreed to tell a grand jury the names of the gunmen who robbed Brink's, Inc., of $1,219,000 on Jan. 17, 1950, then reneged on his promise at the last minute, published reports said today.

The informer, who was not identified, apparently was scared off his previously agreed course by the gunshot slayings in West Warwick, R. I., of Carlton M. O'Brien, a former rum-runner who was a Brink's suspect, these accounts said.

Officially, there was no comment from investigators on the reports but the Boston Herald said a person high in the investigation admitted that a broken promise "upset the Brink's applecart."

In return for the $180,000 reward, the newspaper said, "the informer had agreed to go before a grand jury and name the masked gunmen and tell of the division of the loot, it was reported. Then, shortly after May 17, 1952, the date of served notice all bets were off."

The Boston Post described the informer's change of mind as a "doublecross" of the Federal bureau of Investigation.

"The witness," it said, "related in detail to special FBI agents the part played by two of the Brink's gunmen in operating the getaway truck used in the robbery, it was revealed. The witness also described how much of the Brink's loot went to these two men and what disposition was made of the loot by the pair. The witness also provided the FBI with leads identifying five others involved in the robbery."

Men Refuse Give Names To Indians

Protection Promised Freedom of Choice Of 23,000 Prisoners

MUNSAN (AP)—Gen. Mark Clark today expressed sympathy for United States and other Allied war prisoners the Reds say refuse to return home and said he understands the "pressures to which they have been subjected."

The UN Far East commander promised all U.S. PoWs the "legal rights and protection" guaranteed under U.S. laws.

The Communists say they hold about 300 South Koreans and more than 20 non-Koreans who refuse repatriation.

TO PROTECT CHOICE

Clark also vowed to protect the "freedom of choice" of nearly 23,000 Chinese and North Koreans who renounced communism while in Allied captivity.

As the statement was released, 1,000 fiery, anti-Red Chinese war prisoners being handed over by the UN to Indian guards near Panmunjom ripped off their identification tags and refused to give their names to the Indians.

The prisoners spotted Communist observers outside the barbed wire and unleashed a hail of stones. None of the Reds was injured.

The five-country repatriation commission, which will decide the fate of all prisoners who refuse to go home, called a special conference.

MAY REFUSE PRISONERS

An Indian spokesman said the commission would consider refusing further Allied deliveries of prisoners without their identification cards.

The prisoners apparently feared Red interviewers might discover their names and homes and take reprisals against relatives.

Meanwhile, Brig.-Gen. A. L. Hamblen, chief of the UN group which will talk with reluctant Allied prisoners, said the command feels both Allied and Red captives "already have made their choice."

The general told a press conference at Munsan:

"If the prisoner does nothing, it is assumed that he wants to stay under the control of the country which now holds him."

MUST TAKE INITIATIVE

He said a prisoner who changes his mind and decides to return must make some "overt act" such as an oral or written application, to be considered for repatriation.

Hamblen told correspondents his explainers are "not going to say anything to the PoWs that we cannot back up. We are not going to give wild promises of immunity. But we will assume all men innocent unless proven guilty."

Hamblen said being a "progressive"—a PoW who sided with the Reds—is not considered a crime in the United States.

The 90-day explanation period is set to begin about Sept. 25. Allied and Communist representatives will be allowed to talk with their former soldiers in an effort to ease their fears and persuade them to return home.

Official forecasts issued by the Dominion public weather office in Toronto at 9:30 a.m.:

Synopsis:

Cool air pushed south of the lower lakes region again on Wednesday, and under clear skies temperatures dropped overnight to about 40 degrees in southwestern Ontario. From Toronto eastward a blanket of cloud persisted throughout the night and held temperatures up in the mid-40s. A general frost occurred across northern regions where temperatures were generally in the mid-20s early this morning.

Today will be sunny and cool in all regions. A weak disturbance, which is moving across the midwest towards the Great Lakes regions will spread cloud and showers into the White River region tonight, but does not appear to present any serious threat to the weather across remaining regions of the province—which will continue sunny and be a little warmer on Friday.

Regional forecasts valid until midnight Friday:

Lake Erie, Lake Huron, Lake Ontario, Niagara, Georgian Bay, Haliburton, Kirkland Lake regions, Windsor, London, Toronto, Hamilton, North Bay and Sudbury: Sunny today and Friday; a little warmer Friday; winds light today and tonight; southeast 15 Friday; low tonight and high Friday at St. Thomas, St. Catharines, London, Toronto and Hamilton 45 and 70, Killaloe 35 and 60, Windsor 50 and 75, North Bay and Sudbury 40 and 55 Wingham 45 and 65 Trenton and Muskoka 40 and 65; Earlton 30 and 50. Summary for Friday: Sunny and warmer.

Churches Fight For Bequest

TORONTO (CP)—A $200,000 bequest to the Methodist Church in Canada is under dispute in court here on the grounds that the testator intended the money to go to the Free Methodist group which stayed out of church union in 1925.

Charles Kappele, Toronto barrister, died in 1952 and left more than $400,000. After taking care of relatives, he left half the residue, about $200,000, to the Methodist Church and the other half to the Upper Canada Bible Society.

The Free Methodists and Mr. Kappele's relatives are fighting the United Church's claim on the money. United Church officials claim Mr. Kappele became a member of their body at church union in 1925.

Affidavits were presented Wednesday showing that Mr. Kappele belonged to the Central Methodist Church here and continued on as a member there when Central Methodist united with Westminster Presbyterian Church.

Stock Market Prices Gaining Slightly

TORONTO (CP)—Early afternoon trading increased and stock market prices gained slightly.

Western oils led the rise, although weak at this morning's trials and golds showed small increases.

Uraniums mixed with mostly penny changes. Gunnar was an exception with a rise of almost $1. Marbenor traded almost 370,000 shares with little change in price. New Brunswick base metals were mixed.

Industrials were firm with papers, financial houses, utilities and refining oils showing gains.

In the golds, seniors and juniors rose and holding companies mixed. In the base metals, gains in leading issues produced a small index rise although prices were mixed. Labrador and Cassiar gained and Golden Manitou dropped.

HEAR BOOTLEG APPEAL

Judge John de N. Kennedy today heard an appeal from a two-month sentence for bootlegging in which Terence Robert Rosebush, 31, of Chandos township was convicted earlier this year. Rosebush was sentenced to two months of hard labor. Arguing the appeal was W. J. Arthur Fair, QC, and Alexander Fleming was crown counsel. Judge Kennedy reserved judgment, though he conceded that Rosebush had made a prima facie case in explaining why he had possession of liquor.

Union Trouble Not Wet Stage Cancelled Show

Union trouble, not a wet stage, caused the cancellation of Tuesday night's grandstand show at the Peterborough Exhibition.

The organist hired by the board of directors to play for the stage show was not a member of the musicians' union. A complaint by the union registered by R. C. Searles secretary of the Peterborough local induced the directors to withdraw the organist and cancel the show.

The audience at the first night of the stage show received rain checks which entitled them to enter the grounds and to attend either Wednesday night's performance or tonight's.

CANCELLED DUE TO RAIN

After a slow start, the master of ceremonies announced that the show was cancelled due to a wet stage. Chemicals which would dry the stage in the event of future rainfalls, he said, would be available Wednesday night and for the rest of the fair.

Members of the board of directors have refused to comment on cancelation of Tuesday's show.

It is known, however, that several directors felt the audience should have been told the true reason for the show being stopped.

A pianist, presumably with a union card, played for the dance accompaniments on Wednesday night. An organist provided music for the other acts.

Mrs. Evelyn M. Foster played the dance accompaniments on Wednesday night and Colin Corbett of Toronto, provided the music for the other acts. Mr. Corbett, a Peterborough boy, is one of Canada's outstanding organists. He has played for a number of years on the electric organ and has had programs in some of the largest ballrooms and theatres in Toronto.

Plan Helicopters Land At Pole

THULE AIR BASE, Greenland (AP)—The U.S. Air Force aims to land two helicopters on the north pole—the first whirlybirds to go to the top of the world.

The two twin-rotor Piasecki aircraft already have a long flying trip behind them. Aug. 17 they left Eglin, Fla., air proving ground and with 14 intermediate stops reached this northernmost USAF air base Sept. 14.

Crews from the air proving ground flew the 'copters here to test them out under Arctic conditions, then left them for rescue and other use by the Thule base.

The pole is about 900 miles from Thule, far longer than helicopters even with extra fuel tanks like these two could make in a single leap, so the plan is to "stage" up along the route with refuelling stops at such places as Alert, on the northernmost tip of Ellesmere island (the last point of land) and the floating ice island T-3, now about 100 miles from the pole.

MORE ABOUT—Rail Strike

At present, bridges are flood-lit and guarded, but it would take thousands of men to "guard the railroad adequately."

Mr. Towhey declared he could not understand why the CPR did not take a "stronger attitude" in demanding protection from the government.

The source who reported the tie-up attempt, however, said not only CPR unions but also those of Canadian National Railways and the Pacific Great Eastern, which runs into the northland, had been asked to co-operate.

Aim of the railwaymen is to get the danger removed before winter, when long nights add to the hazard.

ALSO TAKING HAND

Mrs. Towhey, who sat in on the interview with her husband, said ladies auxiliaries of the brotherhoods also are taking a hand, asking the government for strong action.

Despite the number of blastings, there have been few deaths through the years. One of the fatalities was Peter (The Lordly) Verigin, leader of the Freedomite sect, who was aboard a train when an explosion occurred.

The latest antics by Doukhobors—144 of whom go on trial in Vancouver today on charges of contributing to juvenile delinquency by parading in the nude—was the burning of 13 Doukhobors homes from last Saturday to Tuesday.

Mr. Towhey said he fears they may now make another attempt at the railway, as part of their protest against the arrests which occurred when Doukhobors demonstrated against a government order to send their children to school.

He said the violent Freedomites should be relocated in an isolated part of the province, or moved to another country.

This is in line with recommendations of a consultative committee, of which Mr. Towhey was a member, appointed by the B.C. government.

A CPR conductor by trade, he deplored the fact there are "numerous" Doukhobor sectionmen along the Kootenay division, and several operators, although stressing that by far the majority were trustworthy.

He had known "one man on the railway who talked with friends about how foolish the Sons were, only to be found in a nude parade himself three days later. He served a jail sentence, and after being released sought his job back on the railway."

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO (AP)—Grains opened fairly steady in active dealings on the board of trade today.

The strength in Wednesday's market apparently created some overnight demand for all cereals. However, the market slumped after opening prices were posted.

Wheat started unchanged to ⅝ cent higher, Dec. $1.93-1.93¼; corn was unchanged to ½ lower, Sept. $1.57-1.56⅞ and oats were ⅛ lower to ¼ higher, Sept. 72¾-⅝. Soybeans were ¾ cent lower to ¾ higher, Sept. $2.54½-¾.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG (CP)—Grain prices with the exception of flax showed a weaker tone in early trading on the Winnipeg grain exchange today, reflecting declines in United States markets. Trading was moderately active.

Commercial demand appeared moderate with domestic shipping purchases in oats and some buying in flax by exporters and processors. Barley and rye trade was mostly local.

11 a. m. grain prices:

Oats: Oct ¼ lower 70¾B; Dec ¼ lower 68¼B; May ¼ lower 68⅛A.

Barley: Oct ¾ lower 1.07½; Dec ⅜ lower 1.01½; May ¼ lower 1.01.

Cabinet Faces

The cabinet may also fill the post of clerk of the Privy Council and cabinet secretary. R. B. Bryce, 42-year-old assistant deputy minister of finance, has been reported for the job.

His appointment by order-in-council may be announced. Mr. Bryce would succeed State Secretary Pickersgill, who vacated the job when he entered the cabinet before the Aug. 10 federal election.

Other possible appointments include the portfolio of works minister, vacant since Hon. Alphonse Fourner was named to the Exchequer Court, and three parliamentary assistantss—health, veterans' affairs and trade.

Eight parliamentary assistants were named at the last cabinet meeting. George McIlraith, parliamentary assistant to Trade Minister Howe in the last parliament, turned down the job in this parliament.

Start Paving Highway 7 In Week-Doucett

Work should begin next week on the paving of Highway 7, between Fowler's Corners and Reaboro, Highways Minister George Doucett said Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. Doucett, who at present is doubling as acting-minister of agriculture in the Ontario cabinet, was in Peterborough to open the Peterborough Exhibition. Before going to the exhibition grounds he was guest at an informal dinner, given jointly by the city and county, at the McGillis Hotel.

A month or so ago Premier Leslie Frost assured the Examiner that the stretch of highway between Fowler's Corners and Reaboro, now fallen into a bad state of repair, would be paved this fall. Mr. Doucett confirmed this Wednesday in a brief interview.

"Beamish Construction have the contract," he said, "and work should begin there next week. Certainly the base will be finished this fall and we are attempting to complete the paving job."

TOP SECTION OF LINK

Asked about the Peterborough bypass of the new link highway to join Highway 401 at Newcastle and on to Toronto, Mr. Doucett said that it is still not "finalized". This leg runs from Highway 28, south of Kendry, curves northeast along a proposed route south of the city, and joins Highway 7 east of the city in the Downer's Corners area. Preliminary surveys have been made, that's all.

Mr. Doucett also confirmed that Hi-Ways Construction of Simcoe had the contract for the 5.8 miles of road between the junction of Highways 401 and 2, west of Newcastle, and Orono. They will do the grading and put in culverts and fix up the surface of Highway 35.

It is not departmental policy to give the contract figures but Mr. Doucett said that this stretch between Newcastle and Orono will cost about $450,000.

Speaking generally, the highways minister also said that he was in favor of a plan to do away with level crossings. But the federal government would have to be one of the partners in such an expensive undertaking.

Among those at the reception and dinner were Mayor Hugh Waddell, Warden Ernest Leeson, and President Norman McConkey of the Peterborouugh Exhibition.

Find MacLean Car

officials said Mrs. MacLean had not been on any plane to Prague since Friday.

Until the discovery of the car today, the only clue to the family's disappearance was a telegram filed early Wednesday from the Montreux suburb of Territet to Mrs. Dunbar. Purportedly from her daughter, it said:

"Terribly sorry delay in contact you unforeseen circumstances have arisen. I am staying here longer. Please advise school. Boys returning about a week's time. All extremely well. Pink rose in marvelous form. Love from all. Melinda."

Police said the telegram was handed in at the Montreux post office at 10:50 a. m. Wednesday by a thick-set woman, definitely not Mrs. MacLean.

EXPERTS CHECK IT

After examining the original of the message Mrs. Dunbar told Swiss security police she believed the handwriting was not her daughter's and a handwriting expert was checking it today.

Geneva's police chief, Charles Knecht, said Wednesday night he believed it "somewhat unlikely" that Mrs. MacLean had been kidnapped or met with an accident, but he added: "If she deliberately left the country, it is strange that she failed to advise at least her own mother of her plans."

KNOWLEDGE OF FAMILY

Later Knecht announced that, "it was not Mrs. Maclean who wrote and handed in" the telegram her mother received. It revealed a knowledge of the family, however. "Pink Rose" is the nickname of the MacLean youngest, Melanie. And the two boys had been scheduled to resume schooling Monday at the International School in Geneva.

Knecht said today that Mrs. MacLean had told her mother she was to meet a friend from Cairo, where her husband had been stationed, at a Montreux hotel. Mrs. Dunbar said her daughter identified the friend as a man named Robin, but she could not recall the last name. Police were unable to find anyone who saw the woman or the children at a Montreux hotel.

The telegram Mrs. Dunbar received was similar to two messages delivered in England after the disappearance of MacLean and Burgess.

One, from Paris to Mrs. MacLean, said: "Had to leave unexpectedly. Sorry, darling. I love you. Please do not stop loving me."

Burgess' mother received a like wire from Rome: "Terribly sorry for my silence. Am embarking on a long Mediterranean holiday. Do forgive, Guy."

Finkelman Named Labor Board Chairman

TORONTO (CP)—The Globe and Mail says today that Prof. J. Finkelman, acting chairman of the Ontario labor relations board, has been appointed chairman.

(Prof. Finkelman, questioned about the report, refused comment.)

The paper says in a Montreal-dated story it is learned that Prof. Finkelman "is on a year's leave of absence from the University of Toronto's school of law to assume the direction of the board."

Up To Communists To Aid Peace Move

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The world is at a crisis, U.S. State Secretary Dulles said today, and it is up to the Communists to remove the roadblocks that stand in the way of peaceful solutions for Korea, Indo-China and Germany.

"Mere words" are not enough, Dulles told the UN General Assembly, and there can be no "new world climate" unless the Communists contribute more to it by changing their policies.

The U.S., he said, stands ready to explore all possible means to end tension and bring world peace, before scientific discoveries "wipe life off the surface of this planet."

The Rev. Clifford Grant is now a patient in Wellsley Hospital, Toronto, for further treatment.

Labor Congress Pushes Fight For Health Scheme

MONTREAL (CP)—Organized labor's battle for a government-sponsored health scheme has gained momentum with a decision by the Canadian Congress of Labor to get into the fight. The 370,000-member body Wednesday unanimously approved a Winnipeg Labor Council proposal that the incoming CCL executive press for such a plan, to provide medical, surgical, optical, dental and hospital treatment to all Canadians. The Congress, adopting other proposals for social benefits, suggested that the health plan be administered in a manner similar to the current unemployment insurance scheme.

Canada's biggest labor body, the 580,000-member Trades and Labor Congress, last month took similar steps to drive for a health plan, thus boosting the number of workers involved in the fight to about 1,000,000.

PENSION JUMP

The congress also called for a jump in old-age pensions to $65 a month for all Canadians 65 years and over, whether rich or poor.

And it urged the federal government to take over the administration of industrial pension schemes for workers, to keep pension plans alive when a worker drops one job and moves to another.

Reaffirming the CCF as its political arm, the labor body described the federal government's 1953 budget as one favoring "big business," and proposed tax cuts to shift more of the tax burden from the shoulders of those in lower-income brackets.

It proposed:

1. A drastic reduction in the 10-per-cent sales tax and elimination of the sales and excise tax on all necessities;

2. All medical expenses be tax-exempt;

3. A boost in the basic tax exemption to $1,500 from $1,000 for a single person and to $3,000 from $2,000 for a married person;

4. Lifting of the $60 maximum payment on the two-per-cent tax levied for the old-age security fund, now running in the red.

The demand for a universal $65-a-month old-age pension compares with the current payment of $40 a month for persons 70 and over without a test of financial means, and for persons between 65 and 70, with a test.

NEW APPROACH

The proposal that the government undertake administration of industrial pension schemes forms a new approach by organized labor to solve the problem of keeping pension plans alive until the worker is ready to retire.

In many cases, a worker pays into a plan and leaves the plant before the plan reaches maturity. In some cases, he cannot carry the plan from one company to another. The congress observed that some small companies are unable to maintain such plans.

The congress also proposed that the government enact an industrial pension scheme providing:

1. Universal industrial pension coverage of all workers;

2. A fund to be made up of employer and employee contributions and administered by the government through an industrial pension commission;

3. Pension credits accruing to employees during their working life, regardless of the number of employers for whom they worked;

4. A pension to be payable by the industrial pension commission at the retirement age of 65.

Dairy Herds Move Out Beef Move In

Several empty cattle barns at the Exhibition Park today would have given visitors a false impression of the cattle show that began with arrivals of the dairy breeds Tuesday.

Some of the 440 dairy cattle moved out Wednesday night, the rest were going this morning.

Meanwhile, Herefords, Shorthorns, and Aberdeen-Angus entries in the beef classes were being unloaded from trucks today for the judging on Friday. Directors can only hope that the public will understand the circumstances which virtually forced this radical change in the receiving and judging of cattle.

Archie Clysdale, chairman of the beef cattle committee, expected that 175 head would be under cover by evening or early Friday.

Some of the Hereford breeders to show are: John Page of Norwood, Charles Fisher & Son, Bailieboro, Ray Nokes of Manilla, John R. Walsh & Son, Otonabee, Percy Elmhirst and Homer Hawkey, Indian River.

Shorthorns: Shaw Brothers, Otonabee, M. H. Pimmett & Sons, Indian River, John Rickard, Newcastle, Newton Taylor, Claremont.

Aberdeen-Angus: Ronald Marquis & Son, who have 23 head; Malcolm Bailey, Uxbridge, 18; J. W. Bowser, Aurora, 8.

Secretaries to the judges of the dairy cattle Wednesday were:

Lorne Reynolds, Jerseys; Howard Clark, Ayrshires; Dual-Purpose Shorthorns, Milton Clark; Holsteins, C. E. Moore and Jerry Nelson, fieldman, Brooklin; and Guernseys, Bruce Hodgins, fieldman, Guelph.

PLOWMEN ATTEND

All European plowmen who will be competing in the International Plowing Match at Cobourg October 6-9 will get their first introduction to Ontario fair-goers at Roseneath Fair, October 2-3. They will be introduced at the grandstand there.

Keeping in Touch?

Many investors try to keep their investment income in line with changes in the value of money. They usually find that keeping steadily in touch with changes in their investments is of great assistance to them in doing this.

Investors will find our September "Review and Securities List" doubly useful. It contains quotations for some 80 important Canadian government and corporation security issues, together with a short discussion of recent changes in security yields, business conditions and price indexes.

A copy of our September "Review and Securities List" will be forwarded gladly on request to any of our offices.

THIS FREAK BIRD, said to be the only one of its kind, is owned by Mr. Frank Andrews, of Norwood, one of the largest exhibitors at the Peterborough Exhibition in the poultry division. The bird is a Cornish Game Hen and was born with an extra leg and partially formed foot protruding from its breast. As the hen walks, the extra leg moves in a walking motion, but the hen could get along just as well without it.—(Examiner Staff Photo).

Lily Lake Women Plan Opening New School

LILY LAKE (ENS)—Mrs. Vera Hatherly was hostess to Lily Lake WA for their meeting held recently. Miss Audrey Hatherly and Mrs. Archie Ackison were co-hostesses.

The president, Mrs. Arthur Hancock, had charge of the meeting. Scripture was read by Mrs. A. Eggleston and prayer offered by Mrs. George Middleton.

The secretary's report was given by Mrs. Everett Tully and the treasurer reported that nearly $70 had been cleared at a gladioli tea held recently in the YWCA.

Miss Audrey Hatherly then favored with a recitation.

Mrs. William Steinkrauss was chosen convener to look after lunch and program for the opening of the school.

Guests speaker for the evening was Mrs. H. Everitt of the Salvation Army, who based her talk on "Thanksgiving". The first Thanksgiving, she said, was when Noah was taken in the Ark with all the animals. A poem concluded her talk. Mrs. Everitt was thanked on behalf of the society by Mrs. Steinkrauss.

Latest Movie Film Screening Method In Operation

By WILLIAM GLOVER

NEW YORK (AP)—The movie-going public, rubbing its eyes over three-dimensional and other recent screening methods, can now take a look at filmland's latest process.

It's called CinemaScope, and [illegible] right an invited crowd of 6,000 persons got a look at the process with the world premiere of "The Robe" at Broadway's Roxy theatre.

The movie, produced by 20th Century-Fox for $4,500,000, is about early Christianity in Caligula's Rome. It was rushed into CinemaScope production less than a year ago to give the new device a roaring send-off.

A lot of Wednesday night's attention was divided between merits of the picture and the merits of CS.

Simply put, CinemaScope's heart is a special lens that squeezes an extremely wide picture onto ordinary motion picture film. A projector equipped with a companion lens then throws the decompressed picture on a screen more than 2½ times wider than an ordinary one and considerably taller.

Its backers claim that it provides the illusion of depth sought by other systems including 3D methods, that require polarized eyeglasses for spectators.

Accompanying it, as an auxiliary device to make viewers feel they are part of the scene is stereophonic sound. That means loudspeakers in different positions alternately reproduce bit - volume dialogue from various directions in accord with movement on the screen.

Some of "The Robe's" most effective scenes, however, rely more on effectively restrained use of technicolor for impact rather than the inherent abilities of CinemaScope itself.

The picture as entertainment turns out to be a two-hour, respectful rendition of the best-seller novel by Lloyd C. Douglas. Starring in it are Richard Burton, Jean Simmons and Victor Mature.

Centenary WA Makes $129 From Sale

ROSENEATH —(ENS) — Mrs. Reginald Timlin, treasurer of Centenary WA, reported total receipts from their recent sale of home baking and needlework amounted to $129 with a balance on hand of $235.

The president, Mrs. Dawson Timlin, presided over the worship service and business period with Mrs. Bruce Arthur as organist.

Mrs. Bruce Arthur presided over the program, assisted by Mrs. Walton Lean, Mrs. Dawson Timlin, Miss Joyce Arthur and Miss Emma Sherwin.

Mrs. Dawson Timlin's group won the quiz contest. A lunch committee served refreshments.

Hurt In Crash Driver Fined

Found guilty on a charge of dangerous driving, Austin Bridgewater, 177 Hazlitt St., was fined $15 and $28.62 costs by Magistrate I. R. Moore today in court.

The charge arose out of an accident July 4 in which Bridgewater sustained a skull fracture and his car was damaged to the extent of $900.

According to PC Harold Andrew who, with Sergeant Claire McGillen investigated the crash, the accused's car was found against a tree on Rogers St. on the west side of the road. From tire marks measuring 172 feet, he determined the car had been travelling north.

The marks started on the east lane of the road, then swerved abruptly across the street into the tree.

According to Lynn Thain, 20, a nearby resident, he saw the car come up the road and, nearing the tree, the driver seemed to lose control and the car swerved across the road, crashing against the maple.

Cecil Gummer of Warkworth, standing with Thain, also heard the squeal of tires and looked around in time to see the car crash.

Sgt. McGillen testified that Rogers St. at the point between Douro and Hazlitt where the accident occurred, is a bus route and a through street.

When Bridgewater's counsel, Robert Carley, presented no defense, the magistrate said that "with no explanation, the only conclusion I can come to is that the accused's crossing the road was wrong . . any explanation I could have believed would have satisfied me."

He then pronounced the defendant guilty and levied the fine and costs.

Judge Commends Commercial Class

One of the best classes of commercial horses shown at Peterborough Exhibition for some time was judged Wednesday night.

Judge R. J. McKnight commented that they were fine animals, good for their purpose and for the show ring.

Alvin Mark, of Cameron, a traditional winner at the exhibition, walked off with two firsts and a second, while Silverwood's Dairy won two firsts, two thirds, a fifth and a sixth.

Other city entries were W. F. Hughey, Park Hill Rd., Campbell's Dairy, and Wonder Bakeries.

Judging of this class concluded in time to parade the animals before the grandstand audience.

COMMERCIAL OR DELIVERY HORSES

Single commercial horse—1, 2 Alvin Mark, Cameron, 3 T. R. Hall, Oshawa, 4 Scott Taylor, Little Britain, 5 Silverwoods Dairy, 6 W. F. Hughey, Parkhill Rd.

Pair of horses—1 Alvin Mark, 2 W. F. Hughey, 3 Scott Taylor.

Single commercial horse, city—1 Silverwoods Dairy, 2 Wonder Bakeries, 3 Silverwoods Dairy, 4 W. F. Hughey.

Old Squabbles Continue

Even in his last minutes of the Presidency of U.N. Mr. Lester Pearson had to deal with the kind of tiresome and difficult conflict which has peppered his entire term as head of the U.N. Assembly. It was a dispute between the Russian and the American delegates over the seating of Red China at U.N. This is related to the dispute over the composition of the Korean peace conference. A few days ago the United States view finally prevailed; that it should be a two-sided not a round table conference. The two sides are to be the parties to the war itself: U.N. on the one side and North Korea and Red China on the other. The Russians demanded that the conference be widened to include non-belligerents, such as Russia. The American retort is that Russia may attend if she wants, on the Red side of the table, but not as a member of U.N. The Americans had already successfully defeated the proposal to admit India to the caucus—a measure favored by Britain and Canada.

* * *

There is logic in the American view. Two sides fought the war; let two sides settle it. It should be observed, however, that the two active sides did reach a military settlement, the truce. The terms of the truce refer the matter (the withdrawal of all foreign forces from Korea) to a political conference to be established by U.N. Why should such a conference be two-sided, particularly when one of the "sides"—U.N.—is supposed to be multilateral representative of dozens of nations who took no part in the Korean war? Former Prime Minister Attlee said last Sunday that: "This is a United Nations fight" against aggression and "not a war between the United States and the Communist bloc." The U.S. seems determined to make U.N. the puppet of its own foreign policy.

* * *

The whole matter is becoming increasingly academic. The way things are going at Washington and U.N. headquarters, there will be no conference at all. President Syngman Rhee of South Korea has allowed only ninety days from the signing of the truce before, he says, he will march again. In those ninety days the conference was expected to get all its work done satisfactorily. The time is running out and the conference is not even convened yet. This may please Rhee, but it must alarm many Americans, particularly those who feel that the U.S. is ready to pay altogether too much attention to Rhee. Mr. Adlai Stevenson, Democratic candidate for President in the last American elections, has returned from a world tour with grave misgivings about American governmental intransigence. Tuesday evening, in a Chicago speech he asked how there can be negotiation if no room is left for negotiation? In its hard dealing about the composition of the Korean peace conference, the U.S. is forcing decisions even before the meeting is called to make them.

Sulkies

Trotting races are being held every afternoon and evening at the Peterborough Exhibition, and that is as it should be; for what is a Fall Fair without its sulkies?

So much a part of the Canadian summer and fall amusement scene are trotting races that it is startling to realize that these are distinctive to the American continent. It is one indigenous sport which has never been exported or duplicated elsewhere. There are none, and as far as we know, there have never been any trotting races in Britain or Ireland.

An English visitor last month saw trotting for the first time and wrote home this description of them: "The horses are trained to trot at very high speeds, and they pull a conveyance called a 'sulky' which is really no more than a seat perched between a pair of aluminum bicycle wheels, with very light shafts. The jockeys or drivers wear goggles and sometimes crash helmets, for the horses go at great speeds and spills are frequent. There are generally six or eight competitors in a race, and if a horse 'breaks'—that is, breaks into a run or a gallop—the driver must pull him up and set the wheels of the sulky going in the reverse direction before he can continue."

It is interesting to have the details of the trotters spelt out as if for men in Mars, not England. Perhaps one reason for the popularity of sulky racing in small towns and fall fairs is that local churches used to frown on ordinary horse-racing, with its hangers-on of touts, gamblers and roisterers. Trotting is more respectable than flat racing.

Recently there has been a revival in trotting, elsewhere as in this district, and the sport has invaded big cities all over the continent, where, in the evenings from spring to autumn it takes place on floodlit race-tracks. The Roosevelt track in New York handles a million dollars worth of bets a night. Oh, yes, with the big-city popularity of trotting races has come big-city betting on them. Mind you, we do not believe for a minute that races in Peterborough, Cobourg and other local tracks now or in the past were pure as the church next door. Unofficial bets have floated over these respectable tracks even as bingo beans have dropped useful coins into the treasuries of respectable church organizations across the way.

The English visitor to the sulky races advanced this theory for their new big-city popularity: they provide a means whereby the punter who has lost money on the "runners" (ordinary horse races) in the afternoons can hope to recoup himself in the evening. We repeat: the sulky races at the Peterborough Exhibition are traditional. They are not set up to encourage gamblers to recoup in the evening their losses on other races in the afternoon. For one reason, they take place afternoons as well as evenings. For another, they are the chief races, not evening side-shows. If anybody loses any money in the afternoon on racing, he has done it on the sulkies, and illegally, for flutters are not allowed on the trotting races at the Fair. The Exhibition Board does not have a franchise permitting betting; that belongs to another Peterborough group.

Pigeons Drinking

Hamilton is bothered by pigeons, like many another town, but Hamilton does not seem to have the sharp-shooters on its police force that Peterborough boasts. Here a favourite method of pigeon control has been picking them off high eaves down town with bullets, fired by constables stationed below at six in the morning, a time deliberately chosen so that nothing but pigeons will be laid low. In Hamilton the anti-pigeon committee of the city council has decided to feed pigeons grain soaked in liquor, so that the birds become tipsy and fall off the eaves all by themselves. Thereafter the besotten birds will be garnered from the pavement and taken to the pound to be destroyed.

The method has roused the ire of temperance people in Hamilton. They are shocked. One member of the WCTU (Women's Christian Temperance Union) has been reported as saying: "If the wise heads of our city cannot find a better method, they should not be permitted to remain in office." We are inclined to agree with the lady. And also with the Presbyterian minister in Hamilton who said: "The whole thing already has gone too far without sending the pigeons on a drinking spree." It seems to us a shocking waste of liquor.

On the other hand, what could be more humane? A condemned man is given a specially good meal of his own choice before he leaves his cell for the gallows. To send a pigeon into blissful oblivion before he passes on—or rather, is passed to the pound for destruction—is the cup (well, thimble-full) of kindness to dumb animals. It is much more charitable than poising an armed Hamilton cop a couple of hundred yards below the unwanted bird, and letting him take a wavering shot; the fellow might scare the poor creature to death, even though he did not wing it. However, weighing the pros of charity and cons of expense, we consider that liquor is too high a price to pay for the euthanasia of pigeons.

Holding Hands

Teen-aged youngsters in the United States are hand-holders. The movies prove it. We do not mean that teenagers hold hands in the darkness of movie houses—they do, of course. We refer to pictures of real American life as reflected by American movies.

They hold hands in the streets, on buses, in elevators, on the way to school, on the way home from church, at the drug store counter, or while sauntering through the dimestore. Recently a young man and a girl were fined ten dollars in Washington for holding hands in a car. The trouble was that they were in different cars. The driver of one car, cruising parallel with the other at thirty miles an hour, was holding the hand of the girl passenger in the other. We feel that this is carrying casual affection beyond the bounds of propriety; promiscuous propinquity.

NOTES AND COMMENT

Premonition won the St. Leger race. It does sometimes happen that a guess wins the swag at a race-track.

"Underground Storage Held Solution of World's Over-Production of Oil" — headline. Yes, just leave it there where it has been efficiently stored for a couple of million years already.

Former President Harry Truman has charged that the Republican Party has "sold out" to "big business." Surprising to know that Big Business has enough money left, after taxes, to pay for a deal like that.

Teaching Honest History

By MARTIN WRIGHT

EVERY generation resorts to the past for its own purposes. For the Renaissance, history was the wisdom of the ancient, teaching later times by example; for the Romantics, it was the buried memories of the national consciousness. To-day it is pressed into service to promote international understanding. The vast majority of children in the world receive no education and learn no systematic history after the age of 15. Unesco provides for the first time a machinery for attempting to co-ordinate what they are taught in every country. Two useful booklets, lately published by Unesco, illustrate this laudable motive and the difficulties it encounters.*

✧ ✧ ✧

THE PROBLEMS of teaching a subject to children reflect in a simple form, sometimes crudely but sometimes with sharpened point, the theoretical questions which the professionals debate at the highest level. Has history a pattern? What is the criterion of significance for selecting historical facts? Are moral judgements permissible in history? The answers given in classrooms of the last century were plain. History is broadly progressive, the nation has a manifest destiny to fulfil, national history is the significant thread in universal history promotion of the nation's values is the test of moral worth.

✧ ✧ ✧

THERE are different answers in the classrooms of to-day. The manifest destiny is mankind's as a whole, national history is subordinate to universal history, and moral worth is proved by promoting the welfare and ultimate unification of the human race. History leads up to the United Nations, where (so we read) "the experience in engaging in common enterprise gives reality and richness to a feeling of world-wide community."

✧ ✧ ✧

AN ESSENTIAL vehicle for elementary history teaching will always be the biography of great men. But the traditional figures of our text-books, Alfred the Great, Robert the Bruce, Drake, Nelson, owe their significance to national history; and one nation's hero is often another nation's enemy or rebel. How early can an English child learn that the star of the Hundred Years' War is Joan of Arc, not Henry V? Or the American child that George III was an honourable man, no less than George Washington?

✧ ✧ ✧

BETWEEN the wars, the Danes, Swedes and Norwegians began a system for mutually revising their text-books and similar arrangements have been made bilaterally between other countries in the last few years. But these, it seems, have all been members of the Atlantic community. A common historical outlook is a consequence and not a cause of political association.

✧ ✧ ✧

NOR is there a solution in a suggested calendar of heroes of mankind, which would help children to "form a world outlook": figures such Florence Nightingale, Nansen, Pasteur and Gandhi. The farthest Left it can go is to include Sun Yat-sen, who is patronized by the Chinese Communists as their forerunner; it does not include Lenin or Mao. The new internationalism can only be the common sentiment of the free world against the Communist world.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE same problem appears on a higher level in the matter of religion. In a London secondary class only five boys out of thirty thought that there were any Muslims alive in the world to-day. The practice of teaching Western children about Christianity to the exclusion of other religions is now perhaps on the increase, in the minds of teachers if not in their lessons. This is a tightrope which the competent teacher must tread carefully, and perhaps no more in general can be asked of him than that he should be intellectually aware of the tension between the exclusive claims of revealed religion and a charitable understanding of rival faiths.

✧ ✧ ✧

WHEN Unesco held its annual congress three years ago, it sent an invitation to Benedetto Croce, the then greatest living Italian. His refusal was accompanied by the most devastating criticism Unesco has yet suffered. He attacked its dilettante optimism, its ready-made solutions for the profoundest of human problems, its attempt "to solve the most delicate questions of the life of the mind by the method of majority votes." Unesco's concern for history text-books is not altogether free from these faults. It attaches importance not to the summits of human experience (which are different points, and therefore apt to divide), but to the highest common factor of human experience (which is supposed to unite).

✧ ✧ ✧

MR. C. P. HILL senior history master of Bristol Grammar School, begins his excellent booklet with the question put to the great French historian Marc Bloch by his small son, "Daddy, what's the good of history?" History may be an education for citizenship, it may help children to understand the world in which they have to live, but all this is secondary. Its final justification is as an added dimension of human experience. Here the history teacher at the elementary level may be nearer the heart of the matter than the teacher of older pupils. For young children exhibit the truth of Dr. Trevelyan's dictum that the impelling motive of historical study is poetic, a truth sometimes hidden from the wise and prudent.

✧ ✧ ✧

MR. HILL advocates teaching eleven-year-olds "the stories which have become the common saga of all mankind" — Joseph and his brothers, Moses and the Exodus, Leonidas and the 300 at Thermopylae, Alexander in India, Mahomet, the Arabian Night, Attila and Genghis Khan, Columbus and Akbar and Napoleon. This is much better history (it is how Gibbon began), and more helpful to a sensitive international understanding, than the onward march of the human family from palaeolithic caves to the Universal Postal Union.

SUCCESS

The applicant for a position in the Government service stood before the Board of Examiners. As a final question one of the examiners asked, "What makes you think you are a suitable candidate for a post in the Diplomatic Corps?"

"Because, although I've been married five years, my wife still thinks I visit a sick friend every Saturday night."

He got the post.

Generals Should Know Their Place

(WINDSOR STAR)

OUTBURST of Lt.-Gen. Guy Simonds, Canadian Army Chief of Staff, at a press conference in Ottawa is something which should attract attention of, and action by, Defence Minister Brooke Claxton and, indeed, Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent himself.

The conference was held with Field Marshal Sir John Harding, Chief of the Imperial Staff. Reporters were questioning him about the discipline and morale of the Canadian 27th Brigade in Germany (which have been subject to some criticism). He was replying to these questions in a dignified and adroit manner when General Simonds interrupted with evident anger to denouce writers of articles on the 27th.

It was not merely bad manners for General Simonds to thus intrude at a conference where he was a guest. His intrusion involves the whole issue of responsible government as we know it in Canada and as it is known in the United Kingdom.

This established and time-tested system is that Cabinet ministers are responsible to the people for the affairs of their departments. If departments, or members of departments, are criticized, Cabinet ministers are the ones to give answer.

Under this system, deputy ministers, chiefs of staff and other officials maintain silence on controversial issues. It is not their business either to criticize or defend the policies and practices of the government. Particularly they are supposed to refrain from entering into controversies. Q ite apart from the traditional syster of government under which we operate, for them to do so would be to imperil their usefulness as public servants.

They are administrators, not policy makers—though their advice can be valuable to policy makers. They are responsible to the heads of their departments, not directly to the people. Nobody elected them to be spokesmen for the departments. That is the duty of the elected representatives who form the Cabinet.

Stock Market Opinion

(NEW YORK TIMES)

YESTERDAY this newspaper published the results of a spot check it had made through its correspondents across the country on the impact of the Korean truce on business production and employment. After assembling and analyzing the results of this survey A. H. Raskin of our staff reached two major conclusions. These were: (1) The American economy is "taking the Korean cease-fire order in stride"; (2) While cuts actually made in defense spending are having little effect, "talk of cuts was having a pronounced impact in many areas."

It is interesting to note that, while he does not stress the point specifically, in mentioning some of these "areas," Mr. Raskin heads the list with Wall Street.

It is one of the cardinal rules of the financial writer that "arguing with the stock market" is pretty much a waste of time; and we are inclined, by and large, to defer to this precept. This is not because the stock market—Heaven forbid!—is always right or is always ahead of the rest of us. Rather, it is because of certain characteristics uniquely peculiar to the "opinion pattern" as reflected in the stock market averages. For example, in the chromatic scale of the speculative community there is no such color as gray. While the investor may be content to put his money into a security because he believes it to be safe, or because it promises to give him an attractive yield, this is not the case with the speculator. The speculator who bought and sold securities regardless of the monetary fluctuations in the market would no longer be a speculator; certainly, he wouldn't be a successful one. He would be, to revert to our chromatics, like a player who kept betting on gray when he had a choice only between black and white.

✧ ✧ ✧

OR TAKE a second characteristic that sets the opinions of the stock market apart from, let us say, that of the business economist: there is the consideration that the average professional speculator spends about half his time reading the future of the market in the business statistics; the rest of the time he may devote just as assiduously to reading it in the tea leaves of market averages.

A whole pseudo science concerning the forecasting of share prices, for example, has been built around one such set of averages. Many speculators study the market average formations and base their activities on the standard interpretations placed on such formations by the author of this "scientific theory. Recently, it appears, the market averages deployed in a formation which disciples of this theory instantly recognized as a signal that the market would go lower before it could be expected to advance again. Now, if selling on such a "signal" were confined entirely to students of this theory, the impact might or might not have pronounced repercussions on prices. But, as a study by the S. E. C. of a single days trading in 1947 during a heavy week in the market showed many speculators who view such formulae with the utmost skepticism invariably watch closely for these "signals," knowing that, whether one accepts their scientific basis or not, they frequently provide highly propitious conditions under which to buy or to sell, as the case may be.

As we say, we would be the last to argue with the stock market. Every so often, however, it seems to us to be in the general interest of public education to issue a little reminder such as this that the processes by which the market arrives at what seems to be a given opinion at a given moment should never be confused with that, let us say, employed by the United States Supreme Court.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Ye are my witnesses, saith the Lord, and my servant whom I have chosen: that ye may know and believe me, and understand that I am he: before me there was no God formed, neither shall there be after me. I even I, am the Lord: and beside me there is no saviour. I have declared, and have saved, and I have shewed, when there was no strange god among you: therefore ye are my witnesses, saith the Lord, that I am God. (Isa. 43: 10-12.)

The Lord rewarded me according to my righteousness, according to the cleanness of my hands he recompensed me . . . With the merciful wilt thou shew thyself merciful; with an upright man thou wilt shew thyself upright. (Ps. 18: 20, 25.)

As for me, I will behold thy face in righteousness: I shall be satisfied, when I awake, with thy likeness. (Ps. 17: 15.)

CHALLENGE TO DEBATE

Sir: It seems to us that Fred Horn is always sounding off.

We would like to challenge Mr. Horn to a public debate on the issue of "Mercy Killing." We do not believe in mass murder and we definitely do not think that he can change our attitude towards it. A bond posted by each side and admission proceeds would go to the winner's cause. Our cause is the Orillia hospital and Mr. Horn's cause— cold blooded murder.

Horn may appoint the date and public place for debate but we must insist on neutral judges.

Income $90 a Year

(Ottawa Journal)

No doubt Mr. St. Laurent will be informed of the achievements of the Colombo Plan in the countries of South-East Asia where this Commonwealth undertaking seeks to increase the well-being of the people and make less atractive for them the lures of Communism. The Prime Minister will be able to establish for himself whether the $25,000,000 annually Canada has been giving to this plan is adequate, with the prosperity of this country and the poverty of the Asians taken into account.

In this respect we have been interested in a recent speech by Sir Douglas Copland, the distinguished Australian economist who now is high commissioner to Canada. He observed the need of capital funds for the benefit of under-developed nations and commented on the disparity between living standards. The average per capita annual income of the United States was estimated at $1,450; Western Europe $470; Middle East $90; Latin America $150, and Southeast Asia $90.

Partridge Cycle

(Fort Williams Times-Journal)

Hunters will greet with regret an announcement by the Department of Lands and Forests research workers that the partridge, or ruffed grouse, is on a downward cycle.

The cause is a mysterious disease which allows the birds to build up their numbers for a period of perhaps ten years, and then causes them to die out to near extinction. Hunting has practically no effect on the cycle, it is reported.

Those who cherish partridge as a dainty table morsel can take heart, however, from the knowledg that when the bottom of their cycle is reached, build up their numbers again. An extensive research program is being carried out to determine what it is that kills off the birds.

Some Actors Don't Worry About Billing

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The trouble with all-star casts is billing.

According to legend, actors are supposed to throw fits if their names are not in large enough letters or if they are not listed at the top of the cast.

It's an important legal matter in the movies. James Cagney once broke his contract with Warners because of the way he was billed at one of the Warner theatres.

Now a bunch of actors is breaking the tradition about billing. They are the gay group making "Executive Suite" at MGM, including Barbara Stanwyck, Fredric March, Walter Pidgeon, June Allyson, William Holden, Nina Foch, Shelley Winters, Paul Douglas, Dean Jagger and Louis Calhern.

NO CONTENTION

Recently MGM boss Dore Schary came warily on the set to inquire about how the actors would like to be billed. To his great surprise, he found no contention.

"Holden and Allyson were the first ones cast in the picture," Miss Stanwyck reasoned. "Give them the top billing."

Of course, that didn't stop the actors from kidding among themselves. Said March: "If the billing is alphabetical, I'm going back to my real name, which is Bickel."

"Well, I'm stuck, because my legal name is Barbara Stanwyck," added the actress.

Miss Stanwyck had some words to say about billing. She says she never worries about it.

WHAT'S DIFFERENCE

"What's the difference?" she remarked. "The only time you might get hurt is if some studio bills some newcomer in great big type above those who may have worked hard in this business for a long time. But that doesn't happen very often.

"I learned my lesson about billing a good many years ago."

That was with a picture called "Night Nurse" in 1931. When the picture opened at the Strand Theatre in New York, the sign said "Barbara Stanwyck and Ben Lyon in 'Night Nurse.'"

Second day: "Barbara Stanwyck and Ben Lyon in 'Night Nurse' with Clark Gable."

Third day: "Barbara Stanwyck, Ben Lyon, Clark Gable in 'Night Nurse.'"

Fourth day: "Barbara Stanwyck, Clark Gable in 'Night Nurse.'"

Fifth day: "Clark Gable in 'Night Nurse.'"

Those five days marked the start of Gable's reign as the king of Hollywood.

TRAILERMEN CAPTURE SECOND STRAIGHT 10-7

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Civic Arena manager Walt Smillie expects to have ice in the rink in two weeks. "Hockey players should be ready to practise around Oct. 1," he told us. Walt dropped around the other day to see Dit Clapper and offered to get ice in right away here if Boston Bruins wanted to switch their junior tryout camp to Peterborough since the Oshawa arena was burned down. However, Dit said the Bruins would have to forego the trial school this season since they had lost 55 sets of junior equipment in the bad blaze. Several boys from this district were on their tryout list, too, so suffer a tough break by the fire which destroyed the fine Motor City arena.

Pat Wilson is playing coach of the Niagara Falls senior "A" puck team this season. Pat played ball for the Petes two years and was manager at Belleville another summer. A St. Thomas dispatch gives some of the background of this rugged hockey defenceman. Born in Copper Cliff 35 years ago, he worked his way up through minor and THL ranks to the American Hockey League, and then back to OHA senior "A" competition. As well as serving four years with the RCAF, Wilson has been around plenty on ice lanes, practically all over Eastern Canada and the States in various leagues, mostly professional. Was playing coach at Stratford the last two years, and that bunch made Allan Cup finals two winters ago.

Play On East Gridiron

The football scene shifts to Riverside Park this Saturday aft at 2.30 when Toronto Marauders play the local Orfuns. A regular ORFU intermediate "A" fixture, but it's Toronto's "home" game, since they can't obtain a field in the Queen City. Hence, local booster tickets don't go at this tilt. The clubs are using Riverside as the gridiron in Morrow Park isn't available this week, owing to the Exhibition. However, Orfuns have Oshawa here next Wednesday night in the southend park. Tony Kotowski's squad are out for their fourth straight win on Saturday, having a decision so far over each of the other clubs in this good grouping. The weekend scrap should be interesting.

"The Peterborough team has been most co-operative in rules' discussions," CLA president Jim McLeod remarked the other day after Petes and Shamrocks got together to work out Mann Cup series rules in Victoria. CLA has adopted the six-man lacrosse game for senior clubs for next year, too, and the Trailermen put up no argument on that. Other series rules adopted are for a man to keep the ball just 10 seconds back of a goal, a penalty for deliberate entry of the crease, and a penalty to players moving after a free ball is awarded. All sticks are measured before game time. A minor penalty is given for a drag check. Goalies may be taken out late in the game with extra forwards substituted. Players may change on the fly within 10 feet of the box if they don't interfere with play.

They Control The Ball

If possession is nine points of the law, then the Trailermen must indeed be a bunch of legal eagles. With Curly Mason and Bob Thorpe getting two-thirds of the faceoff draws, and their mates hanging onto the ball like a winning sweepstake ticket, the Petes certainly control the rubber a large part of the time. They did it again last eve in Victoria to earn a 10-7 win o'er the baffled Shamrocks for a 2-0 lead in the best-of-seven Mann Cup finals. So, they now have a strong grip on one handle of the famed trophy, and should surely take two of the next five frays in this set. They go again Friday, but we haven't heard yet when the fourth game will be staged.

* * * * * *

Ross Powless was the big trigger-man for the Thorpe team last night, with Curly Mason in on three and canny Russ Slater counting a pair. Moon Wootton was bumped hard once but rejurned in 10 minutes to star, and Don Ashbee needed repairs for a bump on the eye. Apparently, the easterners solved the Vics' power play as they broke loose to score three goals in the third chukker when Dootch Vitarelli was sitting out a penalty. That broke the Shamrocks' hearts and turned many of their fickle fans against 'em. Some fans booed them and cheered the Petes toward the finish, and quite a few walked out in disgust ere the end. 'Twas ever thus. Locals look well on their way now to duplicating the feat of Orillia Terriers of the middle 30s in winning the cup three times in a row.

Defeat Victoria Shamrocks In Scrappy Game For 2-0 Lead In Big Series

By DON GRANT, Examiner Staff Reporter

VICTORIA, B.C.—Scoring three goals in 14 seconds while Dootch Vitarelli was serving a high-sticking penalty in the third quarter, Bob Thorpe's Peterborough Trailermen crushed the Victoria Shamrocks' hopes to even the Mann Cup series at one game each. Those goals took the life out of the Shamrocks who, until then, had been matching the Trailermen goal for goal. The Trailermen went on to run up a 10-7 victory to take a 2-0 lead in the Canadian senior lacrosse championships. The young 'Rocks coach, John (Red) McMillan, committed the "faux pas" which may have ruined the chances of bringing Victoria its first Mann Cup since the field lacrosse days of 1919.

McMillan's 'Rocks easily outplayed the Trailermen for a 2-1 score in the first quarter but slid back in the second to allow the Trailermen to take the lead at the half, 3-2.

The Rocks continued to keep within a goal (4-3) of the Trailermen until the 14-minute mark of the third quarter. Then Vitarelli cut down Bobbie Monaghan with a high stick and "wham".

MADE MISTAKE

McMillan then committed his "faux pas." He put his five best forwards including Archie Browning, Whitey Severson, Arn Ferguson, Al Gill and Larry Booth, out for the Rocks' famous power play. He didn't think for one moment about their poor defensive abilities.

Slater grabbed a loose ball to beat Jim Hetherington at the 13.46-mark. Then Mason, the Trailermen's draw specialist, grabbed the faceoff, passed to Powless in the clear for the second goal in seven seconds. O'Hearn promptly grabbed a loose ball from the second faceoff, raced in unchecked for the final of the three swifties.

The Rocks who had been running the Trailermen to that point had the starch taken out of them. They just weren't the same team after that and the Trailermen easily broke through from there in for the win.

The poor showing of the Rocks in the fourth quarter (they did go in spurts rocked their home fans who had jammed the arena to capacity. The staunch Rock supporters for the first time this year began to cheer a team other than the Rocks. They applauded each smooth Trailermen play.

FANS WALK OUT

The staunchest fans just didn't stay around to the finish. They began heading toward the exits with five minutes to go.

Another mistake by the Rocks was switching from their smoothing passing western game to the eastern rough and tumble variety. Slightly smaller than the Trailermen, they attempted to bodycheck them. They couldn't budge the Trailermen and they resorted to slashing and high-sticking. The Rocks couldn't match the Trailermen in these ways.

Meanwhile the Trailermen continued to play their own game. Bob Thorpe and Jack (Curly) Mason took more than 65 per cent of the faceoff draws. Nip O'Hearn, Harry Wipper, Lou Nickle took more than the Trailermen's share of the rebounds and other loose balls.

Referees Bill Dickinson and Bill Wilkes once more called a fairly even game, but the Trailermen received by far the most penalties. They earned them.

The third large factor in the Trailermen's second victory was their ability to find a defence for the Rocks' power play which is used when the Trailermen are a man short. The play worked to perfection in the first game, enabling the Rocks to score five times with the Trailermen shorthanded.

THEIR SYSTEM

The Rocks on the play place two forwards right on the Trailermen's goal crease, leaving the other three players to jog back and forth in front of the Trailermen's net. The pass usually goes to the side men, Browning and Severson, when they break the Trailermen's defence box.

Wednesday night, Coach Thorpe stationed stiff checks on the side men and left the other two to handle the three front Rocks. This worked so well that the Rocks were forced to attempt long shots which were easily handled by Lloyd (Moon) Wootton.

Coach Thorpe stayed with his Monday night lineup while McMillan used his replacements, Lew Landess from the Vancouver North Shore Indians and Jack Byford of the Vancouver Pilseners. Landees, similar to Ike Hildebrand, was fairly effective but Byford wasn't much better, if any, than Bob Bamford whom he replaced.

The Trailermen came out second-best in the injuries. They nearly lost Wootton in the first quarter when the big, jovial net minder was caught in a body-checking duel and was sent with a thump to the floor.

Immediately the Moon started rolling and twisting in agony along the floor, favoring his left ankle. The referees quickly stopped play and allowed Dr. John Epping, the Trailermen's doctor, to attend him.

Wootton finally rose and was helped off amid loud cheers and clapping to the dressing room. Ten minutes later he returned to the game.

Then early in the third forward Don Ashbee was hit in the eye with a deflected pass by Harry Irwin . . again Dr. Epping was sent to work and he had Ashbee back within a few minutes.

OPENED SCORING

Roger Smith opened the scoring when he grabbed a loose ball in a scramble and broke into the clear. Forty seconds later Jack Northup tied the score with a long, low shot while running in front of the net. Severson and Thorpe went off for roughing but were back when Browning combined with Monaghan to put the Rocks up 2-1.

Mason was given slashing and tripping penalties one after the other in the second but the Trailermen kept the Rocks from scoring. Wipper raced down the centre with Mason still off and beat Hetherington from close-in. Three minutes later Thorpe on a long screen shot put the Trailermen up 3-2 at the half.

Using the quick break from the faceoff, Monaghan passed to Severson to Browning to tie the score in 17 seconds of the third. After Ashbee was hurt, Slater faked his way around Tom Bruce to score from close in.

Then came the three quick goals as Vitarelli was off for high sticking Ferguson. After those Al Gill took a pass on the crease from Duff McCaghey to make the score 7-3 at the three-quarter mark.

The Trailermen, controlling the play in the fourth, went ahead quickly. Powless whipped in a backhand shot, Mason scored on a 35-foot screen shot and Powless added another, grabbing a loose ball and working into the clear.

The Rocks came back with Landess scoring on a rebound, Ferguson on a free ball in front of Wootton, and finally Northup working neatly with Severson in the final seconds while Thorpe was off for slashing.

Victoria Shamrocks: Goal, Hetherington; defence, Byford, Monaghan; centre, Booth; wings, Severson, Browning; alts., McCaghey, Gill, Irwin, Coates, Northup, Ferguson, Druce, Landess.

Mustang Coach Has Troubles

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Hit by graduation and ineligibility, Western Mustangs swing into action here Saturday for the first time in the 1953 football season when they take on their ancient rivals, Sarnia Imperials.

For Western, of the Intercollegiate League, the game with the Senior ORFU champions will give head coach Johnny Metras a good chance to see how several of his untried newcomers work under fire.

Graduation took such stars as Ray Truant, Doug McNichol and Millar Gallow. Five veterans who are back are quarterback Don Getty, fullback Jacques Belec, halfbacks Murray Henderson and Gino, Fracas and flying wing Don Powes.

Back of these performers, Metras will have to rely on graduates from last year's intermediate squad.

The Next Mann Cup Series If Petes Are Finalists Could Be In Miller Bowl

By DON GRANT, Examiner Staff Reporter

VICTORIA, B.C. — If the Peterborough Trailermen win the Ontario championship in 1954, in all probability the Mann Cup series will be played right at Miller Bowl. That'll be quite a break for lacrosse fans who have faithfully followed the team since its senior "B" days. At present the way the Mann Cup ruling goes, the final championship series must be played in an enclosed arena. In past years when the cup games have been played in the east, it meant travelling to Toronto. It simply didn't matter what team won.

Last year's financial wallop at the Maple Leaf Gardens nearly broke the Canadian Lacrosse Association which, before the series, was financially sound. Commenting on the low funds now, Jim MacLeod (Owen Sound), president of the CLA, told the annual meeting in Victoria this week that a special committee was to be established to restore financial conditions.

But the CLA has finally realized the foolhardiness of taking the finals to Toronto, away from the home town support. They're beginning to weaken in their strong stand and it's more than likely the rule will be changed.

CHANGING RULE

In fact, Jim did actually admit the rule would be changed, especially when teams in Hamilton, St. Catharines and Peterborough took the provincial honors. In the case of smaller centres such as Mimico, Brampton (if the Excelsiors are back) and Fergus, the games would quite likely stay in the Gardens. It's believed that these towns couldn't handle the large financial undertaking which goes along with the series.

If the Mann Cup was played in Peterborough next season, the team and the city would find it very difficult to equal the western hospitality extended to the Trailermen this year by Victoria.

The British Columbia Association, along with the Rocks, went out of their way to give the Trailermen a welcome in Vancouver and then here in Victoria. Both groups, along with sportsmen from Victoria, are making the series so interesting (apart from the games) for the boys that we wouldn't be surprised a few boys may stay here for next season.

WELL ENTERTAINED

The Trailermen were hardly in Victoria when the offers for idle hour entertainment started to pour in. The newspapers' sports writers from the Times and Colonist arranged for free golf at Victoria clubs; businessmen arranged fishing trips for their famous salmon; private clubs, quite exclusive in Victoria, were thrown open to the players, scenic tours through the valley were given and cars are readily available; all the players need to do is inquire about something and they receive.

Yes, the western hospitality extended by Victoria would be very hard to match.

For a while after their arrival Sunday, the club thought that three Trailermen, Ross Powless, Roger Smith and Lou Nickle, had been kidnapped by the Rocks. They were finally found. Guess where? That's right, sleeping in their rooms.

The trio didn't waken until early Monday morning. Lou knocked off about 18 hours of shuteye while Rog and Roscoe had about 16 hours. Lou promptly made up for the supper he missed Sunday by starting Monday off with steak and all the trimmings for his breakfast.

NIP INSTRUCTS

Nip O'Hearn has developed into the Trailermen's favorite clown. He certainly keeps the boys laughing. He started his role off with a fishing act, how to reel in a cohoe salmon. He was tugging and reeling away, bouncing up and down on the hotel restaurant stool until someone said the fishing licence was $2.50. He fell overboard, toppling off the stool.

While on the subject of eating (there'll now be a three-hotel pause for an eight-course dinner on the expense account)—(Ed. Note: Just watch Grant grow and the cost of advertising, too)—we'd like to mention the boys are on an afternoon diet. Like the fat lady who is supposed to eat rabbit food (lettuce and such to you, Elmer), the diet is pretty hard for the boys to stick to.

Arranged by Dr. John Epping (boy, he'll pay for that ad), the diet consists of eight ounces of steak (it's a diet!!!), a baked potato and ice cream. The lacrosse minded doc who's soaking in all the sea air he can, says the boys get about 900 calories from that meal, enough for oodles of energy for the games.

Incidentally, the players play Houdini with his snack about four p.m. on game days to prevent what the club officials refer to as "logging."

RABID FANS

The Trailermen are finding that Victoria is truly a lacrosse centre. At the same time they realize that the Victorians are really home-town fans, rooting as if crazy from every nook and corner of their memorial centre.

Incidentally, while speaking of arenas, the memorial type (or can you remember Peterborough's), the Memorial Centre committee should take a gander at Victoria's arena. In one simple adjective, it's beautiful. Of solid concrete throughout, the arena is spacious, gives everyone a good view and is very majestic in appearance from the outside. It follows much the pattern of Maple Leaf Gardens, but on a much smaller scale, seating and standing about 6,000.

The fans are taking every opportunity of this large seating arrangement, jamming the arena for every game. They even take a little time off work to stand a couple of hours in the morning for tickets which they may or may not get for the series games.

Enough chatter for now, back to the series.

SARNIA DOWNS HAMILTON

SARNIA (CP) — Sarnia Lions edged Hamilton 7-4 in OASA juvenile playoffs here Wednesday night. It was a see-saw battle until the sixth frame when Sarnia scored five runs on a lone hit. Cliff King yielded seven bases on balls in the inning before he was replaced by Jim Gaudon.

Indians Trample Philadelphia In 7-2 Triumph

By BEN PHLEGAR, Associated Press Sports Writer

One of the brightest prospects who will leave St. Louis with the Browns at the end of this season is young Bob Turley, a strikeout artist fresh out of the army. A big, husky 22-year-old right-hander, Turley turned up unheralded in mid-August and went to work at once. In a month he's appeared in eight games. His won and lost record of two to four is nothing to shout about, but in 47 innings he has struck out 48 men. He has pitched complete games in his last three starts, allowing a total of only 15 hits while striking out 30.

Pitching for a last-place club is one of the toughest jobs in baseball. Turley has lost all four of his games by one run.

BOWS TO YANKS

He lost one of these Wednesday night to the champion New York Yankees 3-2. He gave up only four hits, all singles, but the Yanks combined three of these with two walks to get all of their runs in the sixth inning. Turley struck out eight and walked eight.

The Browns won the first game of their twin bill 5-3 against an assortment of second stringers. Ed Lopat suffered his fourth loss and was forced from the game in the fourth inning when he was struck on the right foot by a line drive. The injury was not serious.

In other action Wednesday Cleveland Indians beat Philadelphia Athletics 7-2, Washington Senators defeated Chicago White Sox 4-2 and Detroit Tigers thumped Boston Red Sox 8-3 in the American League; St. Louis Cardinals edged Brooklyn Dodgers 5-4, Milwaukee Braves whipped Pittsburgh Pirates 7-3, New York Giants shaded Cincinnati Redlegs 4-3 and Chicago Cubs defeated Philadelphia Phillies 7-4 in the National League.

PACES ATTACK

Bob Feller scattered eight hits in winning his ninth game for the second-place Indians at Philadelphia. Larry Doby paced a 12-hit Cleveland attack with a home run and a single and drove in four runs.

Eddie Yost celebrated his "night" in Washington with a single and a double as the Senators beat Virgil Trucks, who was trying for his 20th victory. Yost scored the first two runs. Connie Marrero beat Chicago for the third time this season, giving up six hits.

The Tigers pounded four Boston pitchers for 18 hits, including two by shortstop Harvey Kuenn who became the first rookie in either league to get 200 hits since Dick Wakefield did it with the Tigers in 1943.

In beating Brooklyn, the Cardinals pinned the first loss on Preacher Roe since mid-May. He had won 10 straight. Roe and Joe Black, who relieved him, struck out six men, running the Brooklyn pitching staff's total to 779, six more than the previous National League record set last season by the Dodgers. Roy Campanella hit his 41st home run, an all-time Brooklyn high.

46TH HOMER

Eddie Mathews hit his 46th home run and raised his runs batted in total to 131, bettering the previous club record for the Braves. Danny O'Connell extended his hitting streak through 25 games, a Pittsburgh club record first set by Charlie Grimm who now manages Milwaukee.

Al Dark's home run with a man aboard provided the victory margin for the Giants over Cincinnati. The Redlegs rallied for three runs in the last two innings, including a homer by Andy Seminick.

Sore Back May Force Meeker Quit Leafs

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—Howie Meeker may be forced to retire from Toronto Maple Leafs because of a sore back.

The right-wing veteran of seven National Hockey League seasons has been plagued by recurring back miseries since he was boarded heavily during a game at Toronto last October. He has put off signing a contract for the 1953-54 season until he sees whether he "can take it" during ice drills at the team's training camp here.

Meeker has been offered the coaching job with Stratford Indians of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series.

Riders Come From Behind To Bounce Alouettes 22-13

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Ottawa Rough Riders found themselves atop the Big Four Football League today after coming from behind to defeat Monfreal Alouettes 22-13 Wednesday night in the capital's Lansdowne Park.

The Ottawa victory, coupled with Toronto Argonauts' 21-20 defeat of the Tiger-Cats in Hamilton, changed a three-way tie for top spot in the league to a three-way tie—Toronto, Montreal and Hamilton—for the league cellar. Riders have lost once in four starts this season.

Avatus Stone, triple-threat Negro back who jumped a National Football League contract with Chicago Cardinals to go to Ottawa, starred in the scoring for Roughies with 17 points—three majors and two rouges.

CONVERTS 3 MAJORS

Gene Roberts converted all three Rider majors and Tom O'Malley, who quarterbacked a convincing fourth quarter, kicked two singles.

Montreal's Sam Etcheverry threw touchdown passes to Ray Poole and John O'Quinn. Both were converted. Jim Miller's rouge completed the Als' scoring.

Auburn Lambet, fourth quarterback employed by Hamilton this season, threw 14 completed passes in 32 tries, but still couldn't beat Toronto as 14,000 critical Tiger-Cat fans looked on.

Toronto's first points came when Doug Smylie piled over from the Hamilton one-yard line. Then Jack Gray, who pounced on a blocked kick, crossed for the second Argo major and Joe Scudero scored the third. Jack Barry converted twice and kicked a field goal and Steve Karrys punted a single.

Lou Kusserow took a Lambeth pass over the Toronto line for Hamilton's first major in the third quarter and Hal Waggoner and Lambeth scored two more in the final 15 minutes. Tip Logan kicked all three converts and Cam Fraser booted two singles.

Star Passer Shaw Cut Loose By Stamps

CALGARY (CP) — Star pass-catching end Bob Shaw, who set a Canadian football scoring record of 110 points last year, has been cut adrift by Calgary Stampeders of the Western Interprovincial Football Union.

Don McLaws, president of the club, which is tied for last in the WIFU after six games, also announced Tuesday night the release of American tackles Bob Branyan and Bob Levenhagen, and Canadian linemen Al Passman, Joe Delvecchio and Paul Frise.

SECOND GAME STARS—Three of the aces for Petes' senior lacrosse in their 10-7 second game win of the Mann Cup series in Victoria are shown above in happy mood. They are, left, Curly Mason who counted a marker and aided on two more; centre, Ross Powless, who lit the lamp three times; and right, Russ Slater, who tallied twice on quick breaks. Peterborough leads the series by 2-0.—(Examiner Staff Photos).

Rangers Have Player Problem

SASKATOON (CP)—New York Rangers of the National Hockey League may have quite a problem deciding on the five defencemen they will carry for the 1953-54 season.

Currently they have nine prospects in their training camp here—Leo Reise, Jack Evans, Ivan Irwin, Bob Crystal, Hy Buller, Harry Howell, Allan Stanley, Mid Houghton and Tommy Williams. All have been showing up so well that general manager Frank Boucher is worried about making a mistake on some of them. But his defence troubles are all good ones.

Along the forward line, the Rangers have their brightest prospects in years. They hope to round out the brigade with the Bentley brothers, Doug and Max, who have been going great guns in workouts. Max is the property of New York and Doug belongs to Saskatoon Quakers of the Western League.

Civic Loop Set Sewed Up In Double Bill

Rip-roaring action at the East City Bowl Wednesday night saw Bill's Lunch and Foresters blast out victories over Bell Telephone and Seabrooke Electric respectively as men's Civic League softball semi-finals continued apace, and as aresult of last nght's duels the four top contenders for the league title are tied at one victory apiece against a single setback.

Bob Welch's Monaghan Road Lunch boys gained a stirring 5-3 triumph over (Chum) Gillespie's big green and white Telephone men in the opener after suffering a 4-0 reverse Monday, to square accounts. Ellis (Smoke Ball) Peters proved the winner. Paul Parnell's Foresters, after a belated start, came through strongly in the late stages of the nightcap, to win 14-5 over Seabrook's, after tasting 7-6 defeat in Monday's hectic opener of the series.

FINISH FRIDAY

Thus these strong squads are set to renew their colorful best-of three series Friday night, at the Bowl, when two must face elimination and make way for next week's best-of-five final series for the Civic championship.

Bud Guerin twirled steady ball for Bell in the opener, and, with Peters, gave the fans a fine pitchers' duel. The Lunchmen outhit their powerful rivals by a slight margin, though the Gillespie crew enjoyed an offensive margin early in the game to outscore their young and speedy rivals. The Welch men came on strongly to outdo the home team in the final three and thus remained in contention. Hewie's fielding featured for Bill's Lunch.

Ken Hall twirled for Foresters in the afterpiece and by dint of steady work, aided by fine suport afield, kept his team in contention. On the opposing hill, Conroy toiled well until the sixth when Bill Humphries took over. Seabrook's seemed headed for another finish, but fate decreed otherwise, when Paul Maloney tripled to the scoreboard in the seventh for a two-run blow to give Foresters a 6-5 edge and new spark.

The fraternity men followed up with an eight-run rally in the ninth, featuring Walling's three-run homer, to tuck away a tidy verdict. Manager Art Reynolds nodded approval at the finish. There will be a lucky draw at Friday's games.

Believe Russia Cinch To Win Olympics

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—A veteran newspaperman who has lived in Moscow most of the last 12 years said today Russia is a cinch to win the 1956 Olympic games.

"I don't think we have a chance" said Eddy Gilmore, who returned home recently after a long stay as head of the Moscow bureau of the Associated Press. "The Russians began preparing for the 1956 games just as soon as they left Helsinki last year."

Gilmore is now on leave and writing a book about his Russian experiences.

OK MOVE FOR BROWNS

CHICAGO (AP)—A shift of the impoverished St. Louis Browns to another city, apparently Baltimore, was approved Wednesday by an American League screening committee.

The four-man committee after a huddle with president Bill Veeck and other Brownie officials said it would ask the full league to permit the Browns' franchise to be switched to a city "to be later determined."

Just before the session, a wealthy Baltimore lawyer and a Brownie director issued a statement saying that if the American loop approves removal of the Browns from St. Louis to Baltimore, there would be "substantial" Baltimore capital represented in the Browns' ownership.

Last spring, the league rejected 5 to 2 Veeck's request to shift to Baltimore at that time.

Another committee meeting, at which a new site probably will be proposed, will be held shortly before the world series and unquestionably, the league then will act quickly on the matter.

Harness Race Taken By Silk Elgin

Silk Elgin, owned by Charlie Fife, of Peterborough, and driven by his nephew, Stan Fife, won both heats of the classified harness horse race at the Exhibition here yesterday afternoon. The mare's times were 2.18½ and 2.20. Watts Crusader, of Prescott, and Stan Blewett's Ann Roswell, of Indian River, each took a second in this event.

The 2.18 class at night saw Hal Grattan Patch, of Cobourg, owned by Hie and Gordon, with Jack Gordon the driver, win the first heat in the fastest time so far of the meet, 2.12. The second heat was taken in a great finish by Buddy C. Grattan, owned by C. J. Budd, of Cannington, and driven by Ross Dowson. He just nosed out Grattan B., of Smiths Falls. Buddy C. Grattan also took a second. Time of the second mile was 2.13 2-5. The results:

Classified:

Silk Elgin (Chas. Fife, Peterborough)	1	1

Times: 2.12, 2.13½.

Dorothy Riddell Takes Both Heats

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Dorothy Riddell, a chestnut filly owned and driven by Hon. Earl Rowe of Newton Robinson, took both heats of the featured two-year-old Futurity Trot Wednesday as the Western Fair four-day harness race program got under way.

Her time was 2:20 4-5 and 2:19 1-5 for the mile.

Best time of the day was turned in by Carlie G, owned by Bob Kirby of Walton in the 2:22 pace. The seven-year-old pacer ran the second heat in 2:13 1-5.

Financial Difficulties Force Redmen To Quit

BRANTFORD (CP) — Financial difficulties have forced Brantford Redmen to drop out of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series, but club officials said Wednesday they hope to keep the franchise here in abeyance for one season. treasurer of the club, said exorbitant demands by players "necessitated a policy of retrenchment."

He said the executive had decided to get rid of all players in the high salary bracket and replace them with ones in a low salary range. However, they found that after selling most of their last year's team it was impossible to obtain jobs for the new players.

Stouffville Ties Series

LINDSAY (ENS)— Stouffville forced a third game in their best of three Tri-County Baseball League final series with Lindsay Walkwoods here Wednesday night by winning the second game of the set 5-2 in six innings.

Walkwoods took the first game 9-5 in Stouffville.

Lorne Schell hurled a four hitter for the win and his mates played good ball behind him. Hal Williams, Walkwoods' strong right hander, was the loser, allowing eight hits and walking three. Walkwoods committed four errors behind him. Schell and Walt Smith led the winners at the plate with two singles each.

The visitors scored two in the second on two hits and an error, but Walkwoods tied it with single runs in the third and fourth. In the fifth, Stouffville added two more to win and one in the sixth. They had scored six runs on five hits in the seventh when the game was called due to darkness and the score reverted to the sixth inning.

Schell had seven strike-outs and walked only one. Williams showed poor control but struck out six during the six innings.

Third and final game of the series will be played at Stouffville on Friday night.

Try On Wins Cup, Surprise Of Season

TORONTO (CP)—In one of the big surprises of the season, Try On, owned by Bill Beasley of Toronto, won the $5,000 Autumn Cup at Woodbine race track Wednesday.

The race had been regarded as strictly a two-horse contest between Risque Rouge and Scene One. Risque Rouge 10 days ago won the $36,000 Buckeye Stakes at Cleveland and Scene One had been the acknowledged handicap champion of the Ontario circuit.

Try On led all the way and finished a head in front of Risque Rouge in the 1⅛-mile race. Mr. Willie was third and Scene One a disappointing fourth.

Salmonacs Take 2-0 Junior Lead

MIMICO (CP)—New Westminster Salmonacs Wednesday night took a 2-0 lead in their best-of-five finals for the Canadian junior lacrosse championship by defeating Long Branch Monarchs 14-10.

The Salmonacs showed a reversal of form from the first game Monday in which they had to come from behind to squeeze out a 16-14 overtime decision.

They struck first and fast Wednesday night and remained in front. As a result of New Westminster's concentration on attacking, Salmonacs' netminder Ron Delmonico threw himself in front of shot after shot.

The undefeated western champions carried a 5-3 lead into the second quarter and held an 8-6 edge at the end of the half. They increased the gap to 13-7 in the third but were outscored 3-1 in the final period.

WESTERNERS OUTSHOT

Salmonacs were outshot in every quarter but the New Westminster marksmen were sharp, making their drives count. Delmonico turned away 34 shots, Dave Russell 14.

New Westminster's Cliff Sepka was the scoring leader. He chalked up nine points on three goals and six assists. Teammate Noble Collins bagged five goals, three of them in the third period. Larry Ruse notched three goals and an assist for Long Branch.

For the Salmonacs Max Skinner and Stan Cowie counted twice each, with other goals going to Don Frey and Ivan Gujar. Howard Smith and newcomer Joe Caruso, with a pair each, and Bill McLaughlin, Jack Walton and Pete Ruse, each with singles, completed the total for Long Branch.

The victory enabled the Salmonacs to prolong their unbeaten streak this season to 27, including seven playoff victories.

Lindsay Makes Move To Get Industry

LINDSAY — (ENS) — Lindsay is in line for a new industry chiefly because of the financial co-operation of several members of the Chamber of Commerce and decision of the town council to provide land for a factory building and extend the usual services of sewer, water, walks and road.

Owner and operator of a factory in Quebec for the manufacturing of plastic castings was introduced to members of the council by Dan McQuarrie, industrial commissioner, who has been in communication with the firm for some time past. Mr. McQuarrie said one reason for the prospect of locating in Lindsay is because the factry will be in direct touch with firms at present using the product quite extensively.

Harold Pollock and George Stephenson of the Chamber of Commerce assured council that members of the Chamber are prepared to raise sufficient funds to erect a factory building but it will first make definite inquiry as to the status of the firm.

The town council decided to give a piece of land near the Brakeshoe factory to the C of C for a rental of $1.00 a year, as well as to make a short extension of sewer and water mains, a short extension of road, etc., to the new factory, which will be approximately 50 by 100 feet and located near the CPR tracks.

MANAGING EDITOR—R. J. Rankin, managing editor and director of the Halifax Chronicle-Herald, was elected first vice-president of The Canadian Press in 1925. Chairman of the Port of Halifax commission, an honorary life member of the Canadian Red Cross and a director of the Halifax Board of Trade, Mr. Rankin began his newspaper career with the former Chatham Planet in his native Chatham, Ont., before the First World War. Returning from overseas service with the Canadian army, he joined the staff of the Halifax Herald in 1921 and was named managing editor of The Herald and The Mail in 1932. The papers merged with The Chronicle and The Star in 1949 and Mr. Rankin was named managing editor and director.—(CP Photo).

No Agreement To Break Senator Says

By JOE HALL

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senator H. Alexander Smith (Rep. N. J.) said today he was "amazed" at the assertion by former labor secretary Martin Durkin that the Eisenhower administration broke an agreement on Taft-Hartley law revision.

"I know perfectly well there was not any agreement to break," said Smith, chairman of the Senate labor committee who has just returned from a Canadian vacation.

But, he added in an interview, the divergent views of labor and management groups were not fully resolved, and it was agreed the parleys would be resumed this fall with an eye to introduction of legislation in January.

Durkin did not contend there had been full agreement on 19 proposed revisions to the labor relations law. He said at St. Louis Tuesday he had discussed them with President Eisenhower and the president "agreed with me that the 19 amendments should not be withheld, that they should be submitted to Congress."

COULDN'T GO ALONG

A few days later, Durkin said, a White House staff member notified him the administration would not be able to go along with the proposed amendments.

When he quit the cabinet a week ago, Durkin gave as his reason what he called White House failure to abide by an agreement on the proposals.

Smith said he still hopes his committee will have a bill embodying changes ready when Congress comes back, and that it can get floor action early next year.

He said he thought Durkin's problem was "a conflict of loyalties" caused by his long period of union service. Durkin was president of the AFL plumbers union before entering the cabinet, and has returned to that job.

"I don't blame him at all," Smith said. "His life's work had been trying to build up his union, get as much as he could for it.

"He tried to get the changes in the Taft-Hartley law he wanted. When he found he couldn't get them because others didn't agree with him, he stepped out."

Pleads Guilty To Theft Of 702 Dozen Eggs

BRANTFORD (CP) — Kellam Farr, 48, was remanded today until Sept. 23 for sentence after pleading guilty to a charge of stealing 702 dozen eggs from the laying hens of Dudley Brooks.

Police nabbed Farr with 122 dozen eggs. He said he had been stealing eggs since Aug. 7 and had sold them for $250.

Girl 15 Shot By Ex-Suitor

DECATUR, Ill. (AP)—A 15-year-old girl was shot by a rejected suitor Wednesday night as she slept in bed with her mother.

The youth then fatally shot himself.

The shooting occurred shortly before midnight in the three-room farm home of Mrs. Mary King, who was awakened after her daughter Janet had been killed.

Lying unconscious on the front room floor of the King home was James Jacob Bolt, 18, an auto supply clerk. He died three hours later in hospital.

Police said Mrs. King, a widow, told them Bolt and her daughter had quarrelled over his insistence that Janet quit school and marry him.

Mrs. King said Bolt was "getting jealous because Janet had boy friends at school."

Must Compete With Europe Fort Tourists

James Fraser, secretary-manager of the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce, warned members of the Rice Lake Tourist Association Wednesday night at the Kawartha Golf Club, the more and more tourists during the last two summers have been going to Europe instead of coming to the Kawarthas for their holidays.

This is due to the low passenger fares offered by foreign countries to encourage tourists from the United States and Canada to spend their dollars abroad, said Mr. Fraser. This past summer alone more than 200 tourists from Peterborough went abroad, instead of spending their vacations in the Peterborough area.

Before closing, Mr. Fraser congratulated the Rice Lake Association on the fine work they had been doing in promoting the Kawarthas since their beginning four years ago, and especially members of the executive.

Fred Austin of Keene and president of the association, also addressed the members and thanked them for their co-operation during the year, and stated that since their beginning four years ago they had distributed more than 20,000 booklets advertising the Kawarthas.

After the dinner there was a sing-song, and Mrs. Ross MacIntosh recited several humorous readings and magician Bob Mondugal of Keene demonstratd several tricks, followed by a dance.

Senator McCarthy To Wed Assistant

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator Joseph R. McCarthy (Rep. Wis.) and Jean Kerr, former research assistant in his office, are to be married.

Mrs. William P. Kerr, mother of the bride-to-be, announced the engagement today. The wedding will be Sept. 29 in St. Matthews (Roman Catholic) cathedral here.

Youth Innocent Of Manslaughter

BRANTFORD (CP) — A jury Wednesday found Louis Janscurak, 18, of Tillsonburg innocent of a manslaughter charge.

It also recommended that the city's stop signs be checked to see that they were visible from the street level.

Janscurak's car went through a stop street and was hit by another auto. Mrs. Betty Ando, a passenger in his car, was killed. Janscurak said he could not see the stop sign because of a large truck parked at the corner.

Geneva Trade Discussions Steal Spotlight From CCC Parley

By FORBES RHUDE

EDMONTON (CP) — Geneva rather than Edmonton caught the spotlight as the Canadian Chamber of Commerce went into the final day of its annual meetin today.

The Swiss city got attention because Western trading countries started meetings there today for consideration of trade agreements covered by the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade.

In the words of W. F. Bull, deputy minister of trade and commerce:

"I believe it would be generally agreed that the agreement has been, on balance, a source of benefit to its members, and that anything that would weaken it at this juncture would be a misfortune for the whole free world."

Failure of the Geneva meeting to arrive at agreements would, of course, wipe out hundreds of concessions under which countries have been encouraging trade with one another—starting in 1947.

NO MAJOR BLOW

Nothing known here would suggest a blow-up at Geneva. It seems to be a matter that further progress is unlikely at this time or, as Mr. Bull said:

"President Eisenhower has stated that he doesn't intend to make any major policy decisions in the field of international trade and finance until the problem as a whole has been reviewed by a special commission." and:

"Renewal (by the last Congress) of the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act was subject to the understanding that no major negotiations would take place until after the review.

"The United States will, therefore, apparently not be in a position during 1953 to negotiate new tariff concessions with anybody, and, in the absence of the U.S., it is unlikely that other contracting parties would be willing to negotiate among themselves any new concessions that would have to be extended, without compensation, to non-participating contracting parties (under most-favored-nation clauses).

TIME NOT COME

"The time has, therefore, not yet come to attempt a further round of trade and tariff negotiations, but it is of the greatest importance at this moment to hold the line and not to let existing agreements disintegrate."

Up to the moment, the trade picture, as seen by Mr. Bull, is favorable. He said:

"Imports during the first half of this year were indeed some 14 per cent higher than in the first half of 1952, a fact which reflects continuation of high levels of domestic consumption in Canada and a resumption of substantial capital inflow into the country.

"Exports, on the other hand, for seven months, show a decline of about three per cent in dollar volume. If allowance is made for decline of about three per cent in average export levels since last year, the total volume of Canadian exports in the first seven months, measured in terms of quantity, was almost equal to the record-breaking total of 1952 and, in May, June and July, exports in terms of quantity were about seven per cent higher than in the corresponding months of last year.

ENCOURAGING POSITION

"Taken as a whole, the position of Canadian exports a mid-1953 may be regarded as encouraging.

"Looking at world conditions as a whole, we find good cause for taking a reasonably optimistic view. Both our customers and ourselves have been improving our respective positions in recent years at a rate which is probably beyond anything that we would have ventured to predict or hope."

G. L. Strange, of Winnipeg said Canada, which thinks other countries, especially the U.S., maintains too high tariffs, might reduce her own tariffs.

He said that if Canadian tariffs were lower, other countries could earn Canadian dollars with which to buy foodstuffs.

U.K. Paper Urges Britain Quit UN

LONDON (Reuters)—Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express says today Britain should "pack up and get out of the United Nations," following the appointment of Mrs. Vijaya Lakshmi Pandit as president of the General Assembly.

"Like her brother, (Prime Minister) Nehru of India, Madam Pandit sometimes shows more sympathy for the enemies of Britain and America," the Express says.

"As president of the Assembly guiding the course of debate, influencing decisions, she may make her sympathies felt to Britain's and America's cost.

"The activities of the United Nations organization never benefit this country. Often they are damaging. There is a possibility now that, under the direction of Madam Pandit, they may be downright dangerous.

"There is only one safe and sensible thing for Britain to do at the United Nations. Pack up and get out."

Sole Remaining Monarch In Pacific Will Be Hostess To Queen And Duke

By EDWARD SAYERS

NUKUALOFA, Tonga (Reuters)—When the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh visit Tonga Dec. 20 they will be the guests of the sole remaining monarch in the Pacific—Queen Salote, whose joviality and defiance of the rain on Coronation day won the hearts of Britons and visitors during her visit to England this summer.

At Nukualofan the capital, and on the opalescent waters of beautiful Vuvua harbor, the Royal visitors will see reflections of Queen Salote's large-hearted laughing nature and joy in living. For the inhabitants of Tonga are a happy people with a carefree approach to life.

Captain James Cook named the Tonga group of islands and coral atolls "The Friendly Islands" when he visited them in 1773. His choice of name was in the nature of relief, for the navigator had been given a savage reception by the people of Niue, a coral island to the west of Tonga.

The kingdom of Tonga is a verdant group of three isles, producing all the food—fruit, vegetables and fish—which the people need and exporting copra valued at $2,800,000 a year and bananas valued at $140,000.

The Tongan is more vigorous than the Tahitian, which may be because the climate is more invigorating. Physique is greatly honored, not so much muscle as height and weight. A Tongan less than six feet tall is unusual, a weight up to 260 pounds common.

Physical size is also prized in the women, more even than beautiful features.

Queen Salote has reigned since 1918, liberally and happily. It is said in Nukualofa that a triennial meeting of Parliament is more than enough. When the members come from the outlying groups for the session, they bring their families with them as guests of the capital.

The session is one large feast. Parliament adjourns when there is no more to eat, or when the hosts say that the cupboard is bare. The hereditary chiefs, the elected members and their retinues of relatives strut back to their homes well filled, and from that fact, if no other, reporting that all is well with the kingdom.

The people are as riotously colorful in their dress.

The men wear a short tunic (a Vala) of silk or cotton, a wide sash and close-fitting singlet or shirt, and, tied around the girth with a plait of coconut fibre, a woven mat of pandanus.

The Tongan woman wears her hair high above the forehead, with curls falling down the back. Her usual dress is a sleeveless frock, in length mid-way between the waist and the knee. Underneath is a Vala similar to that of the men.

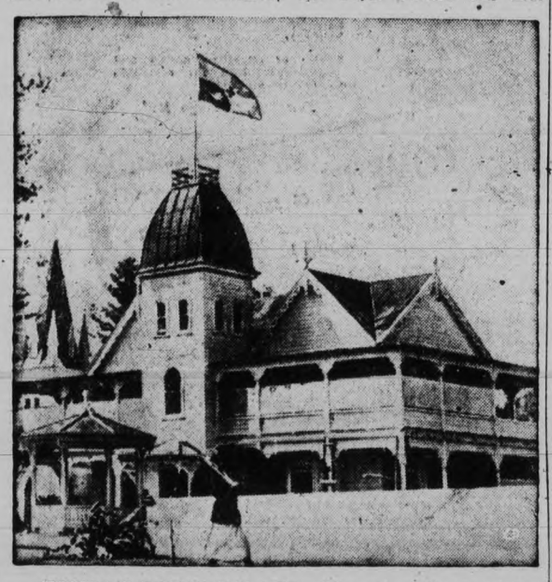
Their dress colors are vivid: Typically, a scarlet and yellow Vala under a short brown silk frock, or a pale blue gown over a Vala of daffodil yellow.

No place to be visited by the Queen and her husband will rival Tonga for color and merriment.

On that day, the lagoon will be alive with the long canoes of the Tongan braves, the finest physical specimens in the Pacific. The biggest young men will propel them, showing the canoeing skill which took their people across great expanses of the Pacific in the years before the white man came with his sailing ships.

The Royal visitors will hear assed singing which is without val for volume and beauty of rmony. The Tongan's song—nd love of song—has not been deased, for Tonga is not yet on the track of the great mass of tourists, and its customs have not been subjected to the influence of commercial traffic.

Preparations for the Royal visit are being pushed to completion. The Tongan loves a show, and this will be the greatest, most colorful show he has ever experienced.



TONGA'S ROYAL PALACE—When the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh visit the protected state of Tonga on her Royal tour next December the Queen will be the first reigning sovereign to set foot on that tropical empire of islands set in the east sweep of the Pacific Ocean. This is the royal palace at Tonga, home of Queen Salote, which the Royal couple will visit Dec. 20.

Biggest Naval Exercise Opens In Atlantic Ocean

By TREVOR BLORE

LONDON (Reuters)—The biggest naval exercise ever staged opened in the Atlantic ocean Wednesday.

Code-named "Exercise Mariner" the vast war game will extend from the United States' eastern seaboard to Britain and the English channel, via Greenland and Scandinavia. Its main objective will be to keep open the Atlantic supply lanes in face theoretical enemy submarine, air and surface attacks.

Participating are some 300 ships, 1,000 planes and 500,000 men from nine North Atlantic Treaty Organization countries—Canada, Britain, the United States, France, Denmark, Norway, Holland, Belgium and Portugal.

"Exercise Mariner" will deal mainly with problems similar to those of the Battle of the Atlantic in the Second World War, keeping Atlantic sea lanes open despite Nazi U-boat and surface raider assaults.

STRIKING FLEET

One important phase will be operations by a striking fleet under the command of Vice-Admiral Thomas Combs, United States Navy.

This force will include three large carriers, the American battleship Iowa, the British battleship Vanguard, six cruisers and 23 escort vessels.

Canada's aircraft carrier Magnificent left Norfolk, Va., Wednesday for the United Kingdom for the exercise. The cruiser Quebec is scheduled to sail from the same port Friday. The destroyer Algonquin already is at Londonderry and the frigates Swansea and La Hulloise are at Portland.

Three squadrons of RCAF bombers, based at Greenwood, N.S., and Torbay, Nfld., also will take part in the exercise.

PETS ARE LIKE PEOPLE WHEN IT COMES TO NUTRITION!

Unless you are an expert on feeding animals, you can seldom be sure your pet is getting all the essential vitamins and minerals it needs. And no human can know how your pet feels when his food fails to supply enough food value. But you can see what's happening to him! He loses pep and energy, sleeps a lot. His coat grows rough and patchy. Hair falls out. Appetite dwindles, and general health weakens. Your pet becomes nervous, excitable, ill-tempered.

It's Not "Will Petavim Work?" —Petavim Must Work!

PETAVIM is a high potency dietary food supplement for your pet. It combines 5 energy-charged Vitamins and 4 Minerals in a highly concentrated form. PETAVIM'S formula compares favorably with vitamin-mineral supplements for humans! Your pet needs only a small amount of PETAVIM with its regular diet for 20 days to win vigorous health. In fact, it's not a question of will PETAVIM work . . . PETAVIM must work in 20 days, or we pay you $2.00!

When You Check Off The 10th Day 10 ✓

Even in this short time, you will see a distinct improvement in your pet's condition. His coat gets smoother, shinier, and his eyes sparkle. Appetite becomes keener . . . and his energy increases.

Petavim's potent ingredients are building up your pet's stamina and strength—giving him the appearance of a champion. You're the owner of a happier, healthier pet that's full of pep and high spirits!

Your Pet must be in Top Condition in 20 Days OR WE PAY YOU $2.00

We want your pet to be in top condition when it finishes this Petavim treatment. If you have any doubts about its improved condition—even after 20 days—simply mail the Petavim box-top to us and we'll send you $2.00.

We also offer you—free of charge—the full consultation services by mail of our distinguished Veterinarian. Address all correspondence to W. H. Edwards Products of Canada Ltd., Oakville, Ont.

Read What Pet Owners and Kennel Operators say about Petavim!

Mr. T. N. Thatcher, Clarkson, Ont. writes:
"After taking PETAVIM along with their regular food for only 20 days, our four Scotties, aged 2 to 9 years, all showed marked improvement. Their coats took on a new gloss and their general condition greatly improved. I recommend PETAVIM heartily to other pet owners."

Mr. Ronald Purdy, Schau Belein Kennels, Port Credit, Ont., writes:
"I gave PETAVIM to three Dobermans and a Daschund along with their regular food. I don't know whether PETAVIM can take all the credit, but after the 30th day treatment, the youngest Doberman won First Prize in the Puppy Group at the Sportsman's Show. The judge said his condition was excellent."

Mr. W. C. Brown, R.R. #1, Oakville, Ont., writes:
"When we started including PETAVIM in our 7 year old Collie's diet, he was in poor condition, no pep or appetite. His hair was falling out and he was very excitable. But within 7 days his appetite perked up and he seemed more peppy. After 14 days, his hair stopped falling out and his coat became sleek. By the 30th day, he was in good shape, eating, sleeping and acting much better."

Mrs. Marjorie J. Snider, Deer Haven Kennels, Oakville, Ont., writes:
"We gave four dogs—a Belgian Shepherd, an English Springer, a Collie, and a Cross Breed—a regular dose of PETAVIM with their food. Within 21 days, all four dogs had better coats and were in excellent spirits. By the 30th day, they were enjoying unusually good health."

QUEEN SALOTE — Queen Salote reigns over the protected state of Tonga, in the South Pacific, which Queen Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh will world Commonwealth tour visit during their round-the-starting next November. Queen Salote, who attended the Coronation last June in London, rules Tonga, which has been under the protection of Great Britain since the signing of the Treaty of Friendship and Protection in 1900.

12-Year-Old Girl Gives Birth To Baby

TURIN, Italy (Reuters)—A doctor who Tuesday delivered a 12-year-old girl of a healthy baby weighing 5½ pounds said today the birth was a case of parthenogenesis (virgin birth).

Dr. Delle Piane, who performed a caesarian operation on the mother, said she definitely was still a virgin.

He said the girl had shared a bed with her elder brother.

Mother and baby were doing well today, he said.

A dictionary definition of parthenogenesis is "generation without sexual union."

COMING OR GOING? — This Silver Polish male bird, which puts one in mind of a Pekinese dog, looks much the same from both angles. It is owned by Frank Andrews, of Norwood, who has it entered in the poultry division at the fair. In the left picture he is facing the photographer, and in the right, he is travelling in the other direction . . . we think.

Poultry Win Admiration Of Judge, 'Outstanding'

"I was surprised and happily so at the number and quality of birds entered in this year's show, said R. J. Messervey, poultry judge at the Peterborough Exhibition.

"Many of these birds are sure to take first place at the Royal Winter Fair, their lines and condition are outstanding. Its been a long time since I've seen so many fine birds in one place."

Mr. Messervey was especially impressed with the condition of the birds and said that due praise must be given to the care and handling of them by those in charge of their exhibit. "It is difficult to keep a large bird at his best in the small cages necessary for exhibition."

BEST BIRD

If a first prize were given for the best bird in the show, Mr. Messervey said there would be no doubt as to the winner. "The Buff Orpington cock owned by R. M. Brown is definitely the finest bird here. His color, lines and condition are outstanding.

The same congratulatory remarks were said of the duck and geese exhibits. Judge Messervey's overall remark was, "the best display of poultry at the Peterborough Exhibition for many years."

Mr. Brown and Mr. Frank Andrews of Norwood are the two largest, and perhaps the two oldest exhibitors at this year's fair. Mr. Brown has a clipping from the Examiner, 45 years old, which tells of the fine exhibits he and Mr. Andrews had at the fair that year. Mr. Andrews has over 200 entries in the poultry exhibit.

Mr. Andrews returned from Aylmer, Quebec, on Saturday, where he judged poultry at that exhibition. He has judged at the C.N.E., the Royal Winter Fair, Ottawa Exhibition and the Markham and Aylmer fairs. He shows his birds at Lindsay, Peterborough and Norwood and has carried off many ribbons with his entries.

Fears Trend Toward Curbing Liberty

OTTAWA (CP)—Lord Simonds, lord high chancellor of Britain, said Wednesday there is a "dangerous trend" that is liable to tip the balance in favor of order and authority at the expense of liberty.

He told the Canadian Club he believes the greatest task facing lawyers and politicians is to reconcile order with liberty and freedom with justice.

The problem of reconciling authority with freedom was one aspect of a larger problem—that of the corrupting influence of power. It was not safe to put uncontrolled power into the hands of one man or a small group of men.

He said he referred particularly to Britain. In a parliamentary democracy, an aspect of the dangerous trend was that it might take the form of single-chamber government.

Lord Simonds said there is nothing "queerer" than the composition of Britain's House of Lords. Nevertheless it was valuable as a check to the Commons and as a revising body.

T-I-M-B-E-R!—Resembling a huge circular raft, thousands of cords of wood are towed across Rainy Lake by a tugboat, which is overshadowed by the huge pattern behind it. The operation is an important phase of the annual log drive to a mill in Fort Frances, where the wood becomes lumber and pulp.

Segregation Bill For Voters Fails To Pass

CAPETOWN (Reuters) — South Africa's Nationalist government failed Wednesday to get parliamentary approval for a bill providing for segregation of colored (mixed blood) voters on a separate electoral roll.

The measure, supported 122 to 78, was 16 votes short of the two-thirds majority needed.

Prime Minister Daniel Malan told the joint session of Parliament he would try "another course" if his proposal were beaten.

The bill was designed to validate an earlier measure thrown out of the courts. Passage would have meant elimination of Cape Province's colored voters from the common electoral roll.

VOTE WITH EUROPEANS

The "Cape coloreds" now vote with the Europeans. They have century-old voting rights which the Malan party wants to abolish.

Under the government bill, the colored voters would have been restricted to electing four members to the assembly, where three members for African natives already sit.

Jacobus Strauss, United Party leader, came out strongly against the bill on the grounds that it emphasized the "separate-ness" of colored people.

ISOLATED ALUMINUM

Aluminum first was isolated in 1838 by scientists Davy and Woh.er. In 1886, Hamilton V. Castner, of New York, perfected a method of manufacturing aluminum as a sheet metal.

Says Canada Contravenes Commonwealth Citizenship

LONDON (CP)—Canada is guilty of a "contravention of Commonwealth citizenship," a Labor member of Parliament suggests in a letter made public here.

The letter was written by Moss Turner-Samuels, and directed to the secretary for Commonwealth relations. It asks whether Canada-bound Britons are forced to sign a document stating their plans for United States entry before being granted passage.

The letter also asks whether Britain was informed by the Canadian government of an agreement to that effect between Canada and the U.S. and whether that agreement and refusal of passages are not a "contravention of Commonwealth citizenship, contrary to the letter and spirit of the British Commonwealth Act, 1948."

The Commonwealth relations office said Wednesday it had heard of the letter but hadn't received it yet.

Canadian travel and government officials said the letter apparently refers to a U.S. immigration rule which requires re-entry permits for any traveller who established temporary residence in the U.S. before leaving the country. Passenger carriers require proof of fully-documented passengers in any case and this precaution includes passengers who require those re-entry permits.

2 Million Civilians Die In Mass Flight

BONN (AP)—More than 2,000,000 East German civilians died in mass flight from the Russian army in 1944 and 1945, an official survey published here said Wednesday.

Of the original population of more than 11,000,000 in the former German territories east of the Oder-Neisse line, only 1,000,000 still are living there now.

The rest either died or were forced westwards, the survey said.

These figures were published in the first two volumes of a six-section historical and statistical study of the fate of the East Germans at the end of the Second World War.

Teams Dined Royally But Didn't See Camps

COPENHAGEN (Reuters) — The Communists dined them royally but showed "a regrettable tendency to take UN medical teams to empty prison camps," the leader of a Danish medical team which inspected United Nations PoWs before their return from North Korea said on his arrival home Wednesday.

Surgeon Tage Christiansen said he and his colleagues ate caviar and vodka for breakfast in a general's mess.

"And dinner was also a tremendous affair," he said. "There were no fewer than 20 courses."

He said he and his team did get a chance to examine and talk to UN prisoners about to be freed. Other teams weren't so fortunate.

Mr. Louis Yeotes was in Toronto Wednesday conferring with members of the Greek community regarding relief measures for victims of the recent earthquakes in the Ionian islands. While there, Mr. Yeotes learned that an attempt was being made to have King Paul and Queen Frederica of Greece come to Canada during their visit to Washington next month.

PARTRIDGE DATES

Open season on ruffed grouse—partridge—this year, will be split in two parts, from October 3-12 and from November 2-14. Bag limit is five a day, possession limit 15. Although Hungarian partridge may be shot from September 19 to October 12, Game Overseer Stan Windsor says there are no Hungarian partridge in this district. So hunters are warned against bagging a ruffed grouse out of season on the supposition that it is a Hungarian partridge.

Fair Attendance 6,279 First Two Days

Children's Day at the Exhibition was advanced this week from Wednesday to Tuesday in the ambition of directors eventually to develop a six-day show.

The extension of time provides some margin of safety against such vagaries of weather as cloudy Tuesday, with only glimpses of the sun, and a wind that brought out top coats.

So, the three usually big days at the "Ex" start today, continuing until Saturday night.

The attendance figures, from the gate returns, are so far: Tuesday: Adults, 3,724; Children (free), 7,584.

There were 218 other children at night.

Wednesday: 2,555 adults and 400 children.

Total adult attendance for Tuesday and Wednesday was 6,279, with three days to be added to that.

Sunshine this morning brightened the expectations of the finance committee: N. W. McConkey, chairman; John Kitney, Don Milburn, Harold Millen and Manson Cathcart.

They are the group who have to consider the state of the treasury, and that phase of the fair is dependent almost entirely on the public of Peterborough and its district.

235 Young Farm People Of 7 Counties Show Skills

Junior Farmers of seven counties, 115 girls and 120 boys, registered this morning for their day's events of the Exhibition. The boys reported at 9 a.m. at Morrow Park, and the girls assembled in the market hall up town. This Junior show had its origin with the Peterborough Exhibition years ago. It has been generally adopted since then. An announcement of the Western Ontario Fair, at London this week, mentioned that the Junior department was instituted there six or seven years ago.

The girls have a day's program of judging, inter-county competitions and club activity in homemaking with emphasis on sewing and making clothing, food gardening and other affairs.

Miss Florence Eadie, of Toronto, was here to supervise the girls' events, with Miss Jean Noble, Bowmanville, Miss Jean Davis, of the Niagara district, and Miss Rhea Simpson, Kingston. They are district representatives of the Ontario Department of Agriculture in county homemaking projects and classes.

42 FROM DISTRICT

Junior boys registered as follows: Durham 14, Northumberland 24, Peterborough 42, Victoria 7, Hastings 3, Prince Edward 2, Ontario county 1; and 20 seniors: Durham 5, Hastings 5, Peterborough 6, Victoria 2, and the others from Ontario, Northumberland.

Their morning work covered judging of livestock, and the judges of their tests in beef and dairy cattle, heavy horses, sheep and swine were: Roy Ferren, Cavan, horses; Ed. Starr, Toronto, beef cattle; Cliff Morrow, Toronto, dairy cattle; the sheep and swine judging was directed by federal Department of Agriculture representatives.

In charge of the boys' program was R. G. Bennett, assistant director of extension with the Ontario Department; and the county representatives: F. C. Paterson and his assistant, Ken Best; Victoria, LeRoy Brown and John Steele; Prince Edward, John Taylor and Bruce McCorquodale; Northumberland, Ralph Banbury; Hastings, Al Francis.

TESTS OF KNOWLEDGE

Tests of the boys' knowledge of tractor and farm machinery for the discovery of defects, identification of leaves and twigs in forestry work, and an agricultural quiz were all in the afternoon program.

Typical questions in the quiz were: Carbohydrate is the most expensive part of livestock feed? On soils with a pH of 7 or over, liming is not usually recommended? Most farm tractor motors should be operated at full rated speed? Summer fallowing is recommended to increase soil fertility and improve soil structure? Support price for butter is 68c a pound? It is recommended that reed canary, red top and alsike be included in hay mixtures for high, dry land? A soil test shows a field to be low in nitrogen and phosphorous and very low in potash? Would a 4-24-12 fertilizer be correct on this field for fall wheat? There were 25 of these questions in the quiz sheet.

The young people meet this evening at the dinner at Club Aragon arrangd by Canada Packers Ltd., as their main contribution to the Exhibition. This has been an annual attraction for the Juniors. Prize winners in the day's work will be announced and introduced.

Value Of Loot $1,350 From Golf Club

LINDSAY (ENS)—Estimates of the loot in Tuesday's break-in at the Lindsay Golf and Country Club have risen to $1,350 and may go higher.

Thieves entered the club house and pro shop Monday night, smashing a window in the club house and the lock of the pro shop, and ransacked the two buildings.

At the pro shop, they stole 12 new golf clubs, some balls, the complete stock of tobacco and confectionery and an electric razor belonging to Ted Hill, pro at the course. They left untouched another $2,000 worth of members' clubs and equipment.

In the club house, they stole the complete stock of liquor, some china, silverware trophies, tables and chairs. They were apparently preparing to remove a radio phonograph combination when they left the building.

In the men's locker room, they opened some 20 lockers, smashing the locks with a bar and looted them. They left two bags of clubs on their way out of the building but apparently made off with over $700 worth of members' equipment. Not all the locker owners have evaluated their losses yet. The OPP say the thieves may have used a car or truck and driven across the fairways to the club house.

Small Crowd Enjoys Good Show

Performance Best In Years; Cold Lowers Attendance

Cold fall weather held Wednesday night's audience for the Exhibition's grandstand show down to a comparative handful.

It wasn't the fault of the show itself, though, which is the best offered by the exhibition in recent years.

Balancing acts, and the team of aerialists, plus Bucking Bessie, an elderly auto full of tricks and fireworks, kept the audience of 150 contented despite the chill wind. Rain that threatened much of the afternoon and evening didn't materialize and saved the performers and audience further discomfort that might have been the final straw.

The aerialists, as they often do, stole the show.

The Aerial Winters, a husband and wife team, performed at the tops of two whippy staffs surmounting a steel pole. Climax of their performance was a dual headstand atop the staffs. For a further thrill, they shifted weight, forcing the staffs to sway as much as four feet.

Unaffected by the cold, their performance was a fast-paced one that opened with a trapeze routine on the crossbar supporting the staffs. They went to the top of the staffs to wind up their part of the show with the best performance of the evening.

UPSIDE DOWN

Almost as good, but in a different fashion, were the Shanghai Twins, a Chinese couple whose specialty was an upside-down performance.

During most of their act, they were on their hands, walking or simply balancing.

Seemingly the most difficult feat was achieved by the male half of the team. On top of a small table, he did a double handstand with one hand on the table top, the other grasping a bottle. From the double stand, he shifted to a single, using the bottle as a base for his balance.

The dancing girls were hampered by poor piano accompaniment, but did well enough to rate whistles, hoots and at times even applause from the audience.

The Hon. George Doucett, minister of highways, officially opened the exhibition, and reminded the audience of the large part agriculture plays in the economy of the province and Canada as a whole.

He traced the industrial history of the province from its start with agriculture and lumbering to heavy industry, and said that agriculture remained as a stabilizing influence behind every other facet of industry.

The Hon. Harold Scott, MPP for Peterborough, introduced Mr. Doucett and spoke briefly. Also on the stage were Exhibition president Norman McConkey, Gordon K. Fraser, MP, members of the county council and of the board of directors of the exhibition.

WESTERN SONGS

Following Mr. Doucett's speech, the stage show opened with a group of western songs sung by the Moffitt family. A can-can by the dancing girls came after this, then a pole-balancing act by the Rosalee sisters.

Dimes Wilson again staged his table toppling act, which he performed in the brief show of Tuesday night.

The Moffitt Family reappeared, this time with Bucking Bessie, an elderly car which spouted water and balls of fire. In addition, the auto lived up to its name by doing its level best to dispossess its occupants.

Slaughter on Tenth Avenue—by the dancing girls and the discordant pianist—provided a musical interlude between the car's appearance and the act of the Shanghai Twins.

The Aerial Winters then provided the climax of the show, the dancing girls appeared in a New Orleans tableau, and the entire cast appeared on stage for the grand finale to the best exhibition grandstand show in recent years.

City And Utilities Complete Exchange Of Street Light Money—All Even

Patrons of the Peterborough Exhibition and other fall fairs are familiar with the adage, "What you lose on the swings you make up on the roundabouts."

It's a time-worn platitude of dubious merit and probably had its origin with carnival operators anxious to placate customers who protested the brevity of rides on the midway.

However true it is, it seems it could be used by the Hydro Electric Power Commission of Ontario in some of its dealings with customers among the public utilities and municipal hydro commissions of the province.

Each year, the Peterborough Utilities Commission charges the city a certain amount for street lighting. An estimate is made, based on the number and wattage of street lights. At the end of the year, Ontario Hydro computes how much the city has actually used and sends in its bill to the PUC accordingly.

If the city has paid for more power than it has actually used, the PUC sends it a cheque. If the city has used more than it has paid for, it pays the difference.

Last September, the HEPC raised the rates for street lighting, retroactive to the first of the year and the PUC asked the city to pay the extra amount. City council pointed out they had made no provision for a deficit in their estimates and a discussion between the two bodies ensued.

This week the PUC sent a cheque to the city for $7,296.18, the difference between the actual cost of last year's street lighting and the estimated cost paid by the city during the year.

The city fathers accepted the cheque with smiles of more than satisfaction.

Dr. Neville, Assistant MOH For City Separate Schools

Dr. John J. Neville has been appointed a part-time clinical assistant to the city's Medical Officer of Health. His appointment was one of several staff changes announced Wednesday night to the Board of Health by the MOH, Dr. J. P. Wells. Dr. Neville will conduct the school medical officer program four half-days a week in the city's Separate schools.

In previous years, the Separate School Board has paid the Board of Health for public health nursing service. Under an arrangement made by the two boards this summer, an equivalent program of health service to that being instituted in the schools under the jurisdiction of the Board of Education is being instituted in the Separate schools.

The program, to be conducted by Dr. Neville, will include medical examinations and immunizations.

TO ASSIST

Mrs. Helen O'Toole has been appointed to work four half days a week as an assistant in the nursing division of the Department of Health. She will assist Dr. Neville in the Separate School medical officer's program.

Miss D. E. McNally has been added to the department's staff as a public health nurse. At present in the RCAF, she is expected to join the local staff by November 1.

Miss McNally is a graduate of St. Joseph's Hospital School of Nursing, Toronto, and had two years' experience in public health nursing with the Toronto Department of Health. For the past three years she has been engaged in public health nursing with the RCAF.

Miss Francis Blue, who joined the department's staff in August, 1950, has resigned. She is a native of Marmora.

Community Fund Cuts Grant To VON $950

The Peterborough Red Cross and Community Fund informed the board of directors of the Victorian Order of Nurses Monday at their monthly meeting that their grant had been cut from $6,400 to $5,450, a decrease of $950.

In her report for June, July and August, Miss Harriet McGeary, superintendent of the VON, reported that 1,152 visits were made and 152 new patients were taken on during the three months.

RAISE CHARGES

Miss McGeary also recommended that the charge for visits be raised. So far this year, 2,360 visits had been made in the first six months. Out of these, 400 were paid in full, 485 were partially paid calls, 910 were no charge visits, 565 were free visits and the other 1,475 were no charge and free visits.

It was reported by James Lillico, chairman of the publicity commitee, that his committee was planning to revise the type of advertising used by the VON.

City Man Dies Day After Crash

Alex Willis, 60 Salesman Collided With Truck

Severely injured in a truck-car crash south of Gravenhurst Tuesday, Alex Willis, 60, of 305 Reid St., died in Bracebridge Hospital Wednesday.

Details of the accident are few but it is believed Mr. Willis was driving on Highway 11 from Gravenhurst on his way to Peterborough when the collision occurred. Blame for the accident is laid on heavy rain and mist on the highway.

Mr. Willis suffered chest injuries and internal injuries. The transport driver was unhurt. Two doctors from Gravenhurst medical clinic treated Mr. Willis and he was then rushed to hospital at Bracebridge.

SALESMAN

A salesman with the Quaker Oats Co. for some years, Mr. Willis was born in Beaverton, a son of Minnie Robinson and the late David Willis. He came to Peterborough from Virginia, Ont., 16 years ago. He received his education in Brock township. A member of the Associated Commercial Travellers, he attended St. Peter's Cathedral.

Surviving are his widow, the former Alberta Stiles; his mother, two sons, Charles and Grant, both of Lindsay; three sisters and a brother, Mrs. Gladys Alpine, of Toronto; Mrs. Clem Scanlon (Queen), of Galt, Mrs. Frank Corner (May), of Pefferlaw, and Claude Willis, of Calgary.

Requiem mass will be said at 10 a.m. Saturday at St. Peter's Cathedral, and burial will be in St. Peter's cemetery. The body is resting at the Anglesey funeral home.

Jailed By Communists For More Than Two Years

Oatis Descibes What Reds Tell Their People Is A "Trial

(EDITOR'S NOTE: William N. Oatis, writer of the following article, is the Associated Press correspondent who was imprisoned for more than two years in Communist Czechslovakia. In the series of which this is a apart, he relates for the first time what happened to him.)

On Monday, July 2, 1951, I stood up in court in Prague, Czechslovakia, and said I had spied for the United States Embassy.

I was not a spy. I was an Associated Press foreign correspondent, and the three men accused with me were my Czech employees.

And I was not testifying as I should have testified in a court in my own country—out of my own heart, aiming to tell "the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth".

I was testifying as the Communist secret police wanted me to testify. I was following, in substance and sometimes word for word, a script they had written for me and rehearsed me in.

This script, prepared during my 70 days' interrogation and completed perhaps 10 days before I took the witness stand, was called a protocol. It consisted of questions for court and prosecutor to ask me, and answers for me to give them.

That morning, we four went on trial before the Senate of the State Court at Pankrac Prison, in southeast Prague.

UNDER GUARD

We were brought there after breakfast from the prison where we had been interrogated. (I did not find out till after the trial where that prison was.)

We made the trip in a green van, each locked in a blind compartment with guards crowding the aisle. Other guards with submachine guns watched in a courtyard as we were led into Pankrac Prison.

We passed through a subterranean corridor and upstairs to a row of separate cells. I waited in my cell, smoking nervously and guarded by a tall uniformed policeman with a big pistol.

Then we crossed a hall and entered the high-ceilinged courtroom by a side door. We must have looked quite decent, for supposed criminals. Before our journey, we had been shaved and had changed from prison uniform into street clothes. (I wore the dark blue suit and brown bow tie I had on when arrested April 23.) But each of us had his guard.

I scanned the court room for familiar faces. I saw none of my friends. (Only after my release this year did I learn that Vice Consul Richard G. Johnson and Private Secretary Mary Horak of the U.S. Embassy were in the back of the room.)

WILLIAM N. OATIS

I recognized two Czechoslovak press officers—Dr. Rudolf Popper of the Ministry of Information and Bedrich Runge of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs. They sat stolidly in the press section.

PACKED HOUSE

I noticed there, also, two Communist correspondents I had seen in my 10 months of freedom in Prague—an effeminate Irishman from the party-line Telepress agency and a Negro girl whose affiliation I did not know. They were grinning broadly at my plight.

Upstairs and downstairs, the house was packed. Specially chosen factory workers, cooperative farmers and government clerks got passes to such trials.

We four sat down, separated by our guards, on a bench facing the bar. I had earphones to catch simultaneous English interpretation of all Czech testimony; the interpreters were in booths near the bar. And near me sat another interpreter to serve as intermediary between me and the court when I should testify.

Now the judges entered, four men and one woman in black robes, and the trial began.

State Prosecutor Josef Urvalek, also in black, read the indictment. It called The Associated Press a spy agency serving the United States in a "war against the Soviet camp of peace." It said all AP bureau chiefs in Prague since 1948 had been spies. It charged my employees and me specifically with espionage.

Presiding Judge Jaroslav Novak then called me to stand in the horseshoe-shaped witness stall. He referred to the indictment and asked, "Do you feel guilty?"

THE SCRIPT BEGINS

"Yes, I do," I said. Seventy days of questioning had taught me that was the right answer.

The judge had a bulky document before him. It was my protocol. And now I got the first question in it: The prosecutor asked me to identify a small card introduced into evidence.

I said it was my 1944 off-duty pass from the Japanese language school of the Army Military Intelligence Service at Ft. Snelling, Minn.

After a few unprogrammed questions on my birthplace and such, I explained in answer to protocol questions that I had gone from Ft. Snelling to a similar school at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor and after a year's study there, had got out of the Army.

(I studied language, not espionage, and I was not in the Military Intelligence Service, but on the detached enlisted men's list.)

I said that Lt. Col. George L. Atwood, U.S. military attache in Prague, had been in the Ann Arbor school while I was there but that we had not met. I testified that I got acquainted with him in Prague and had "espionage meetings" with him.

FACT vs. FICTION

(Actually I was speaking of occasions when I had gone to him for news or background information on military matters in Czechoslovakia.)

I confessed I had gathered "espionage news" from my employees, other Czechs and diplomats, and gave details. (I was talking about reports on military, economic and political subjects not published in Czechoslovakia. The police had sold me the idea that all this was espionage material.)

I said that the bartender at the Alcron Hotel in Prague once had interpreted for me the Czech conversation of two government chauffeurs talking at the other end of the bar, and that it had to do with the arrest of a public official.

(This was a fiction build up around a kernel of fact and transferred from the bartender's protocol to mine: In reality, ONE chauffeur had told HIM about the official; the chauffeur had left the bar before I came and heard the report from the bartender.)

I testified that I got reports from a man using the name of Antonin Kratochvil and claiming to work in the prime minister's office.

(I knew he was an agent of the secret police but said nothing about this. I was playing their game in the hope of a short sentence.)

THE VERDICT

That afternoon my three employees related they had helped me get unofficial reports.

They also said they knew a Czech refugee, Vladimir Komarek, who sometimes returned illegally to his homeland. It was testified that he was a spy and that an accomplice of his had shot and killed a policeman.

(I had never met Komarek, and I insisted on this throughout the trial.)

Next day, 11 witnesses testified.

One said he had killed a policeman with a pistol Komarek gave him.

Another, Jan Stransky, told how he had given me a letter for his former employer, Russell Jones of the United Press, noting his suspicions that a Czech in that office was a police spy.

(I carried this letter to Jones not knowing what was in it.)

Nearly all the other witnesses testified they had given unofficial information to me or my employees. Their testimony was both fact and fable—like mine and my employees.'

Prosecutor and defense counsel spoke. (My lawyer said I was guilty but there were alleviating circumstances.) And the next morning we four were all convicted, I got 10 years, Svoboda 28, Woydinek 18 and Muntz 16.

A big black sedan took me to Ruzyne Prison, five miles west of Prague. On the way, I noted a big car just ahead with a man and boy in it—Col. Atwood and his young son.

Gordon Calls "Slave Labor" Just Hysterical Reporting

PORT ARTHUR (CP)—Donald Gordon, president of the Canadian National Railways, Tuesday used the term "hysterical reporting" in connection with a charge by The Pas, Man., Chamber of Commerce that "slave labor" conditions existed at the camp of a construction company building the CNR's Lynn Lake line in northern Manitoba.

In an interview here, Mr. Gordon said the report was "the silliest, most irresponsible statement ever made by a newspaper."

"Five men were taken off a train for what amounted to riding the rods, and without checking in any way, newspapers ran the story they told them. It was a typical example of hysterical reporting."

The chamber said the story—denied by the CNR and its contractor, the R. F. Welch Construction Company of Port Arthur — was brought to the Manitoba community by a group of immigrant workers who said they were fleeing from hardship.

LAUNCHED INQUIRY

Federal authorities launched an investigation after the chamber said in part in a letter to the departments of immigration and labor:

"We are informed slave labor conditions exist, with immigrants, unable to speak or understand English, being fed an almost-exclusive diet of macaroni, and not receiving any amenities of life. . . ."

The chamber said its investigations were started when five German youths were arrested and jailed at The Pas for riding on a train without paying fares.

Mr. Gordon said a CNR engineer at Winnipeg told him that conditions on the Lynn Lake line were better than any others he had seen in many years of experience on hinterland railway construction.

"Building that line is a tough, tough show, but so far as providing the amenities of life go, both the contractors and ourselves leaned over backward."

Davidson Elected UN Committee Head

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) Dr. George F. Davidson, Canada's deputy minister of welfare, today was elected chairman of the social, humanitarian and cultural committee for the eighth session of the UN assembly.

Dr. Davidson, 44, a native of Bass River, N.S. who grew up in British Columbia, has represented Canada in various capacities since 1947 at the UN.

60 Attend Corn Roast

HAVELOCK (ENS)—Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Barton entertained the young people of Rush Point at a corn roast.

Dancing made up the program with a sock dance as a special number. Gerald Toms was violinist. Lunch was served to about 60 guests.

Atomic Official Will Retire

OTTAWA (CP)—Dr. C. J. Mackenzie, president of Atomic Energy of Canada will retire Oct. 31 and be replaced by W. J. Bennett, president of Eldorado Mining and Refining Limited, Trade Minister Howe announced Wednesday.

Dr. Mackenzie, who reached retirement age of 65 on July 10, was one of a small group of Canadians who guided the development of Canada's atomic energy program.

The announcement also disclosed that the government plans eventually to amalgamate Atomic Energy of Canada Ltd., which operates the atomic energy plant at Chalk River, Ont., and Eldorado Mining and Refining Ltd., the crown company which mines and refines uranium bearing ores.

Mr. Bennett, 41-year-old former secretary to the late prime minister W. L. Mackenzie King, will administer the two units as separate companies until some future date.

COFFEE REVOLUTION
HITS BREAKFAST HABITS ACROSS COUNTRY

Thousands of families switch overnight as amazing new "instant" brings 100% real coffee enjoyment without brewing or messy grounds

WHO would have dreamed that the percolator, the drip-olator, and other familiar coffee makers would vanish from thousands of Canadian breakfast tables almost overnight!

Yet it's happening! Particularly since an amazing new "instant" coffee by Chase & Sanborn started getting into people's homes.

Housewives tried it. They found the fragrant, pure-coffee granules of the new Instant Chase & Sanborn dissolved like magic the instant that water touched them. And the result was 100% real coffee by any test —flavor, color, body, and heart-cheering lift.

Many housewives have been accustomed to consider instant coffee as one for the occasional cup or for an emergency. Not this one. This superior "instant" plainly belongs whenever and wherever coffee is served.

And so to breakfast. It was inevitable. And how did the family take to this finer "instant" for breakfast? Just like a cat takes to 32% cream! So that's how the revolution started. Now new Instant Chase & Sanborn is the breakfast coffee in increasing hundreds of Canadian homes every day.

Tedious Rituals Ended

It means that wives are resigning the time-honored rites of spooning out ground coffee, measuring the amount for the coffee-maker, pouring on the hot water or plugging in the percolator, checking the brewing time, mopping up the occasional spill, scooping out dismal grounds, and scouring a stained coffee pot.

Now they gratefully spend extra minutes in bed, knowing that coffee will be ready as fast as boiling water. And with new Instant Chase & Sanborn they know that every cup will give 100% real coffee satisfaction. No more suspense waiting for that man's verdict on your morning brew!

Unique New Process

Chase & Sanborn coffee scientists experimented until they had perfected a process that taps the rich, aromatic qualities of the roasted bean—carries the full rich flavor and invigorating qualities right through to your cup.

Fits Numerous Occasions

Now families with new Instant Chase & Sanborn find themselves enjoying coffee more often. An instant cup of flavorsome, invigorating coffee is just the thing after laundering, house-cleaning, or shopping. Perfect for entertaining.

ROCKET-FIRING CF-100—This is one of the first pictures of the latest model of the CF-100, called the most versatile and heavily-armed all-weather fighter plane in the world. In this remarkable closeup of the Mark IV version of the plane, climbing straight up, the rocket-carrying pods on the wing tips can be seen clearly. It now is going into quantity production at the A.V. Roe (Canada), Limited, plant at Toronto's suburban Malton for the RCAF. It is a long-range fighter and is equipped for day and night flying.

11 Polio Cases Reported In September

There have been 11 cases of poliomyelitis reported in the city this month.

This brings the current total to 15. Four were reported during August.

The figures were made available by the Medical Officer of Health, Dr. J. P. Wells, in his report to the Board of Health Wednesday.

Other cases of communicable diseases reported during August were: chickenpox 1, measles 1, infectious hepatitis 4, tuberculosis 3, influenza 1.

Two chest clinics were held in August with a total attendance of 79. There were 12 old tuberculin tests done at the Department of Health and three new inactive cases of tuberculosis were discovered. One case was admitted to sanatorium.

There were four immunization clinics held at the Department of Health office during August, with the MOH in attendance. Total attendance was 20.

Total immunization treatments included 20 of combined vaccine, three vaccinations and two tetanus.

Completed immunizations included two vaccinations, two of pertussis vaccine, two toxoids and two of tetanus.

Sanitary Inspector K. G. Spencer made 111 inspections during August, bringing the total for the current year to 628. He also investigated 39 complaints, bringing the total for the current year to 242. Four quarantine placards were placed and 17 interviews granted.

Food and Dairy Inspector D. C. Smith took 247 raw milk samples and 122 pasteurized milk samples during August.

Omemee Man Guilty Of Being Impaired

LINDSAY —(ENS) —Glen Osborne Omemee was fined $50 and costs when he appeared in police court Wednesday, charged with driving while his ability was impaired. Osborne pleaded guilty to the charge laid by Lindsay constable Percy Mark and was fined $50 and $2.50 costs.

"Taps" was composed during the Civil War by Gen. Daniel Butterfield of the Union army.

Boy Scouts Plan Camp Addition

LINDSAY —(ENS— The Toronto district Boy Scout command is planning on building a $60,000 camp and community hall structure at their large camp site on Lake Kennabi, in Haliburton County.

The contract for the project has been let to the Weller Construction Company of Toronto. The camp has operated for some years, on a large tract of ground. Some 200 scouts, mainly from the Toronto area, spend their holidays during the summer, camping in the open. The Toronto district commissioner received the money for the new building through a grant from the Atkinson Charitable Foundation earlier this year.

Omemee Chief After Speeders

LINDSAY—(ENS)— Two motorists charged with speeding in Omemee during a campaign to stop highway speeding on the streets of the town, pleaded not guilty to charges in court Wednesday, but were both convicted and fined when Chief Stevens gave evidence of the reliability of his speedometer.

Lawrence Fontaine, 146 Aylmer St, Peterborough, said he "always slowed down and watched his speed", when passing through Omemee. Chief Stevens, however displaying certification that his speedometer tested accurately, at all speeds as recently as two days before Fontaine's offence. He told the court he ha dclocked the accused at 40 miles per hour in the 30 mile zone in the village on August 29. Fontaine was fined $5 costs by magistrate E. A. Gee.

The second, Frank Hills, Port Hope, a baseball umpire, pleaded not guilty on the grounds that he had umpired a game in Lindsay on that date and gone home by Highway 35 through Newcastle, at the time he was supposed to have been in Omemee. When asked how his license came to be on another car at that time and questioned about his speed, however, he offered no answer, and was fined $5 and $5 costs.

Demolition Work

WEIDEN, Germany (Reuters)—Czechoslovak demolition squads have begun again to blow up buildings in the uninhabited strip running along the Czech side of the frontier with Germany, the West German news agency DPA reported Wednesday. A customs post in a small former Sudeten German village and the few remaining houses in another village were demolished. West German frontier police believed the demolitions are intended to make it more difficult for refugees to escape to the West.

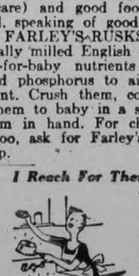
And, speaking of good food for baby . . . treat him to FARLEY'S RUSKS often. They're made from specially milled English wheat flour and other important-for-baby nutrients—and fortified with calcium and phosphorus to aid in bone and tooth development. Crush them, cover with warm milk and feed them to baby in a spoon or simply let him eat them in hand. For children, invalids and old folks, too, ask for Farley's Rusks in the yellow box with the cellophane top.

The Pick Of The New Crop . . . yes, Heinz gives you only the finest of tomatoes in their famous Tomato Products . . . one reason why HEINZ TOMATO KETCHUP is such a favourite. It's rich with the flavour of ripe, red tomatoes — and of course the Heinz Chefs add just the right combination of fragrant spices to give it that very special good taste. Then there's Heinz delicious Cream of Tomato Soup and Heinz Chili Sauce that add sparkle to many a "Plain Susan" dish—and, last but not least—Heinz Tomato Juice that's such a delicious source of Vitamins A and C. Look for the "New Pack Parade" of Heinz Tomato Products—at your grocer's now.



I Reach For Them with pleasure—because I know that my S.O.S. Scouring Pads will do whatever I need them for in a jiffy. Maybe it's to scour the bath tub — or the top of the stove—or a burned pot. Sometimes it's to take a stain off linoleum . . . or remove old wax. Any time—every time!—S.O.S. does the job! It's really a magical combination of sturdy, interwoven fibres, filled with grease-dissolving soap. They're so neatly made too—a pleasure to use in every way. I think that "S.O.S." must stand, too, for "Secret of Secrets" for every woman who wants her house to shine with cleanliness. It's certainly mine!

I Bless The Day when I first brought FRENCH'S INSTANT POTATO powder into my home . . . and threw out the old drudgery of potato preparation! All the full flavour—and nutriments—of the finest potatoes are ready in the twinkling of an eye—as the best mashed potatoes you ever tasted! . . . Or, maybe as a crisp brown coating to fish cutlets, or croquettes . . . Try it as a thickening for gravies, stews, and soups . . . or as a topping for baked casserole dishes, Shepherd's Pie . . . meat or chicken pie. It turns a delicate brown under the broiler and adds food flavour and food values that I need in meal-planning for my hungry brood.

Take A Tip From Kathleen Strange, Novelist And Scenario Writer. She suggests that you compare BLUE BONNET MARGARINE with any spread at any price. You're sure to agree with her that Blue Bonnet's fresh, country-sweet flavour is delicious. You'll appreciate Blue Bonnet's nutrition, too. (No other spread is richer in Vitamin A!) And you'll certainly appreciate its economy. Use Blue Bonnet in cooking, on vegetables and meat and as a spread for bread. It's so handy to use in its famous Yellow Quik bag for fast, easy colouring. So ask for Blue Bonnet and get flavour, nutrition, economy and convenience.

"Wet" Water Now Used To Fight Fires

TORONTO (CP) — Firemen in Philadelphia now are using "wet" water as a new wrinkle in fighting fires.

The International Association of Fire Chiefs was told Wednesday of this fire-fighting technique developed by the United States armed forces by George E. Hink, deputy fire commissioner for Philadelphia.

"Wet" water contains a chemical that breaks down the surface tension of ordinary water drops and allows them to cling to and penetrate material they touch.

Mr. Hink said Philadelphia has saved tens of thousands of dollars by using the new fire-combatting agent. A seven-alarm fire in a rubber-storage warehouse would have burned for several weeks if untreated water had been used, he said. After two days containment, the fire was extinguished in less than two hours by the application of "wet" water.

DISASTER DETAILS

Detailed accounts learned from the Tornado disasters in Flint, Mich., Worcester, Mass., and Cleveland last June were given to delegates attending the 80th annual convention of the association. The descriptions were given by four chiefs who were in charge of protection and relief services in the stricken areas: Herbert Travers of Worcester, Calvin Johnson of Flint, chief fire marshal Arnold Henner of Michigan and Elmer Cain of Cleveland.

They said urgent requirements necessary to meet similar disasters.

An adequate warning system; extensive organization of trained rescue workers; listing of heavy equipment to clear wreckage; first aid and hospital accommodation; provisions of two-way radio for fire departments separate from that used by police; widespread mutual aid agreements among fire departments and proper victim identification arrangements.

A. H. Johnstone, chief of the Surrey, England, county fire brigade estimated that if an atomic bomb were dropped on Toronto 1,000 fire hoses would be necessary immediately if the resulting fires were to be contained and controlled. Some 60,000,000 gallons of water an hour would also be needed.

OPEN RESEARCH INSTITUTE—Sir Henry Dale (right), chief of Britain's wartime scientific advisory committee, past president of the Royal Society and winner of the Nobel prize in medical science, opens the Charles H. Best Institute, a $1,000,000 building providing facilities for expansion of medical research in Toronto. At left is Dr. Charles H. Best, for whom the institute was named, and co-discoverer with the late Sir Frederick Banting of the Insulin treatment of diabetes.

Polio Cases Jump In West

EDMONTON (CP) — The three Prairie health departments Wednesday reported substantial increases in polio cases.

The 24-hour increase was the greatest in Alberta, where 36 new cases were reported to bring the provincial total to 598, short by only 145 cases of the 1942 record. An additional death also was reported to bring the year's total to 36.

In Manitoba, where the record established in 1941 had already been topped by 597 cases, 32 more were reported to bring the case count to 1,640. Fifty-five have died.

Saskatchewan's weekly report, containing figures reported up to last week-end, listed an additional 160 cases and six deaths, for a total of 678 cases and 37 deaths.

Several Men Given Honorary Doctorates

TORONTO (CP)—Honorary doctorates of divinity were conferred Wednesday night on three clerical graduates of Trinity College at the convocation of the faculty of divinity.

Receiving the degrees were the Rt. Rev. F. H. Wilkinson, coadjutor bishop of Toronto; Canon W. E. Kidd and Archdeacon W. E. Ryder.

P. A. Moore, St. Columba's parish, St. Catharines, received the degree of bachelor of divinity.

Gun-Point Arrest

TORONTO (CP)—Norman Gerrard, 27, of Toronto, who police say was released July 29 from penitentiary, was arrested Wednesday on charges of assault and robbery after a motorcycle officer forced his car to the curb at gun point. His arrest came after what police say was a purse-snatching episode in a ravine.

Baby-Sitter Dies From Fall In Home

WELLAND (CP)—A woman caring for two children while their parents worked in the tobacco fields died in hospital Wednesday after a fall in a Welland home.

The children, Richard Trampas, 8, and his brother Edward, 7, could tell police only that the woman's name was Jakovich. They had no idea where their parents were working.

The boys found the woman unconscious at the foot of the cellar stairs, where it was believed she had lain most of the night after a fall. She died of a skull fracture.

The dead woman is believed to have relatives in St. Catharines.

Falls Out Of Boat Ottawa Man Dies

OTTAWA (CP)—Police Wednesday investigated a report that Francois Xavier Perrier, missing from home since Tuesday, was drowned in the Ottawa river after falling overboard from a rowboat.

Oscar Auger told police that he and Perrier, also known as Poirier, rowed a boat from the Ottawa side of the Ottawa river to Hull, Que., where they purchased a bottle of wine. They later left to return to Ottawa.

Police said Auger told them that Perrier stood up in the boat, slipped on the bottom and plunged overboard.

7 Airmen Facing Courts-Martial Counts

MONTREAL (CP) — Seven airmen stationed at the nearby Lachine RCAF base now face courts-martial charges of embezzling some $5,000 while working in the station's accounts department.

Two of the airmen—LAC. J. V. Brunelle of Brownsburg, Que., and LAC. J. L. P. Cote of Montreal—were arrested recently, air force officials said Wednesday.

LAC. J. J. Lambert, Grande Riviere, Que.; LAC. J. E. LaPorte, Montreal; LAC. C. T. Howard, Victoria; LAC. J. Y. Therien, St. Remi, Que., and AC. C. Therien, also of St. Remi were arrested late in July.

Fire Guts House

SARNIA (CP)—Fire Wednesday gutted the small frame home of Richard Madure. Mr. Madure, a market gardener, lived alone in the house. He was in bed when he smelled smoke but escaped uninjured. Firemen said the blaze started outside the house, perhaps from a bonfire.

Win Cadet Scholarships

TORONTO (CP)—Names of 13 sea cadets, additional to scholarship winners, who have been selected for entry to Canadian service colleges by the national defence department were announced Wednesday by the Navy League of Canada. Attending Royal Military College, Kingston, will be A. P. Ferrington of Lakeside, Que., J. W. Heare of Edmonton and C. R. Mallory of Pointe Claire, Que.

Can't Agree On Size Of Pipeline

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—A difference of opinion on the size of a pipeline to be used to transport Alberta gas to Ontario is believed to have delayed an agreement on a trans-Canada pipeline that was expected to be reached at the opening Wednesday of the 10th annual mines ministers' conference.

It was reported that the main reason for the delay in the decision, now expected to be made within two or three weeks, is that Premier E. C. Manning of Alberta feels that a 36-inch pipeline would be the most effective.

A 30-inch pipe is planned by Trans-Canada Pipelines, whose application for an all-Canadian route now is before the Alberta oil conservation board.

ANOTHER APPLICATION

The board also has an application from Western Pipelines which plans to lay a 36-inch pipe from the gas fields to the U.S. border. Allied with this company in their project is Bechtel Corp., a U.S. engineering firm.

Strong support for this route has frequently been voiced by Premier Frost of Ontario and Federal Mines Minister Prudham and it was thought until Wednesday that Premier Manning agreed with them.

The Alberta premier was less than enthusiastic when approached on the all-Canadian project. He said Alberta is interested only in selling gas. The province will sell to anybody who is interested in buying it.

Assure Alberta Of Coal Market

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—Federal Mines Minister Prudham announced Wednesday, following a meeting of provincial mines ministers here, that Alberta has been assured of an expanding market in Ontario for its high-quality coal.

The meeting was attended by Premier Frost of Ontario, Premier E. C. Manning of Alberta, who is also that province's mines minister. W. Uren, chairman of the Dominion coal board, and W. C. Whittaker, managing director of the Western Canada Coal Operators Association.

Mr. Manning said that under legislation passed by the Alberta legislature during its last session a continuing supply of high-quality coal could be guaranteed Ontario.

Mr. Frost assured the conference of the co-operation of the Ontario government in development of markets in the province for Alberta coal.

SWISS SCIENTIST — Dr. George Huber, a Swiss who has been doing fellowship research at the National Research Council's crop utilization section of the prairie regional laboratory at Saskatoon, worked with Dr. Raymond Lemieux in discovering a method of making synthetic sugar. Only a fraction of an ounce of sugar was made and crystallized. It will not become commercially useful.

Expect Large Beet Harvest

LETHBRIDGE, Alta. (CP) — Southern Alberta's sugar beet harvest, expected to produce nearly $6,000,000 worth of sweet roots from 34,700 acres this fall, is scheduled to start next week and become general early in October.

The three beet processing factories in this region are to begin their sugar-making campaigns the week of Sept. 28.

General manager Frank R. Taylor of Canadian Sugar Factories Ltd. estimated Wednesday that this year's crop will be 380,000 tons or more.

Such a tonnage would make it the fourth largest crop of sugar beets ever produced in southern Alberta and would give the 1,600 growers within a ton of a normal yield despite serious setbacks suffered because of this year's late, cold and unusually wet spring.

An average crop of sugar beets for this area is one which yields about 12 tons of beets an acre.

Cancel Registration Of Broker-Dealers

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario securities commission has announced cancellation of the registrations of Cardigan Securities Limited and Dumont Trading Limited as broker-dealers.

The Cardigan registration was cancelled after an investigation showed that a sales campaign in the United States was conducted by long-distance telephone in violation of the regulations.

Dumont Trading had its registration cancelled because of what the commission called evidence of over-loading and high - pressure methods.

Warehouse Gutted

TORONTO (CP)—Fire of unknown origin Wednesday night gutted a two-storey brick salvage warehouse in west-central Toronto. Firemen fought the blaze for more than half an hour before bringing it under control.

SUGAR SCIENTIST — Dr. Raymond U. Lemieux, head of the National Research Council's crop utilization section of the prairie laboratory at Saskatoon, has succeeded in making synthetic sugar. The product, fired with atomic tracers, may help science gain greater knowledge of how the various parts of sugar are utilized by the body. The tracers would permit medical men to follow the synthetic sugar particles as they course through the body.

Won't Make Issue As Union Tossed Out

MONTREAL (CP)—Silby Barrett has decided against making any further issue of a Canadian Congress of Labor convention decision tossing his district 50, United Mine Workers, out of two Edmonton chemical plants.

After an absence of a day, the 69-year-old head of district 50 and a CCL vice-president returned to the convention Wednesday and announced he will not do anything to pull down the congress.

He received a set-back Monday when the CCL convention reversed a CCL committee judgment, taking jurisdiction of the two Edmonton plants from the mine workers and handing it over to the Oil Workers international.

FRESH from Kellogg's

THE CRISP, CRISP FLAKES WITH THE DEEP, DEEP FLAVOR

FRESH FROM LONDON

No wonder your Kellogg's Corn Flakes reach your table so oven-fresh and crisp. They're toasted fresh daily in our plant at London Ontario—right here in Canada.

When you open a package of Kellogg's Corn Flakes you catch a hint of a tantalizing aroma that says "These golden flakes are just baked . . . fresh from our radiant ovens."

This freshness is a good reason why millions of folks will—again tomorrow morning—enjoy Kellogg's Corn Flakes for breakfast. Is there a box in your kitchen now, or should you see your grocer today?

Last week I used Hawes' Wax on our inlaid linoleum — and I want to let you know how very pleased and happy I am with it.
Yours truly, Mrs. D.G.

Collingwood, Ont.
Sirs:
Just thought I would like to let you know how much I appreciate your Floor Wax. For some time now, I have used it exclusively as I find it to be very superior to any other wax.
Thanking you again for a wonderful floor wax.
Sincerely, Mrs. H.L.M.

Shannon Pk., N.S.
Dear Sir:
I am writing to tell you of your wonderful Liquid Wax. I now feel so pleased that I have found a wax that makes my floors really shine.
Yours truly, Mrs. G.M.

Ontario Opens Tree Farm

By HARRY KINGDON

GORE BAY (CP)—Some 75,000 acres of forest near this Manitoulin island town Wednesday became Ontario's first tree farm, and the biggest in Canada.

The farm, from which the Ontario Paper Co. Ltd. expects eventually to harvest 35,000 cords of pulpwood a year, is about 100 miles southeast of Sault Ste. Marie where the tree farm idea was born.

Welland S. Gemmell, Ontario's lands minister, presented the official tree farm certificate to Arthur A. Schmon of St. Catharines, president of Ontario Paper, on behalf of the Canadian Forestry Association.

Government, conservation and company officials joined school children in a roadside clearing to witness the presentation.

Mr. Schmon explained the company's program of cutting only mature trees and replanting cut-over areas. "Five years after the commencement of the program, I am proud to state that although we have taken nearly 100,000 cords of pulpwood from the island and vicinity, there are more trees now than when we began to cut and the over-all condition of the forest has improved."

Mr. Gemmell said certification of the tree farm is "a precedent of great consequence" for the lumbering industry in Ontario. "It is practical proof of the desire of the industry to go ahead in good forest management."

The paper company president said a civic club in Sault Ste. Marie in 1920 became concerned about the devastation of forest lands from fire and indiscriminate lumbering methods. The club coined the term "forest farms" to promote conservation.

One club member, B. F. Avery, now president of the KVP Company, Espanola, Ont., carried the idea to the northwestern United States 10 years later and the term was changed to "tree farms."

Since then, many of the farms have been established in the U.S.

Plan Layoff Of Many Textile Workers

MONTREAL (CP)—A layoff of several thousand textile workers in plants throughout Canada is scheduled for next week, delegates attending the Canadian Congress of Labor convention here were told Wednesday.

Approximately 800 delegates, representing 370,000 members affiliated with the congress, are attending the week-long convention here.

J. Harold Daoust of Toronto, Canadian director of the Textile Workers Union of America (CIO-CCL), announced the layoff and attributed it to dumping in Canada by United States firms.

Plants mostly affected were reported to be those of Canadian Cottons, Ltd., at Hamilton, Cornwall, Saint John and Marysville, N.B. Others affected were at Milltown and St. Stephen, N.B. There also has been layoffs at other plants during the year.

J. Irving Roy, president of Canadian Cottons, Ltd., said plants operated by his firm will be shut down for a week, starting Sept. 28, with the "exception of the running of minor machinery."

ON CURTAILED BASIS

Company plants had been operating on a curtailed basis for some time.

Conditions in the industry had been depressed for some time and already firms were operating on a three-day week at Cornwall and Hamilton.

The congress passed an emergency resolution condemning the "do-nothing" policy of the federal government.

It called for an immediate conference of labor, government and industry to deal with the problem of unemployment that "is lying heavily on the backs of textile workers and to consider long-range measures designed to provide a greater degree of security for those employed in the industry."

E. C. Cluney of Toronto, assistant Canadian director of the textile workers union, said a falling market for Canadian textiles had resulted in unemployment for 8,000 workers.

He charged that the market in Canada is being flooded with textile imports "dumped" in this country at prices below those in the home market.

Would Keep State Out

KINGSTON (CP)—Dr. R. C. Wallace, former principal of Queen's University, Wednesday expressed his opposition to state operation of hospitals. Speaking before the newly-formed Eastern Hospital Regional Council, Dr. Wallace said that once the government takes control the private individual becomes less interested in the hospital's well-being.

Actor Wounds Self

TORONTO (CP)—Stanley Carlson of New York City, playing the part of Bascomb in a production of "Carousel" at the Melody Fair summer theatre here, accidentally wounded himself with a blank cartridge Wednesday night, but waited 45 minutes to finish his role before going to hospital. The wound was not serious.

FIRST LEG OF THE SHORTCUT HIGHWAY between Peterborough and Toronto (shown above) is now under contract for grading and culverts. The Hi-Way Construction Co. of Simcoe got the job. Work will be done on the 5.8-mile stretch between the junction of Highway 2 and 401 and Orono. The broken line indicates where the route deviates from the present route of Highway 35. The highway will eventually go northeast from Highway 35, south of Pontypool, to Highway 28, south of Kendry, and continue northeast bypassing Peterborough to the south. It will join up with Highway 7 at Downer's Corners.

Contracts For Grading, Culverts Awarded For Newcastle-City Short Cut Highway

The Hi-Way Construction Co. of Simcoe have obtained the contract for doing the grading and installing culverts on the Newcastle-Orono section of the new highway that will eventually bypass Peterborough to the south.

Contract figures were not disclosed by the Department of Highways but it is one of several major contracts awarded by Highways Minister George Doucett, amounting to $4,000,000 in all, for work on Ontario highways.

The projected bypass will permit faster motor vehicle travel between Peterborough and Toronto. And from the point of view of Torontonians, it will permit them to make a faster trip to the Kawarthas, the Rideau Lake area, and Ottawa.

This present contract is for grading and culverts on the 5.8 mile stretch (as shown in the accompanying map) from the junction of Highways 410 and 2 to a point just north of Orono. The new highway curves northeast from the junction of the two highways, bypasses Newcastle and merges into Highway 35.

FEW CHANGES

There will be a few changes in the route of Highway 35 and work will also be done on the present highway where it needs repairs.

Later, the road will be extended to a point south of Pontypool on Highway 35, and it will link in with the two-lane controlled access highway now being built northeasterly to Highway 28, just south of Kendry. It will then continue across Highway 28, bypass Peterborough by running south of the city, and join up with Highway 7 in the Downer's Corners area.

Work on the leg of the highway bypassing Peterborough has not progressed beyond the surveying stage.

Department of Highways officials plan to have the Toronto Bypass Highway link with the Queen Elizabeth Way, west of Toronto, and with the Toronto-Oshawa-Newcastle portion of Highway 401, east of Toronto. The easterly junction will be West Hill. When this is completed all motor traffic starting from or passing through the Toronto Metropolitan Area will have a new and uncongested outlet for Peterborough, the Kawartha Lake district, the highlands of Victoria and Haliburton counties and points east along Highway 7.

Windsor Plans Fluoridation

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — City council Tuesday night authorized a plan to start fluoridation of the water supply early next year.

Alderman Albert Long, only member to oppose the move, said many United States cities have recently cancelled their fluoridation programs because of doubts regarding results.

Controller Hugh W. Simpson said in defence of the plan that a nine-year fluoridation program in Brantford has reduced tooth decay among children by 41 per cent.

Council authorized the health board to use a current $5,000 surplus to purchase necessary equipment. Once established, the program will cost about 14 cents per capita annually.

Alderman Dr. Roy Perry, a dentist, said dentists all over Canada favor the fluoridation of water.

Judge Likes Give Man Chance

HAMILTON (CP)—Judge H. A. Burbidge of the family and juvenile courts is a firm believer in giving a man a first chance.

Judge Burbidge told members of the provincial government's committee on reform institutions Wednesday that he made it a practice to place a first offender on probation rather than send him to jail.

This system has paid off in 90 per cent of the cases, he told the committee. "Of course, we have to select the material, to have such a high percentage," he said.

The 79-year-old judge, described as the father of family courts in Ontario, has presided over all juvenile and family matters in this city for the last four years.

"There is no hard and fast line in the seriousness of the charge," said the judge. "It depends mainly on the character of the man. What he is, not what he did, is the predominant factor in reaching a decision."

Seek Woman's Attacker

OTTAWA (CP) — Police search was launched Wednesday for the man who gagged, beat and criminally assaulted a young mother in her own backyard early in the day. The woman, a German-born resident of Ottawa's Sandy Hill district, was taken to hospital in a serious state of shock and could offer no information about her attacker.

The ancient Roman built a road system stretching from Scotland to beyond the Euphrates.

Mrs. Thompson was appointed the representative of the Guild on the Advisory Board of the church. Tea and light refreshments were served by social convener Mrs. Alcock at close of the business.

Faye Schwartz Wins Bursary

Bursary committee of the University Women's Club announces the winner of the annual bursary is Miss Faye Schwartz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Schwartz, of 700 Elcombe Crescent.

This year's winner is a graduate of PCVS. Her standing on the final year was first class honors in English, History French and Latin and a second in German, and she took a six-option diploma in middle school. In addition she was a prominent member of the PCVS Dramatic Club and holds the gold letter for her dramatic work. She was also on the executive of "Pocket Version", a weekly school paper, and she was interested in music both in the school and privately.

Miss Schwartz is going to register next week at University College for an honor course in arts. Amount of the bursary she is to receive is $200.

Children's Theatre To Meet At Library

A Peterborough Children's Theatre has been formed and will hold rehearsals and meetings in the Public Library Saturday afternoons at three o'clock, commencing September 26th.

Membership is open to students of eight years and up, until they enter Collegiate and a small initial fee covers them for the year. The theatre will be under the direction of Mrs. John Campbell.

A group of mothers who have been active in the forming of this theatre and who wil assist Mrs. Campbell throughout the year includes Mrs. Christopher Gledhill, Mrs. Ben Swartz, Mrs. Jacob Low, Mrs. R. C. Honey, Mrs. R. F. Nott, Mrs. G. Harrison and others.

Chlorine Adjusted In YW Pool

A modern piece of machinery, called a "hypochlorinator," installed in the lower regions adjacent to the YWCA swimming pool, should give greater comfort and safety to swimmers this year.

The device works somewhat like a furnace thermostat in regulating the amount of chlorine in the water so that a high degree of parity is maintained at all times. Previously there may not have been sufficient chlorine in the water when quite a number of people were using the pool.

Chlorinated water has sometimes made the swimmer's eyes smart but this new installation practically eliminates any such discomfort being felt. Another benefit seems to be clearer water.

There are now three classes of six to eight-year-old girls and more are registering. Emphasis is being put on creating a love of water and being "at home" in it with these children.

A straight "learn to swim" six-week course is being offered to business girls and seniors this year and one class of 15 started last week.

Extra Curve Around Hip Counts In Winter Styles

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — This year's most attractive winter styles hit right where it hurts most—in the midriff.

Christian Dior's "princess line," a moulded look that ruthlessly spotlights that extra curve around the hips, has its counterpart in almost every couture collection in London, Rome and Paris.

It's as figure revealing as a one-piece bathing suit—but predictions are it will be the smash hit of the season. The selling point is that undulating look of seemingly uncontrolled figure appeal most women yearn for.

EMPHASIS ON WAIST

Unbelted, it moulds the form from under a well-defined bust to thigh level, and it gives sharp emphasis to the waist. It is, in fact, a dream line for the tall, the slim or the well-proportioned. For those with the slightest bulge, it means a special foundation or diet.

The swathed and pleated Dior bustline calls for a deep, up-cut bra as well as the midriff, waist and diaphragm control required for that faultless curve from bust to thigh.

Dior rightly calls it his "living line." Only a soft, smooth foundation on a fairly slim figure will give the right effect. Too firm corseting would show up mercilessly because—as most curvaceous women find out early—rigid control in one spot means an extra bulge somewhere else.

The princess waist is the most emphatic inward cut Dior has shown since his post-war New Look and it won't take the waist corset designed for the New Look. Those skirts flared fully from the waist, perfect for hiding the hard edges of a waist belt. The smooth curve of the princess line would show every ridge.

DIFFICULT JOB

Even with strict dieting it's difficult or impossible for most women to achieve the perfect Dior figure. Judged by the measurements of his favorite mannequin, Renee, it is: height five feet, seven inches, bust 33, waist 18½, hips 34.

Asked what he thought of the Paris princess line, London's latest royal designer, John Cavanagh—who featured his own figure revealing styles—said: "It gives length and is flattering."

But he added this warning: "If the line is broken by a swathed bodice, then it is only for the high, firm bust and flat diaphragm figure."

This youthful figure is certainly needed for Cavanagh's Gitana skirt dress in flamenco pink satin embroidered with jet, rhinestones and tassels. From the cameo neckline to the skirt flare, starting low on the diaphragm, it silhouettes the figure like a lighted backcloth.

Most of London's "Big Ten" feature something of the same line in day and evening wear. Mattli shows a gauzy pure silk cocktail dress in cyclamen, bronze and black that follows the unbelted look and low-flare skirt. He features it, however, with a draped bust and deep fold to the front skirt that diverts the eye from the midriff severity.

THE PRINCESS LINE—This flamenco pink satin dress by John Cavanagh, of London, suggests the "princess line," featured by most top designers in Paris, Rome and Britain. These are the figure-revealing lines which have started fashion writers advising on diet sheets.

Fox-Mutton

In St. John's United Church, Campbellofrd, Saturday, the Rev. D. M. Smith officiated at the wedding of Donna Doreen, younger daughter of Mr and Mrs. Hubert Mutton to Thomas Edward Fox, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Fox, all of Campbellford.

Before the ceremony, Miss Muriel Heague sang "I'll Walk Beside You," and "Because" during signing of the register, accompanied at the organ by Miss Ann Nicholls.

The bride, given in marriage by her father was in a ballerina-length gown of nylon net and chantilly lace which was dotted with sequins. She carried a cascade of red roses and stephanotis.

Sister of the bride, Mrs. Douglas Oliver was matron of honor. She wore a gown of sky blue nylon lace with Alencon lace bodice over taffet and carried a blue chocheted basket filled with bachelor buttons and petunias. The groom's sister, Miss Barbara Fox was bridesmaid and was similarly attired in shell pink and carried a pink basket of bachelor buttons and petunias. Braided net head dresses matched their ballerina-length gowns.

Mr. Laurie Nesbitt attended the groom and the ushers were Jack Locke and Ward Lee.

The reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, where the guests were received by the bride's mother, assisted by the mother of the groom. Mrs. Mutton wore navy crepe with watching accessories and a yellow corsage. Mrs. Fox was attired in a Belgrem linen suit with brown accessories and wore a coral corsage.

Out of town guests were from Toronto, Trenton, Brighton, Kingston, Castleton, Colborne and Belleville.

The couple left later for a motor trip to Syracuse, Buffalo and Sarnia. The bride donned a navy taffeta frock trimmed with beige and a stole to match and wore a corsage of yellow roses.

On their return Mr. and Mrs. Fox will live at 75 Bridge St. West.

Paul Hickey Weds

Of interest was the marriage last Friday of Miss Frances Mary MacDonald, of Toronto, daughter of Mrs. MacDonald and the late Major-Gen. Donald J. MacDonald, of London, Ont., to Mr. Paul Hickey, of Hamilton, son of Mrs. Barbara Hickey, of Peterborough. Ivory gladioli and lighted tapers in candelabra decorated Our Lady of Lourdes Church, Toronto, for the ceremony, conducted by the Rev. Dr. W. D. Muckle.

Mr. D. J. Smith gave his sister-in-law in marriage. The bride's effective gown of antique ivory satin was fashioned with fitted bodice, and graceful cathedral train. A Juliet cap of matching lace held her long veil, and she carried a shower of Joanna Hill roses.

Attending the bride were Mrs. R. Burke, of New York, matron of honor, Mrs. John Finn, of Montreal, and Miss Shelagh Madden. Their dresses of rose iredescent taffeta had fitted bodices, low necklines with small scalloped collars, and full skirts. All wore matching bandeaux, and carried shower bouquets of ivory autumn flowers. The flower girl, Miss Cathy Smith, of London, Ont., niece of the bride, was frocked in pale green organdie, the scalloped hem caught with small yellow roses. Her wreath of yellow Sweetheart roses matched her nosegay.

Mr. George Hickey was groomsman, and the ushers were Joseph Hickey and Douglas Hill.

At the reception at the Toronto Hunt Club, the bride's mother received, wearing blue taffeta with corsage of yellow roses. The groom's mother assisted, in a beige gown with a bronze rose corsage.

The bride and groom left on a motor trip to the United States. They will live in Hamilton.

Aged Pay Visit To Hastings Parish

HASTINGS — The parish of Our Lady of Mount Carmel, Hastings, welcomed the Sisters and residents of the House of Providence at St. Theresa's School Sunday afternoon. The Very Reverend Dean Garvey and the president of the Catholic Women's League, Mrs. Joseph Collins expressed a welcome to the guests.

The children from the school entertained with choruses and action songs. Margaret McGuire and Anne Sullivan gave humorour readings. Mrs. L. Moher and Miss Mary Petticrew sang and played the violin and piano. Mrs. Frank Daly sang "When Irish Eyes are Smiling" and Mrs. M. Herr rendered selections on the harmonica. Miss Marguerite Lamey danced. At popular request, Mr. Legris a guest played several selections on the violin.

A sing song followed with Mrs. F. Guilfoyle at the piano. Members of the League served lunch to the older people and those who generously made this trip possible by driving their cars.

Fluke-Empey

MARMORA (ENS)—Decorated with assorted gladioli, St. Andrew's United Church, Marmora, was scene of a picturesque wedding Saturday afternoon when Lorna Margaret, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Empey, Sr., of Marmora, was united in marriage to George Lyle Fluke, of Bronte, son of Mr. and Mrs. Miles Fluke, of Thomasburg.

The Rev. K. J. Crawford officiated. Mrs. H. Rennie, as organist, played wedding music. Before the ceremony, Miss Barbara Meiklejohn sang "I'll Walk Beside You" and during the signing of the register she sang "Because".

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a street-length dress of blue brocaded taffeta with a nylon net overskirt and a matching bolero. Her veil was of embroidered net and she carried a bouquet of red roses and heather. Miss Helen Empey, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid. She wore a dress and balero of pink brocaded taffeta with matching overskirt and headdress and she carried a bouquet of pink roses and heather.

Groomsman was Malcolm Wright, of Oshawa. Ushers were Douglas Phillips and Douglas Fluke.

The reception was held in St. Andrew's Hall. The bride's mother received in a dress of navy sheer with corsage of red roses. The groom's mother was similarly attired. Guests were present from Belleville, Thomasburg, Bronte, Oakville and Oshawa.

Later, the bride and groom left on a trip to Montreal and points east. For travelling, the bride chose a powder blue nylon dress and blue hat, white accessories and a corsage of red roses. They will live in Bronte.

24 M.B. Workers Study Program

Twenty-four Mission Band workers in the Peterborough Presbyterial met at the home of Mrs. F. R. McIndoo, Mission Band secretary, Tuesday evening to get acquainted with the prescribed 1953-54 study of missions for children. Much help and inspiration was gained from the meeting. Mrs. C. Johnston and Mrs. McIndoo led in worship on the theme, "Our Labors in the Lord are not in vain", with scripture reading from Romans.

In introducing the study book "The Round Window" which gets its name from a church window made up of panes of glass representing many countries, Mrs. McIndoo suggested that the primary guide "The Inseparable Twins" be used to plan the programs.

Mrs. W. Donaldson illustrated the first story with flannelgraph. A discussion on how to improve Mission Band work gave the leaders much necessary assistance.

Mrs. A. Olmstead, literature secretary, had a display of books and maps which will help the leaders inspire boys and girls to become World Friends through stories, pictures and suggested handwork which can be found through reading missionary books and guides. Handwork of worship books, paper dolls representing 12 nationalities, "work" and "worship" crests and a worship centre were on view.

Under the direction of Miss Eleanor Logan and Mrs. N. B. Harrington, new songs were suggested for use with children.

Delicious refreshments were served to close the evening and Mrs. R. Hanscom moved a vote of thanks to Mrs. McIndoo for her hospitality and the excellent program.

A pleasant social time was enjoyed and dainty refreshments were served by the hostess.

Next meeting will be at the home of Miss Sheila Briggs.

Year Of Paid Internship Follows Two Years Training

TORONTO (CP) — The medical world regarded with interest the graduation here of 62 nurses from the trail-blazing two-year course at Toronto Western Hospital which was followed by a year of paid interneship.

Replacing the old three-year unpaid apprenticeship, the new course provides the academic instruction in the first two years for which fees are paid and then an "interne" year during which the girls draw regular salaries.

They also get a four-week annual vacation and a work-week of 5½ days instead of the standard six.

The accelerated training program was supported by grants from the Atkinson Charitable Foundation and the federal and provincial governments.

Unlike the old course in which student nurses spent much of their time in routine hospital chores, the new system concentrates on nursing education. Practical work in the hospital is integrated with theory learned in the classroom.

Students are given the broadest practical experience possible. All spend a month in the out-patient department getting to know the role of a hospital as a community service. In their final year they are introduced to staff nursing through a month's tour of duty at a Red Cross outpost hospital.

Gladys J. Sharpe, director of the Atkinson school of nursing, said she believed the school's "stepped-up" system could increase the number of students without adversely affecting the quality of the graduates.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

So Little Formal Training Given In Cooking Of Meat

Once, long ago, a managing editor leaned back in his swivel chair and squinted his eyes at me and said, "What's the theme of your writing? Our people don't need you to tell them how to spend their money on two-inch thick steaks, you know. They want to know how to make the meat go further. Can you do that?"

I often remember that conversation, and thank that knowing editor.

Today I am reminded of his wisdom, for meat and the price of it are an ever-present problem to us. And, to make it more complicated, there is so little formal training given to Canadian girls in the cooking of meat. Almost every young wife or housekeeper of any kind has to muddle through and learn how to cook meat as she goes.

Some of the most famous people in history seem to manage very well being vegetarians, but I'm not one of them—being neither famous or vegetarian. Nutritionists agree almost to a man that we need meat—especially in our Canadian climate—and plenty of it to have health and to have it abundantly.

In my crusade for health I'm going to keep plugging meat, so today's little offering gives you a few specific meat recipes that I hope you will enjoy because they taste good and don't break the bank.

BRAISED SHOULDER LAMB CHOPS

Note: Exactly the same method may be used for yearling lamb shoulder or loin chops, 2-inch thick pieces of short ribs of beef, or lamb shanks.

Have shoulder lamb chops cut 1½ inches thick. Dredge chops with flour and quickly brown them in a little butter or margarine in a hot pan. Slip a trivet under the meat and add ¼ cup hot water, cover pan and cook ever so slowly for 1½ to 2 hours, or until tender, depending on quality of meat and weight of utensil used. Turn meat occasionally. While cooking, add about 2 tablespoons boiling water from time to time as it is necessary. When meat is about half done add one thinly-sliced small onion, 1 teaspoon salt for each pound of meat, a little freshly ground pepper, about ½ cup of finely chopped celery leaves, and ½ bay leaf. When meat is tender, remove to hot platter. Pour off most of the excess fat from pan, and add 2 cups boiling water to the dark brown drippings in pan, scraping bottom of pan with wooden spoon to dissolve the beef extract. Mix 2 tablespoons cornstarch with 2 tablespoons of water and stir the gravy until thick and clear. Add about ¾ cup cooked carrot dice and some fresh green peas if on hand to this gravy and pour it over the meat just before serving. Meat may be placed over additional buttered diced carrots and green peas on oblong hot platter, gravy poured over, and top sprinkled with finely chopped parsley. Ends of platter could be further garnished with rosettes of mashed potatoes and parsley bouquets. A dish fit for important company if handled with finesse.

MEAT PATTIE PUFFS

(A Meat stretcher using eggs).

One half-pound ground beef, 3 egg yolks, 3 egg whites, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon freshly ground black pepper, 1 tablespoon finely chopped parsley, ¼ teaspoon baking powder, 1 small grated onion or 2 tablespoons of chopped chives if you don't fancy onion. With rotary or electric beater, beat the egg yolks for 2 minutes. Add to them the meat, salt, baking powder, pepper, parsley and grated onion. Mix well and lastly fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites and gently mix. With a large spoon pick mixture up and drop into about ½-inch of very hot fat. Fry about 2 minutes on each side but be sure not to turn meat until well browned on first side. If you want your meat very well done fry 3 minutes on each side.

These should be served as soon as they are done, so have a hot platter ready with the other vegetables arranged on it. Marrow, in a thick parsley cream sauce, and crumbed broiled tomatoes, look and taste delicious with it.

To the Shopping Public of Peterborough:

The large Group of merchants dealing principally in Women's Wear in Peterborough have been genuinely concerned with the recent trend in shopping habits of the Canadian public.

From reports to date, throughout the whole of Canada this change has become quite apparent and has been proven conclusively, in a majority of cases, that the shopping public require and approve of evening shopping.

Having carefully considered the extra working hours involved with respect to store employees, this new shopping trend has been resolved to one open evening per week, namely Friday evening. This service has generally been approved and accepted by the shopping public.

With this Service in mind, several stores in this group remained open on Friday evning last, to ascertain whether the Peterborough public approved of this new shopping trend. The results, contrary to a report published in the Examiner proved conclusively that the public approved and were prepared to shop Friday evenings.

It should be emphasized that it is the intention of this group, with respect to the employees concerned, to stagger staff hours, resulting in a 40 hour week.

Having considered the success of this experimental opening last Friday evening, this group propose to remain closed and adhere to the provisions of the existing by-laws, until such time as a petition may be presented to the council to amend the existing by-law to allow closing at 9 o'clock Friday evening.

Yours truly,

WOMEN'S WEAR ASSOCIATES.

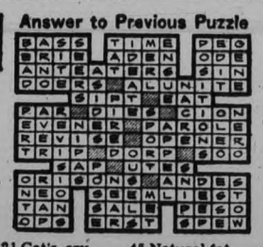
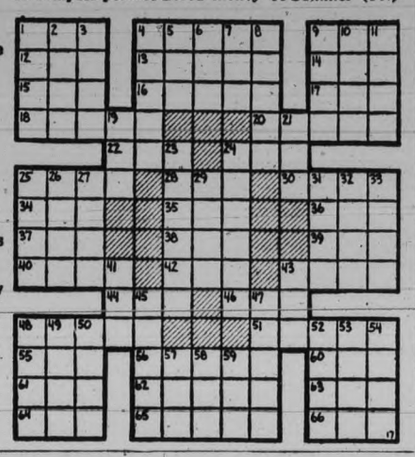
Answer to Previous Puzzle





DOROTHY DIX

Wrote Hasty Note To Sailor. Now Regrets Nastiness

DEAR MISS DIX: For five months I went with a sailor, and by that time we were becoming quite fond of each other. We got along very well, except that occasionally I'd tease him too much, which seemed to annoy him. We saw each other every week-end until we had a disagreement that kept him away one week. Later, he called up and said he couldn't see me the following week end. I was very angry and wrote him quite a nasty letter.

Then I learned that the reason he hadn't been able to see me was because of a death in the family. Naturally I felt very sorry and wrote him a letter of apology. I haven't heard from him since,—that was two months ago. I know, through a mutual friend, that he isn't going with any other girl, and still likes me. Now he is doing sea duty. I don't want to do anything impulsive again, but wonder if I should write to him once more.

Clarice B.

✧ ✧ ✧

LEARNED THE HARD WAY

ANSWER: Probably more trouble has been caused, and more friendships broken, through impetuous conclusion jumping than through anything else. A little patience, a little realization of the fact that the other person may have a story, too, would certainly avert a lot of the world's woes.

This is the lesson you've learned the hard way—at least I hope you've learned it. Now your problem is to convince the young man that you realize you made a mistake, that you are heartily sorry for it, and will not repeat it. That may take some doing! In your favor is the fact that he's away from home, undoubtedly homesick, and likely to prove receptive to any mail. Write him a pleasant letter, not mentioning the previous fiasco, since you know from his friend that he received your letter of apology. Relay any news about mutual friends, your family, your job, etc. Make a leading remark, or two, that might bring an answer, but don't press too much on this point. Make your letter one that he will want to answer, rather than feel he is forced to make a reply.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: My troubles have become too much for me. One son is in the hospital, and so is my two-year-old daughter. Another son has been severely burned. I live with my mother-in-law who doesn't like me because our nationalities are different. She put a curse on the house for me, when we moved here, but it has fallen on my children.

P. R.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: The misfortunes that have befallen you are not due to ay curse of your mother-in-law or anyone else. Only God knows why these things happen, and no human can bring them about through a curse.

If your children are in a large hospital, there is a social service or welfare worker there to help you. Contact this organization or the welfare immediately and I'm sure you'll be helped.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am just 15 and like a boy three years older. Last month he said he was going to Alaska on a job; now I find out that he's working in a town just 50 miles from here. Why do you suppose he lied to me?

Nora T.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: The young man probably just wanted to show off by bragging about a romantic job in a far-off place. There's no reason for you to make an issue of it; if he contacts you, brush the prevarication off lightly. You're too young to be serious about a boy, and he's too unsettled for a permanent attachment.

Havelock WI To Mark 25th Anniversary

HAVELOCK (ENS). — The Women's Institute met, with the president, Mrs. Harry Pollock, presiding.

Plans were made for the celebration of the 25th anniversary of the branch, October 7. A dinner will be held at 6.00 p.m. Invitations will be sent to all past presidents and Mrs. H. Shearer, Mrs. Digweed, and Mrs. Moore, district officers.

The dinner will be followed by a special meeting with a program in keeping with the occasion. The program will be open to the public.

It was decided to sponsor the local oratorical contest with the aid of the Belmont Women's Institute on October 23. The committee in charge of the arrangements consists of Miss Ina Morrison, Mrs. F. McKenzie, and Mrs. B. Jewell.

Mrs. A. Anderson was convener for the program, consisting of a recitation by the Rev. R. G. Newman, and a paper by Mrs. W. Smith.

Mrs. Fred McKenzie gave an account of the meeting in Toronto of the Associated Country Women of the World.

Dr. Douglas B. Kelly of Peterborough will be the guest speaker at the November meeting. His subject will be "The Importance of the New Drugs and Their Value."

6—In Memoriam

DARLING—In loving memory of Mary K. Darling who passed away Sept. 17, 1952.
Her loving face I hope to see again,
Though the days have passed away.
Sleep on, dear wife, and take your rest
They miss you most who loved you best.
—Ever remembered by husband and family.

DARLING—In loving memory of Mary Darling who passed away Sept. 17, 1952.
Heavy are our hearts today,
Memory brings you back once more
To the time when you were with us
To the happy days of yore.
—Ever remembered by Jean and Stan Darling and family.

GILLESPIE—In memory of Mrs. Peter C. Gillespie, who died Sept. 17, 1944, also Clarence Gillespie, who left us Aug. 22, 1942 and dear Helen, who died so suddenly June 9, 1952.
—Ever remembered by Annie, Marion and Dad.

WINTERBOTTOM—In loving memory of Walter Winterbottom, who passed away Sept. 17, 1951.
From our happy home and circle
God has taken one we loved,
He is borne away from sin and sorrow
To a nobler rest above.
No one knows how much we miss him
None but aching hearts can tell:
Lost on earth but found in heaven—
Jesus doeth all things well.
—Ever remembered by wife and family.

7—Card of Thanks

I wish to thank the attending doctors, the nursing staff of the Isolation Hospital and the many friends who sent fruit, flowers and cards and for the kindness shown me during my recent illness.—Elda Wilson.

Your picture windows are more than a name in this lovely bevel-siding Semi-Bungalow because you can watch the Otonabee only 100 yards away. Its many features include fireplace, colored 4-piece bath, modern kitchen, basement garge, city water and bus service—$11,500.

NEED ROOM
Well, here you have it, with Five Rooms on the first floor and three on the second. This Brick Home is very well adapted for revenue, duplexing, or a large family. Newly insulated, double garage. Watch for our sign on Water Street North—$8,800.

IT'S IN THE PLANNING
A 20' living-room, 3 large bedrooms, and a spacious kitchen are only obtained in a Bungalow by making the most use of every available space. We are proud of this new west-end Home and would appreciate a call for further information—$9,300.

Revived As Capital

SEOUL (AP)—Seoul was revived as the capital of South Korea today as the government and the national assembly completed their comeback after three years of war exile in the southern port city of Pusan. President Syngman Rhee's government offices returned to Seoul a few months before the July 27 armistice but the national assembly, however, completed its return only Wednesday night.

Church Window Causes Furore

GRAZ, Austria (Reuters)—Sightseers flocked to the parish church here today to study a stained glass window which has all Austria talking.

The attraction — two figures in a crowd scene watching the crucifixion of Christ are unmistakably Hitler and Mussolini.

Their presence in the window, previously unnoticed, was discovered when Alfred Marko, a local photographer, enlarged some pictures he took of the glass.

Prof. Albert Birkle, who designed the window, admits the likenesses are genuine. He told reporters:

"As I was drawing the crucifixion scene my hand unconsciously sketched in the faces of Hitler and Mussolini among the onlookers.

"Then I deliberately completed and strengthened the likenesses and added the swastikas to the toga of Hitler.

"I see nothing offensive in branding thus as criminals in a church window the two men under whose rule so many thousands of priests and millions of Christians perished."

Local authorities said they saw no reason to remove the pictures or take action against the painter.

Coronation To Wait

TEHRAN (AP)—Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi ruled Wednesday that his Coronation ceremonies, postponed many times since he mounted Iran's throne in 1943, must wait until the nation gets back on its feet.

"Exceptionally Fine Show" Dairy Cattle At Exhibition

Judging of five breeds of dairy cattle Wednesday was an early climax of Peterborough Exhibition.

Some of the cattle recently shown at the CNE were seen in one ring or other here Wednesday, and generally ribbons were not easily come by.

"An exceptionally fine show" was the comment of Fred Hubbs, of Bloomfield, who judged the Holsteins. He has been engaged by the Exhibition board for many such assignments, and is almost as well known as if he were a Peterborough county farmer.

The experience of Mr. Stubbs was duplicated in the other rings. A dozen or more cattle, especially in the junior female classes, were not an unusual parade for top honors except in the Ayshires, and there were more of the Red and White cattle than in recent years.

ONLY TWO SCRATCHED

The expectations of the dairy committee were fully realized. Only two breeders scratched their entries, leaving a total of around 425 or more purebreds to greet the judges.

Weather was almost chilly as contrasted with a year ago when spectators favored the shade of buildings and tents. The dairy cattle show is the biggest feature of the "Ex" and could easily be made more prominent if breeders of the district responded as they could.

And for all the values represented in those rings, which were spatially more accommodating than in recent years, the attendance was around 100 farmers in the morning and 200 or thereabouts in the afternoon. It should be said for them that they were all greatly interested, following the placings of the judges.

The outstanding gains this year in the number of entries were in Jerseys, Dual Purpose Shorthorns and Guernseys, with a lot of top animals.

MILKING SHORTHORNS

The milking Shorthorns were introduced to the prize list since the war, and have made a remarkable advance in number and quality. Breeders brought them out in fine condition, and that finish extended all through the show.

The Premier Breeders announced Wednesday were:

Jerseys—Alfred Bagg and Son, of Edgely, Ont.

Guernseys—Mrs. R. S. Robertson, of Renwood Farms, north of Cobourg.

Ayrshires—W. Clarence Mann, of Smith township.

Holsteins—Norman W. McConkey, of Lifloc Farm, Peterborough.

Dual Purpose Shorthorns — Edmund Ruth, of Omemee.

Incidentally, a quip of the early afternoon was to the effect that the Jersey breeders were conceding their P.B. banner to the veteran Alf Bagg, during the noon hour.

It was reported that Edmund finished one point up on G. E. Wiggins, of Kemptville, for the Premier Breeder honor in D-P Shorthorns.

The results of the judging follow, and to farmers there is the reminder that the beef breeds will be judged Friday beginning around 10 a.m. They are: Herefords, Shorthorns and Aberdeen-Angus.

Living Accommodation Difficult At Many Canadian Universities

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Most of the students pouring into Canadian universities this month are finding living accommodation and registering in their preferred courses without too much trouble.

A Canadian Press survey however, shows some overcrowding at Laval University in Quebec, where 300 students from outside Canada were regretfully turned down for lack of space. Laval expects more than 3,000 students this term, compared with 2,855 last year.

Officials in most parts of the country report a general levelling off in numbers of students in the last two or three years, compared with the huge influx of war veteran students which shot registrations to record heights in the immediate post-war years. Most universities report the current average is still higher than pre-war figures.

LIVING COSTS VARY

Students at Edmonton, like others in the booming oil city, are finding accommodation hard to get. A capacity registration is expected at the University of Alberta. There's a shortage of on-the-campus quarters for women.

Living costs while attending college are highest in Toronto, where a student can get campus accommodation for $15 a week but pays up to $20 if he rooms and boards in a private home. Edmonton runs a close second in living costs, which average $60 a month. At the Universities of British Columbia and Saskatchewan students pay $55-$60 a month and in New Brunswick they can find good quarters for as low as $12 a week.

In all colleges, arts and science courses are generally the most popular, especially with women. Engineering is still chosen by many men.

As usual, the married student with children finds the most difficulty getting settled. At Edmonton, the university housing service says it's almost impossible to get quarters for such students at prices they can afford because young married men employed by the city's expanding industries have poured in from other parts of Canada and leased homes and apartments.

FIRST-YEAR CHANGES

The University of British Columbia expects enrolment of 5,400, about the same as last year. Officials say attendance is at a "low ebb" and put the blame on the fact "depression-year babies" now are entering university and their numbers are lower than those born in the 20s.

There's a long waiting list for women's quarters on the campus, but ample accommodation for both men and women away from the university. For the first time this year, UBC is enrolling high school graduates who have had only two (instead of three) years of languages, which is causing some changes in first-year courses.

More than half the students are enrolled in arts and science courses leading to a bachelor of arts degree. This year the university will graduate its first class of medical students, which numbers 60.

SHORTER COURSES

Alberta has a provincial government plan for financial help for university students, which helps boost enrolment at the provincial university. Last year's attendance was 3,608, compared with almost 5,000 students in the peak 1947-48 session.

At the University of Alberta, the nursing course towards a bachelor of science degree has been shortened from five to four years, and a BA in art after a three-year course is being offered for the first time.

Only 12 months apprenticeship now is required for admittance to pharmacy school, against 18 months formerly. New geography and sociology courses have been instituted.

At Saskatoon, the University of Saskatchewan reports graduate nurses now can take a one-year diploma course in nursing.

At Winnipeg, the University of Manitoba's registrations are down about one third from the peak post-war year when almost 7,000 students attended.

TORONTO TOTAL DOWN

Nearly 11,000 students are expected at the University of Toronto, compared with more than 17,000 in 1946 and 1947. Women make up 27 per cent of this year's total enrolment, while in the faculty of arts—in which 4,200 are registered—40 per cent are women.

The University of Ottawa is starting a new faculty of arts this year, with about 20 students enrolled. No decrease in numbers enrolled is expected from last year, when a record 1,900 took classes.

Carleton College, at Ottawa, which serves some 1,500 persons in full-time classes and extension courses, says the engineering course is in demand and some students may have to be turned away. Next year the college's school of public administration will be developed into an M.A.-degree course; this year the course will graduate its first BA students.

NEW BRUNSWICK HIGHER

At the University of New Brunswick in Fredericton an increase is expected over last year's enrolment of 677. Students still come from many parts of the country to take the university's forestry course.

At Halifax, married students at Dalhousie University are hard pressed to find accommodation they can afford. An extra course in physics is being offered this year.

On Prince Edward Island, more persons are training as teachers than in other years. In Newfoundland, most students come from the St. John's area and live at home, creating no housing problem.

RISKING LIFE—Farmer Boyd, a safety engineer at the Shell Chemical plant at Martinez, Calif., is shown risking his life to turn off the safety valves and cut off the supply of alcohol feeding the fire which followed an explosion at the plant. A leak in the "batch kettle" was blamed for the explosion. An alert news photographer took it upon himself to follow Boyd into the danger area, exposing himself to the merciless flames, in order to obtain this dramatic on-the-spot picture coverage.

Lodge Secretary Found Guilty

OTTAWA (CP)—Donald J. Sutherland, secretary of the Ottawa county Orange Lodge, was found guilty Wednesday by judge A. G McDougall of organizing and conducting a lottery and was fined $50 and costs on each charge.

The charges, laid last May, concerned a draw being held in conjunction with the Agricultural Society fair held at nearby South Mountain.

In his judgment, judge McDougall said an agreement between the society and the Orange Lodge had been signed by Mr. Sutherland. He said the scheme was not conducted within the grounds of the fair and that tickets were sold long before the fair began.

Hyman Soloway, counsel for Mr. Sutherland, said he would appeal.

ST. THOMAS WOMAN PRAISES SYNTONA FOR HELPING HER

Was Always Tired, Nerves on Edge. Got Headaches, Sick, Bilious Spells and Upset Stomach. "Nothing Like Syntona," She Says.

MRS. BERNADETTE GIBBS

More and more people every day tell of the good results they get by taking a short treatment of Syntona Herbal Compound. Many men and women have used it time and again when they were not feeling well and say it is a medicine they can always depend upon for relief from common health disorders. Here for example, is the recent report of Mrs. Bernadette Gibbs, 188 Center Street, St. Thomas, Ontario, who said:

Sick, Bilious Attacks

"My experience is that Syntona is the most dependable medicine I've ever taken during many years of trouble with weak, nervous, easily upset stomach.

"Sometimes the attacks were so bad I would get awful gas, bloating and sick, upset stomach. Often this would be followed by throbbing headache and dizzy feelings. I would be irritable and didn't feel like doing anything for days.

Read About It

"I had read in the papers about Syntona helping other people and although I had previously taken many things without benefit I decided to try this medicine. Now I am certainly glad I did because I have found that it very quickly helps my stomach, relieves the gassy sick feeling. Then the headaches, dizziness and nervous condition lets up and I am soon feeling like myself agin."

Why not give this Pure Herbal Medicine a chance to help you, too. Syntona is sold and recommended in Peterborough by Elliott's Drug Store. (Advt.)

Parliament Meets November 12; Lesage In Cabinet

OTTAWA (CP)—Parliament will meet Thursday, Nov. 12, with probably only one new face on the front benches. Prime Minister St. Laurent announced Thursday night that Jean Lesage, 41-year-old lawyer who has represented Montmagny-L'Islet in Parliament since 1946, will join his cabinet as minister of resources and development. Mr. Lesage was appointed last January as parliamentary assistant to Finance Minister Abbott and was reappointed in that post last week. He served as parliamentary assistant to External Affairs Minister Pearson in 1951 and 1952.

Hon. Robert Winters, 43-year-old resources minister since 1950, becomes works minister succeeding Mr. Justice Alphonse Fournier, 60, appointed to the Exchequer Court before the Aug. 10 federal election.

Mr. St. Laurent also spiked reports that Finance Minister Abbott and External Affairs Minister Pearson might figure in a cabinet shuffle.

ABBOTT STAYS

He said Mr. Abbott, 54, has agreed to remain as finance minister to pilot the revision of the Bank Act through the new Parliament. The act must be reviewed every 10 years.

Consideration was given to Mr. Abbott's anxiety to relinquish the finance ministry, Mr. St. Laurent said. But in view of the serious consideration necessary by Parliament of the Bank Act, Mr. Abbott, who has been finance minister since 1946, agreed to remain in that post.

He also said Mr. Pearson, 56, external affairs minister since 1948, feels he is doing the job to which he is best suited and hopes he will remain in his post.

He added that Mr. Pearson, now in New York as head of Canada's delegation to the General Assembly of the United Nations, asked him to make the statement in view of speculation that Mr. Pearson might leave external affairs.

DEPUTIES SHIFT

The cabinet rearrangement will be accompanied by some shifts in deputy ministries, senior civil service posts. Mr. Winters will take his resources deputy minister, Maj.-Gen. H. A. Young, 55, with him as deputy minister of public works.

Gordon Robertson, 36, will succeed Gen. Young, relinquishing his present post as assistant cabinet secretary and assistant Privy Council clerk. E. P. Murphy, 65, has agreed to postpone his retirement as deputy works minister to

U.S. Stands Pat On Decision To Bar Neutrals

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The United States formally notified Communist China and North Korea today that it was standing pat on the UN's decision barring neutrals from the Korean peace conference.

In a note transmitted through the Swedish government and circulated to all 60 members of the UN, the U.S. called upon the Communists to act as quickly as possible to propose a time and place for the parley along lines laid down by the assembly last month.

The U.S. reminded the Communists it already had proposed on behalf of the nations fighting under the UN banner that the conference be held at Honolulu, San Francisco or Geneva on Oct. 15.

'STAND FIRM"

The note was circulated as Australian Foreign Minister R. G. Casey called on the assembly to stand firm on its decision that only belligerent countries be invited to sit in the peace parley.

Casey said his own government would have preferred a different decision, but now has accepted the assembly's action and believes the Communists should do likewise.

Pakistan and Indonesia were scheduled for the rostrum this afternoon.

Soviet delegate Andrei Vishinsky may give the Kremlin's statement Saturday, or he may wait until next week. Facing him was U. S. State Secretary Dulles' review of American policy, which opened the general debate Friday with another challenge for Russia to prove by deeds, not just words, that she can live in peace with the rest of the world.

Australia and New Zealand committed themselves just last week, in an Anzus treaty review session with Dulles, to a continuing campaign to keep the Chinese Reds out of the United Nations. Both countries also had troops in Korea under the UN flag.

Chances Favor Twins' Survival

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Chances of surviving improved steadily today for Louisiana's Siamese twins separated by surgery Thursday.

Foundation hospital officials said the twin daughters of Mayor and Mrs. Ashton Mouton of Lafayette "still continue to do well."

Dr. L. L. Weismiller, hospital director, said, "it looks encouraging."

The eight-week-old girls, Carolyn Anne and Catherine Anne, were joined near the base of the spine. Hospital spokesmen say as far as they can determine both twins have never survived such an operation.

The babies will be allowed to regain their strength for several days before doctors examine to determine what further surgery is needed.

The Moutons have two other children, Stella Rose, 9, and Ahston, Jr., 6.

Dr. Weismiller, who participated in the operation, said he was sure the girls would need some plastic surgery. But just what kind and how much was something he didn't know yet.

The doctor said infection is the chief threat the infants now face. He explained only minor operations remain for the pair.

Canadian Sabres Aid In NATO Air Scheme

OSLO (AP) — Canadian F-86 Sabre jets will assist in the defence of southern Norway during the NATO air-defence exercise "Heads Up" Sept. 25-30.

The F-86's are a part of the permanent forces of the Allied air forces central command, and one regularly based at Metz, France, with the Canadian First Air Division.

The Sabre jets will be used in defensive missions against attacking bombers, and also to escort Norwegian F-84's in their offensive operations in the exercise.

Fishermen Walk Out, Ask Price Support

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—The Newfoundland Federation of Fisheries said today a walkout of Newfoundland fishermen has begun in protest against lack of federal price support for the province's fish this year.

The federation, terming the walkout province-wide, estimated between 5,000 and 6,000 fishermen are involved in the tie-up so far. They claimed 70 per cent of their locals are affected.

Re-Examination

Howe Calls For Extension Of 33-Nation Tariff Pact

GENEVA (CP)—Trade Minister Howe of Canada today called for an one-year extension of the 33-country General Agreement on tariffs and Trade to give the United States and other large countries time to formulate basic tariff policies.

The 67-year-old leader of the Canadian delegation made a statement of Canadian government policy on the second day of the scheduled six-week eighth conference on the tariff-trimming pact.

He said the time is "clearly approaching" when it would be in the intersts of all concerned in the agreement to undertake a "constructive re-examination" of it.

However, "it must be recognized that . . . large problems of trade and commercial policy can only be dealt with satisfactorily in circumstances where the governments concerned, and particularly the governments of the larger countries, have reached some conclusions on where they are going, not only in trade policy but in the field of international finance and payments as well."

He referred to the 17-man commission now examining the whole foreign trade policy of the U.S. and said it is difficult for other countries to decide larger questions of economic policy until the U.S. has made its position clear.

"In the meantime, my government believes that the most important question to be faced at the present session is: What to do about the tariff schedules when the period of their assured life ends at the end of this year?

"It seems to me that the schedules should be rebound for a definite period. This period should be as short as possible and still provide time for the necessary arrangements to be made.

"We might consider a period of a year, to extend until the end of 1954."

MAYBE WE CAN HELP you make a sale in Lebanon. That's what Trade Commissioner Gerald F. G. Hughes who heads the Canadian trade office in Beirut is telling James G. Wharry, Quaker Oats Company general manager. Quaker Oats is one of three Peterborough industries interested in finding markets in that Middle East trading centre. Mr. Hughes may be able to give them some good business contacts. He is an electrical engineer and was in 1940 a CGE test course student; since them he has served four years in Turkey and last October he opened the Beirut office.

Commissioner Seeks Sales In Lebanon For City Goods

Gerald F. G. Hughes, Canadian Trade Commissioner in Lebanon, is in Peterborough today interviewing local industrialists who are interested in marketing their products in the Middle East. Last year Canadian products valued at $13,000,000 were imported through the free port of Beirut. Of that total $12,000,000 went to Lebanon and the rest went to the nieghboring Arabic countries of Syria and Iraq.

James Fraser, secretary-manager of the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce, alerted local industrialists that Mr. Hughes would be in the city today. Any of them interested in getting a slice of that $13,000,000 market for Peterborough products were invited to have a chat with Mr. Hughes.

After breakfast the 34-year-old trade commissioner, who opened the Canadian office in Beirut last October, saw officials of A. Wander Ltd. He had lunch with James Wharry, general manager of the Quaker Oats Co., and later today he was scheduled to talk with officials of the Outboard Marine and Manufacturing Co.

QUAKER HAS SLICE

Quaker Oats already have a slice of the $6,000,000 worth of Canadian flour that was imported last year by Lebanon, and they also have a ready market for cereals. A. Wander Ltd. would like to sell some Peterborough-made Ovaltine and other food products, and Outboard Marine presumably would like to sell outboard motors and small gasoline motors. Power lawnmowers are out: there are no lawns to cut in Lebanon.

"My purpose in coming here"? said Mr. Hughes, a slightly-built young man, 34 years of age. "Well, I'm here to visit any Peterborough
